Beyond Autoethnography

Lived Experience Criminology

Edited by Dwayne Antojado Monash University, Danica Darley, Matthew Maycock University of Glasgow, UK

Series: Routledge Frontiers of Criminal Justice

Highlighting the complex human realities that exist within the criminal justice system, this book foregrounds scholars and activists who harness their own encounters with policing, courts, and imprisonment to recast criminological theory, method, and policy, proving lived experience as an important aspect of criminological and sociological enquiry. Beyond Autoethnography: Lived Experience Criminology will be of interest to students, scholars, and criminal justice professionals.

Contemporary Issues in Transphobic Hate and Prejudice

Transforming the Narrative

Edited by Ben Colliver, Jane C. Healy, Katie McBride, Gina Gwenffrewi

Series: Queering Criminology and Criminal Justice

Bringing together international research and perspectives on bias, prejudice and hatred towards transgender communities, this collection explores the ways in which transphobia manifests across different times and spaces, addressing an important contemporary issue and filling the current gap in hate studies literature. Presenting research that is both important and innovative, Contemporary Issues in Transphobic Hate and Prejudice will be of great interest to students and scholars working within the disciplines of Criminology, Sociology, Gender Studies, Law, Media Studies and Queer Studies.

Legal Implications of Taser Use and Prone Position on Excited Delirium Subjects

Vidisha Barua Worley

Series: Routledge Frontiers of Criminal Justice

Using case law, this book explores the controversial issues associated with excited or hyperactive delirium with severe agitation, including the appropriate use of tasers, and the inhumane practice of applying bodyweight pressure on subjects by placing them face down in the prone position, depriving them of the ability to breathe. Legal Implications of Taser Use and Prone Position on Excited Delirium Subjects will be of interest to legislators, attorneys, judges, police agencies, correctional facilities, and graduate level students in criminal justice, law, and the social sciences.

Probation Governance, Identity, and Practice

Making, Unmaking, Remaking

Matt Tidmarsh

Series: Routledge Studies in Probation and Community Sanctions

This book explores the making, unmaking, and remaking of the Probation Service in England and Wales – an organisation that has, in recent decades, seemingly been in a constant state of flux. It draws on original, empirical data derived from 38 semi-structured interviews with staff from across the probation estate to scrutinise ongoing changes to probation governance, identity, and practice. This book will be essential reading for students and scholars of criminology. It will also be of interest to practitioners, policymakers, and social workers engaged in probation and welfare services.

The Psychology of Eyewitness Identification

Exploring the Relationship Between Traditional and Alternative Approaches to Recognition

Dominic T. Jordan, Adrian J. Scott, Donald M. Thomson

Series: Routledge Frontiers of Criminal Justice

To modify and align investigatory and legal processes with witness capabilities and reflect memorial and decision processes that inform recognition judgements, this book examines lineup-based recognition approaches not requiring witnesses to identify a perpetrator: non-categorical confidence and non-categorical similarity judgements. Prompting a consideration of new solutions and concepts to help witness errors become a problem of the past, The Psychology of Eyewitness Identification will be of great interest to students, scholars and practitioners across the fields of criminal justice, psychology, and law, and particularly those with a focus on eyewitness identification.

Tolerating State Violence

Elizabeth Stanley

Series: Crimes of the Powerful

Using contemporary case examples from three liberal democracies – Aotearoa New Zealand, Australia and the United Kingdom- this book questions: how do state institutions create the conditions for the tolerance of state violence and harms? And, from this knowledge, how might we make the violence and harms intolerable? It is indispensable reading for students and scholars of criminology and criminal justice, sociology, and political science. The book will also appeal to policymakers, legal professionals, and social justice advocates concerned with institutional reform and addressing systemic violence.

Youth Diversion

Exploring Criminal Justice Perspectives through An Australian Case Study

Estrella Pearce University of Sydney

Series: Routledge Frontiers of Criminal Justice

Using New South Wales as a case example, this book engages with central themes of discretionary decision-making processes regarding youth diversion away from court and the broader political and policy constraints that impact implementation to full potential. Youth Diversion will be a valuable resource for students, scholars and practitioners of criminology, legal studies, sociology and social policy.

An Intersectional Analysis of Climate Change and Atrocity Crimes

Life on Earth is in Crisis

Stacy Banwell The University of Greenwich

Series: Routledge Critical Studies in Crime, Diversity and Criminal Justice

Examining the relationship between anthropogenic climate change and atrocity crimes, this book analyses how gender, race, and species hierarchies shape experiences of and responses to the climate emergency. An Intersectional Analysis of Climate Change and Atrocity Crimes will be of great value to students and scholars in Green Criminology, War Studies, Security Studies, Law, History, Geography, Anthropology, and Cultural Studies. It also serves as a valuable resource for policy architects, Responsibility to Protect professionals, humanitarian organizations, human rights advocates, security specialists, and sustainability experts.

Interviewing Police Informants

A Practitioner's Guide

Lee Moffett

This book provides students and practitioners alike with a comprehensive discussion of the latest psychological research relevant to interviewing informants. In particular, it provides a detailed outline of the R-WITS-US interview model. It examines the development of this model, bringing a clear focus on the specific definition of an informant and how this definition differentiates informants from other individuals who are likely to be interviewed by police – such as victims, witnesses or suspects. It is essential reading for police professionals and useful secondary reading for Professional Policing students.

Natural Resource Extraction and Violence Against Women in Rural Places

Drilling Down on Patriarchy

Walter S. DeKeseredy, Joseph F. Donnermeyer, Jayne Mooney

Series: Routledge Studies in Rural Criminology

This book integrates three discrete bodies of knowledge (violence against women, green criminology, and rural criminology), and (1) describes the nature, extent, and distribution of VAW in rural boomtowns around the world, (2) critiques what the authors refer to as an anomie model of VAW in rural boomtown communities, and (3) introduces the concept of patriarchal social reorganization and demonstrates that globalization and natural resource extraction did not bring VAW to rural communities, but rather intensified an existing problem. This is essential reading for all engaged in rural and feminist criminology, violence against women, and natural resource extraction.

Platform Criminology and Post-Crime

How Cybercrime (and Everything Else) Changed

M.R. McGuire

Series: E-lemic: Routledge Critical Studies in Digital Crime, Culture and Control

Online platforms now constitute so significant a mode of wealth production that many argue a new kind of economic order - 'platform capitalism' has emerged. But the platform vehicle has also provided a new organisational dynamic for criminal entrepreneurs. This book explores how digital crime/cybercrime has been decisively reshaped by the emergence of the digital platform. This book will be of interest to students and scholars of criminology, cybersecurity, technology ethics, and digital economies. It will also appeal to professionals and policymakers engaged with these fields.

Police Reform: An Obituary

Nathan W. Pino

Series: New Directions in Critical Criminology

This book argues that police reform efforts around the world should be extirpated and replaced with locally developed and led non-carceral alternatives that can produce community safety, social justice, and quality of life over the long-term from a decolonial, feminist, anti-capitalist, and abolitionist perspective. Since the book concerns current, important debates regarding police defunding and abolition, it will be a useful resource for students and scholars of criminology, policymakers, local stakeholders, nongovernmental organizations, and activists involved in various social justice movements around the world.

Policing the Crowd

Clifford Stott, Edward R. Maguire

Series: Routledge Advances in Police Practice and Knowledge

This is the first comprehensive account of how crowd psychology has transformed policing. Drawing on dramatic case studies from Britain, Europe, and the United States, it reveals how crowd psychology and policing intersect, why disorder spreads, and how legitimacy can be won or lost in the space of a single decision. Written from inside the process, it offers unmatched insight into how evidence has directly shaped policing practice and policy reform. Combining compelling case studies with theoretical clarity, it provides scholars, practitioners, and policymakers with a powerful framework for understanding and managing one of democracy's greatest challenges.

Policing the UAE

Jacqueline Sebire, Gareth Stubbs

This is the first textbook designed specifically for students, officers, and educators working within the unique legal, cultural, and operational context of UAE. Instead of assuming a Western model, this book draws on local examples, legislation, and organisational structures to reflect how policing is actually delivered in the region today. Written by former operational police officers and current educators, the book balances academic clarity with practical relevance, making it suitable for use across diploma, undergraduate, and CPD programmes, providing a much-needed resource for those preparing to lead and serve in 21st-century law enforcement.

The Embodied State

Emotions, State Power and Social Marginalisation

Edited by Ana Aliverti , Henrique Carvalho , Anastasia Chamberlen , Simon Tawfic

Series: Routledge Advances in Criminology

This edited collection advances a reconceptualization of state power through emotions. Methodologically, it rethinks the study of the state from the bottom up, by seeking contributions that engage with performances of state power at the ground level, by frontline staff in direct contact with marginalised populations, and those that reflect on encounters with symbols and practices of state power. Conceptually, it advances a new theory of state power which places values and affects at the heart of its analysis. It will appeal to scholars of critical criminology, anthropology, border studies, and penology. It will also be of interest to professionals involved in these fields.

State Crime, Digital Technology and Civil Resistance

The Mosireen Collective and the Politics of Visibility

Saeb Kasm

Series: Crimes of the Powerful

Focusing on Egypt's Mosireen Collective, this book examines how citizens mobilised digital technologies to expose repression during and after the 2011 revolution. Drawing on theories of state crime, civil resistance and visual activism, it situates Mosireen within wider debates about power, accountability and the politics of evidence. This book will appeal to students and scholars of criminology, political science and media and cultural studies. It will also be of interest to human rights practitioners, NGOs, civil society organisations, archivists and activists documenting state violence and sustaining resistance.

The Routledge International Handbook of Sensory Criminology

Edited by Kate Herrity, Kanupriya Sharma, Janani Umamaheswar, Jason Warr

Series: Routledge International Handbooks

This Handbook reimagines what criminology can become when we take the senses seriously. Centring the sensory as fundamental to the experience of harm, justice, and resistance, it explores how power is heard, felt, inhaled, touched, and moved through, from courtrooms and prisons to museums, marine ecologies, colonial archives, transitional spaces, high-crime zones and urban streets. It is essential reading for students, scholars and early career researchers in criminology, sociology, law, anthropology, geography, gender studies, politics, and cultural studies, as well as those interested in decolonial approaches, sensory methods, and interdisciplinary justice research.

The Trouble With Truth

Dealing with the Past in Northern Ireland

Edited by Kieran McEvoy Queens University, UK, Cheryl Lawther Queen's University Belfast

Series: Transitional Justice

Unlike many other peace accords, the Good Friday Agreement signed in 1998 did not include a formal mechanism for 'dealing with the past' in Northern Ireland. Despite that omission, the politics of truth recovery and its assumed links to reconciliation have been a constant theme in the transition from conflict in the jurisdiction. This book critically explores that relationship, looking at issues of transitional justice and the ownership and forms of truth recovery.

Variably Legal Markets

Rethinking Markets and Crime

Edited by Letizia Paoli University of Leuven, Belgium, Nicholas Lord

Series: Routledge Studies in Crime, Security and Justice

This book offers a novel perspective for conceptualising legality in market exchanges. It challenges the conventional binary of "legal" versus "illegal" markets by introducing the concept of variably legal markets - arenas of exchange where legality is conditional, multidimensional, and context-dependent. This collection will be essential reading for students and scholars of criminology, economics, and law. It will also be useful for policymakers and practitioners seeking to understand and govern the messy realities of modern markets.

Police Ethics

The Corruption of Noble Cause

Edited by Jeffrey D. Dailey, Brian L. Withrow Texas State University, San Marcos, Michael A. Caldero

Police Ethics provides an analysis of corruption in law enforcement organizations. This new edition offers police administrators direction for developing agency-wide corruption prevention strategies through an application of the Model of Circumstantial Corruptibility. In response to recent issues affecting the relationship between police departments and minority communities, like the Black Lives Matter organization and the death of George Floyd, this new edition provides workable solutions. Finally, this edition contains a discussion on what might be an emerging trend in American policing we call the over-politicization of the policing function.

The Impact of Police Killings on the Family and Community of Youth Victims

Justified

Rafael Outland, Thomas Noel Jr.

This work highlights survivors' voices in the exploration of police violence and homicide in the United States. Making vital connections between US colonialism, structured and deputized violence, history of policing, and armed resistance by grassroots movements, the authors expand readers' understanding of the purpose of U.S. policing. Synthesizing these stories with an overview of the state of policing in the United States, this scholarship extends recommendations and strategies for organizers, activists, students, and scholars to redefine public safety, as well as police power and accountability, in Black, Brown, Indigenous, and poor communities.

Artificial Intelligence and International Arbitration Law

Revolution or Evolution

Magdalena Łągiewska

Series: Routledge Research in International Commercial Law

The book asks whether the use of Artificial Intelligence (AI) and Generative AI (GenAI) in international arbitration represents a revolution or an evolution of the international dispute resolution landscape. It explores how arbitral tribunals and stakeholders are cautiously yet progressively adopting recent innovations in AI in a manner that respects and preserves the foundational principles of arbitration. It analyses how AI is perceived and applied by parties, arbitral institutions, and arbitrators, as well as assessing the legal frameworks in place to govern it. This book will be of interest to researchers in the field of international arbitration and commercial law.

Charitable Donation Law

Remapping Risk in Giving

John Picton

Charitable donation law faces a persistent challenge when testators leave gifts to charities that no longer exist, creating uncertainty that often leads to costly litigation between intended beneficiaries. This book examines how traditional legal scholarship has attempted to resolve these disputes, and proposes fundamental reforms to create robust, donor-friendly frameworks. This interdisciplinary analysis will be of particular interest to researchers in charity law and comparative legal studies. The book's integration of doctrinal analysis with policy critique and reform proposals makes it essential reading for academics working at the intersection of private law and social policy.

Consumer Protection and the Digital Economy

A Research Companion

Edited by Christopher Willett, Elisabetta Bergamini

Series: Markets and the Law

This book examines the effects of digitalisation on consumers and markets, and whether consumer law rules are fit for purpose. Examining existing consumer law as it interconnects with the related spheres of competition law, intellectual property law, human rights law and dispute resolution regimes, it considers the future of rule and regime building for consumer protection in the face of digital disruption. The book will be of interest to postgraduate students, academics and policy makers, given the worldwide challenges presented by digital disruption to consumer protection.

Legal Responses to Cyberterrorism

A Comparative Study between China and the UK

Xingxing Wei

This book provides an in-depth comparative study of legal responses to cyberterrorism in China and the UK to establish whether the relationship between legal systems and legal responses is necessary or contingent in the case of counter-cyberterrorism. The work maps out and compares the basic distinctive characteristics of the legal systems in the two countries, which are characterised in terms of a contrast between 'rule by law' and 'rule of law', and basic criminal principles. It will be a valuable resource for academics, researchers and policy-makers working in these areas.

Managing the Workload of Chinese Courts

An Empirical and Comparative Perspective

Jinhua Cheng

Series: China Perspectives

This book presents a systematic empirical study of contemporary China's litigation case volume, judges' workload, and how courts attempt to alleviate the problem of "high caseloads with insufficient personnel" through enhanced management practices. Through nationwide survey data, it indicates Chinese judges bear an exceptionally heavy workload and significant stress, partly due to non-adjudicative works they are required to perform. The author describes how Chinese courts have employed trial management techniques to mitigate this problem. Scholars of court management, comparative judicial systems, and those interested in China studies will find the book appealing.

Legal Risks in the Software Development Lifecycle

Oana Gherghina

Legal Risks in the Software Development Lifecycle addresses the growing complexity of software development as both a technical and legal discipline. As the digital economy expands, software has become a core infrastructure asset whose lifecycle demands rigorous and enforceable contractual governance. This book analyses how legal risks arise and evolve across the Software Development Lifecycle (SDLC) and the approach is multidisciplinary - written for lawyers and legal advisors; for project managers and clients; for software developers and vendors; for judges, arbitrators, and mediators; and for students and researchers in law, seeking a bridge between theory and practice.

Contract Law and International Trade Regulation

Contemporary Issues and Challenges

Pierre de Gioia Carabellese Heriot-Watt University, Scotland, Camilla Della Giustina

Contract law and international trade are two significant and distinct areas of legal practice that often intersect. While rooted in the standard contract law syllabus, this comprehensive advanced textbook seeks to examine the interaction between contract law rules and international trade regulation. It blends in-depth discussion of the most important traditional legal concepts in both these areas of the law with a careful analysis of emerging issues and more contemporary topics, such as digital contracting, trade in services, and the Europeanisation of contract law at the level of the European Union. It will be a valuable text for advanced undergraduate and postgraduate law students.

Labour Regulation in International Aviation Law

A Crawl-Walk-Run Approach

Yuran Shi

Series: Routledge Research in Air and Space Law

This book critically examines how international law can address the pressing issues of labour regulation in the airline industry, highlighting the insufficiencies of current international labour standards and air law in safeguarding workers' rights and improving working conditions. Proposing a pragmatic "crawl-walk-run" approach, the volume advocates for the progressive enhancement of labour regulations, starting with refining Comprehensive Air Transport Agreements (CATAs) and advancing towards more comprehensive and enforceable standards. It will be of interest to researchers in labour law, international law and air and space law.

Neuroscience in Criminal Justice Systems

The Positive Impact of Neurojustice

Edited by Hannah Wishart, Colleen M. Berryessa

Series: Routledge Contemporary Issues in Criminal Justice and Procedure

This edited collection shows the tangible and positive impacts neuroscience is having in specific jurisdictions for individuals involved in the criminal justice system as witnesses, victims, defendants and legal practitioners. By embracing a practical and realist approach, this book explores the fundamental question of what and how neuroscience has been concretely contributing to criminal justice, with a specific focus on international systems. This work will appeal to academics, criminal lawyers, judges, policy-makers and reformers interested in how neuroscience contributes to meaningful changes in the criminal justice system.

Trade-Based Money Laundering

Compliance and the Law

Mariola Marzouk, Branislav Hock

Series: The Law of Financial Crime

This book exposes how illicit finance hides in plain sight within legitimate global trade. Drawing on real-world cases, empirical interviews, and policy analysis, the book reveals how Trade-Based Money Laundering (TBML) exploits regulatory gaps, dynamic supply chains, and the ambiguities of modern commerce. This work is essential reading for policymakers, financial institutions, law enforcement professionals, and scholars seeking a deep understanding of TBML. Readers will gain the conceptual tools and operational realism needed to confront TBML, improve compliance practices, and safeguard global financial systems against one of the most pervasive forms of economic crime.

Undesirable but Unremovable Migrants

War Criminals, Terrorists and Foreign Offenders in Limbo

Joris Van Wijk , Maarten Bolhuis

Series: Law and Migration

Across the globe, thousands of alleged 'criminal' migrants find themselves trapped in limbo. They are unwanted in the countries hosting them but cannot be deported because they are stateless, because human rights law prevents it, or because they themselves do not cooperate. These individuals are referred to as Undesirable But Unremovable migrants. This book traces the emergence of UBUs, shows how their numbers have increased dramatically over time, and reveals the inability of states to develop coherent policy responses. The book benefits anyone engaged in the study, development, or implementation of governmental policies concerning migrants accused of being involved in crime.

The Common Law Tradition in America

A Personal Statement

John V. Orth

Using a thematic approach to American law and legal history, The Common Law Tradition in America introduces readers to the scholars, judges, and critics who made the law at once a stable source of rules and a dynamic system capable of responding to social and economic changes. As befits "a personal statement," The Common Law Tradition in America is written in a relaxed style, enlivened with engaging anecdotes. It offers law students, researchers of legal history, practicing lawyers, and the general reader an overview of law and legal development, above the technicalities of law school and practice.

Exploring Human Trafficking Pathways and Narratives of Desistance

Edited by Sean Byrne Boston University, USA

In the seven book chapters that follow, researchers have conducted both qualitative and quantitative analyses of human trafficking, focusing primarily on sex trafficking. Authors delve into the complex world of human trafficking through the lens of personal narratives of participants, including sex traffickers, sex workers, social workers, and law enforcement. Drawing from firsthand accounts, the book illuminates the intricate pathways that lead individuals into human trafficking and the challenges faced by those who attempt to leave.

Human Dignity and Biotechnological Patent Law

Marianne Walsh Fryer

This book suggests a new legal framework to improve coherence in the definition of human dignity in European biotech patent law, by way of a novel court structure. Examining judicial interpretations of human dignity in biotech patent law across European jurisdictions, the book looks at the European Court of Human Rights (ECtHR), the European Patent Office (EPO), the Court of Justice of the European Union (CJEU), and national courts. It explores how biotech patent law has shaped the concept of human dignity, influencing judicial reasoning beyond its original trade law context. The book will be of interest to researchers of IP law, patent law and human rights, and biotechnology.

International Protection of Socio-Economic Rights

An Interactional Approach

Aristi Volou

Series: Human Rights and International Law

This book argues that there are weaknesses in the international systems of socio-economic rights protection and that these weaknesses can be mitigated or overcome through the practice of interaction between these systems. The work examines international protection of socio-economic rights and shows that it is vulnerable in terms of its personal and material scope, its content and the extent of permissible limitations. The book will be a valuable resource for academics, researchers, judges and policy-makers working in the areas of International Human Rights Law, Social Justice, Political Science and International Relations.

New Perspectives on Human Dignity in Asia

Cross-Cultural Interpretations and Dialogue

Edited by Brett G. Scharffs, Hannah Clayson Smith Associate Director International Center for Law and Religion Studies 452 JRCB Brigham Young University Provo, UT 84604, Emily H. Butler

This volume examines the concept of human dignity from uniquely Asian perspectives. Here, human dignity is approached from a number of distinctive viewpoints: its relation to religious freedom in maturing pluralist democracies, its foundation in ancient Eastern philosophy, its pursuit by liberation movements, and its alignment with Buddhism, Islam, and less familiar indigenous religions. The collection will be of interest to philosophers of law, constitutional and human rights theorists and lawyers, political historians, international law specialists and ethicists, and those interested in interfaith dialogue and multifaith engagement.

Rent Control, Property and Human Rights Law

Kurt Xerri

Series: Routledge Research in Human Rights Law

This book offers a comprehensive study of the European Court of Human Rights jurisprudence on rent controls. It examines how the Court has balanced the right to property under the Convention against states responsibilities to secure affordable housing. The book will be of interest to scholars and practitioners of property law, human rights law, and housing law, while also appealing to researchers in housing policy, economics, and urban studies who seek to understand the legal boundaries shaping rental market regulation. It will be of particular interest to academics working on European housing policy and to lawyers dealing with constitutional and human rights litigation.

Unaccompanied Migrant Children and International Law

The Role of Strategic Litigation in Advancing Human Rights

Natale Serón Arizmendi

Series: Routledge Research in Asylum, Migration and Refugee Law

In light of the failure of traditional legal methods to provide justice for unaccompanied migrant children, this book argues the need for alternative forms of legal advocacy. Taking the case of the R.Y.S. v. Spain, the work identifies the factors that strategists must keep in close consideration throughout litigation in order to amend the law and improve public policies. Combining theoretical analysis with empirical insights, the book will equip academics, advocates and policy-makers with the necessary tools to maximise the effectiveness of strategic litigation in advancing migrant children's rights.

The Legal Regulation of Academic Freedom

The Case of Biomedicine

Lucia Pallier

Series: Law, Science and Society

This book compares and examines the ways in which law addresses and resolves conflicts between academic freedom and responsibility. Academic freedom is an important value in the modern scientific and technologically driven world. Societies depend heavily on the commodities of scientific progress, especially in essential sectors such as health care and, as a result, research is now carried out in an increasingly globalized context protected by national and international law.

Routledge Handbook of NFT Law

Edited by Pınar Çağlayan Aksoy Bilkent Üniversitesi Hukuk Fakültesi, Turkey, Larry Dimatteo, Saskia Hufnagel University of Sydney Law School, Australia

Series: Routledge Handbooks in Law

Non-Fungible Tokens (NFTs) are types of crypto assets that function on the blockchain. Anything that one can digitize has the potential of becoming an NFT. While NFTs raise similar issues as other crypto assets, there are many use cases and characteristics that call for special attention. At a time when individual countries have started responding to various legal issues, this volume examines these matters from a comparative law perspective. It approaches NFTs from a multidisciplinary perspective and provides in-depth information about the potential legal problems that arise from their use and transfer. It will be an essential resource for researchers of Technology and Law.

Dispute Settlement and the Belt and Road Initiative

Towards a Rules-based Approach

Jamieson M. Kirkwood

Series: The Rule of Law in China and Comparative Perspectives

This book presents a response to the numerous calls for instituting a rules-based approach in Belt and Road Initiative (BRI) dispute resolution. The work analyses what a rules-based approach to dispute resolution means, explores what the BRI actually is, and what BRI disputes are. It then considers why rules are understood to be necessary in BRI dispute resolution and, finally, sets out policy proposals. It will be of interest to academics, researchers and policy-makers working in the areas of Chinese Law, Alternative Dispute Resolution, International Investment Law, World Trade Law, and Comparative Law.

Economic Regulation of Airports

A Private Law Approach

Di Mei

This book explores airport charges regulation, presenting a fresh perspective on a crucial yet marginalized subject. Providing a clear pathway for regulation of the economic aspects of airports, it employs an adaptable approach grounded in private law principles. Unlike the conventional command-and-control model of traditional regulation that once governed airports, the book contends that an agile private law approach offers a more efficient means of overseeing airport charges in the face of increasing complexity within the industry. It will be of interest to researchers in the field of air law, contract law, corporate law, competition law, and aviation business and management.

EU Accession and the Rule of Law

Pre-accession Assistance and the Western Balkans

Edited by Marko Novakovic, Marina Matic-Boskovic

This book offers a critical examination of how the EU's Instrument for Pre-accession Assistance (IPA) has influenced governance and legal reform across the Western Balkans and beyond. Focusing on six countries at different stages of the accession process, Serbia, Montenegro, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Albania, Croatia, and North Macedonia, this book assesses the IPA's evolving role as a mechanism for strengthening the rule of law. Through country-specific analyses, the book explores how IPA funding has supported judicial reform, anti-corruption measures, and legal harmonisation, while also considering the long-term effects in Croatia, the region's only EU member state.

International Investment Law in the Commonwealth Caribbean

Jason Haynes

Series: Commonwealth Caribbean Law

International Investment Law in the Commonwealth Caribbean employs rigorous doctrinal analysis that places Caribbean experiences at its centre, while also building readers' analytical capabilities for engaging with complex issues in international economic law. The book is unique in showing how investment law operates in small island developing state contexts, making abstract legal concepts accessible through analysis of Caribbean case law, whilst also developing critical thinking skills. Each chapter integrates traditional black-letter law instruction with critical analysis, drawing on Third World Approaches to International Law (TWAIL) and post-colonial theory.

Jaemin Lee

Each section of the book begins with an original essay by the author discussing core issues covered by the news commentaries. Articles then follow after, providing at-the-time analysis of the interactions between international law and international relations, as well as the interaction between domestic and international law. Many of the issues, such as China-US relations and refugee policy, are of global relevance, and the thematic clusters will give the readers and students a picture of how international law actually operates in the field.

Renewable Energy and International Law

Communitarian Approaches to Energy Justice

Chitzi C. Ogbumbada

Series: Routledge Research in Energy Law and Regulation

This book addresses the injustices associated with renewable energy development and use within the context of the energy transition. Primarily informed by a communitarian approach to energy justice, the book draws on the philosophical concept of African communitarianism as a guiding principle. It argues that international law can facilitate this approach to energy justice by adapting existing norms, standards, practices, and institutions. The book will be of interest to researchers, policymakers, international governmental organisations, and civil society.

Social Rights in International Investment Law

Reconciliation and Integration

Luis F. Yanes

The book examines the complex relationship between international investment law and international human rights law, focusing on the privatisation of social rights services such as water, health, education, and housing. Through detailed analysis, the volume demonstrates how investment law has been applied or interpreted in ways that hinder governments from adapting or improving social rights services, ultimately resulting in human rights violations. It will be of interest to researchers and practitioners in the field of investment law, international law, and human rights law.

The Appeals Process in the International Criminal Court

Evolution through Practice in the International Criminal Justice System

Sonia Głogowska

This book presents an analysis of the model of appellate procedure before the International Criminal Court, based on the Court's legal texts and case-law. It proves that while the legal texts are unclear about the general shape of appellate procedure before the ICC, the model has been developed through the Appeals Chamber's practice, sometimes contrary to the literal interpretation of the Rome Statute's provisions and not in line with the expectations of the international community. The book will be of interest to academics, researchers and policy-makers working in the areas of International Criminal Justice, International Human Rights Law and Criminal Law and Procedure.

WTO Law and Dispute Settlement

Least Developed Countries

Ronald Welsh

Series: Routledge Research in International Law

This book examines the World Trade Organisation (WTO) Dispute Settlement Understanding (DSU) from the perspective of the world's Least Developed Countries (LDCs). This book explores the issues behind LDCs difficulty engaging with the DSU, with only one dispute brought. Arguing that WTO action alone will not address all these issues, the volume advocates that the LDCs must themselves be prepared to take measures to address current weaknesses and makes recommendations as to how they may overcome some of their DSU engagement issues. The book will be of interest to researchers in the field of international trade law, international law and dispute resolution.

Christianity and the Making of Irish Law

Violence, Virtue, and Reason

Edited by David H. McIlroy

Series: Law and Religion

For almost two millennia, the island of Ireland has continued to have an impact on European and English-speaking Christianity and culture out of all proportion to its size and position. This volume looks at key Irish figures, beyond lawyers and judges, whose ideas have impacted on the way law is conceived, conceptualised, and practised. The work consists of four Parts, each corresponding to a distinct historical phase. The book will appeal to scholars, lawyers, and students interested in the history of ideas, the interplay between religion and law, and Ireland as a place of contestation, experimentation, and generation of new ideas.

Democracy and the Rule of Law in Indonesia

A Legal Philosophical Analysis

Stefanus Hendrianto

Series: Routledge Research in Legal Philosophy

This book explores democratic development in Indonesia—the world's third-largest democracy after India and the United States. Through case studies, it looks at two rival versions of democracy: the republican form and the electoral form, and posits that electoral democracy is not sustainable without republican institutions, laws, and norms. The book invites readers on an intellectual journey to explore the republican ideal through the lenses of philosophy, law, politics, and the history of the problem of democracy in Indonesia.

Just Price Theory

Historical Perspectives and Contemporary Insights

Edited by Matías Petersen, Joaquín Reyes

Series: Critical Studies in Jurisprudence

This book considers the contemporary relevance and normative implications of just price theory. For decades the idea of justice in prices has been the almost exclusive domain of historians of ideas. But current economic practices – and particularly the experience of situations in which the price of a certain good seems intuitively wrong (whether 'too much' or 'too little') – have produced a renewed concern with just prices.

Legal Imaginaries of Crisis and Fear

Dark Constitutionalism

Edited by Martin Belov

Series: Nomos Studies in Law, Culture and Power

Focusing on this 'dark constitutionalism', the book draws together an international and interdisciplinary range of scholars to consider the place of emotive semiotics in collective meaning making, the constitutional politics of emotions, and emotional approaches to global challenges in a time of crisis, emergency, and transition. The book thereby develops a compelling analysis of the use of negative emotions in the shaping of contemporary constitutional imaginaries, and with it a novel account of the rise of dark constitutionalism.

The Private Justice Gap

Devising a Legal Defence to the Harm of Judging

Célia Filipa Ferreira Matias University Of Macao, Macao Sar China

This book examines how private justice challenges the state's monopoly on adjudication, with a particular focus on today's digital contexts. The author contends that private interventions can be legitimate expressions of justice rather than threats to it, and argues for a nuanced approach. By proposing a framework for private justice defence, the book explores how this stance could bridge the gap between public and private justice systems, fostering greater collaboration between citizens and the state. It will appeal to scholars of legal theory and law and technology.

Constitutional Values, Identities and Rights

Realisation and Protection in Codified and Uncodified Constitutions

Edited by John McGarry

Series: Routledge Studies in Law, Rights and Justice

This book discusses the way in which the constitutions are shaped by, and shape, the values and identities inherent in them and how those values and identities may be realised as fundamental rights and, consequently, protected. It examines the values, identities and rights of the UK constitution – which is highly dynamic and political in nature – and of constitutions more generally. The text comprises three parts. The book will be of interest to academics, researchers and policy-makers in the areas of Constitutional Law and Politics, Comparative Law and Public Law.

International Humanitarian Law and Hybrid Warfare

Piotr Łubiński

Series: Routledge Research in the Law of Armed Conflict

This groundbreaking monograph offers a comprehensive legal and conceptual analysis of hybrid warfare and hybrid threats—two evolving challenges that blur the boundaries between war and peace. Drawing from international law, political science, and security studies, the book explores how states and non-state actors exploit legal, informational, and cyber tools to undermine adversaries without crossing the threshold of conventional warfare. With a unique focus on legal thresholds and norms, the volume is essential reading for scholars, policymakers, and practitioners navigating today's increasingly multipolar and legally ambiguous security environment.

Law, History, Text

Writing Ironic Legal Histories

Ian Ward

Series: Transforming Legal Histories

This book presents a fresh approach to the writing of legal history as an essentially textual enterprise. It argues that to write any history is to tell a story. In doing so, it appreciates the place, not just of context and contingency in the history of law, but also humanity. Engaging texts drawn from literature, philosophy and politics, as well as law, this work will appeal to any scholar or student interested not just in the past of law, but in its imagining and inscription.

Legal Resistance to Autocracy

The Global Fight to Save Democracy

Edited by Octávio Luiz Motta Ferraz, Natasha Lindstaedt, David M. Trubek and Oscar Vilhena Vieira

Series: Comparative Constitutional Change

This book focuses on resistance to autocratization, a less well-researched and understood topic than the rise of authoritarianism. The collection offers a contribution to this important yet neglected field from scholars of eight countries in different stages of autocratization: Brazil, India, China, Russia, Israel, Hungary and South Africa, as well as cross-cutting themes on international human rights institutions, sanctions, the political economy of autocratization and the role of lawyers in comparative perspective. The volume will be of interest to researchers, academics and policy-makers working in the areas of Law, Political Science and International Relations.

Political Disinformation and the Law

Safeguarding Freedom of Expression In Europe

Christopher Phiri

Series: Routledge Research in Human Rights Law

This book argues that the state can, and indeed has a duty to, regulate the phenomenon of political disinformation in a holistic manner, while both preserving and safeguarding freedom of expression, in particular by providing for a suitable combination of correction and sanction mechanisms. It promises to be a valuable resource for academics, judges and policymakers, particularly those working in the areas of human rights law, media law, public law, legal philosophy, media studies, communication studies and information science.

The Law and Politics of Constitution Making

Lessons from Chile

Edited by Eduardo Alemán, Sebastián Soto Velasco

Series: Comparative Constitutional Change

This collection examines Chile's two recent efforts to replace its constitution, both of which ultimately failed despite broad initial support. The book features contributions from constitutional lawyers, political scientists, and other experts, including seven constitution writers, providing both academic analysis and firsthand accounts. This volume is a key resource for scholars and policymakers interested in constitutional design, institutional reform, and Latin American politics. Readers in political science, constitutional law, and Latin American studies will find its analysis of Chile's process both informative and timely.

Cargo Claims

The Essential Guide

David Richards

Series: Maritime and Transport Law Library

Cargo claims are the most frequent form of third-party liability incurred by carriers by sea and their P&I insurers. This new book examines every aspect of cargo claims from a legal and practical perspective and complements other legal textbooks which specialise in bills of lading or charterparties. Written for practitioners and those working on cargo claims day-to-day, the book will be invaluable for ship operators, shipping law firms, barristers' chambers, cargo recovery agencies and P&I insurers. Readers will gain a comprehensive guide to the handling of cargo claims by way of a detailed analysis of the underlying legal principles and through practical guidance.

Cyber-worthiness in Shipping

Law, Regulation and Practice

Furkan Dogan

Series: Maritime and Transport Law Library

As the maritime industry undergoes a technological transformation, traditional legal doctrines must evolve to address new challenges. This book explores the legal and operational implications of Maritime Autonomous Surface Ships (MASS) and the increasing reliance on digital systems in modern shipping. For practitioners, this book solves pressing legal and operational problems. It clarifies how existing maritime regulations (such as UNCLOS, SOLAS, and the ISM Code) apply to autonomous and digitalised ships, identifies gaps in current legal frameworks, and proposes necessary updates to ensure compliance.

Managing Legal Risks in Voyage Charterparties for Autonomous Ships

Raphael Esu

Series: Maritime and Transport Law Library

As technology continues to reshape global industries, the maritime sector faces profound changes with the emergence of Maritime Autonomous Surface Ships (MASS). This book explores the legal challenges posed by autonomous shipping within the framework of voyage charters, focusing on the several contractual obligations. Legal practitioners will find it valuable for its in-depth analysis of contractual obligations and liability issues in the context of MASS. Policy-makers could benefit from its insights into the evolving legal landscape, while industry professionals, will appreciate the practical guidance on adapting to autonomous shipping technologies.

Regulating Unmanned Vessels

Emerging Solutions

Edited by Zuzanna Pełowska-Dąbrowska, Igor Vio

Series: Maritime and Transport Law Library

While the technology on crewless ships (Maritime Autonomous Surface Ships, MASS) develops rapidly, the legal framework requires revisions to accommodate this new phenomenon. This book proposes regulatory solutions to the problems arising from MASS operations, carefully balancing the interests of many, at times new, parties involved. Written for policy makers on different levels (international and national), national maritime administrations, practitioners in maritime law, insurers of maritime risks, maritime legal scholars, artificial intelligence scholars, and advanced students of maritime law courses.

Is Mandatory Retirement Morally Defensible?

Ethics, Economics, and Law in Ageing Societies

Edited by Hon-Lam Li

The topic of banning mandatory retirement has sparked debate as ageing populations transform societies. Comparing ageism to sexism and racism, this book addresses the philosophical concerns of age discrimination, as well as the ethical and social considerations of personal dignity, economic efficiency, and employment insecurity. This edited volume fosters theoretical discourse by drawing on interdisciplinary conceptual frameworks from philosophy, ethics, economics, social work, and law. It is essential reading for scholars and students of practical ethics, bioethics, public policy, labour and public economics, social work, and employment law.

Law and Justice in Small Island Developing States

Lessons from Niue

Mana Takahashi, Kahealani Sinahemana Hekau

Series: Routledge Studies in Asian Law

The book surveys the literature to discuss the features and vulnerabilities of SIDS and the challenges of law and development in these contexts. It then analyses the case of Niue and covers the current situation regarding rule of law and access to justice on the island. It further analyses the impact of COVID-19 on the fragility of the Niuean justice system. The book considers the case study of Niue and discusses how rule of law assistance is rendered in the Pacific region. It discusses previous law and justice projects implemented by international organizations and bilateral donors, and recommends ways forward to improve human rights and access to justice in these vulnerable states.

Law and Justice in Song

Murder Ballads and Popular Music

Daniel Newman

Series: Transforming Legal Histories

This book examines the murder ballad form, songs about death and killing, from a legal history perspective. Drawing on a cultural form in which assessment and consideration of death and killing are so vigorously and richly enacted gives lawyers a guide to how those who do not see these matters through a primarily legal lens might understand this part of their world. The study will be of interest to academics and researchers working in the areas of Criminal Law, Legal History, Socio-Legal Studies, Criminology and Musicology.

Law and Resistance

Toward a Performative Epistemology of Law

Awol Allo

This book explores a fundamental paradox at the heart of law and resistance: while law emerges from acts of resistance, it systematically denies this origin once established. Law and Resistance considers the different ways in which a politics of resistance is enabled in the courtroom: as it uncovers a performative logic that contingently conditions, and thus breaks open, law's otherwise closed normativity.

Through the Distorted Lens

Constructing Truth and Reality with Legal Narratives

Fiona Hum Monash University

Series: Routledge Frontiers of Criminal Justice

The book discusses contemporary evidential challenges surrounding the societal and legal framing of 'truth' within the Anglo-American trial process. It applies a post-structural feminist approach to examine how facts and rules are interpreted through the construction of legal stories. These include the cases of George Cardinal Pell, Johnny Depp and Amber Heard, Lawyer X, Brittany Higgins and Kathleen Folbigg. It departs from previous publications, such as those with a traditional feminist perspective, in that it presents both sides of the distorted lens where a defendant is written into a story as both guilty and innocent.

Unexplained Wealth and Financial Crime

A Global Perspective

Edited by Folashade Adeyemo, Nicholas Ryder Cardiff University, UK

Series: The Law of Financial Crime

This book considers the growing and emerging issue of unexplained wealth and how this issue fits within the larger challenge of financial and economic crime. The volume further considers how unexplained wealth can be recognised as an important category, similar in this respect to fraud, bribery, corruption, and tax evasion amongst others. Establishing the issue of unexplained wealth as an independent area of research, the book will be essential reading for researchers, academics and policy-makers working in the areas of financial and economic crime, banking law and international corporate governance.
