"Brexit" as a Social and Political Crisis
Discourses in Media and Politics
Edited by Franco Zappettini and Michal Krzyzanowski
Through a focus on media and political discourses both before and after the UK 2016 EU Referendum, this volume provides a set of comprehensive, empirically based analyses of Brexit as a social and political crisis. The book explores a variety of context-dependent, ideologically driven, social, political and economic imaginaries that have been attached to the idea/concept of Brexit in the UK and internationally.

The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Critical Discourse Studies

A Cultural Interpretation of the Genocide Convention
Kurt Mundoff
Series: Routledge Studies in Genocide and Crimes against Humanity
This book critiques the dominant physical and biological interpretation of the Genocide Convention and argues that the idea of "culture" is central to properly understanding the crime of genocide. This volume poses a forceful challenge to the materialist interpretation and calls into question decades of international case law. It will be of interest to scholars of genocide, human rights, international law, the history of international law and human rights, and treaty interpretation.

A Divided Union
Structural Challenges to Bipartisanship in America
Edited by Dario Moreno, Eduardo Gamarra, Patrick Murphy and David Jolly
A Divided Union delves deep into ten pressing political challenges central to the dysfunction in Congress and the country today. The core of the book is original analysis by experts on key topics such as geographic challenges, demographic change, a polarized media, gerrymandering, the role of money in politics, and the structure of primary elections. Contributors include former federal elected officials, political science professors, members of the press, and scholars immersed in their fields of study. A Divided Union is appropriate for all political science students as well as the general public frustrated and alarmed by political deadlock.

A Middle East Free of Weapons of Mass Destruction
A New Approach to Nonproliferation
Seyed Hossein Mousavian, Princeton University, USA and Emad Kiyaei
Series: Routledge Advances in International Relations and Global Politics
The establishment of a Middle East zone free of nuclear weapons, a concept more recently broadened to cover all weapons of mass destruction (WMD), has been before the international community for decades. In this book, two experts from the region explore why the matter remains unresolved, and outline a comprehensive yet achievable roadmap to a Middle East free of WMD.

A Tale of Two Parties
Living Amongst Democrats and Republicans Since 1952
Kenneth Janda, Northwestern University, USA
Series: Routledge Research in American Politics and Governance
In this book Kenneth Janda tackles how US society has changed over the last six decades in terms of occupation, education, regional growth, urbanization, religion, ethnicity, and ideology. He summarizes how the Democratic and Republican parties have shifted in representing these social groups, and articulated the interests of their social bases through congressional voting. Janda then assesses the prospects for interest aggregation and articulation by governments over the next decade. A Tale of Two Parties will have a wide and enthusiastic readership among political scientists and researchers of American politics, campaigns and elections, and voting.

All the World’s a Stage
The Theater of Political Simulations
Hemda Ben-Yehuda
Series: International Studies Intensives
Classroom role-playing simulations bring the drama of politics to life and enrich traditional learning by plunging students into the midst of historical or current events. Ben-Yehuda gives students and instructors the resources and confidence to embark on a careful enactment of scenarios that will inspire enthusiasm in participants and stick in the memory long after the curtain falls. The book includes in-depth discussions of three possible theatrical simulations: appeasement in 1938 Munich, the regional turmoil following the 1947 UN Palestine Partition decision, and the ongoing global confrontation with ISIS. Appropriate for students in global studies courses at all levels.

Affective Heritage and the Politics of Memory after 9/11
Curating Trauma at the Memorial Museum
Jacque Micieli-Voutsinas
Series: Interventions
This book critically examines the institutional curation of traumatic memory at the 9/11 Memorial Museum and its evocative power as a cultural storyteller. This work will be of interest to students and scholars in the areas of Human Geography, American Studies, Museum Studies and Public History, Cultural and Heritage Studies, and Trauma and Memory Studies.

Amateur Hour
Presidential Character and the Question of Leadership
Lara M. Brown
This book assesses the impact of presidential character on the popularity, productivity, and ethics of contemporary presidents. Through comparative analyses, author Lara Brown demonstrates that the character of a president’s leadership does not change in office and that the success of future presidents can be evaluated before they step into the White House. She traces the rise of “amateur outsiders,” like Donald Trump, and asserts the need for systemic reform and cultural reassessment of presidential character. Intended for students and scholars of the presidency, this book also holds appeal for general readers who seek understanding of past and future presidential elections.

Algorithms, Automation, and News
New Directions in the Study of Computation and Journalism
Edited by Neil Thurman, Seth C. Lewis and Jessica Kunert
This book examines the growing importance of algorithms and automation—including emerging forms of artificial intelligence—in the gathering, composition, and distribution of news. In it the authors connect a long line of research on journalism and computation with scholarly and professional terrain yet to be explored. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Digital Journalism:

American Government
Constitutional Democracy Under Pressure
Cal Jillson, Southern Methodist University, USA
This text highlights the tension between our constitutional principles and institutions and the populist heat that rolls our national politics at the current political moment. Our democracy has been under pressure for some time, but few would deny that fears for its fate have deepened in just the past few years. We assume our political institutions will limit populist impulses, but will they? A polarized electorate, urging representatives to fight and never to compromise, may be stressing Constitutional limits. This new edition helps American government teachers lead their students to an understanding of what is happening in the politics of their Constitutional democracy today.
11th Edition

American Government
Political Development and Institutional Change

Cal Jillson
Cal Jillson’s highly lauded American Government: Political Development and Institutional Change uses political development and the dynamics of change as a thematic tool to help students understand how politics works now—and how institutions, participation, and policies have evolved over time to produce the contemporary political environment. In addition, Jillson helps students think critically about how American democracy might evolve further. The new edition includes timely updates on the Trump impeachment, the Covid-19 pandemic, Black Lives Matter and #MeToo.

American Politics and the African American Quest for Universal Freedom

Hanes Walton, Jr, University of Michigan, Robert C. Smith, San Francisco State University and Sherri L. Wallace
This dynamic and comprehensive text from nationally renowned scholars continues to demonstrate the profound influence African Americans have had—and continue to have—on American politics. Using two interrelated themes—the idea of universal freedom and the concept of minority–majority coalitions—this updated text demonstrates how the presence of Africans in the United States affected the founding of the Republic and its political institutions and processes. The authors show that through the quest for their own freedom in the United States, African Americans have universalized and expanded the freedoms of all Americans.

American Public Opinion toward Israel
From Consensus to Divide

Amnon Cavari and Guy Freedman
This new book examines trends in American public opinion about Israel in over 75 years, from 1944 to 2019. Analyzing data from hundreds of surveys in jargon-free writing, the authors show that public support for Israel has seen a dramatic shift toward increased division between partisan and select demographic groups, elaborating on the implications that this important change may have for the countries’ special relationship. Scholars and students of American foreign policy, public opinion, Middle East politics, and international relations, as well as policy analysts, policy makers, journalists, and anyone interested in American policy toward Israel will want to read this book.

America’s State Governments
A Critical Look at Disconnected Democracies

Jennifer Bachner and Benjamin Ginsberg
This timely and important new work takes a critical look at government in the American states and illustrates the disconnect between state government institutions and their constituents. The text illuminates three basic political problems of state governments: weak constitutional and institutional foundations; a lack of civic engagement; and long histories of unchecked public corruption. For students and citizens of state politics, the book concludes with a proposal aimed at civic literacy and action.

Anti-Neoliberal Populisms in Comparative Perspective

Enrico Padoan, Pontifical Catholic University of Chile, Chile
Series: Routledge Studies in Latin American Politics
In this book, Enrico Padoan proposes an original middle-range theory to explain the emergence and the internal organization of anti-neoliberal populist parties in Latin America and Southern Europe, and the relationships between these parties and the organised working class. Padoan traces the diverging evolution of the electoral Lefts in Latin America and Southern Europe, before turning to four chapters focusing on the rise of anti-neoliberal populist parties, with a fifth analyzing four ‘shadow cases’. With its distinctive perspective scholars of Latin America and Comparative Politics will find Anti-Neoliberal Populisms in Comparative Perspective a highly valuable resource.

Approaching Democracy
American Government in Times of Challenge
Larry Berman, Bruce Allen Murphy, Nadia E Brown and Sarah Allen Gershon
This book covers the foundations, institutions, and processes of American democracy with a clear and relevant theme: the evolving nature of the American experiment in democratic government in a time of challenges to democracy on the home front as well as internationally. Approaching Democracy provides students with a framework to analyze the structure, process and action of US government, institutions and social movements. It also invites comparison with other countries.

ASEAN and Power in International Relations
ASEAN, the EU, and the Contestation of Human Rights
Jamie D. Stacey
Series: Routledge Contemporary Southeast Asia Series
This book analyses the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) as a powerful actor in International Relations by examining how the ASEAN community has evolved, looking specifically at its relationship with the EU with regards to human rights. The book adds to important contemporary debates within constructivist theory, shedding light on the need for ‘critical’ constructivism that emphasizes language and contestation and what that may entail.

Asia and Europe in the 21st Century
New Anxieties, New Opportunities
Edited by Rahul Mishra, University of Malaya, Malaysia, Azirah Hashim, University of Malaya, Malaysia and Anthony Milner, University of Melbourne, Australia
Series: Routledge Studies on Asia in the World
This volume discusses emerging critical issues in International relations, including the Indo-Pacific constructs, China’s Belt and Road Initiative (BRI), and the progress of established regional security mechanisms like the Shanghai Cooperation Organisation. It compares western and non-western approaches to these issues, with a holistic perspective on the origins and evolutions of these approaches. This book presents implications of the changing politico-security dynamics in the two regions from the perspectives of both Asian and European scholars and theoretical traditions. A must-read for scholars of international relations with a focus on relations between Asia and Europe.

Authoritarian Populism and the Rural World
Edited by Ian Scoones, Marc Edelman, CUNY, USA, Saturnino M. Borras Jr., International Institute of Social Studies, Erasmus University Rotterdam, The Netherlands, Lyda Fernanda Forero, Ruth Hall, University of the Western Cape, South Africa, Wendy Woloford, Cornell University, U.S.A. and Ben White
Series: Critical Agrarian Studies
Authoritarian Populism and the Rural World reflects on the rural origins and consequences of the emergence of authoritarian and populist leaders across the world, as well as on the rise of multi-class mobilisation and resistance, alongside wider counter-movements and alternative practices, which together confront authoritarianism and nationalist populism. The chapters in this book were originally published in The Journal of Peasant Studies.

Avoiding the ‘Thucydides Trap’
U.S.-China Relations in Strategic Domains
Edited by Dong Wang and Travis Tanner
Series: China Perspectives
The relationship between China and the United States becomes increasingly complex and interdependent. To examine the challenges facing US-China relations, the National Bureau of Asian Research and Institute for China-US People-to-People Exchange of Peking University assembled a group of leading experts from China and the United States to explore US-China relations in the maritime and nuclear sectors as well as cyberspace, space and via the lens of F2P and Mi to Mi exchanges. Scholars and students interested in US-China relations will benefit from this volume.

Between Class and Discourse: Left Intellectuals in Defence of Capitalism
Boris Kagarlitsky, The Moscow School of Social and Economic Sciences, Russia
Series: Rethinking Globalizations
This provocative book addresses the ideological and political crisis of the Western left, comparing it with the problems facing leftist politics in Russia and other countries. The author presents a radical critique of the current state of the Western left which puts discourse above class interest and politics of diversity above politics of social change. This book speaks directly to the way the identity politics/class politics divide has been framed within the English-speaking world. It will be of great interest to scholars and students of political science and political sociology, international relations, security studies and global studies, as well as socialist activists.

Beyond Nationalism and the Nation-State

Radical Approaches to Nation

Edited by Iker Corut, American University of Central Asia, Kyrgyz Republic and Joost Jongerden, Wageningen University, the Netherlands

Series: Routledge Studies in Nationalism and Ethnicity

This book centers around one fundamental question: Is it possible to imagine a progressive sense of nation? Rooted in historic and contemporary social struggles, the chapters in this collection examine what a progressive sense of nation might look like, with authors exploring the theory and practice of the nation beyond nationalism. The book discusses viable alternatives for nationalism, which is inherently exclusionary, exploring the possibility of a type of nation-based politics which does not follow principles of nationalism. With its focus on nationalism, politics and social struggles, it will be of great interest to students and scholars of political and social sciences.

Beyond the Gatekeeper State

Edited by Sara Rich Dorman

Series: ThirdWorlds

Beyond the Gatekeeper State explores the dynamic changes occurring within and between African states, and the international system since the turn of the century. The chapters explore the political implications of Africa’s new relations with the old super-powers, former colonial powers, and the emerging powers from the south. These new relationships reflect and affect changing technology, infrastructure and resource flows within and between African states. Drawing on both rich empirical cases and theoretical approaches, the book interrogates the implications of these changes on how we think about states and state systems.

Bringing Normativity into Critical Terrorism Studies

Edited by Alice Martini, Comillas Pontifical University, Spain

Series: Routledge Critical Terrorism Studies

The volume draws together authors with very different positions and understandings of normativity and policy-implementations in relation to countering terrorism, to offer the reader a wide range of perspectives and views on this topic. As such, the book is aimed at interrogating the concept of normativity in CTS from a wide range of theoretical angles but also at incorporating within the CTS’ agenda new debates and critiques.

Bioviolence

How the Powers That Be Make Us Do What They Want

William Watkin, Brunel University London, UK

This book explores and exposes the many aspects of contemporary biopower and bioviolence: neglect, exclusion, surveillance, regulation, encampment, trolling, fake news, terrorism and war. As it does so it demonstrates that the very term ‘violence’ is a discursive construct, an effect of language, made real by our behaviours, embodied by our institutions, and disseminated by our technologies. In short, bioviolence is how the contemporary powers that be make us do what they want. Reluctantly inter-disciplinary, this book is suitable for all scholars, students and general readers in the fields of IR, political theory, philosophy, the humanities, sociology and journalism.

British Fascism After the Holocaust

From the Birth of Denial to the Notting Hill Riots 1939–1958

Joe Mulhall, HOPE not hate, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in Fascism and the Far Right

This book explores the policies and ideologies of a number of individuals and groups that attempted to re-launch fascist, antisemitic, and racist politics in the wake of World War II and the Holocaust. This book treads new historical ground and shines a light onto the most understudied period of British fascism, a wide range of theoretical angles but also at incorporating within the CTS’ agenda new debates and critiques.

The chapters in this book were originally published in the journal, Critical Studies on Terrorism.

British Nuclear Mobilisation Since 1945
Social and Cultural Histories
Edited by Jonathan Hogg, University of Liverpool, UK and Kate Brown
This book explores aspects of the social and cultural history of nuclear Britain in the Cold War era (1945–1991) and contributes to a more multivalent exploration of the consequences of nuclear choices which are too often left unacknowledged by historians of post-war Britain. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Contemporary British History.

Capitalism in Crisis?
The European Periphery and Emerging Economies
Edited by Alexandra Vasileva-Dienes
The contributors analyse different responses to crises by the BRICs and countries of the Southern European periphery as well as respective dimensions of state-business interaction. The findings contribute to theorising varieties of capitalism beyond the OECD world and to developing a dynamic theory of capitalist change in the face of pressures from globalisation and economic crises. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Contemporary Politics.

2nd Edition
British Politics
The Basics
Bill Jones, Liverpool Hope University, UK
Series: The Basics
Fully updated and expanded, the second edition of this still compact text on British politics expertly analyses the major changes in British political life, placing them revealingly within the context of the evolution of British society from absolute monarchy to representative democracy. This readable and comprehensive introduction will be of key interest to A-level students, undergraduates and those new to the study of British politics.

Challenging Inequality in South Africa
Transitional Compasses
Edited by Michelle Williams and Vishwas Satgar
Series: Rethinking Globalizations
In Challenging Inequality in South Africa: Transitional Compasses leading scholars of South Africa explore creative possibilities to challenge structures of economic, social and political power that produce inequality. Through concrete empirical examples of movements, workers' struggles, initiatives, and politics in challenging inequality, the authors illustrate 'transitional compasses' that go beyond protest politics to a 'generative' politics, a politics of building the alternatives in the interstitial spaces of capitalism.

British Prime Ministers from Walpole to Salisbury: The 18th and 19th Centuries
Volume I
Dick Leonard
This book surveys the lives and careers of all the 32 Prime Ministers from Sir Robert Walpole (1721-42) to Archibald Philip Primrose, 5th Earl of Rosebery (1894-95) in 32 succinct, informative and entertaining chapters. Bringing to life the political achievements and personal idiosyncrasies of Britain's rulers, the author recounts the circumstances which took them to the pinnacle of British political life, probes their political and personal strengths and weaknesses, assesses their performance in office and asks what lasting influence they have had.

Challenging the Representation of Ethnically Divided Cities
Perspectives from Mostar
Edited by Giulia Carabelli, Aleksandra Djurasovic, HafenCity University Hamburg, Germany and Renata Summa
This book questions the existing overrepresentation of Mostar as an ethnically ‘divided city’. While acknowledging existence of internal borders, the chapters in this book assert that they are not solid nor fixed and, by exploring how they become material and immaterial, the book offers a deeper understanding of the city’s complex dynamics. Accordingly, the chapters in this book are attentive to how ethnic divides materialise or lose importance because of socio-political contingencies. The Chapters in this book were originally published in Space and Polity.
Changing Arms Control Norms in International Society

Kenki Adachi, Ritsumeikan University, Japan
Series: Routledge Advances in International Relations and Global Politics

When states’ survival is at stake, do states behave according to norms, do states refrain from using certain weapons based on norms against their use? Adachi presents an analytical framework for analysing norm dynamics, incorporating the existing literature and exploring the norm life cycle model to address contestation of, resistance to diffusion of, and disappearance of norms. He also examines the changing nature of international society, and how the evolving characteristics of this society change how norms are shared. A valuable contribution to the literature on norms in International Relations, of interest to scholars and students with an interest in the control of arms.

China in the Eyes of the Japanese

Wang Xiuli, Wang Wei and Liang Yunxiang
Series: China Perspectives

To deepen Japanese society’s understanding and comprehension of China, this book provides an analysis of the history of contact between China and Japan and surveys the present situation to understand the general views of Japanese society toward China. It examines ordinary and elite Japanese people’s views of Chinese culture, society, politics, the economy, media and Sino-Japanese relations. In addition, it analyzes the main causes of the formation of such views, and makes suggestions on promoting positive public opinions of China. This title will appeal to students and scholars of cultural studies, international relations and Asian studies.

Changing Bureaucracies

Adapting to Uncertainty, and How Evaluation Can Help

Edited by Burt Perrin and Tony Tyrrell
Series: Comparative Policy Evaluation

In this book, international experts provide an unparalleled look at how public sector bureaucracies can better adapt to the reality of unprecedented levels of uncertainty and complexity, and how they can better respond to the emerging needs and demands of citizens and beneficiaries. The contributors identify stability as a strength of bureaucratic structures, but emphasize that bureaucratic rules should be open to examination, through evaluation, which would aid bureaucratic adaptability and ensure relevance. Changing Bureaucracies is an important acquisition for public sector leaders, evaluators, evaluation managers and commissioners and academics alike.

China’s Grand Strategy Under Xi Jinping

How History Complicates Beijing’s Global Outreach

Niv Horesh
Series: Routledge Studies on Comparative Asian Politics

This book attempts to identify change and continuity in PRC grand strategy, and the extent to which Chinese imperial history complicates PRC global outreach in the Xi Jinping era. Interdisciplinary in its reach, analysing grand strategy through both rhetoric and praxis, this book unpacks the Chinese world view through critical examination of the latest history textbooks currently in use in PRC middle schools. It also brings new evidence to bear on the debate in the West about Chinese strategic culture. Finally, it compares historical Japanese OFDI patterns with China in order to understand what makes the Chinese economy unique.

China from a U.S. Policy Perspective

Eric J. Heikkila, University of Southern California (USC), USA

In this book, Eric J. Heikkila explores how the rise of China alters the context in which policies in the United States should be assessed. Here, the policy domain of the U.S. Government is divided into Economic Policies; Sustainability Policies; and Geopolitical Policies. Heikkila assesses the key policy issues and divided into Economic Policies; Sustainability Policies; and Geopolitical Policies. His book also assesses how they can better respond to the emerging needs and contestation of, resistance to diffusion of, and disappearance of norms. A valuable contribution to the literature on norms in International Relations, of interest to scholars and students with an interest in the control of arms.

China’s International Socialization of Political Elites in the Belt and Road Initiative

Theodor Tudoroiu and with Amanda R. Ramlogan

Series: Routledge Contemporary China Series

This book argues that China’s international socialization of the political elites of Belt and Road Initiative (BRI) partner states is an exceptionally effective instrument of China’s current foreign policy. It shows how the BRI-related process of socialization generates shared beliefs in the legitimacy and therefore in the acceptability of a Chinese international order among target elites and how in turn the policies and actions of states controlled by these elites tend to become aligned with the norms ‘taught’ by the Chinese socializer.

China’s Provincial Boundaries in the South China Sea

Jinming Li, Research center for Southeast Asian Studies at Xiamen University

Series: China Perspectives

Bringing together scholarship from History and International Law, this book provides a lens through which maritime territorial disputes in the South China Sea can be interrogated. Not only does it detail the historical and jurisprudential evidence that support maritime boundaries in the South China Sea for different stakeholders, but it also clarifies some misconceptions related to China’s nine-dash lines by referring to the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea. This book is an essential resource for researchers, teachers and students who specialize in Southeast Asian Studies, China maritime studies, and the international law of the sea.

Citizenship in a Globalised World

Christine Hobden, University of Fort Hare. South Africa

Series: Routledge Studies in Social and Political Thought

This book challenges us to re-evaluate and reorient our state-based conception of democratic citizenship in order to meaningfully account for the context in which it is lived: a globalised, deeply interconnected, and deeply unjust world. It explores how this conception of citizenship, with its attendant collective responsibility, can speak to citizens of today: those experiencing the costs of inequality and oppression; those living under semi- and newly democratic regimes; and those living as non-citizen residents. It encourages an active citizenship and presents innovative channels of participation, with discussions on civic education in the media and political consumerism.

Civil Society, Care Labour, and the Women, Peace and Security Agenda

Making 1325 Work

Caitlin Hamilton, University of New South Wales, Australia, Anuradha Mundkur, CARE Australia, Australia and Laura J. Shepherd, The University of Sydney, Australia

Series: Routledge Studies in Gender and Global Politics

This book proposes that work on the Women, Peace and Security agenda undertaken by civil society actors can be interpreted as a form of care labour that nourishes and sustains the agenda – without which the agenda could not succeed. The care labour of civil society is thus a condition of the Women, Peace and Security agenda’s success. This book will be of interest to scholars, policymakers and practitioners working on WPS specifically, and those working in Political Science, International Relations, Development Studies, and on the global governance of peace and security. It will also be relevant for students in WPS-focused programs and of peace and security studies more broadly.

Communication in Global Jihad

Jonathan Matusitz, University of Central Florida, USA

Series: Politics, Media and Political Communication

This book conceptually examines the role of communication in global jihad from multiple perspectives. The main premise is that communication is so vital to the Global Jihadist Movement (GJM) today that jihadists will use any communicative tool, tactic, or approach to impact or transform people and the public at large. The author explores how and why the benefits of communication are a huge boon to jihadist operations. Comparative Politics of Latin America

Democracy at Last?

Daniel C. Hellinger, Webster University, USA

This new edition brings Daniel C. Hellinger’s brilliantly succinct and accessible introduction to Latin America up to date for a new generation of educators. Hellinger provides a panoramic overview of the continent with comparative politics as the primary focus, explained through detailed case studies and thorough analysis. Country-specific narratives are integrated with concepts from comparative politics, while historical background provides students with ways to analyze how the past influences the present. Comparative Politics of Latin America is a thoughtful, ambitious, and thorough introductory textbook for students beginning Latin American Studies at undergraduate level.

Complaints to the Authorities in Russia

A Trap Between Tradition and Legal Modernization

Elena Bogdanova, Research Fellow at the Centre for Independent Social Research, Russia
Series: Studies in Contemporary Russia

This book considers the process of legal modernization in Russia from the perspective of the development of the mechanism of complaints addressed to the authorities from the pre-revolutionary period to today. It analyses wide-ranging data and sources, such as legislation, in-depth interviews, archival materials, original texts, and examples of different methods of complaints in the Soviet and contemporary Russia. Especially useful to scholars researching Soviet society and post-Soviet transformations, socio-legal studies, and liberal legal reforms. It will also appeal to those working in the broader fields of Russian Politics, the history of Soviet society and justice issues.

Configuring the Asian Infrastructure Investment Bank

Power, Interests and Status

Ian Tsung-Yen Chen, National Sun Yat-sen University, Taiwan
Series: Rethinking Asia and International Relations

Studying the Asian Infrastructure Investment Bank (AIIB) through the lens of international relations (IR) theory, Chen argues that it is inappropriate to treat the AIIB as either a revisionist or a complementary institution. This book presents critical insights for scholars and foreign-policy practitioners to understand China’s surging influence in international organizations and how China can shape the world order. It should prove of interest to students and scholars of IR, strategic studies, China Studies, Asian Studies, developmental studies, economics, and global finance.

Conflict Mobilisation or Problem-Solving?

Issue Competition in Western Europe

Edited by Lorenzo De Sio and Romain Lachat
Series: West European Politics

In the aftermath of disruptive electoral and political developments such as the Brexit referendum and the election of Donald Trump, six important European countries went to the polls between 2017 and 2018. This book presents the results of the Issue Competition Comparative Project (ICCP), which analysed these six elections through a focus on post-ideological issue competition, leveraging a fresh theoretical perspective—and innovative data collection and analysis methods—emerging from issue yield theory. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of West European Politics.

Conspiracy Narratives South of the Border

Bad Hombres Do the Twist

Gonzalo Soltero, National Autonomous University of Mexico, Mexico
Series: Conspiracy Theories

This book examines four conspiracy narratives from Mexico that push the boundaries of conspiracy research in a new direction. They include narratives about Lee Harvey Oswald’s visit to Mexico City, shortly before he apparently assassinated JFK, and street gangs across borders and how some of our worst fears are projected into them. This book will be of interest to researchers of conspiracy theories, crime and its representations, Mexican politics and society, and US-Latin American relations.

Crisis and Politicisation

The Framing and Re-framing of Europe’s Permanent Crisis

Edited by Benedetta Voltolini, King’s College London, UK, Michal Natorski and Colin Hay

Series: Journal of European Integration Special Issues

This book elucidates the link between the politics of a now seemingly permanent crisis in Europe and the politicisation of European integration. Looking at the epistemic dimension of crises, it suggests that the way in which a crisis is framed and contested determines its potential impact on the level of politicisation of European integration.

The chapters in this book were originally published as special issues of Journal of European Integration.

Crisis and Politicisation

The Framing and Re-framing of Europe’s Permanent Crisis

Edited by Benedetta Voltolini, King’s College London, UK, Michal Natorski and Colin Hay

Series: Journal of European Integration Special Issues

This book elucidates the link between the politics of a now seemingly permanent crisis in Europe and the politicisation of European integration. Looking at the epistemic dimension of crises, it suggests that the way in which a crisis is framed and contested determines its potential impact on the level of politicisation of European integration.

The chapters in this book were originally published as special issues of Journal of European Integration.

Democracy and Brazil
Edited by Bernardo Bianchi, Jorge Chaloub, Patricia Rangel and Frieder Otto Wolf
Series: Routledge Studies in Latin American Politics
This book discusses the de-democratization process underway in contemporary Brazil. A multidisciplinary group of eleven experts on Brazil discuss the ongoing political turmoil in the light of distinct national issues of geopolitics, gender, religion, media, indigenous populations, right-wing strategies and new forms of coup, among others. Updated analyses enriched with historical perspective help to illuminate the intricate issues that will determine the country’s fate in years to come. Democracy and Brazil: Collapse and Regression will interest students and scholars of Brazilian Politics and History, Latin America, and the broader fields of democracy studies.

Democracy and Fake News
Information Manipulation and Post-Truth Politics
Edited by Serena Giusti, Sant’Anna School of Advanced Studies, Italy and Elisa Piras, Sant’Anna School of Advanced Studies, Italy
Series: Politics, Media and Political Communication
This book explores the challenges that disinformation, fake news and post-truth politics pose to democracy from a multidisciplinary perspective. The authors analyse and interpret how the use of technology and social media as well as the emergence of new political narratives has been progressively changing the information landscape, undermining some of the pillars of democracy. This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of political science, law, political philosophy, journalism, media studies, and computer science, since it provides a multidisciplinary approach to the analysis of post-truth politics.

Democracy in the Disinformation Age
Influence and Activism in American Politics
Edited by Regina Luttrel, Syracuse University, USA, Lu Xiao, Syracuse University, USA and Jon Glass, Syracuse University, USA
In this book established researchers draw on a range of theoretical and empirical perspectives to examine social media’s impact on American politics. Chapters critically examine activism in the digital age, fake news, online influence, messaging tactics, news transparency and authentication, consumers’ digital habits and ultimately the societal impacts that continue to be created by combining social media and politics. Democracy in the Disinformation Age will appeal to both undergraduate and postgraduate students, as well as academics with an interest in areas including political science, media studies, mass communication, PR, and journalism.

Democracy, the Courts, and the Liberal State
A Comparative Analysis of American and German Constitutionalism
David Miles
Series: Routledge Innovations in Political Theory
Reformulating a problem of both constitutionalism and liberalism, David Miles argues that constitutionalism cannot be seen merely as an institutional mechanism to limit government, as it also has a crucial civic dimension upon which the liberal state depends. Through an analysis of judicial interventions in the United States and Germany, Miles explores the role of civil society actors in transforming constitutionalism through legal challenges to oligarchical or exclusionary practices. Democracy, the Courts, and the Liberal State will be of interest to scholars, students, and practitioners interested in comparative politics, political theory, and constitutional law and history.

3rd Edition
Democratic Latin America
Craig L. Arceneaux, California Polytechnic State University, San Luis Obispo, USA
The third edition of Democratic Latin America retains its classic institutional approach to understand contemporary Latin American politics. Each chapter focuses on a different institution and compares how they are constructed differently across countries. Placing a premium on accessibility, the chapters open with a story and end with a detailed country case study, making use of contemporary examples to feed student interest in current events, with comparison-based tables and box features interspersed throughout to stimulate analysis. Democratic Latin America continues to offer an original way of teaching and learning about Latin American politics.

Domestic Contestation of the European Union

Edited by Sara B. Hobolt and Toni Rodon
Series: Journal of European Public Policy Series
This book examines what drives public opinion towards some of the key Europe-wide issues of the day and how these EU issues shape electoral behaviour and party competition. It brings together leading scholars from different fields to explore what shapes preferences towards Europe-wide policy issues, how they influence electoral behaviour and party fortunes and what the implications are for the quality of European democracy.

Early Modern Political Petitioning and Public Engagement in Scotland, Britain and Scandinavia, c.1550–1795

Edited by Karin Bowie and Thomas Munck
A petition used to be a humble means of asking a favour, but in the early modern period, petitioning became more assertive and participative. This book shows how this contrasted to ordinary petitioning in Scotland, England and Denmark, often to the consternation of authorities. By evaluating petitioning practices in Scotland, England and Denmark, the book traces the boundaries between ordinary and adversarial petitioning and shows how non-elites could become involved in politics through petitioning.

Economic and Monetary Union at Twenty
A Stocktaking of a Tumultuous Second Decade

Edited by David Howarth, University of Luxembourg and Amy Verdun, University of Victoria, Canada
This book examines the two main asymmetries of the Euro Area as they have intensified during the second decade of Economic and Monetary Union (EMU): the first between monetary union (more supranational governance) versus ‘economic’ union (less centralised governance); the second between those Euro Area member states of the so-called ‘core’ and those of the ‘periphery’.

The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the Journal of European Integration.

Environmental Federalism

Old Legacies and New Challenges

Luke Fowler

In Environmental Federalism, Luke Fowler helps to refocus much needed attention on the role of state governments in environmental policy creation and implementation in the United States. Examining patterns of pollution and case studies, Fowler explores two questions: has environmental federalism worked in managing legacy environmental problems and can it work to manage climate change? In order to answer these questions, Fowler extends James Lester’s typology using political incentives and administrative capacities to identify four types of states, and assesses how they are linked to the success of federal environmental programs and conflicts in intergovernmental relations.

Europe and the Occupation of Palestinian Territories Since 1967
Edited by Federica Bicchi, London School of Economics, UK
This book looks at the perspective of international law, before analysing the European Union and key European countries (France, Germany, Norway, Sweden, United Kingdom). It also embraces different perspectives, from the debate on campus to the role of European multinational companies to the conceptual approach of the World Bank. While much of the literature focuses on Israel, Palestine and the United States, this volume by leading experts adds a very important piece to the puzzle: the European dimension.

The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the journal, Global Affairs.

Europeanization and Territorial Politics in Small European Unitary States
A Comparative Analysis
Edited by Sandrina Antunes and John Loughlin
The book addresses the impact of the European Union (EU) on subnational mobilization in small unitary states. By means of a comparative analysis of eight small unitary states in Europe, this book shows that the impact of the EU on subnational mobilization is filtered through domestic mediating factors which can lead to three possible outcomes: decentralization, recentralization or no change. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the journal, Regional & Federal Studies.

Existentialism, Authenticity, Solidarity
Stephen Eric Bronner
This original and provocative study explores the concept of “authenticity” and its relevance for radical politics. Weaving together readings of three 20th century thinkers: Martin Heidegger, Karl Jaspers and Jean-Paul Sartre, with the concept of authenticity, Stephen Eric Bronner illuminates the phenomenological foundations for self-awareness that underpin our sense of identity and solidarity. Wonderfully rich, insightful, and nuanced, Bronner has produced another bookshelf staple that speaks to crucial issues in politics, philosophy, psychology, and sociology. Existentialism, Authenticity, Solidarity will appeal to scholars, students and readers from the general public alike.

Exploring Base Politics
Edited by Shinji Kawana, Tokyo Institute of Technology, Japan and Minori Takahashi, Hokkaido University, Japan
Series: Routledge Advances in International Relations and Global Politics
By analysing cases from Japan, Greenland, Germany, Italy, Turkey, Saudi Arabia, South Korea, and Singapore, this book sheds light on the mechanisms of base politics that surround US overseas military bases. In times of war they project military power, and in times of peace they deter the emergence of general and latent threats. They are used to secure access to resources, and as a means of politically and economically influencing small and mid-size countries. Military bases allow the host many benefits of the US security umbrella, but can cause internal problems. Beyond bringing America strategic and security benefits, they influence power relations in the entire world.

Exploring Organized Interests in Post-Communist Policy-Making

The "Missing Link"
Edited by Michael Dobbins, University of Konstanz, Germany and Rafał Riedel, Opole University, Poland
Series: Routledge Research in Comparative Politics
This book examines organized interests in post-communist Central and Eastern Europe (CEE), providing incisive analyses in three critically important policy areas - healthcare, higher education and energy. This book will be of key interest to researchers and students of Central and Eastern European politics, interest groups and lobbying, post-communism, transition and consolidation studies, and more broadly to European studies/politics.

Facts & Norms
Edited by Theresa Scavenius, University of Copenhagen, Denmark and Kasper Lippert-Rasmussen, Aarhus University, Denmark
What role should (non-normative) facts such as people’s confined generosity and scarcity of resources play in the normative theorising of political philosophers? The chapters in this book investigate different aspects of this broad question.
The chapters in this book were originally published in the journal, Critical Review of International Social and Political Philosophy.

Fascism, Nazism and the Holocaust
Challenging Histories
Dan Stone, Royal Holloway University of London, UK
Series: Routledge Studies in Fascism and the Far Right
This book contains essays by distinguished scholar Professor Dan Stone on Fascism, Nazism and the Holocaust. Though mainly focused on Nazi Germany, it also makes comparisons with other fascist movements and regimes in Romania and elsewhere. This book will be of great interest to scholars and students of antisemitism, fascism, Nazism, World War II, genocide studies and the Holocaust.

Federalism as a Tool of Conflict Resolution
Edited by Soeren Keil, Canterbury Christ Church University, UK and Elisabeth Alber
Looking at the growing use of federalism and decentralization as tools of conflict resolution, this book provides evidence from several case studies on the opportunities and challenges that territorial solutions offer when addressing internal conflicts within a variety of countries.
The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Ethnopolitics.

Feminist Interventions in Critical Peace and Conflict Studies
Edited by Laura McLeod, University of Manchester, UK and Maria O’Reilly
This book provides a feminist intervention in Peace & Conflict Studies. It demonstrates why feminist approaches matter to theories and practices of resolving conflict and building peace and highlights the value of feminist analysis to contemporary Peace and Conflict Studies.
The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Peacebuilding.
Financial Accountability in the European Union
Institutions, Policy and Practice
Edited by Paul Stephenson, Maastricht University, The Netherlands, María-Luisa Sánchez-Barrueco, University of Deusto, Spain and Hartmut Aden, Hochschule für Wirtschaft und Recht Berlin, Germany
Series: Routledge/UACES Contemporary European Studies
This book offers comprehensive coverage of various aspects of financial accountability around the EU budget – how it is spent via policies, how institutions engage in checking policy performance (what taxpayers’ money actually delivers), and therein, the issues of monitoring, controlling, auditing, scrutinising and communicating budgetary expenditure. This book will be of key interest to scholars and students of audit and evaluation, budgetary spending and financial control, and more broadly, public administration, public policy and EU institutions and politics.

Forging Transnational Belonging through Informal Trade
Thriving Markets in Times of Crisis
Sandra King-Savic, University of St Gallen, Switzerland
Series: Southeast European Studies
Analyzing informal trading practices and smuggling through the case study of Novi Pazar, this book explores how societies cope when governments no longer assume the responsibility for providing welfare to their citizens. Demonstrating the interactive nature of relations between the state, local and émigré communities, this book will be of interest to scholars and students interested in Southeastern Europe or the Yugoslav Succession Wars of the 1990s, as well as social anthropologists who are working on social relations and deviant behaviour.

This book will be of interest to students and scholars of African politics and international relations as well as the politics of post-genocide states.

Free Trade Agreements and Global Labour Governance
The European Union’s Trade-Labour Linkage in a Value Chain World
Adrian Smith, Queen Mary University of London, UK, James Harrison, University of Warwick, UK, Liam Campling, Queen Mary University of London, UK, Ben Richardson, University of Warwick, UK and Mirela Barbu, University of Sussex, UK
Series: RIPE Series in Global Political Economy
Exploiting the contentious relationship between trade and labour, this book looks at the impact of the EU’s new generation of free trade agreements on workers. Drawing upon extensive original research, including over 200 interviews with key actors across the EU and its trading partners, it considers the effectiveness of the trade-labour linkage in an era of global value chains. This book will appeal to research scholars, postgraduate students, trade policy practitioners, policy researchers allied to labour movements, and informed activists.

Freedom of Navigation and the Law of the Sea

Warships, States and the Use of Force

Cameron Moore

Series: Routledge Research on the Law of the Sea

There has been a recent increase in clashes between warships asserting rights to navigate and states asserting sovereignty over coastal waters. This book argues for a set of rules which respect the rights of coastal states to protect their sovereignty, and of warships to navigate lawfully, whilst also outlining the limits of each. Providing a concise overview of the enduring issue of freedom of navigation, this book will appeal to anyone studying International Law, the Law of the Sea, Security Studies and International Relations. It will also be of interest to naval, coast guard and military officers, as well as government legal advisors.

Geopolitics of the Pakistan–Afghanistan Borderland

Edited by Syed Sami Raza, University of Peshawar, Pakistan and Michael J. Shapiro

This book presents an overview of the geopolitics of the Pakistan-Afghanistan borderland and approaches the topic from different methods and perspectives. It focuses on some of the least debated dimensions of this borderland, for instance, the status of women in the tribal-border culture, the legal status of aliens in the making of the border, material and immaterial manifestations of the border, political aesthetics of the border, and the identity crisis on the border. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the journal, Geopolitics.

Fundamental Feminism

Radical Feminist History for the Future

Judith Grant

In Fundamental Feminism, Judith Grant explores the evolution of feminist theory as well as the state of today's feminist thought. Pointing to the main problems within feminism, Grant calls for a substantial revision of the core concepts responsible for shaping today's feminist theory. Grant identifies and critiques three core concepts in feminist theory – “woman,” “experience,” and “personal politics” – from their origins in pamphlets and writings in the early women's liberation movement to their current construction in feminist thought.

Global Equity in Administration
Nervous Areas of Governments

Edited by Susan T. Gooden

Governments around the world face the challenge of espousing principles of fairness but practicing inequity in their administration. This volume explores and expands our understanding of the concept of nervousness in the administration of government services around the world, demonstrating the ways in which such an emotional and physical reaction can debilitate government actions that are needed to promote social equity and justice. Each of the chapters in this edited volume focuses on a single country and examines a specific nervous area of government, highlighting important historical and political considerations, as well as specific evidence of promising progress.

Identity, Culture, and Chinese Foreign Policy
THAAD and China’s South Korea Policy

Kangkyu Lee

Series: Routledge Studies on Think Asia

This book assesses the role of identity and Chinese face culture in Chinese foreign policy by analysing China’s political and economic retaliation against South Korea’s deployment of the THAAD (Terminal High Altitude Area Defense) system on its soil. By examining the history and military action of China, Japan, and North and South Korea, the book argues that China’s divergent responses were caused by different expectations according to whether states had a perceived identity as a friend or a rival.

Imbalance
Germany’s Political Economy after the Social Democratic Century

Edited by Tobias Schulze-Cleven and Sidney A. Rothstein

Documenting large-scale changes and new tensions in the welfare state, company strategies, interest intermediation, and macro-economic governance, the volume makes the case for analysing contemporary Germany through the politics of imbalance rather than the longstanding paradigm of institutional stability. This conceptual reorientation around inequalities and disparities provides much-needed traction for clarifying the causal dynamics that govern ongoing processes of institutional reconfiguration.

Individuality and Ideology in British Object Relations Theory

Gal Gerson, University of Haifa, Israel

Series: Psychoanalytic Political Theory

Following the work of prominent object relations theorists like Bowlby, Fairbairn, Sutte and Winnicott, Gal Gerson explores the correlation between analytical theory and intellectual environment in two ways. First, he interprets the Object Relations Model as a political theory that completes a certain internal development within liberalism. He later outlines the relationship between the analytical theory and the historical setting where it formed and took root. Proposing a novel rethinking of human nature, Gerson provides a much-needed insight into how this school of psychoanalytic theory has impacted contemporary social and political life.

International Relations Theory

A Critical Introduction

Cynthia Weber, University of Sussex, UK.

The fifth edition of this innovative textbook introduces students to the main theories in International Relations. It explains and analyses each theory, allowing students to understand and critically engage with the myths and assumptions behind them. Each theory is illustrated using the example of a popular film. This breakthrough textbook has been designed to unravel the complexities of international relations theory in a way that gives students a clearer idea of how the theories work, and of the myths associated with them.

Interpreting Racial Politics in the United States

Ronald Schmidt, Sr.

This book argues that it is time for political scientists studying race to engage the issues that generate its political significance. Drawing on the work of interpretive political scholars, Ron Schmidt, Sr. addresses core questions regarding racial politics in the US to demonstrate the value of using interpretive methods to better understand the meaning and significance of political actions, structures, and conflicts involving racial identities—not instead of behavioral research but as a necessary addition. Interpreting Racial Politics in the United States will greatly enhance the evolving conversations concerning race and inequality within the US.

Intimate Relationships Across Borders

Edited by Julia Moses and Julia Woesthoff

This collection investigates intermarriage and related relationships around the world since the eighteenth century. The contributors explore how romantic relationships challenge boundary crossings of various kinds—social, geographic, religious, ethnic. To this end, the volume considers a range of related issues: Who participated in these unions? How common were they, and in which circumstances were they practised (or banned)? Taking a global view, the book also questions some of the categories behind these relationships. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of The History of the Family.

Intra-Africa Migrations

Edited by Inocent Moyo, Jussi P. Laine and Christopher Changwe Nshimbi

Series: Border Regions Series

This book discusses regional and continental integration in Africa by examining the management of migration across the continent. It examines borders and securitisation of migration and the challenges and opportunities that arise out of reconfigured continental demographics. With multidisciplinary contributions that provide an in-depth understanding of intra-Africa migrations and strategies for enhanced migration management, this book will be a useful resource for scholars and students studying geography, politics, security studies, development studies, African studies and sociology.

Introduction to International Migration
Population Movements in the 21st Century
Edited by Jeanette Money and Sarah P. Lockhart
Introduction to International Migration. Population Movements in the 21st Century engages the multiple dimensions of international migration research through a synthetic and comprehensible overview of the field, with global geographic coverage. The text provides basic knowledge for undergraduate students and serves as a springboard for graduate student research agendas. The chapter contributors are prominent women migration scholars detailing research in their respective areas of expertise.

Is the European Union Capable of Integrating Diverse Models of Capitalism?
Edited by Alison Johnston and Aidan Regan
This volume adds a comparative capitalism perspective to EU integration scholarship in order to demonstrate that ever-closer union is not capable of accommodating diversity in national economic institutions. Chapters in this volume provide an innovative framework for understanding what factors related to European integration impede the economic and political integration of diverse European market economies. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of New Political Economy.

Islam, Liberalism, and Ontology
A Critical Re-evaluation
Joseph J. Kaminski, International University of Sarajevo, Bosnia and Herzegovina
This book offers comparative ontologies of both Islam and liberalism as discourses more broadly construed. The author argues that, despite recent efforts to speak of overlapping consensuses and discursive congruence, the fundamental categories that constitute ‘Islam’ and ‘Liberalism’ remain very different, and that these differences should be taken seriously. This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of Politics and International Relations, Islam, Liberalism, and Communitarianism.

Israeli Development Aid to Sub-Saharan Africa
Soft Power and Foreign Policy
Karolina Zieleńska
Series: Foreign Policy Analysis
This book deals with Israeli development aid to Sub-Saharan Africa countries as a part of Israeli foreign policy. The analysis is framed by the concept of soft power: an assumption that development cooperation increases attractiveness of the donor and contributes to constructive bilateral and multilateral relations. Contributing to the knowledge of development diplomacy as a form of expression of soft power and as a tool of foreign policy, it will be of interest to international relations’ students and faculty as well as to other people professionally dealing with Israeli foreign policies.

Language, Democracy, and the Paradox of Constituent Power
Declarations of Independence in Comparative Perspective
Catherine Frost, McMaster University, Canada
Beginning with the founding speech in the American Declaration, Frost uses insights drawn from unexpected or unlikely forms of founding in cases like Ireland and Canada to reconsider the role of time and loss in how such speech is framed. She brings the discussion up to date by looking at recent debates in Scotland. Drawing on the work of Hannah Arendt and using a contextualist, comparative theory method, Frost demonstrates that the capacity for renewal through speech arises in aspects of language that operate beyond conventional performativity. This book is an excellent resource for researchers and students of political theory, democratic theory, law and constitutionalism.

Latinas and the Politics of Urban Spaces
Edited by Sharon A. Navarro and Lilliana Saldaña
Series: Race, Ethnicity, and Gender in Politics and Policy
This book illuminates the ways in which Chicanas, Puerto Rican women, and other Latinas organize and lead social movements in major cities of the continental U.S. and Puerto Rico. It shows how they challenge racism, sexism, homophobia, and anti-immigrant policies through their political praxis and spiritual activism. Drawing from a range of perspectives, academic and activist authors offer unique insights into environmental justice, conflict resolution, women’s rights, LGBTQ coalition-building, and more—through a distinctive Latina lens. Designed for use in a wide range of college courses, the book is also aimed at practitioners, community organizers, and grassroots leaders.
Legislative Deliberative Democracy
Debating Acts Restricting Freedom of Speech during War

Avichai Levit
Series: Routledge Innovations in Political Theory

Avichai Levit argues that the degree of democratic legitimacy of laws that restrict freedom of speech during war, depends on the extent of legislative deliberation on such laws. Using the United States as a case study, this book goes into the details of congressional deliberation during World War I, World War II and the Cold War, as well as the political histories that brought about such laws. Levit presents an alternative normative account of deliberative democracy. Legislative Deliberative Democracy will be of interest to academics and students alike in the fields of American Constitutional law, Political theory, American politics and political history.

Liberal Progressivism
Politics and Class in the Age of Neoliberalism and Climate Change

Gordon Hak, Vancouver Island University, Canada
Series: Routledge Innovations in Political Theory

In Liberal Progressivism, Gordon Hak makes the case for the value of theory and philosophy in understanding the day-to-day political realm of elections, politicians, scandals, fund-raising, and law-making. Framed as a debate between liberal progressivism and the Marxist-informed left, and between liberal progressives and the non-university-educated working class, an informant named “Gord” acts as a guide into the world of these debates, through his personal experiences. Celebrating political theory and interconnecting the worlds of politics, philosophy, anthropology, sociology, history, and epistemology, this book deserves to be widely read by students, scholars and activists.

Liberty
Ancient Ideas and Modern Perspectives

Edited by Valeria Arena

Liberty: Ancient Ideas and Modern Perspectives is the first study of the ancient notions of liberty in the interconnected societies of the Ancient Near East, Greece, Rome, and Byzantium and how they relate to modern political theory. It gathers the work of historians of antiquity, whose specialisms are geographically and temporally diverse, together with political theorists and legal and political philosophers interested in conceptions of liberty. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the journal, History of European Ideas.

Long Term Perspectives in Evaluation
Increasing Relevance and Utility

Edited by Kim Forss, Andante – tools for thinking AB, Sweden, Ida Lindkvist, Norwegian Agency for Development Cooperation (Norad), Norway and Mark McGillivray, Deakin University, Australia
Series: Comparative Policy Evaluation

This book is the first to advocate the virtues of a long-term perspective for policy evaluation as well as to show how evaluations can take a longer time perspective than they usually do. Cases discussed include: education sector reforms in Sweden, local governance reforms in Denmark, policy interventions in southern Italy and Brazil and Paris declaration principles of aid effectiveness such as Swedish aid to Tanzania, Vietnam, Laos and Sri Lanka. Divided into three parts, and bringing together a rich collection of insights and a renowned group of experts, Long Term Perspectives in Evaluation: Increasing Relevance and Utility, constitutes a significant perspective in the field.

Making Cultures of Solidarity
London and the 1984–5 Miners’ Strike

Diarmuid Kelliher, University of Glasgow, UK
Series: Routledge Studies in Radical History and Politics

This book combines radical history, critical geography, and political theory in an innovative history of the solidarity campaign in London during the 1984-5 miners’ strike. It argues that a culture of solidarity was developed through industrial and political struggles that brought together diverse activists from mining communities and London. This rich history provides a compelling example of how solidarity can cross geographical and social boundaries. This book is essential reading for students, scholars, and activists with an interest in left-wing politics and history.

Lost Imperium
Far Right Visions of the British Empire, c.1920–1980

Paul Stocker, University of Northampton, UK
Series: Routledge Studies in Fascism and the Far Right

This book examines, for the first time, the role of Britain’s Empire in far-right thought between 1920 and 1980. Throughout these turbulent decades, upheaval in the Empire combined with declining British world power was frequently discussed and reflected upon in far-right publications, as were radical policies such as Swedish aid to Tanzania, Vietnam, Laos, and Sri Lanka. Divided into three parts, and bringing together a rich collection of insights and a renowned group of experts, Lost Imperium: Far Right Visions of the British Empire, c.1920–1980, constitutes a significant perspective in the field.

Managing Diversity In Public Sector Workforces

Norma M. Riccucci
Public and private sector workforces in the U.S. look very different today than they did even 25 years ago. The changes are having a significant effect on how organizations manage their workforces. The old styles of managing heterogeneous workforces are proving to be ineffective, and so management strategies aimed at embracing diversity and inclusion are essential. Managing Diversity in Public Sector Workforces, Second Edition examines demographic changes to the U.S. labor force and workplace and the ways in which government employers are managing the diverse populations that now fill public sector jobs.

Multifaceted Nationalism and Illiberal Momentum at Europe’s Eastern Margins
Edited by Andrey Makarychev, University of Tartu, Estonia
Based on critical engagements with the extant scholarship in comparative politics, political philosophy, international relations, regional studies and critical geopolitics, this collection of chapters offers the interpretation of the contemporary populism as illiberal nationalism, and underscores its deeply political challenge to the post-political core of the EU project.
The chapters in this book were originally published in European Politics and Society and the Journal of Contemporary European Studies.

Neuroticism and Cyberpunk Science Fiction
Living on the Edge of Burnout
Caroline Alphin, Radford University, USA
Caroline Alphin presents an original exploration of biopolitics by examining it through the lens of cyberpunk science fiction. Comprised of five chapters, Neuroticism and Cyberpunk Science Fiction is guided by four central themes: biopolitics, intensification, resilience, and accelerationism. This book is an invaluable resource for those interested in security studies, political sociology, biopolitics, critical IR theory, political theory, cultural studies, and literary theory.

Negotiating Universalism in India and Latin America
Fiscal Decentralization, Subnational Politics and Social Outcomes
Edited by Andres Mejia-Acosta and Louise Tillin
This book explores how vertical inter-governmental political and fiscal bargains and horizontal variation in political, social and economic conditions across regions contribute to or undermine the provision of inclusive and sustainable social policies at the subnational level in Latin America and India.
The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Regional & Federal Studies.

Multiplicity
A New Common Ground for International Relations?
Edited by Justin Rosenberg and Milja Kurki
Series: Rethinking Globalizations
This volume takes up the idea of ‘multiplicity’ as a new common ground for international theory, bringing together 10 scholars to reflect on the implications of societal multiplicity for areas as diverse as nationalism, ecology, architecture, monetary systems, cosmology and the history of political ideas.
The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Globalizations.

Neutrality and Vulnerable States
An Analysis of Afghanistan’s Permanent Neutrality
Nasir Ahmad Andisha
This book offers a timely and concise academic and historical background to the concept and practice of neutrality, a relatively new phenomenon in foreign and security policy. The author approaches two key questions: under what circumstances can permanent neutrality be applied and, what are the main ingredients of success and the causes of failure, in applying permanent neutrality? An insightful book for all scholars, students and policy-makers working in International Relations, Security Studies, the history of neutrality and Afghanistan studies.

On Biopolitics
An Inquiry into Nature and Language
Marco Piasentier, University of Kent, Centre for Critical Thought
Series: Routledge Innovations in Political Theory
In On Biopolitics, Marco Piasentier discusses one of the most persistent questions in biopolitical theory: the divide between nature and language. Taking his cue from Foucault's exhortation to think philologically and biologically, Piasentier makes biopolitical theory the center of gravity for an investation that traverses the main theoretical and methodological frameworks which have informed the biopolitical debate on nature and language. Piasentier puts into question the command of language and the ends of nature: two vestiges of a ‘human, all too human’ worldview that preclude the possibility of thinking philologically and biologically about biopolitics.

No Free Speech for Fascists
Exploring ‘No Platform’ in History, Law and Politics
David Renton, Independent Scholar, UK
Series: Routledge Studies in Fascism and the Far Right
No Free Speech for Fascists explores the choice of anti-fascist protesters to demand that the opportunities for fascists to speak in public places is rescinded, as a question of history, law, and politics. It explains how the demand to No Platform fascists emerged in 1970s Britain, as a limited exception to a left-wing tradition of support for free speech. This book will be of interest to activists and to those studying and researching political history, law, free speech, the far right, and anti-fascism. It sets out a philosophy of anti-fascism for a social media age.

Parliamentary Candidates Between Voters and Parties

A Comparative Perspective

Edited by Lieven De Winter, ISPOLE, Belgium, Rune Karlsen, University of Oslo, Norway and Hermann Schmitt, University of Mannheim, Germany

Series: Routledge Research on Social and Political Elites

This book offers the first comprehensive, comparative and coherent perspective on parliamentary candidates in contemporary representative democracy. This book will be of key interest to scholars and students of political parties and party politics, political elites, political communication, political participation, elections, theories of democracy and representation, legislative studies, voting behaviour and more broadly to European politics, as well as to political and policy professionals throughout Europe.

Parliaments and Post-Legislative Scrutiny

Edited by Franklin de Vrieze and Philip Norton

Series: Library of Legislative Studies

This book offers an in-depth look at how particular countries and the European Union conduct Post-Legislative Scrutiny. The analysis puts Post-Legislative Scrutiny in the context of parliamentary oversight and parliaments’ engagement in the legislative cycle. This book is the result of the co-operation between the Centre for Legislative Studies at the University of Hull and the Westminster Foundation for Democracy. The chapters were originally published as a special issue of The Journal of Legislative Studies.

Party Systems and Foreign Policy Change in Liberal Democracies

Cleavages, Ideas, Competition

Edited by Angelos Chryssogoles, Kings College London, UK.

Series: Routledge Studies in Foreign Policy Analysis

How do political parties affect foreign policy? This book answers this question by exploring the role of party politics as source of foreign policy change in liberal democracies. With a novel framework which bridges concepts of international relations and comparative politics, the book will be of interest to researchers and students in the areas of international relations theory, foreign policy analysis and comparative politics, and generally to anyone wanting to understand how and when parties, elections and voters contribute to international change.

Peace and Rural Development in Colombia

The Window for Distributive Change in Negotiated Transitions

Andrés García Trujillo

Series: Routledge Studies in Latin American Politics

This book presents an innovative model linking insights from conflict analysis, qualitative research and political economy to negotiate rural distributive changes. García Trujillo shows that the peace agreement in Colombia opened an exceptional window for addressing rural inequality yet this change was severely constrained by opposing actors within and outside the government. The original theoretical framework and empirically rich analysis make this book an indispensable read to scholars and practitioners who wish to gain an understanding on the political economy of peace-making, policy change and rural development in Colombia and beyond.

Personalist Rule in Africa and Other World Regions

Dummy text to keep placeholder

18th Edition

Party Politics in America

Marjorie Randon Hershey

Considered the "gold standard" of political parties texts, this new, eighteenth edition of Party Politics in America moves its comprehensive and authoritative coverage into the age of deepened partisan conflict, expanded presidential power, and global health threats. Marjorie Hershey builds on the book's three-pronged coverage of party organization, party in the electorate, and party in government and integrates important developments in racial politics, social media use, and battles over access to the vote. The book uses contemporary examples to bring to life the fascinating story of how parties shape our political system.

Personalist Rule in Africa and Other World Regions

Jeroen J.J. Van den Bosch, Adam Mickiewicz University, Poland.

Series: Routledge Studies in African Politics and International Relations

This book presents an innovative model linking insights from democratization, development and conflict studies to explain personalist behavior and their violent transitions. It will be of key interest to scholars and students of African politics, democratization and democratic consolidation, authoritarian rule and more broadly to political science, comparative politics, area studies, political leadership, peace and conflict studies and development studies.

Peace and Rural Development in Colombia

Andrés García Trujillo

Series: Routledge Studies in Latin American Politics

In Peace and Rural Development in Colombia Andres García Trujillo investigates whether peace agreements geared towards terminating internal armed conflicts trigger rural distributive changes. García Trujillo shows that the peace agreement in Colombia opened an exceptional window for addressing rural inequality yet this change was severely constrained by opposing actors within and outside the government. The original theoretical framework and empirically rich analysis make this book an indispensable read to scholars and practitioners who wish to gain an understanding on the political economy of peace-making, policy change and rural development in Colombia and beyond.

Party Systems and Foreign Policy Change in Liberal Democracies

Cleavages, Ideas, Competition

Edited by Angelos Chryssogoles, Kings College London, UK.

Series: Routledge Studies in Foreign Policy Analysis

How do political parties affect foreign policy? This book answers this question by exploring the role of party politics as source of foreign policy change in liberal democracies. With a novel framework which bridges concepts of international relations and comparative politics, the book will be of interest to researchers and students in the areas of international relations theory, foreign policy analysis and comparative politics, and generally to anyone wanting to understand how and when parties, elections and voters contribute to international change.

Political Advocacy and American Politics
Why People Fight So Often About Politics
Sean Richey, Georgia State University, USA and J. Benjamin Taylor
Ideal for university students and researchers, yet also accessible to any reader looking to learn about the role language plays in the formation of political thought. Using original qualitative survey and experimental studies, this book demonstrates the causes of political advocacy in the political environment and at the individual level. Sean Richey and Benjamin Taylor argue political talk, where conflict is common, is caused by high-activity democratic processes and normatively beneficial individual attributes. The authors also claim that advocacy—when conceptualized as a democratic “release valve”—is exactly the kind of conflict we might expect in a vibrant democracy.

5th Edition

Political Thinking, Political Theory, and Civil Society

Steven M. Delue, Miami University of Ohio, USA and Timothy M. Dale

This new edition of Political Thinking, Political Theory, and Civil Society presents a comprehensive overview of the Western tradition of political thought that approaches concepts with the aim of helping readers develop their own political thinking and critical thinking skills. This text is uniquely organized around the theme of civil society - what is the nature of a civil society? Why is it important? - that will engage students and help make the material relevant. Major thinkers discussed in the text are explored not only with the goal of understanding their views, but also with an interest in understanding the relationship of their ideas to the notion of a civil society.

Politics as a Science

A Prolegomenon

Philippe C. Schmitter, European University Institute, Italy and Marc Blecher, Oberlin College and Conservatory, USA

Series: Conceptualising Comparative Politics

In Politics as a Science, two of the world’s leading authorities on Comparative Politics, Philippe C. Schmitter and Marc Blecher, provide a lively introduction to the concepts and framework to study and analyze politics. Schmitter and Blecher keep the text broadly conceptual and theoretical to convey their vision of the sprawling subject of politics. They map the process in which researchers try to specify the goal of the trip, some of the landmarks likely to be encountered en route, and the boundaries that will circumscribe the effort. This book is an ideal introduction for anyone interested in, or studying, Comparative Politics.

Populism in Global Perspective

A Performative and Discursive Approach

Edited by Pierre Ostiguy, Pierre Ostiguy, Professor, University of Valparaiso, Chile, Francisco Panizza, London School of Economics and Political Science (LSE), UK and Benjamin Moffitt, Australian Catholic University, Melbourne

Series: Conceptualising Comparative Politics

Populism in Global Perspective is a seminal addition to the literature on arguably the most controversial and fervently discussed topic in political science today. Contributors argue that populist identification is relational and sociocultural, and demonstrate the importance of studying populism phenomenologically together with anti-populism. The truly global perspective these case studies afford will make this book a must-read for comparatists, political theorists, sociologists, area studies specialists, and all educated readers interested in populism.

Populism and New Patterns of Political Competition in Western Europe

Edited by Daniele Albertazzi, University of Birmingham, UK and Davide Vampa, Aston University, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in Extremism and Democracy

This book analyses how party competition has adjusted to the success of populism in Western Europe, whether this is non-populist dealing with their populist competitors, or populists interacting with each other. The volume focuses on Western Europe in the period 2007–2018 and considers both right-wing and left-wing populist parties. This wide-ranging study will appeal to students and scholars of political science interested in populism and political competition; and will appeal to policy makers and politicians from across the political spectrum.

Pop-Up Civics in 21st Century America

Understanding the Political Potential of Placemaking

Ryan Salzman, Northern Kentucky University, USA

Series: Routledge Research in American Politics and Governance

Ryan Salzman examines the political potential of placemaking, an increasingly popular set of behaviors that were unfamiliar to the American public until the last two decades. Informed by interviews, surveys, and material review, Salzman compares the process of placemaking to traditional political and associational behaviors, providing evidence that placemaking has tremendous potential. This text acquires a unique understanding of placemaking, updating the way we think about civic and political engagement in the 21st century, and will be of interest to those who study and research political behavior, civil society, arts and politics, social movements, and urban public policy.

Post-Apartheid Same-Sex Sexualities

Restless Identities in Literary and Visual Culture

Andy Carolin, University of Johannesburg, South Africa

Series: Gender in a Global/Local World

This book examines how same-sex sexualities are represented in several post-apartheid South African cultural texts, drawing on a rich local archive of same-sex sexualities that includes recent fiction, drama, film, photography, and popular print culture. This interdisciplinary book offers a conceptual entry point to several areas of study, including transnationalism, literary and cultural studies, critical race theory, gender and sexuality studies, and African studies, and will be of interest to students and researchers across these fields.
Power, Philosophy and Egalitarianism
Women, the Family and African Americans
Robert C. Smith
Series: Routledge Series on Identity Politics
In this book, Robert C. Smith presents a philosophical and empirical examination on the subordination of women and blacks in the United States. Comparing liberalism – specifically the major social contract philosophies – and Marxism on the nature of the subordination of blacks and women and their proposals, if any, for women’s and black liberation, Smith argues that sexual and racial egalitarianism in the United States is about politics and power. Power, Philosophy and Egalitarianism is essential read for all those interested in race, women and politics today.

Protecting the Global Civilian from Violence
UN Discourses and Practices in Fragile States
Timo Kivimäki, University of Bath, UK
Series: Global Politics and the Responsibility to Protect
This book reveals why the UN is more successful than unilateral great powers in protecting civilians from violence, and focuses on the discourse, development and consequences of UN peacekeeping. Analysing statistics of state fragility and fatalities of violence, it reveals that the UN has managed to save tens of thousands of lives with its peacekeeping: a surprising statistic given the media consensus about the UN’s powerlessness and ineffectiveness. This book will be of much interest to students of humanitarian intervention, peacekeeping, human rights and International Relations in general.

Public Sector Strategy Design
Theory and Practice for Government and Nonprofit Organizations
David E. McNabb and Chung-Shing Lee
In this book, authors David McNabb and Chung-Shing Lee examine five frameworks public sector organization managers have followed when designing public sector strategies. Its purpose is to serve as a guide for managers and administrators of large and small public organizations and agencies. Including chapters on game theory, competitive forces, resources-based view, dynamic capabilities, and network governance, the authors demonstrate ways that real managers of public sector and civil society organization have put strategic management to work in their organizations. This book will be of interest to both practicing and aspiring public servants.

Questioning the Utopian Springs of Market Economy
Edited by Damien Cahill, Martijn Konings and Adam David Morton
Series: Rethinking Globalizations
Revisiting the magnetic poles of Karl Polanyi and Friedrich Hayek on the utopian springs of political economy, this book seeks to provide a compass for questioning the market economy of the twenty-first century. It promises to deliver a set of essays by leading commentators relevant to twenty-first century political economy debates relevant to the present conjuncture of neoliberalism.

Race, Ethnicity and Religion in Conflict Across Asia
Kunal Mukherjee, Lancaster University, UK
Series: Religion and International Security
This book looks at conflict zones in the Asia Pacific with a special focus on secessionist groups/movements in the Indian Northeast, Tibet, Chinese Xinjiang, the Burmese borderlands, Kashmir in South Asia, CHT in Bangladesh, South Thailand, and Aceh in Indonesia. It will be of great interest to students and scholars of conflict and security in contemporary Asia with a background in politics, history, IR, security studies, religion, and sociology.

Raced Markets
Edited by Lisa Tilley and Robbie Shilliam
By way of corrective, this book draws together scholarship on the material function of race at various scales in the global political economy. The collective provocation of the contributors to this volume is that race has been integral to the formation of capitalism – as extensively laid out by the racial capitalism literature – and takes on new forms in the novel market spaces of neoliberalism.

Radical Right Populism in Germany

Ralf Havertz, Keimyung University, South Korea
Series: Routledge Studies in Fascism and the Far Right
This book provides a comprehensive analysis of radical right populism in Germany. It gives an overview of historical developments of the phenomenon and its current appearance. It examines three of the main far-right organisations in Germany: the radical right populist party AfD (Alternative for Germany), Pegida (Patriotic Europeans against the Islamification of the Occident), and the Identitarian Movement. This much-needed volume will be of particular interest to students and researchers of German politics, populism, social movements, party politics, and right-wing extremism.

Radicalization in Pakistan

A Critical Perspective

Edited by Muhammad Shoaib Pervez
Series: Routledge Advances in South Asian Studies
This book offers a critical analysis of radicalization in Pakistan by deconstructing the global and the official state narratives designed to restrain Pakistani radicalization. Chapters are centered around three distinct themes: educational norms, religious practices and geo-political aspects of radicalization to examine the prevalent state and global practices which propagate Pakistani radicalization discourse.

Regional Economic Communities and Peacebuilding in Africa

Lessons from ECOWAS and IGAD

Edited by Victor Adetula, Nordic Africa Institute, Sweden, Redie Bereketeb, Nordic Africa Institute, Sweden and Cyril Obi, Social Science Research Council, USA
Series: Routledge Studies in African Politics and International Relations
This book outlines challenges to the effective operation of Regional Economic Communities (RECs) with regards to peacebuilding in Africa. This book will be of key interest to scholars and students of African politics and studies, peace and security studies, regionalism studies, policy practitioners in the field of African peacebuilding, and more broadly to international relations.

Regionalism Under Stress

Europe and Latin America in Comparative Perspective

Edited by Detlef Nolte, German Institute for Global and Area Studies (GIGA) and Brigitte Weiffen, University of Konstanz, Germany
Series: Global Institutions
Regionalism is under stress. Studying Europe and Latin America within a broader comparative perspective, this volume provides an analytical framework to assess stress factors facing regionalism. Written by specialists from Europe and Latin America with a shared interest in the new field of comparative regionalism, this book will be an invaluable resource for students, scholars and policy specialists in regional integration, European politics, EU studies, Latin American studies, and international relations and international law more generally.

Re-globalisation

When China Meets the World Again

Dong Wang and Dejun Cao
Series: China Perspectives
Introducing an innovative theoretical framework in the shape of “re-globalisation”, this book discusses China’s strategies and challenges while interacting with the international community. The book provides several illuminating case studies, such as the Belt and Road Initiative (BRI), the Asian Infrastructure Investment Bank (AIIB), and the strategies of the Chinese technology firm Alibaba. As the first systemic and book-length study of “re-globalisation”, this volume will appeal to researchers and students of politics and Chinese studies, and contemporary Chinese politics in particular.

Re-globalisation

When China Meets the World Again

Edited by Matthew Louis Bishop and Anthony Payne
Series: Rethinking Globalizations
This book charts the way towards a better, repurposed globalization, which it calls ‘re-globalization’, and shows how this can be built, incrementally but realistically, via reforms to the partial and fragile existing structures of global governance. Re-globalization is essential reading for everybody living in the era of globalization, which is all of us, and worried about its many economic, social and political problems, which is a growing number of us.

The chapters in this book were originally published in the journal Globalizations.
Regulating the Use of Force by United Nations Peace Support Operations
Balancing Promises and Outcomes
Charuka Ekanayake, Griffith University, Australia
Series: Challenges of Globalisation
This book explores two broad questions: why the contemporary legal framework relevant to the regulation of force during armed conflict cannot close the gaps between the promises made by the United Nations and the outcomes they secure in relation to their use of force, and how the ‘Unified Use of Force Rule’ achieves this. This is the first book to coherently analyse the moral as well as legal aspects relevant to UN use of force. It will be immensely beneficial to law students, researchers, academics and practitioners in the fields of international relations, international law, peacekeeping, and human rights.

Resilience in EU and International Institutions
Redefining Local Ownership in a New Global Governance Agenda
Edited by Elena Korosteleva and Trine Flockhart
This book explores the concept and practice of resilience that has generated much debate among both scholars and practitioners. The contributions propose a new understanding of resilience, both as a quality and a way of thinking, taking it to the level of the person and the local, to argue that a more sustainable way to govern the world today is bottom-up and inside-out.

Resisting Citizenship
Migrant Housing Squats Against State Enclosures
Edited by Deana Dadusc, Margherita Graziani and Miguel A. Martínez
Migrants squats are an essential part of the ‘corridors of solidarity’ that are being created throughout Europe, where grassroots social movements engaged in anti-racist, anarchist and anti-authoritarian politics coalesce with migrants in devising non-institutional responses to the violence of border regimes. This book focuses on migrants’ self-organised housing strategies in Europe and the collective squatting of buildings and land. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Citizenship Studies.

Rethinking the Body in Global Politics
Bodies, Body Politics, and the Body Politic in a Time of Pandemic
Kandida Purnell, University of Aberdeen, UK
Series: Interventions
This book rethinks the body in global politics and the particular roles bodies play in our international system, foregrounding processes and practices involved in the continually contested (re/dis)embodiment of both human bodies and collective bodies politic. The empirical analyses feed into contemporary IR debates on British and American politics and international relations and the global War on Terror, while also speaking to broader and interdisciplinary, theoretical literature on bodies/embodiment, visual politics, biopolitics, necropolitics, and affect/emotion, and feelings.

Rising Powers, People Rising
Neoliberalization and its Discontents in the BRICS Countries
Edited by Alf Gunvald Nilsen and Karl von Holdt
Series: Rethinking Globalizations

The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Globalizations.

River Basin Organizations in Water Diplomacy
Edited by Anoulak Kittikhoun, Melong River Commission, Laos and Susanne Schmeier, IHE Delft Institute for Water Education, The Netherlands
Series: Global Institutions
Will tensions and disputes among states sharing international water courses and lakes turn into active conflicts? Addressing this question, the book shows that these concerns are more prominent due to the locations and underlying political dynamics of some of these large rivers and the strategic interests of major powers. Contributing to the academic discourse on transboundary water management and water conflict and cooperation, the book provides insights to policy-makers on which water diplomacy engagements can be successful, the strengths to build on, and the pitfalls to avoid so that shared water resources are managed in a cooperative, sustainable and stable way.

Robotics, Autonomous Systems and Contemporary International Security
Edited by Ash Rossiter
Rapid technological advances in the field of robotics and autonomous systems (RAS) are transforming the international security environment and the conduct of contemporary conflict. Bringing together leading experts from across the globe, this book provides timely analysis on the current and future challenges associated with greater utilization of RAS by states, their militaries, and a host of non-state actors. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the journal, Small Wars & Insurgencies.

Russia Today and Conspiracy Theories
People, Power and Politics on RT
Ilya Yablokov, University of Leeds, UK and Precious N Chatterje-Doody, Open University, UK
Series: Conspiracy Theories
The Russian international media outlet Russia Today (RT) has been widely accused in the Western world of producing government propaganda and conspiracy theories. This book explores for the first time what role conspiracy theories actually play in the network’s broadcasts. More than this, it provides the first ever study of how the Russian government engages with conspiracy theories in the international arena, with a particular focus on the use of conspiracy theories as an instrument of public diplomacy. This book will appeal to students and scholars of Politics and International Relations, Russian Studies, and Conspiracy Theories.

Russian Public Diplomacy
From USSR to the Russian Federation
Marina M. Lebedeva, Moscow State Institute of International Relations (MGIMO-University), Russia
Series: Innovations in International Affairs
Public diplomacy is widely used in the contemporary world, and this book is devoted to its use and study in Russia. It explores how, even though scientific diplomacy and people’s diplomacy were used in the USSR, the ideas of public diplomacy were not in demand in Russia in the 1990s. This book is intended primarily for students and researchers of international affairs, specialising in Russian foreign policy and/or soft power issues. It will also be of interest to practitioners in public diplomacy, such as ministers of foreign affairs, NGOs, and the media.

Securitized Borderlands
Edited by Martin Deleixhe, Magdalena Dembińska and Julien Danero Iglesias
Securitized Borderlands aims to theoretically and empirically fill the gap between security studies—that remain focused on the discriminatory function of the border, and borderlands studies—that document the social dynamics of cross border societies.

The chapters in this book were originally published as a Special Issue of the Journal of Borderlands Studies

Separatism and the State
Damien Kingsbury, Deakin University, Australia
Series: Routledge Studies in Nationalism and Ethnicity
This book proposes and tests a ‘theory of separatism’ to determine if there are key commonalities as to why separatist movements rise and what fuels them. Today, there are more than 100 active separatist movements, with around 70 of them engaging in violence. This book focuses on examples from Europe, the Middle East, Africa, and Asia to highlight the commonalities found across the case studies. It will be applicable for undergraduate and postgraduate students of International Relations and International Politics as well as Conflict/Peace Studies, Anthropology and Post-Colonial Studies.

Sexual Violence Crimes and Gendered Power Relations
Bringing Justice to Women in the Democratic Republic of the Congo
Bilge Sahin, SOAS University of London, UK
Series: Routledge Studies in Gender and Global Politics
This book provides a robust gendered analysis and establishes a feminist approach to international actors’ responses to sexual violence crimes in conflict in the eastern Democratic Republic of the Congo (DRC) and the impact of these global political practices on local gendered power relations. This book will be of interest to scholars and postgraduate students in gender studies, development studies, and international relations. It will also provide significant guidance for professionals working for development agencies and NGOs focusing on the eastern DRC.

Shortening the Distance between Government and Public in China I
A Theoretical Approach
Liu Xiaoyan, Renmin University of China
Series: China Perspectives
Drawing on the key concept of Distance from western political science, the author explores the law and mechanisms of China’s political communication. In this volume, the author introduces a creative theoretical framework of distance, a dynamic system comprised of physical and psychological distance, ideal distance and real distance, as well as natural distance and consequent distance. Recent events in the China of Xi Jinping are used as cases to illustrate the point.

Students and scholars who are interested in political science and political communication, especially Chinese politics, will find this two-volume set an essential reference.

Shortening the Distance between Government and Public in China II
Methods and Practices

Liu Xiaoyan, Renmin University of China
Series: China Perspectives
This volume offers empirical evidence as to how social media can mediate the distance between government and the public. First, it discusses how the use of online social media, can be used strategically to mediate the distance of offline communication. Then, it points out that social media can also lead to unlimited expression of general will. An empirical study of how the residents of five rural provinces in China obtain political information is used to illustrate the point. Students and scholars who are interested in political science and political communication, especially Chinese politics, will find this two-volume set a useful reference.

Solidarity and Public Goods
Edited by Avigail Ferdman and Margaret Kohn
In the wake of health and economic crises across the world, solidarity is emerging as both a moral imperative and urgent social goal. This book approaches solidarity as a political good, both a framework of power structures and grounds for moral motivation. The distinct approaches to public goods and social value demonstrate how social connectedness is intricately tied to the distribution of public goods, and the moral commitments that grow out of them. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the journal, Critical Review of International Social and Political Philosophy.

Sovereignty and Illicit Social Order
Christopher Marc Lilyblad, Pembroke College, Oxford, UK
Series: Global Governance
This book demonstrates how illicit social orders (established by gangs, terrorists, mafias, rebels, or other insurgent forces) arise from competition over territory, authority, and institutions in local arenas; and assesses their sobering implications for modern, national state sovereignty from the analytical vantage of global governance. It will be of interest to a wide range of scholars, including political scientists, sociologists, geographers, as well as interdisciplinary social science fields, including International Development, International Political Sociology, International Political Economy, and Global Governance.

Speed and Micropolitics
Bodies, Minds, and Perceptions in an Accelerating World
Simon Glezos, University of Victoria, USA
This book provides a theoretical framework for understanding the micropolitics of speed, a rich, nuanced, and embodied account of life in an accelerating world. While drawing extensively on the work of contemporary theorists, Simon Glezos recognizes that social acceleration is not a purely recent phenomenon. He therefore turns to thinkers such as Nietzsche, Spinoza, Bergson and Merleau-Ponty, to ask how they sought to understand, and respond to, the rapid changes and unsettling temporalities of their era, and how their insights can be applied to our own.

POLITICS AND INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

State Secrecy and Security
Refiguring the Covert Imaginary
William Walters
Series: Interventions
This book calls for secrecy to be given a more central place in critical security studies and elevated to become a core concept when theorizing power in liberal democracies. State Secrecy and Security offers readers a set of thinking tools to better understand the strange powers that hiding, revealing, lying, confusing, professing ignorance, and many other operations of secrecy put in motion. It will be a valuable resource for scholars and students of security, secrecy and politics more broadly.

Syrian Civil War and Europe
Zhao Chen, Zhao Jizhou and Huang Mengmeng
Series: China Perspectives
This book analyzes the diplomatic policies of European countries on Syria from the perspective of Chinese scholars. Starting with a review of the European Union’s policies in the Middle East and North Africa, the authors analyze the Syrian policies of France, the United Kingdom and Germany, the three most influential and representative countries in Europe. The authors argue that the favoured ‘humanitarian intervention’ concept failed to achieve the expected results, increased the bloodiness of the Syrian civil war and undermined the European Union’s advantage in the region. Researchers and students of international relations and Middle East Studies will benefit from this volume.

Strategic Responses to Domestic Contestation
The EU Between Politicisation and Depoliticisation
Edited by Edoardo Bressanelli, Sant’Anna School of Advanced Studies, Italy, Christel Koop, King’s College, London, UK and Christine Reh
Series: Journal of European Public Policy Series
This volume explores how and why EU-level actors respond to the various, sometime competing, ‘bottom up’ demands, and challenges the view that domestic contestation necessarily limits EU-level room for manoeuvre. Instead, contributions show that domestic pressure can be perceived as either constraining or enabling, with responses, therefore, ranging from the restrained to the assertive.

Terrorism, Gender and Women
Toward an Integrated Research Agenda
Edited by Alexandra Phelan
Terrorism, Gender and Women: Towards an Integrated Research Agenda encourages greater integration of gender-sensitive approaches to studies of violent extremism and terrorism. It seeks to create and inspire a dialogue among scholars of conflict, terrorism and gender by suggesting the necessity of incorporating gender analysis to fill gaps within, and further enhance, our understanding of political violence. Terrorism, Security and Development in South Asia
National, Regional and Global Implications
Edited by M. Raymond Izarral, Wilfrid Laurier University, Ontario and Dalbir Ahlawat, Department of Security Studies and Criminology, Macquarie University, Australia.
Series: New Regionalisms Series
This book provides a rich analysis of the actors and organizations to reflect on the antecedents and trajectories of terrorism and insurgency in South Asia, and the different counter-measures adopted by the countries, respectively, to deal with the security and developmental challenges. Presenting an opportunity to diversify away from a Western-centric focus on terrorism and security, this book will be valuable to researchers in political science, criminology, defense and security studies, and to policy makers and think tanks.

The Battle Over Working-Class Voters
How Social Democracy has Responded to the Populist Radical Right in the Nordic Countries
Sanna Salo, Stockholm University, Sweden and Jens Rydgren, Stockholm University, Sweden
Series: Routledge Studies in Extremism and Democracy
This book examines how social democratic parties have responded to populist radical right parties in the battle for support from working-class voters. It focuses on the paradigmatic examples of social democratic parties in the Nordic Countries. The book provides a detailed empirical account of how social democratic parties — and more broadly, labour movement organisations, including unions — have responded to challenges across Denmark, Sweden, Finland, and Norway. This volume will be of interest to scholars of party politics, comparative politics, Nordic politics, and the populist radical right.

The Brexit Policy Fiasco
Edited by Jeremy Richardson and Berthold Rittberger, University of Munich, Germany
Series: Journal of European Public Policy Series
This volume attempts to examine the many possible causes of Brexit. The conceptual ‘peg’ on which the volume hangs is that, irrespective of one’s views on whether Britain’s exit from the EU was a good or a bad thing, Brexit can justifiably be seen as yet another example of a British policy fiasco. Put simply, the British political elite was not at its best. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Journal of European Public Policy.

The Decline of the Western-Centric World and the Emerging New Global Order

Contending Views
Edited by Yun-han Chu and Yongnian Zheng
Series: China Policy Series
The Western liberal democratic world order, which seemingly triumphed following the collapse of communism, is looking increasingly fragile as populists and nationalists take power in the United States, Europe and elsewhere, as the momentum of democratization in developing countries stalls, and as Western liberal establishments fail to deal with economic stagnation, worsening political polarization, social inequality, and migrant crises.

The End of the Rhetorical Presidency?
Public Leadership in the Trump Era
Diane J. Heith
This book explores one of the most disruptive aspects of the Trump presidency. Comparing President Trump’s communications apparatus as well as rhetoric (including Twitter) to previous presidents, Diane Heith demonstrates how Trump exercises leadership through adhering to some of the norms and expectations, but rejects, abandons and undermines most.

She concludes that the loss of skill and capacity is a devolution of the White House institution dedicated to public leadership, especially in the legislative arena. This book will appeal to students and scholars of the presidency as well as general readers who quest for a deeper understanding of the Trump White House in particular.

The Economics of Empire
Genealogies of Capital and the Colonial Encounter
Edited by Maureen E. Ruprecht Fadem, The City University of New York / Kingsborough, USA and Michael O’Sullivan, The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Hong Kong
Series: Postcolonial Politics
The Economics of Empire: Genealogies of Capital and the Colonial Encounter is a multi-disciplinary intervention into postcolonial theory that constructs and theorizes a political economy of empire. This comprehensive collection traces the financial genealogies associated with the colonial enterprise, the strategies of economic precarity, the pedigrees of capital, and the narratives of exploitation that underlay and determined the course of modern history. This book will be an excellent resource for students and researchers of Postcolonial Studies, History, Sociology, Economics, Political Science and International Studies, among others.

The Ethics of “Geoengineering” the Global Climate
Justice, Legitimacy and Governance
Edited by Stephen M. Gardiner, Catiroma McKinnon and Augustin Fragnière
This book gathers contributions from leading political philosophers on the justice and legitimacy of engineering the planet on a global scale. It is widely recognized that geoengineering raises critical questions about who will control planetary interventions, and what responsibilities they will have. Central to these questions are issues of justice and political legitimacy. This book gathers contributions from leading voices and rising stars in political philosophy to respond. The chapters in this book were originally published in the journals: Ethics, Policy and the Environment and Critical Review of International Social and Political Philosophy.

The Frontiers of Public Diplomacy
Hegemony, Morality and Power in the International Sphere

Edited by Colin R. Alexander, Nottingham Trent University, UK
Series: Routledge Advances in International Relations and Global Politics
This edited volume provides the foremost analysis of public diplomacy’s relationship with hegemony, morality and power, through an analysis of the peripheries of the international system where power dynamics are most apparent. The Frontiers of Public Diplomacy is a landmark book for scholars, students and practitioners of the subject. At a practical level it provides a series of interesting case studies of public diplomacy in peripheral settings. However, at a conceptual level it challenges the reader to consider more fully the assumptions that they may make about public diplomacy and its role within the international system.

The Globality of Governmentality

Edited by Jan Busse, Bundeswehr University Munich, Germany

Series: New International Relations

This book reinvigorates the governmentality debate in International Relations (IR) by stressing the interconnectedness between governmentality and globality. It addresses a widening gap in the social sciences and humanities by reconciling Michel Foucault’s concept of ‘governmentality’ with global politics. With a wide theoretical and empirical range, it is relevant not only to IR in general and International Political Sociology in particular, but to any student or practitioner in political science, political theory, geography, sociology, or the humanities.

The Grand Strategies of Great Powers

Tudor A. Onea, National University of Singapore Series: Routledge Studies in Modern History

What is grand strategy and what is it good for? What are great powers, and which states are great powers today? What are the grand strategies available to great powers? What are the conditions under which a certain strategy is suitable and when should it be rejected? The present volume provides answers to these questions by introducing a typology of great power grand strategies, as strategies of rising, status quo, and declining powers, through historical illustration of each type. The volume should be of interest to foreign-policy making communities and to students of international relations, diplomacy, history, and current international affairs.

The Image of Islam in Russia

Edited by Greg Simons

This book covers the developing and important issue of the role and place of Islam in the increasingly complex dynamics of Russian politics. This is achieved by examining various aspects of Islam and Muslims in Russia from a multidisciplinary perspective. It focuses the contemporary social, political, cultural and identity contexts of Russia in terms of the interrelated dynamics and forces that are shaping the relations and place of Islam and Muslims in Russia today.

The chapters in this book were originally published in the journal Religion, State & Society.

The Legitimacy of Modern Democracy

A Study on the Political Thought of Max Weber, Carl Schmitt and Hans Kelsen

Pedro T. Magalhães

Series: Routledge Innovations in Political Theory

By re-examining the political thought of Max Weber, Carl Schmitt and Hans Kelsen, this book offers a reflection on the nature of modern democracy and the question of its legitimacy. Pedro T. Magalhães shows that present-day elitist, populist and pluralist accounts of democracy owe, in diverse and complicated ways, an intellectual debt to the interwar era, German-speaking, scholarly and political controversies on the problem(s) of modern democracy. The Legitimacy of Modern Democracy will be of interest to political theorists, political philosophers, intellectual historians, political scientists, and scholars working in the subfields of constitutional law and legal theory.

The Politics of Immigration Across the United States
Every State a Border State?
Gary M. Reich
In this book Gary M. Reich helps explain state policies toward their immigrant populations, arguing that these policies reflect differing immigrant communities across states. He contends that diverging demographic trends at the state level were central to the increasing partisan polarization surrounding immigration nationally, concluding that immigration federalism at present suffers from an internal contradiction that proliferates conflict across all levels of government. The Politics of Immigration Across the United States will appeal to scholars and instructors in the fields of immigration policy, social policy, and state government and politics.

The Politics of Ponzi Schemes
History, Theory and Policy
Marie Springer, John Jay College, City University of New York, USA
In this book Marie Springer provides the first representative portrait of Ponzi schemes, their perpetrators, and their victims. Adopting a multidisciplinary approach, she begins by presenting an overview of different types of Ponzi schemes. She later explores perpetrators and victims of Ponzi schemes followed by a close examination of economic trends, regulatory changes, and the financial relationship with Ponzi schemes. The Politics of Ponzi Schemes provides an excellent foundation for students and practitioners of public administration, banking, as well as investors, finance and accounting, law enforcement officers, legislators and regulators.

The Realpolitik of Evaluation
Why Demand and Supply Rarely Intersect
Edited by Markus Palenberg and Arne Paulson
Series: Comparative Policy Evaluation
This book shines a light on the divergent demands for evaluation. Examining questions from both the demand and the supply side, experts analyze ten different global examples of the gap between demand and supply of evaluation information in different contexts. In an attempt to bridge that gap, they effectively expose the biases behind supposedly non-partisan sources of evaluation information and highlight the pros and cons of attempts to bridge the gap through a variety of methods. The Realpolitik of Evaluation is an important book that poses questions at multiple levels of thinking. It will be of great interest to policy-makers, program implementers, and project managers.

2nd Edition
The Redesign of the Global Financial Architecture
State Authority, New Risks and Dynamics
Stuart P. M. Mackintosh, Group of Thirty, USA
Series: Rethinking Globalizations
More than ten years on from the most intense phase of the global financial crisis, and the collective international response in the G20 summit in London, a ‘new normal’ has emerged with systems in place to mitigate against further banking crises. This updated new edition analyzes this post-crisis international and national regulatory framework and asks whether the current paradigm is fit for purpose as new dangers gestate and develop. This text will be of great interest to students, teachers and researchers of financial frameworks, globalization and political economy.

The Sense of Mission in Russian Foreign Policy
Alicja Curanović
Series: Routledge Contemporary Russia and Eastern Europe Series
This book explores how messianism, the conviction that Russia has a special historical destiny, is present in, and affects, Russian foreign policy. Based on extensive original research, including analysis of public statements, policy documents, and opinion polls, the book argues that a sense of mission is present in Russian foreign policy, that it is very similar in its nature to thinking about Russia’s mission in Tsarist times, that the sense of mission matters more for Russia’s elites than for Russia’s masses, and that Russia’s special mission is emphasised more when there are questions about the regime’s legitimacy as well as great power status.

The Transcaucasian Democratic Federative Republic of 1918
Federal Aspirations, Geopolitics and National Projects
Edited by Adrian Brisku and Timothy K. Blauvelt, Ilia State University, Tbilisi, Georgia
This book argues that despite its month-long existence in this geopolitically volatile region, the TDFR, with and its federative nature and the various discussions about federalism and federation that it provoked, continued to have an appeal for Georgians, Azerbaijanis, Armenians as well as for the Great Powers well beyond its dissolution. Moreover, the experience of the TDFR refines federalism as a key political concept in the modern history of the Caucasus.

The Unintended Consequences of Interregionalism: Effects on Regional Actors, Societies and Structures
Edited by Elisa Lopez-Lucia, Université libre de Bruxelles, Belgium and Frank Mattheis, Université Libre de Bruxelles, Belgium
Series: Globalisation, Europe, and Multilateralism
This edited book brings a new analytical angle to the study of comparative regionalism by focussing on the unintended effects of interregional relations. This book assembles key interest to scholars and students in the fields of comparative regionalism, interregionalism, EU studies, international and regional organisations, global governance and more broadly to international relations, international politics and (comparative) area studies.

The United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples
Edited by Damien Short, Corinne Lennox, Julian Burger and Jessie Hohlmann
The development and adoption of the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples (UNDRIP) was a huge success for the global indigenous movement. This book offers an insightful and nuanced contemporary evaluation of the UNDRIP’s achievements, progress, and challenges for the years since its adoption. It will be of interest to scholars and students in the fields of comparative regionalism, interregionalism, EU studies, international and regional organisations, global governance and more broadly to international relations, international politics and (comparative) area studies.

The US-Thai Alliance and Asian International Relations
History, Memory and Current Developments
Gregory Raymond and John Blaxland
Series: Routledge Security in Asia Pacific Series
This book, based on extensive original research, explores the current state of US-Thai relations, paying particular attention to how the United States is perceived by a wide range of people in the Thai defence establishment, highlighting the importance of historical memory. The book outlines how the US-Thai relationship has been complicated and at times turbulent, discusses how Thailand is deeply embedded in multi-faceted relationships with many Asian states, not just China, and examines how far the United States is blind to the complexities of Asian international relations by focusing too much on China.

The Wives of Western Philosophy: Gender Politics in Intellectual Labor
Edited by Jennifer Forestal, Loyola University Chicago, USA and Menaka Philips, Tulane University, USA
This book examines the lives and experiences of the wives and women associated with nine distinct political thinkers in order to explore the gendered patterns of intellectual labor that permeate the foundations of western political thought. Organized chronologically and representative of three eras in the history of political thought (Ancient, Early Modern and Modern), nine critical biographical chapters explore the everyday acts of intellectual labor and partnership involving these ‘wives of the canon.’ The Wives of Western Philosophy brings these women to the center of scholarly interest and provides fresh insight into some of the most famed men in political theory.

Theorising the Crises of the European Union
Edited by Nathalie Brack, Université libre de Bruxelles, Belgium and Seda Gurkan, Université libre de Bruxelles, Belgium
Series: Globalisation, Europe, and Multilateralism
This book examines the relevance of integration theories for studying and analyzing the crisis situations faced by the EU since 2009. This book will be of key interest to scholars and students of European integration, European Union politics, political theory and more broadly to European studies.

Trade and Culture: The Ongoing Debate
Edited by Patricia M. Goff
The chapters in this volume explore the different approaches to the trade and culture debate and provide an up-to-date look at current versions of these policies in Canada, the European Union, South Africa, Latin America, South Korea, the United States and China. This book will be of great value to scholars and researchers interested in international trade, cultural politics and policies, the cultural-exemption and the politics of trade.

This book was originally published as a special issue of The International Journal of Cultural Policy.
Transnational Networks and EU International Cooperation

In Pursuit of Effectiveness
Sebastian Steingass, University of Cambridge, UK

Series: Routledge/UACES Contemporary European Studies
This book provides a timely evaluation of the EU’s ability to act internationally and coordinate policy in a time when it also seeks to meet shifting demands of international cooperation. These include global sustainable development, the challenge of multilateralism and the changing geopolitical order. This text will be of key interest to scholars and students of European and EU politics, EU foreign policy, EU external relations and more broadly to international relations and international development.

Trump and the Politics of Neo-Nationalism

The Christian Right and Secular Nationalism in America
Jeffrey Haynes, London Metropolitan University, UK

Series: Innovations in International Affairs
No analysis of the Donald Trump phenomenon and American neo-nationalism is satisfactory without examining the impact of both the Christian Right and the secular nationalist right, both in the USA and abroad. This book analyses the political impact of both strands in relation to America’s culture wars at home and the clash of civilisations in the USA’s foreign policy. This book will be of interest to students, researchers, and policy-makers interested in American politics, American political history, religion and politics in America, and religion and IR with a focus on the USA.

U.S. Global Leadership Role and Domestic Polarization

A Role Theory Approach
Gordon M. Friedrichs

Series: Role Theory and International Relations
Gordon Friedrichs offers a pioneering insight into the implications of domestic polarization for US foreign policymaking and international relations. Friedrichs applies role theory to analyze three polarization effects for US leadership role-taking – a sorting effect, a partisan warfare, and an institutional corrosion effect. These effects are then deployed in two comparative case studies on the Iran nuclear crisis and the negotiations of the Trans-Pacific Partnership Agreement. U.S. Global Leadership Role and Domestic Polarization is a rich resource for scholars of International Relations, Foreign Policy Analysis, American Government and Polarization.

Understanding Conflicts of Sovereignty in the EU

The Christian Right and Secular Nationalism in America
Edited by Nathalie Brack, Ramona Coman, Université Libre de Bruxelles, Belgium and Amandine Crespy

Series: Journal of European Integration Special Issues
This book investigates the multifaceted conflicts of sovereignty in the recent crises in the European Union. Through an analysis of the various crises (rule of law, Brexit, migration, Eurozone crisis), the chapters look at how sovereignty is framed and contested by different types of actors, and how the strengthening or the weakening of certain types of sovereignty contribute to shape preferences regarding policies and governance structures in the multi-level EU. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the Journal of European Integration.

Understanding Mexico’s Security Conundrum

Agustin Maciel-Padilla

Series: Routledge Advances in International Relations and Global Politics

This short text describes the distinction between national, internal and public security in Mexico while also providing analysis on Mexico’s security policy and its long-term consequences. Agustin Maciel-Padilla contends that the absence of a clear understanding of the concept of security has the potential to aggravate security conditions in Mexico. He argues that that Mexico is required to formulate a comprehensive, long-term, security strategy, and that achieving a proper understanding will allow for better guidance in confronting the grave insecurity facing the country.

Understanding Mexico’s Security Conundrum will be essential for scholars, students, and policy makers.

Unequal America

Class Conflict, the News Media, and Ideology in an Era of Record Inequality

Anthony R. DiMaggio

This book examines Americans and their beliefs about the class divide in the United States. It argues that Americans’ beliefs about class and the economic divide develop through a multi-step process. Economic affluence influences the development of world view, measured in terms of ideology, partisanship, and self-identified class consciousness. Class consciousness in turn affects how people look at political and economic issues. This book is intended for scholars and students at every level who study inequality from a political, economic, or sociological position, along with general readers with a growing interest and awareness of the effects of inequality on our democracy.

Unity on the Global Left

Critical Reflections on Samir Amin’s Call for a New International

Edited by Barry K. Gills and Christopher Chase-Dunn

Series: Rethinking Globalizations

This book brings together a collection of essays by progressive global activists in response to Samir Amin’s call for a new global organization of progressive workers and peoples. Amin’s proposal is applauded, criticized and reformulated by these scholar-activists who are all proponents of ways forward toward a more egalitarian world society.

The chapters in this book were originally published in the journal, Globalizations.

Uzbekistan’s International Relations

Oybek Madjiyev

Series: Central Asian Studies

This book examines the development of Uzbekistan’s international relations since the collapse of the Soviet Union. Drawing on extensive original research, including interviews with key people, and presenting an analysis of social, economic and political developments inside Uzbekistan, the book argues that the concentration of power in the state has contributed significantly to the way in which foreign policy is conducted. It goes on to consider Uzbekistan’s relations with major powers including the United States, Russia, China, Japan and the European Union.

Building on the concept of depoliticization, this book provides a first systematic analysis of International Organizations (IO) apolitical claims. It shows that depoliticization sustains IO everyday activities while allowing them to remain engaged in politics, even when they pretend not to. For IO scholars and students, this book sheds new light on IO politics and it will also be of interest to researchers working in the fields of political science, international relations, international political sociology, international political economy, history, law, sociology, anthropology and geography as well as IO practitioners.
Why London is Labour
A History of Metropolitan Politics, 1900-2020
Michael Tichelar, University of the West of England, UK
Series: Routledge Studies in British Politics
This book answers the question why London has been a stronghold for the Labour Party for relatively long periods of the last century and continues to be so to this day to an extent that surprises contemporaries. This book will be of key interest to readers interested in the history of the Labour Party, the politics of London, Socialist politics/history, British politics/history, government, political sociology, and urban studies.

Wild Animal Ethics
The Moral and Political Problem of Wild Animal Suffering
Kyle Johannsen, Trent University, Canada
In this book Kyle Johannsen argues that we have a duty to research safe ways of providing large-scale assistance to wild animals. Using concepts from moral and political philosophy to analyze the issue of wild animal suffering (WAS), Johannsen explores how a collective, institutional obligation to assist wild animals should be understood. He claims that with enough research, genetic editing may one day give us the power to ‘safely intervene without perpetually interfering with wild animals’ liberties. Wild-Animal Ethics is essential for students and scholars of political philosophy and political theory studying animal ethics, environmental ethics, and environmental philosophy.

Women, Gender and Conditional Cash Transfers
Interdisciplinary Perspectives from Studies of Bolsa Família
Edited by Teresa Sacchet, Federal University of Bahia, Brazil, Silvana Mariano, State University of Londrina, Brazil and Cásia Maria Carloto, State University of Londrina, Brazil
In Women, Gender and Conditional Cash Transfers, a multidisciplinary group of feminist scholars use survey data analysis, in-depth interviews, and ethnographic and archival research to explore to what extent Bolsa Família in Brazil contributes to women’s autonomy and improves gender relations. The authors captures perspectives from different regions of Brazil to explain these regional social inequalities and provide historical and up-to-date insights of this program from a feminist perspective. This book will be of great interest not only to scholars of Latin American politics, but also to students of development policy, public policy and gender.
