A Concise Introduction to Linguistics
Bruce M. Rowe and Diane P. Levine
Now in its sixth edition, A Concise Introduction to Linguistics provides students with a detailed introduction to the core concepts of language as it relates to culture. Written in an accessible manner that does not assume previous knowledge of linguistics, this new edition contains expanded discussions on linguistic anthropology, sociolinguistics (including an expanded section on trans and nonbinary language), and pragmatics. The textbook incorporates a robust set of pedagogical features including marginal definitions, a substantial glossary, chapter summaries, and learning exercises.

Human Adaptive Strategies
An Ecological Introduction to Anthropology
Daniel Bates, Judith Tucker and Ludomir Lozny
This book introduces students to environmental and evolutionary anthropology, focusing on how humans adapt to their environment and how the environment shapes culture. It shows how cultures evolved within the context of their environment and how their methods of surviving in their environment have affected other aspects of their culture. This book will serve as an ideal text for students in introductory anthropology, environmental anthropology, and cultural ecology courses.

Humans
An Introduction to Four-Field Anthropology
Alice Beck Kehoe, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, USA and Andrew J Petto
Humans is a concise, jargon-free introduction to four-field anthropology. The book outlines and breaks down a complex discipline to identify some of the most important and relevant questions in anthropology. It provides students with an understanding of the unity of the human species, the adaptation of societies to their environments (physical and political), and an appreciation of the power of socialization into a culture. This book is an ideal introduction for students embarking on an anthropology course for the first time.

Introducing Urban Anthropology
Rivke Jaffe, University of Amsterdam, the Netherlands and Anouk de Koning, Radboud University Nijmegen, the Netherlands
This book provides an up-to-date introduction to the growing field of urban anthropology. This is an increasingly critical area of study, as more than half of the world’s population now lives in cities and anthropological research is increasingly done in an urban context. This book will be a valuable resource for anthropology students as well as of interest to those in related disciplines such as sociology and geography. The second edition includes updated theoretical discussions, new ethnographic case studies, and a new chapter on neoliberalism and post-neoliberalism. It also engages more extensively with digital transformations of urban life.

Introduction to Forensic Anthropology
Steven N. Byers, New Mexico State University, USA, Steven N. Byers and Chelsey A. Juarez
Introduction to Forensic Anthropology provides comprehensive coverage of key methods and issues in forensic anthropology. Using terminology and best practices recommended by the Scientific Working Group for Forensic Anthropology (SWGANTH) and the Anthropology Consensus Body of the American National Standards Institute (ANSI/ACB), it introduces students to all the major topics in the field, with material ranging from the attribution of ancestry and sex, to various forms of bone trauma, to identification through radiography. This is a self-contained textbook that is ideal for a lower-division college-level class for non-majors and majors alike.

The Cultural Dimension of Global Business
Gary P. Ferraro, University of North Carolina at Charlotte, USA and Elizabeth K. Briody, Cultural Keys, USA
Now in its ninth edition, The Cultural Dimension of Global Business continues to provide an essential foundation for understanding the impact of culture on global business and global business on culture. The highly experienced authors demonstrate how the theory and insights of cultural anthropology can positively influence the conduct of global business, examining a range of issues that individuals and organizations. The cross-cultural scenarios presented in each chapter allow students of business, management, and anthropology alike to explore cultural difference while gaining valuable practice in thinking through a variety of complex and thorny cultural issues.

2nd Edition

Conservation Skills for the 21st Century
Judgement, Method and Decision Making
Chris Caple and Emily Williams, Durham University

This volume provides a much-needed update to the first edition of Conservation Skills, presenting an overview of current issues facing conservators of historic and artistic works. It explores a variety of case studies representing issues conservators are likely to face, illustrating the crucial considerations when proposing and executing a conservation treatment and also incorporating recent developments and the use of new technologies in conservation processes. Written in a clear, accessible style, this is essential reading for student conservators and professionals around the globe.

Foreigners Among Us
Alterity and the Making of Ancient Maya Societies
Christina Halperin, Associate Professor of Anthropology at the Université de Montréal.

Assessing key questions such as who the foreigners and outsiders in ancient Maya societies were and how was the foreign a generative component of identity, Foreigners Among Us reassess the arrival of foreigners as part of archaeological understandings of Pre-Columbian Maya and questions not only who these foreigners might have been but who were making such designations of difference in the first place. Contributing broadly to intellectual investigations on foreign identities from an anthropological perspective, this book enriches the understanding of Maya society for students and researchers of Mesoamerican archaeology and art history.

Greco-Buddhist Relations in the Hellenistic Far East Sources and Contexts
Olga Kubica, University of Wroclaw, Poland.
This book provides the first comprehensive and interdisciplinary view of the relationship between the Greeks and Buddhist communities in ancient Bactria and Northwest India, from the conquests of Alexander the Great to the fall of the Indo-Greek kingdom circa 10 AD. The individual chapters of this book provide an analysis of the main textual, archaeological, and numismatic sources for Greco-Buddhist relations and draw upon philological and historical methods as well as postcolonial and sociological approaches. A valuable resource for those working on the Greco-Bactrian and Indo-Greek kingdoms and cultural exchange in the Hellenistic world.

Diversity and the Study of Antiquity in Higher Education Perspectives from North America and Europe
Edited by Daniel Libatique and Fiona McHardy
Series: Classics In and Out of the Academy
This volume explores how the study of antiquity can be made relevant and inclusive for a diverse range of 21st-century students by bringing together perspectives from colleagues working in higher education at different career stages, roles, and from different backgrounds in the US, UK, and Greece. While more work remains to be done, this volume is a valuable contribution to ongoing debates about inequality, diversity, and inclusion in modern classical education. Suitable for anyone teaching Classics, especially in the US and UK, as well as scholars and researchers interested in issues of diversity.

The Gilgamesh Epic in Genesis 1-11
Peering into the Deep
Adam E. Miglio, Wheaton College, USA.
Series: Studies in the History of the Ancient Near East
This book provides a substantive, reliable, and accessible comparison of the Gilgamesh Epic and Genesis 1-11, investigating their presentation of humanistic themes. While these ancient literary masterpieces may seem unusual or challenging to modern readers, they are nonetheless familiar and relatable stories through their humanistic composition. Significant passages and narratives from both are translated into English and compared and contrasted in depth, in a lucid, concise fashion. Suitable for students and scholars of ancient Near Eastern literature, with broad appeal across religious studies, ancient history, and World Literature.

Cinematic Digital Television

Negotiating the Nexus of Production, Reception and Aesthetics

Chris Comerford, University of Wollongong, Australia

Chris Comerford explores cinematic digital television as an artistic classification and an academic object of study, and illuminates the slippage in definitions of previously-understood media forms. The growth of television as an artistic, informative medium has given rise to shifts in the aesthetic style of the programs we watch, and this book outlines these shifts along with the contemporary debates and critical theory surrounding them. Essential reading for both scholars and students of media and television studies, this book provides a much-needed consideration of the changing landscape of television.

3rd Edition

An Introduction to Visual Culture

Nicholas Mirzoeff

In the fully rewritten third edition of this classic text, Nicholas Mirzoeff introduces visual culture as visual activism, or activating the visible. In this view, visual culture is a practice: a way of doing, making and seeing. Engaging with questions of racializing, colonialism and undoing gender throughout, this edition maps the activist turn in the field since 2014 and sets directions for its future expansion. This is a key text in visual culture studies and an essential resource for research and teaching in the field.

Cultural Democracy Now

What It Means and Why We Need It

Owen Kelly, Arcadia, Helsinki

Positioning cultural democracy in a historical context and in a context of adjacent movements such as the creative commons, open source movement, and maker movement, this book goes back to first principles and asks what personhood means in the twenty first century, what cultural democracy means, why we should want it, and how we can work towards it. Providing a much-needed theoretical take on the growing interest in cultural democracy, this book will be essential reading for students and scholars interested in the arts as well as practitioners and policy makers. It combines theory and practice with a view to inciting both thought and action.

Emotion Pictures
Movies and Feelings

Lucy Fischer
Series: Routledge Advances in Film Studies
This book investigates a group of exceptional films that single-mindedly consider one particular emotion—be it pity, lust, grief, or anxiety—to examine cinematic emotion in depth. Drawing on philosophical and psychological approaches, Fischer’s unique analysis offers case studies for comprehending emotion in the movies and highlights the important dichotomy between filmic portrayals and audience response. Beyond film and media scholars and students, this book will have resonance for academics and practitioners in several fields of psychology, including social work, psychiatry, and therapy.

Experimenting with Emerging Media Platforms
Field Testing the Future

Dan Pacheco
Experimenting with Emerging Media Platforms teaches students in media tracks—journalism, advertising, film and public relations—how to independently field-test and evaluate emerging technologies that could impact how media is produced, consumed and monetized in the future. Taking a unique trial-and-error approach, the author encourages students to go against their desire for perfection and instead plunge into exercises with the full expectation that they will “fail” many times before they succeed.

Virtual Presenting
A Guide to Formats, Production and Authentic Delivery

Jamie Cohen and Michael Sorrentino

Responding to the widespread and continued acceleration of virtual working practices in recent years, Virtual Presenting provides a clear guide to producing, presenting and broadcasting in a remote context. Unlike traditional studio production where a presenter is surrounded by a crew and cameras, the virtual presenter is often isolated or connected to a remote crew. Virtual Presenting explains how to make an authentic connection across great spaces, linked only via Internet. Topics covered include how to build a virtual setup; how to appear on camera; how to appear confident and comfortable; and how to optimize your presentation voice.

China and the Soviet Union

A Study of Sino–Russian Relations

Aitchen K. Wu

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Soviet Foreign Policy

China and the Soviet Union, first published in 1950, is written by a Chinese former diplomat and university professor, and calls on his many years of experience to provide an even-handed analysis of Sino-Russian relations. It ranges back to 1618 for some much-needed historical background, but the major part of Wu’s examination of the diplomatic relations between the two countries deals with the Soviet Union since 1918.

History from Loss
A Global Introduction to Histories written from defeat, colonization, exile, and imprisonment

Edited by Mamie Hughes-Warrington, University of South Australia, Australia and Daniel Woolf, Queen’s University, Kingston, Ontario, Canada

History from Loss challenges the common thought that ‘history is written by the winners’ and explores how history makers in different times and places across the globe have written histories from loss, even when this has come at the threat to their own safety. It provides an invaluable resource for students, teachers, and general readers who wish to put current debates on bias, the politicization of history, and threats to history makers into global and historical perspective.

Natural Things in Early Modern Worlds

Edited by Mackenzie Cooley, Anna Toledano and Duygu Yildirim

The essays and original visualizations collected in Natural Things in Early Modern Worlds explore the relationships among natural things, ranging from pollen in a gust of wind, to a carnivorous pitcher plant, to a shell-like skinned armadillo, and the humans enthralled with them. Museum-goers, scholars, scientists, and students will find new histories of nature and collecting within. Its playful visuality will capture the imagination of non-academic and academic readers alike while reminding us of the alienating capacity of the modern life sciences.

Scandinavia in the Middle Ages 900-1550

Between Two Oceans

Kirsil Salonen and Kurt Villads Jensen

Scandinavia in the Middle Ages covers the entire Middle Ages and integrates all areas of Scandinavian political, religious, cultural and social history into a coherent analysis. Within the broader narrative the historiography of the period and specific topics such as Norse literature, runes and neglected topics such as minorities, like the Sami and Jews, are discussed. Each chapter includes numerous textboxes, which explore central themes, persons and events in greater detail, ensuring students can quickly gauge the key information.

The Spanish Habsburgs and Dynastic Rule, 1500–1700

Elisabeth Geevers

This book analyses how dynasties were ‘made’ by the people belonging to it. It uses a social institutionalist framework to analyse how family dynamics gave rise to practices and roles. The kings of Spain only had limited power to control the construction of their dynasty, since births and deaths, processes of dynastic centralisation, pressure from subjects, relatives’ individual agency, rivalry among relatives and the institutionalisation of roles limited his power.

De-mystifying Translation
Introducing Translation to Non-translators
Lynne Bowker
This textbook provides an accessible introduction to the field of translation for students of other disciplines and readers who are not translators. It provides students outside the translation profession with a greater awareness of and appreciation for what goes into translation. Providing readers with tools for their own personal translation-related needs, this book encourages an ethical approach to translation, and an insight into translation as a possible career. De-mystifying Translation is the ideal text for any non-specialist taking a course about translation and for anyone interested in learning more about the field of translation and translation studies.

Developing Multilingual Education Policies
Theory, Research, Practice
Michal Tannenbaum and Elana Shohamy
Divided into three parts, the authors begin by addressing the general notion of a multilingual education policy with specific reference to the Israeli context. The book then focuses on specific challenges confronting the new policy that have been explored in empirical studies and concludes with a proposed framework for a new multilingual education policy related to the core theoretical topics and empirical findings discussed in the previous chapters. This framework includes principles and strategies for implementing the process described in the book in other contexts, ensuring wide applicability and relevance.

Introducing Pragmatics
A Clinical Approach
Louise Cummings, The Hong Kong Polytechnic University
This innovative, comprehensive course textbook uses a clinical approach to explore pragmatics and pragmatic language skills. Aimed equally at undergraduate and graduate students who are coming to pragmatics for the first time, the text discusses the key issues and concepts of this field in a fascinating new way. With a common, easy-to-follow structure across chapters and a wealth of pedagogical resources, this is an essential text for students of linguistics and applied linguistics, communication studies, speech-language pathology, psychology and cognitive science, and beyond.

Exploring Translation Theories
Anthony Pym
This engaging overview covers the key theories of equivalence, solution types, purpose, scientific approaches, uncertainty, automation, and cultural translation. Fully revised, this third edition adds coverage of Russian and Ukrainian theories, examples from Chinese, advances in machine translation, and research on translators’ cognitive processes. Readers are encouraged to explore the various theories and consider their strengths, weaknesses, and implications for translation practice. The book concludes with a survey of the way translation is used as a model in postmodern cultural studies and sociologies, extending its scope beyond traditional Western notions.

Language, Society and Power
6th Edition
Annabelle Mooney and Betsy Evans
Language, Society and Power provides an accessible introduction to the study of language in a variety of social contexts. This book examines the ways language functions, how it influences the way we view society and how it varies according to age, ethnicity, class and gender. Language, Society and Power assumes no linguistic background among readers, and is a must-read for all students of English language and linguistics, media, communication, cultural studies, sociology and psychology who are studying language and society for the first time.

Linguistics and Psychoanalysis
A New Perspective on Language Processing and Evolution
Thomas Paul Bonfiglio
This ground-breaking, provocative book presents an overview of research at the disciplinary intersection of psychoanalysis and linguistics. This will be an invaluable, fascinating resource for advanced students and scholars of theoretical and applied linguistics, the cognitive-behavioral sciences, metaphor studies, humor studies and play theory, anthropology, and beyond.
Machine Learning in Translation
Peng Wang and David B. Sawyer

Machine Learning in Translation introduces machine learning (ML) theories and technologies that are most relevant to translation processes, approaching the topic from a human perspective and emphasizing that ML and ML-driven technologies are tools for humans. Providing an exploration of the common ground between human and machine learning and of the nature of translation that leverages this new dimension, this book helps linguists, translators, and localizers better find their added value in a ML-driven translation environment.

Meaning
Betty J. Birner
Northern Illinois University, USA

Meaning addresses the fundamental question of human language interaction: what it is to mean, and how we communicate our meanings to others. Experienced textbook writer and emeritus researcher Betty J. Birner gives balanced coverage to semantics and pragmatics, emphasizing interactions between the two, and discusses other fields of language study such as syntax, neurology, philosophy of language, and artificial intelligence in terms of their interfaces with linguistic meaning. Appropriate for both undergraduate and graduate-level courses in semantics, pragmatics, and general linguistics, Meaning is essential reading for all students of linguistic meaning.

An Introduction to Literature, Criticism and Theory
Andrew Bennett and Nicholas Royle

Lively, original and highly readable, An Introduction to Literature, Criticism and Theory is the essential guide to literary studies. Starting at ‘The Beginning’ and concluding with ‘The End’, chapters range from the familiar, such as ‘Character’, ‘Narrative’ and ‘The Author’, to the more unusual, such as ‘Secrets’, ‘Pleasure’ and ‘Ghosts’. The sixth edition has been revised and updated throughout and includes four new chapters – ‘Literature’, ‘Loss’, ‘Human’ and ‘Migrant’. As well as fully up-to-date further reading sections at the end of each chapter, the book contains a comprehensive bibliography and an invaluable glossary of key literary terms.

An Introduction to Poetic Forms
Edited by Patrick Gill

An Introduction to Poetic Forms offers specimen discussions of poems through the lens of form. While each of its chapters does provide a standard definition of the form in question in its opening paragraphs, their main objective is to provide readings of specific examples to illustrate how individual poets have deviated from or subverted those expectations usually associated with the form under discussion. While providing the most vital information on the most widely taught forms of poetry, then, this collection will very quickly demonstrate that counting syllables and naming rhyme schemes is not the be-all and end-all of poetic form.

Tragedy

John Drakakis

Series: The New Critical Idiom

Tragedy is one of the oldest and most resilient forms of narrative. Considering texts from ancient Greece to the present day, this comprehensive introduction shows how tragedy has been re-imagined and redefined throughout Western cultural history. Drakakis examines a wealth of popular plays, including works from the ancient Greeks, Shakespeare, Bertolt Brecht, Sarah Kane, and Tom Stoppard as well as the rewriting and appropriating of ancient drama through a wide range of authors, such as Chaucer, George Eliot, Ted Hughes, and Colm Tóibín. Drakakis also demystifies complex philosophical interpretations of tragedy, including those of Hegel, Kierkegaard, Nietzsche, and

Earshot: Perspectives on Sound

Bruce Johnson

Earshot: Perspectives on Sound awakens an understanding of the decisive role that sound has played in history and culture with the primary focus being the changing status of sound and hearing in Western culture over the last six hundred years, covering the transition from the medieval period to the contemporary world. This book is not a work of cultural theory but is anchored in social practices and material culture and is therefore a valuable resource for conveying sound to both undergraduate students as well as the general reader.

Ethical Musicality

Gro Trondalen

Series: Music and Change: Ecological Perspectives

Ethical musicality addresses the crossroads between music and ethics, combining philosophical knowledge, theoretical reflection, and practical understanding. When tied together, music and ethics link profoundly, offering real-life perspectives that would otherwise be inaccessible to us.

Jazz and Death: Reception, Rituals, and Representations

Walter van de Leur

Series: Transnational Studies in Jazz

Jazz and Death: Reception, Rituals, and Representations critically examines the myriad and complex interactions between jazz and death, from the New Orleans “jazz funeral” to jazz in heaven or hell, final recordings, jazz monuments, and the music’s own presumed death. It looks at how fans, critics, journalists, historians, writers, the media, and musicians have narrated, mythologized, and relayed those stories. What causes the fascination of the jazz world with its deaths? What does it say about how our culture views jazz and its practitioners? Is jazz somehow a fatal culture?

The Psychology of Teaching and Learning Music

Edward R. McClellan

The Psychology of Teaching and Learning Music introduces readers to the key theoretical principles, concepts, and research findings about learning, and how these concepts and principles can be applied in the music classroom. Showing students how to apply the psychology theory and research in practice as music educators, this book provides a valuable resource for undergraduate and graduate music education students and faculty.

What in the World is Music? ENHANCED E-BOOK

Alison E. Arnold and Jonathan C. Kramer

What in the World is Music? Second Edition, is an undergraduate, interactive e-textbook that explores the shared ways people engage with music and how humans organize and experience sound. It adopts a global approach, featuring more than 300 streaming videos and 50 streaming audio tracks of music from around the world. Drawing from both musicological and ethnomusicological modes of inquiry, the authors explain the nature and meaning of music as a universal human practice, making no distinction between Western and non-Western repertoires while providing students with strong points of connection to the ways it affects their own lives.

Ancient Philosophy
A Contemporary Introduction
Christopher Shields
Series: Routledge Contemporary Introductions to Philosophy
In this new edition, Shields reaches even further to include material on Neoplatonism and on Augustine and Proclus, capturing—from Thales of Miletus to the end of the 6th Century C.E.—all of what might be called ancient philosophy. It traces the important connections between the periods and individuals of more than 1200 years of philosophy’s history without losing sight of the novelties and dynamics unique to each. The coverage of the Presocratics, Sophists, Plato, and Stoicism has also been expanded, so as to highlight Plato’s responses to the Sophistic movement in the development of his Theory of Forms.

Philosophy through Computer Science
An Introduction
Daniel Lim
In providing an introduction to computer science (using Python), Daniel Lim presents in this book key philosophical issues, ranging from external world skepticism to the existence of God to the problem of induction. Issues are introduced through the use of critical computational concepts, ranging from image manipulation to recursive programming to elementary machine learning techniques. In illuminating some of the overlapping conceptual spaces of computer science and philosophy, Lim teaches the reader fundamental programming skills and allows them to develop the critical thinking skills essential for examining some of the enduring questions of philosophy.

Do We Have a Soul?
A Debate
Eric T. Olson and Aaron Segal
Series: Little Debates about Big Questions
Are we made entirely of matter, like sticks and stones? Or do we have a soul—a nonphysical entity—where our mental lives take place? The authors Eric T. Olson and Aaron Segal begin this accessible and wide ranging debate by looking at the often-overlooked question of whether we appear in ordinary experience to be material things. The debate takes in large philosophical questions extending well beyond dualism and materialism. The book features clear statements of each argument, responses to counter-arguments, in-text definitions, a glossary of key terms, and section summaries.

Series: New Problems of Philosophy
Self-control is a fundamental part of being human. It poses philosophical and psychological questions about the nature of belief, motivation, judgement and decision-making. Failures of self-control can have high costs, resulting in ill-health, loss of relationships and even violence and death, whereas strong self-control is also often associated with having a virtuous character.
Including chapter summaries, suggestions for further reading and a glossary of key terms, this book is essential reading for students of philosophy of mind and psychology, moral psychology, free will and ethics, as well as those in related fields such as psychology and cognitive science.

Neelima Shukla-Bhatt

Hinduism: The Basics

Hinduism: The Basics introduces readers to the third largest, and arguably the oldest, living religious tradition. The book explores the variety of philosophical schools, priestly rituals, and popular practices common in the Hindu faith, presenting the rich and layered diversity of its traditions in each of its manifestations. Featuring glossaries, timelines, suggestions for further reading, and a list of key deities, this is an ideal introduction to Hindu beliefs and traditions for undergraduates and others new to the study of Hinduism.

COVID-19: Individual Rights and Community Responsibilities
Edited by J. Michael Ryan, Nazarbayev University, Kazakhstan
Series: The COVID-19 Pandemic Series
COVID-19: Individual Rights and Community Responsibilities provides critical insights into the tensions between individual rights and community responsibilities during the COVID-19 pandemic. Questions about mandates, lockdowns, priorities, and broader questions related to neighborly responsibilities and human rights have been central to debates about how to confront the pandemic. The scholarship presented in this volume adds to those debates by confronting such issues as the role of social media in spreading misinformation, mask mandates, pandemic politics, and the very ethos of what is meant by human and individual rights.

Crisis in the Professions
The New Dark Age
Kevin T Leicht and Mary Fennell, University of Iowa
Crisis in the Professions presents a wide, panoramic view exploring the state of professional work in the 21st century. In their compelling analysis, the authors raise profound issues affecting traditional pathways to professional success and document recent critical trends that could hold large consequences for future generations of workers. With piercing insight and excellent theoretical and empirical grounding, this book is a versatile and valuable study for scholars and students, as well as advanced students, in the areas of work and organizations and economic sociology.

Dying for Capitalism
Extinction and What We Can Do About It
Charles Derber and Suren Moodliar
Series: Universalizing Resistance
Dying for Capitalism analyzes the “triangle of extinction” that links capitalism, environmental destruction, and militarism as a system that cannot sustain life on the planet. The authors analyze how the extinction triangle evolved historically, how it functions globally as integral to the world capitalist order, and how the United States has become the dominant “extinction nation.” This is an original, accessible book for scholars, students, activists, and the general public on the greatest crisis the world has faced.

From the Pandemic to Utopia
The Future Begins Now
Boaventura de Sousa Santos
Series: Epistemologies of the South
The coronavirus pandemic forces us to rethink our contemporaneity, bringing to the surface human fragilities that contradict the euphoria of the fourth industrial revolution with aggravated social inequality and racial discrimination that characterize our societies. From Pandemic to Utopia argues that the virus teaches us that the deep causes of the pandemic lie in our dominant mode of production and consumption.

Gender Revolution
How Electoral Politics and #MeToo are Reshaping Everyday Life
Pamela Aronson and Matthew R. Fleming
Gender Revolution carefully examines the profound transformations happening in both public and private arenas of gender relations and draws critical attention to the simultaneous and potent challenges that have risen up in response. Combining analysis of political trends and social movements with intimate insight into personal views about gendered experiences and issues, this book reveals how movement ideas diffuse into broader culture and offers an essential study for readers keen to understand contemporary shifts in gender, society, and culture.

Homo Ecophagus
A Deep Diagnosis to Save the Earth

Warren M. Hern

World population trends often are passed over lightly in recent discussions of climate change. Warren Hern, M.D. and anthropologist, brings population back to the fore in his analysis of how population growth has already brought the human world to a point where human extinction is foreseeable. Identifying a “malignant ecopathological process,” he documents a wide array of human systems activities that are subject to breakdown if current trends continue. Based on his decades of original research in rural Peru, and studies of African population growth, Hern uses systems analysis to unveil the many threatening processes of current human activities – and point to system-based solutions.

Long Lives are for the Rich
Aging, the Life Course, and Social Justice

Jan Baars

Long Lives are for the Rich is the title of a silent ominous program that affects the lives of millions of people. In all developed countries disadvantaged and, especially, poor people die much earlier than the most advantaged. During these shorter lives they suffer ten to twenty years longer from disabilities or chronic diseases. This does not happen accidentally: health inequalities are mainly caused by social inequalities that are reproduced over the life course. This crucial function of the life course has become painfully visible during its neoliberal reorganization since the early 1980s.

Pandemic Pedagogies
Teaching and Learning during the COVID-19 Pandemic

Edited by J. Michael Ryan, Nazarbayev University, Kazakhstan

Pandemic Pedagogies: Teaching and Learning during the COVID-19 Pandemic provides critical insights into the impact of the pandemic on the education system, pedagogical approaches and educational inequalities. The pandemic has significantly disrupted education and exacerbated disparities in the education system. The scholarship in this volume takes a closer look at many of the issues at the heart of the educational process including teacher self-efficacy, the gendered and racialized impacts of the pandemic on education, school closures, and institutional responses.

Pulling Back the Curtain on Qualitative Research

William Thompson and Mica Thompson, Texas A&M University Commerce, USA

Pulling Back the Curtain on Qualitative Research provides a practical, in-depth guide to conducting qualitative sociological field research. Each chapter centers a different research study conducted by the authors, and in their reflection, they offer step-by-step guidance on the different components that make up a successful study. Emphasis is given to important ethical considerations that arise in research studies and the authors describe in detail the unexpected findings that readers should brace for while conducting their own fieldwork. Paring tangible advice with meditative musings, this book will be a wonderful read for students and aspiring scholars in the social sciences.

13th Edition
The Rich Get Richer, the Poor Get Prison

Jeffrey Reiman and Paul Leighton, Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti, USA

For 40 years, this classic text has taken the issue of economic inequality seriously and asked: Why are our prisons filled with the poor? Why aren’t the tools of the criminal justice system being used to protect Americans from predatory business practices and to punish well-off people who cause widespread harm? This new edition continues to engage readers in important exercises of critical thinking: Why has the U.S. relied so heavily on tough crime policies despite evidence of their limited effectiveness, and how much of the decline in crime rates can be attributed to them?

White Minority Nation
Past, Present and Future

Joe R. Feagin, Texas A&M University

Written by a leading scholar of US racial studies, this is the only book to comprehensively analyze the societal implications of the U.S. becoming a white minority nation as demographic changes bring people of color into the majority. The changes portend important political changes, as seen in recent American elections, with more change to come, leading to the prospects of further backlash and/or policy changes to ensure the political, economic, and legal rights of diverse populations. Many of Feagin’s previous books are academic bestsellers.

The Voice Coach’s Toolkit

Pamela Prather

Series: The Focal Press Toolkit Series

This book identifies the professional vocal coaching opportunities and the avenues by which a student or early career coach can navigate the vocation. The Voice Coach is defined as someone who coaches the spoken voice in three precise areas: the teaching artist, the professional film/Tv/theatre coach, and the professional voice-user coach. Each area is broadly defined and includes in-depth interviews and practical advice from top coaches along with the author’s personal expertise. This book is useful for both early-career coaches and for those looking to expand their vocal coaching career or vocal pedagogy students who need a broad survey of all three areas.

Anti-Black Literacy Laws and Policies

Ariette Ingram Willis, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign

This groundbreaking book uncovers how anti-Black racism has informed and perpetuated anti-literacy laws, policies, and customs from the colonial period to the present day. A counternarrative of the history of Black literacy in the United States, the book’s historical lens reveals the interlocking political and social structures that have repeatedly failed to support equity in literacy for Black students. A definitive history of the instructional and legal structures that have harmed generations of Black people, this text is essential for scholars, students, and policymakers in literacy education, reading research, history of education, and social justice education.

Boys Do Cry

Improving Boys’ Mental Health and Wellbeing in Schools

Matt Pinkett

From bullying and sexism to traditional ideals of masculinity, outdated expectations of what it is to be male are causing boys to suffer. Boys Do Cry examines key research on factors impacting boys’ mental health and arms teachers with a range of practical strategies to start enacting positive change. This is an essential read for teachers and school leaders who want to ensure they are improving the mental health of boys in their schools, challenging toxic behaviours, and equipping the current generation of boys to become happy, healthy, emotionally articulate men.

Children and Interculturality in Education

Andreas Jacobsson, Karlstad University, Sweden, Heidi Layne, University of Jyväskylä, Finland and Fred Dervin, University of Helsinki, Finland

This book presents new perspectives on how to introduce interculturality to children. It proposes a concrete model for introducing sensitive topics around culture, race and intersectionality. The book develops the reader’s criticality and reflexivity, providing original and concrete tools to introduce interculturality to children and to make children aware of how intercultural issues matter in their lives and in the world. It includes case studies of children’s realities from across the world, and provides insights into how to approach sensitive topics such as culturalism, discrimination, inequality, racism, wealth and health in relation to diversity in different contexts.

Guiding Kids Through the Tough Moments
Techniques to Build a Space Where Children Can Thrive

Mark Le Messurier, Education consultant, Australia

This book centres around those moments when we must get involved, or call a child out on an unsafe, careless, or selfish action. It provides guidance for navigating the commodification and the processes, as well as the grit required in the tougher moments. It’s these moments that reveal what is really happening between children and their parents, educators, or carers. The book outlines a special set of attitudes and skills described as using our ‘soft eyes and warm hearts’. In this space, we hold a child or teen accountable using an almost counterculture mindset. One that connects leadership and strength, directly with kindness.

Visible Learning: The Sequel
A Synthesis of Over 2,100 Meta-Analyses Relating to Achievement
John Hattie, University of Melbourne
When the original Visible Learning published in 2008 it instantly became a publishing sensation. Interest in the book was unparalleled; it sold out in days and was described by the TES as revealing ‘teaching’s Holy Grail’. Now John Hattie returns to this ground-breaking work. The research underlying this book is now informed by more than 2,100 meta-analyses (more than double that of the original), drawn from more than 130,000 studies and involving more than 400 million students from all around the world. Building upon the success of original, this highly anticipated sequel expands Hattie’s model of teaching and learning based on evidence of impact and is essential reading.

What Do New Teachers Need to Know?
A Roadmap to Expertise
Peter Foster
What knowledge will make you most effective as a teacher? New teachers are often bombarded with information about the concepts they should understand and the topics they should master. This indispensable book will help you navigate the research on curriculum, cognitive science, student data and more, providing clarity and key takeaways for those looking to grow their teaching expertise. Packed with case studies and interviews with new and training teachers alongside key takeaways for the classroom, this book is essential reading for early career teachers, those undertaking initial teacher training, and current teachers looking to develop their expertise.

Working with Boys
Creating Cultures of Mutual Respect in Schools
Andrew Hampton
When peer-on-peer sexual abuse becomes commonplace in schools, society has a problem. The toxic attitudes and behaviour some boys display towards girls and women begin with the way those boys relate to each other, especially in school. This book offers an in-depth analysis of the problems facing boys, and gives teachers the tools to help boys create relational cultures that are mutually respectful. Working with Boys is a whole-school, iterative programme of study: it is essential reading for school leaders and teachers who want to promote a school environment in which boys are consistently principled, honourable, noble, trustworthy, and dignified.

Be Visible Or Vanish
Engage, Influence, and Ensure Your Research Has Impact

Inger Mewburn, ANU, Australia and Simon Clews
Series: Insider Guides to Success in Academia

In this insightful book, the authors look at some of the most common presentation scenarios that researchers will face when talking about their work. Starting in academia with the deceptively simple art of writing a good email and working through lectures, conference presentations and lightning talks, the book then moves ‘off campus’ and explores talking to the media, making elevator pitches, and creating an effective digital presence on social media.

This text will be invaluable for students, academics and researchers hoping to effectively communicate complex information in a way that can be understood and appreciated by their peers, colleagues and the wider world.

Peace or Democracy?
Peacebuilding Dilemmas to Transition from Civil Wars
Izabela Pereira Watts, University of Wollongong, Australia, University of New South Wales, Australia
Contrary to the common belief that peace and democracy go hand in hand after a civil war, Pereira Watts argues they are in fact at a crossroads. Offering an innovative framework, based on Philosophical, Actors and Tactical considerations, she identifies 14 dynamic dilemmas in democratic peacebuilding, with respective trade-offs. She focuses on explaining the contradictions in modern post-conflict recovery, the challenges facing interim governments, and the role of the international community. An essential resource for decision-takers, policymakers, international analysts, students and practitioners in the field of peacebuilding, democracy building and state-building.

A New Approach to Cross-Cultural People Management
People are People

Robert Grosse

There is no doubt that cultural differences should be understood and appreciated, not only because this is the right thing to do in a multicultural world, but because failure to understand these differences when doing business can result in costly mistakes. But when managing people, what matters most is showing respect and interest - because what motivates (and de-motivates) is the same regardless of cultural background. This book explains and illustrates eight themes in which people are very similar across cultures, including trust, fairness, integrity, and, though often overlooked in an organizational context, the reasons why people work.

Leading a Business School

Julie Davies, Howard Thomas, Eric Cornuel and Rolf D. Cremer

This candid and well-researched book is essential reading for aspiring business school leaders, those hiring and working with deans, and other higher education leaders. Business schools are critical players in higher education, educating current and future leaders to make a difference in the world. Yet we know surprisingly little about the leaders of business schools. Leading a Business School offers international insights into deans’ dilemmas in different contexts. It highlights the importance of deans creating challenging and supportive learning cultures to enhance business and management education, organisations, and society more broadly.

Sentient Strategy
How to Create Market-Dominating Strategies in Turbulent Economies
Alan Weiss
Alan Weiss equips the reader to consider using this approach independently. These are new times – new reality, a “no normal” — hence, it’s ridiculous to use old approaches to strategy.

The Lean CFO
2nd Edition
Nicholas S. Katko
This book is not about debts, credits, or accounting theory. Instead, it describes how a chief financial officer (CFO) becomes a Lean CFO by leading a company in developing and deploying a Lean management system. The finance team, business executives, and Lean leaders will all benefit from its forward-thinking improvement approach.

The Next Leadership Team
How to Select, Build, and Optimize Your Top Team
Thomas Keil and Marianna Zangrillo
CEOs and organizational leaders are only as strong as the teams they build. And yet little practical advice exists for senior leaders on how to create, build and optimize their teams. Illustrated with real-life examples from interviews with CEOs, C-suite members, and headhunters throughout, this book explains how senior leaders can improve the performance of their leadership teams by identifying clear team approaches, associated team member profiles, and by leading that team. This is essential reading for CEOs and senior executives who need to build and develop leadership teams to drive success in the organizations they lead, and for headhunters involved in these processes.

The Roadmap for Sustainable Business and Net Zero Carbon Emission
Henry Wang
What does sustainable business and net zero carbon emission mean for businesses globally? How should companies globally transform into sustainable businesses with net zero carbon emissions? This book unpacks the institutional, organisational and management challenges in pursuing sustainable business and carbon neutrality for businesses. Written by an internationally recognised Climate and Business expert, Wang provides real-life cases across different countries and business sectors. It will appeal to anyone interested to learn more about the successful planning and execution of sustainable business and net zero carbon neutrality transformations.

2nd Edition
The Origins of Ethical Failures
Dennis Gentilin
In this thoroughly updated new edition of his groundbreaking, award-winning book, Dennis Gentilin draws on both his personal experience as a well-known whistleblower and recent events in the Australian financial services industry to provide insights into how widespread, systemic ethical failure can take hold in an industry and, crucially, what leaders need to focus on to avoid it. Gentilin draws on experimental research from economics and finance to illustrate how, when the conditions are permissive, humans have a predisposition towards dishonesty, and therefore, to reduce the likelihood of ethical failure, leaders must focus on putting in place appropriate institutional arrangements.

The Security Risk Handbook
Assess, Survey, Audit
Charles Swanson
Today, more than ever, organisations are vulnerable to the threat of physical and cyber-attacks from sophisticated and aggressive criminal and terrorist groups. To prevent or mitigate such risks to their physical and digital systems, and as the basis for any organisational security review, businesses need to be able to carry out effective security risk assessments, security surveys and security audits. The Security Risk Handbook provides clear guidelines and standardised detailed processes and procedures for carrying out all three stages of the security journey: assess, survey, audit. Packed with tools and templates, the book is supremely practical.

The Positive Impact Mindset
Working Together in a Polarized World
Katrin Muff
This book empowers changemakers and business leaders to understand how successful organizations in the 21st century require leaders who are fluent in collaborating outside of traditional business boundaries. Such collaboration often involves working with parties that hold very different values, opinions and priorities, and working with them requires new skills. The book provides clear guidance as to how leaders can move to new ‘outside-in’ mindsets to overcome polarization and develop a Positive Impact Mindset.

Triple Value Leadership
Creating Sustainable Value for Your Business, Your Customers and Society
Sander Tideman
With the sustainability emergency, businesses can no longer give priority to commercial interests (and financial gains) and close their eyes to societal and environmental interests. We need a new, higher perspective to close the gap. We need to formulate a new business logic and a sustainable value creation method for sustainable business, for their customers and society—that is, all business stakeholders, as well as the planet. This book will do just that. It will also offer you a leadership journey—an adventure that will transform the way to think, feel and execute the new perspective in your company.

TRUST, IMPACT, AND FUNDRAISING FOR NONPROFITS
How meaningful ethics and strategic evaluation can multiply your revenue and expand your program

Kenneth Phillips
Distilling decades of leadership expertise into an effective framework, this is a practical guidebook for nonprofits around the globe, with practical recommendations for the urgently needed steps to make this a better world. Charities in the U.S. and NGOs globally need to overcome two glaring and persistent weaknesses in the eyes of potential donors: trustworthiness and effectiveness.

Staff and volunteers at registered nonprofits around the world, as well as any individual or group raising funds more informally, will value this guide to empower organizations to win trust, raise more funds, and achieve greater program impact.

Abolish Criminology
Edited by Viviane Saleh-Hanna, University of Massachusetts, Dartmouth, Jason Williams and Michael J Coyle, California State University, Chico, USA
Series: Routledge Studies in Penal Abolition and Transformative Justice
Abolish Criminology presents critical scholarship on Criminology and Criminal Justice ideologies and practices, alongside emerging freedom-driven discourses that encourage a vision and practice of new world formations. The book introduces readers to a detailed history and analysis of crime as a concept and its colonizing trajectories into existence and enforcement. These significant contexts buried within peculiar academic histories are often overlooked or unknown in academic and public discussions, and representations of crime and the criminal legal system.

Culture, Diversity, and Criminal Justice
Towards Culturally Safe Criminal Justice Systems
Edited by Alex Workman, Ranya Kaddour and Patricia M. Griffin
This ground-breaking textbook engages readers in conversation about responding to the effects of diversity within formal criminal justice systems in Westernized nation-states. Moving past a binary concept of diversity that involves only race and gender, this book elaborates upon a wide variety of other forms of diversity, including sexuality, disability, mental health, gendered identity, refugees, the young and the ageing, and culturally and linguistically diverse (CALD) peoples, with an awareness of how intersecting identities make some people more vulnerable than others.

International Responses to Gendered-Based Domestic Violence
Gender-Specific and Socio-Cultural Approaches
Edited by Dongling Zhang, Webster University, Missouri and Diana Scharff Peterson
Series: Advances in Police Theory and Practice
This book represents a joint effort by international experts to analyze the prevalence and nature of gender-based domestic violence across the globe and how it is dealt with at both national and international levels. With studies being conducted in 20 different countries and four distinct regions, the contributors to this volume shed light on the ways in which contextual particularities shape the practices and strategies of addressing the socio-cultural and legal problem of gender-based domestic violence in the countries or regions where they do research. The book is intended for a wide range of scholars (both professors and students) and practitioners in a large number of areas.

Mafia, Deviant Masons and Corruption
Shifty Brotherhoods in Italy
Anna Sergi, University of Essex, UK and Alberto Vannucci
Series: Routledge Studies in Organised Crime
This book is the first to consider the intersection between mafia power and deviant masonic lodges within the political sphere of the contemporary Italian state. At its core, it offers an analysis of the shifting interactions across powerful actors and the ways in which they balance reciprocal obedience, and a unique insight into the political processes where mafia actors and deviant lodges play a significant role in the allocation of resources.
This book is a major contribution to the literature on mafias and organised crime across criminology, sociology and political science, and will be of great interest students, researchers, scholars and engaged general readers.

Populism, Punishment and the Threat to Democratic Order
The Return of the Strong Men
John Pratt, Victoria University of Wellington
Series: Routledge Studies in Crime and Society
This book traces the rise of contemporary populism in Western democracies, marked by the return of would-be ‘strong men’ politicians. It seeks to make sense of the resultant nature, origins, and consequences—as expressed, for example, in the startling rise of the social movement surrounding Trump in the US, Brexit in the UK and the remarkable spread of ideologies that express resistance to ‘facts,” science, and expertise. Uniquely, the book shows how what began as a form of penal populism in the early 1990s transformed into a more wide ranging populist politics with the potential to undermine or even overturn the democratic order altogether.

The Dark Mafia
Organized Crime in the Age of the Internet
Antonio Nicaso and Marcel Danesi
This book explores the way in which organized crime gangs have adapted and evolved in synch with ever-expanding technologies, using these not only to update their popular image, but also the ways in which they conduct their secretive operations.
To better understand the new generation of criminal actors, it is becoming ever more urgent to understand the new technologies and how the criminals are utilizing them. The Dark Mafia is an engaging and accessible introduction to understanding virtual organized crime and will appeal to students and scholars of criminology, sociology, policing, and all those interested in the digital age of the mafia.

A New Principles of Economics
The Science of Markets
Carsten Herrmann-Pillath, Universität Erfurt, Germany and Christian Hederer
Despite the dynamic development of the discipline of economics, the ways in which economics is taught and how it defines its basic principles have hardly changed, resulting in economics being criticised for its inability to provide relevant insights on global challenges. In response, this book defines a new principles of economics and seeks to establish economics as the ‘science of markets’. Drawing on the latest theories and research on the economy, with the inclusion of both the natural sciences and social sciences, this text provides a holistic introduction suitable for postgraduates and other advanced students.

The Economics of John Maynard Keynes
Fabio Terra

Widely recognized as one of the greatest economists in history, there has been a surge of interest in the work of John Maynard Keynes since the financial crisis of 2008 with people looking for solutions to rebalance the economy. Presciently, Keynes argued that free markets are unable to fully organize economic activity and that the steadying and reforming hand of the State is needed for capitalism to function properly. In the aftermath of the financial crisis of 2008, and exacerbated by a global pandemic, these ideas are more timely than ever.

Cities and Metaphors
Beyond Imaginaries of Islamic Urban Space

Somaiyeh Falahat

The cities of the Islamic Middle East and North Africa have long been described as chaotic and maze-like - conceptions that arise from Western authors using their own norms and understandings of the urban. A new approach is needed. To read the city we must grasp indigenous terms and concepts, because autochthonous terms are connected to the mentality of the people and can be used to better express the nature of their cities. As an alternative to the Western concept of the labyrinth this book develops a new analysis method within the city - and suggests that an indigenous term, Hezar-Too, can explain the essence of the city and its form in an appropriate way.

Gender, Constitutions, and Equality

A Global Comparison

Priscilla A. Lambert, Western Michigan University, USA and Druscilla L. Scribner, University of Wisconsin, USA

Series: Gender and Comparative Politics

This book addresses whether the "gendering" of constitutions promotes women’s equality. At a time when gender equality provisions are increasingly common in constitutional design, this book clarifies the mechanisms that link constitutional provisions to changes in process and outcomes, whilst also systematically describing and analyzing the effect of gender equality across countries and over time. Gender, Constitutions, and Equality will inform theoretical debates on gender and constitutional design and its effect on legislation and political strategies.

Edited by Willy Legrand, Henri Kuokkanen, Institut Paul Bocuse, FRANCE and Jonathon Day, Purdue University, USA
Informed by the scholarly and practical viewpoints of a myriad of internationally-recognized experts, this engaging and timely volume poses a set of pertinent questions that cover critical and contemporary sustainability issues in hospitality and tourism and proposes actionable solutions. This book is an essential reading for students and academics in the field of hospitality and tourism management, as well as industry professionals searching for answers to challenges they face in enacting sustainability in their business.

The Sustainable Museum
How Museums Contribute to the Great Transformation
Christopher J. Garthe, Creative director and consultant for sustainability in museums and exhibitions.
Series: Routledge Guides to Practice in Museums, Galleries and Heritage
The Sustainable Museum is the first book to outline a coherent strategy for the direction of museums, as it relates to sustainability in the museum and heritage sector. This book will be essential reading for museum and heritage professionals around the globe. The book will also be of interest to academics and students engaged in the study of museums, arts and cultural management, business administration, change management or sustainable development.

Disneyization of Drug Use
Understanding Atypical Intoxication in Party Zones
Tim Turner, Coventry University, UK
Series: Drugs, Crime and Society
Disneyization of Drug Use offers an innovative, ground-up understanding of the atypical patterns of illegal drug use that often permeate multi-day party zones such as nightlife tourist resorts and music festivals. Drawing on ethnographic research conducted over three summers in Ibiza, the book contextualizes the drug and alcohol-related experiences of tourists and seasonal workers operating in the island’s infamously hedonistic party spaces.

Travel Writing for Tourism and City Branding
Urban Place-Writing Methodologies
Charlie Mansfield and Jasna Potočnik Topler
Travel Writing for Tourism and City Branding is an insightful, expert-led book which provides tourism students with a practice-based approach to producing researched literary travel writing on an urban destination, using the writing process as a research tool in itself. The book is scientifically supported with full academic references for researchers. This informative and practical volume will be of great interest to students of tourism marketing, destination marketing, place branding, travel writing, as well as current creators of commercial tourism marketing content.

Small Island and Small Destination Tourism
Overcoming the Smallness Barrier for Economic Growth and Tourism Competitiveness
Roberto Croes, University of Central Florida, USA
Series: Advances in Hospitality and Tourism
This new book thoroughly examines the phenomenon of why some small island destinations have been more successful than others. The main premise applied is that success and survival of small island tourism hinges on resolving the mystery regarding the relationship between competitiveness and quality of life. In addressing this question, the book reviews four relevant and interconnected concepts: tourism, competitiveness, quality of life, and scale (or size). In doing so, the book enhances understanding of the potential of tourism for the improvement of the quality of life of the residents of small islands.

The Listening Book
How to Create a World of Rich Connections and Surprising Growth by Actually Hearing Each Other

Robin Ticic, Coherence Psychology Inst., North Rhine-Westphalia, Elise Kushner, Coherence Psychology Inst., North Rhine-Westphalia and Bruce Ecker, Coherence Psychology Inst., NY

Satisfying, secure connection with others depends heavily on how well we listen to each other and respond to what we’ve heard. The Listening Book lays bare the key elements of both deeply attuned and badly misattuned listening in vivid scenes of real-life interactions that capture the emotional impact and give the reader an illuminating “aha” experience. Whether read solo, with a partner, or in a reading group, The Listening Book is for everyone who yearns for deeper emotional connection and closeness, everyone who is at a loss to understand what is interfering, and everyone who is fascinated by the subtle and manifold factors involved in interpersonal communication.

Current expansions and changes in the field of behavior analysis.

Using a behavioral perspective, Behavior Analysis and Learning provides an advanced introduction to the principles of behavior analysis and learned behaviors, covering a full range of principles from basic respondent and operand conditioning through applied behavior analysis into cultural design. The text uses Darwinian, neurophysiological, and biological theories and research to inform B. F. Skinner’s philosophy of radical behaviorism. This edition expands the focus on neurophysiological mechanisms and their relation to the experimental analysis of behavior, providing updated studies and references to reflect current expansions and changes in the field of behavior analysis.

2nd Edition

Behavioral Economics
The Basics

Philip Corr and Anke Plagnol
Series: The Basics

The second edition of Behavioral Economics: The Basics summarizes behavioral economics, which uses insights from the social sciences, especially psychology, to explain real-world economic behavior. This is a comprehensive overview of the whole field, covering all the main areas, presented in a rigorous yet accessible form. It should especially appeal to students, those with an interest in applying behavioral economic knowledge in their professional life, and anyone who wants to know how they are being influenced every day of their lives by (usually unseen) behavioral insights.

Childhood, Identity and Masculinity
The Boarding School Boys

Soosan Latham, York University, Toronto, Canada and Roya Ferdows

This volume examines the lives of ten Iranian men who were sent to boarding schools in England during the 1960s and 1970s. The reflective narratives explore issues of physical and emotional abuse received from administrators and peers, as well as the pressure of meeting expectations and becoming a man. It will be of interest to scholars of developmental psychology, childhood trauma, education, cultural psychology, men’s studies, and gender. Individuals and parents interested in, and considering boarding school education will also find the narratives informative and educational.

Developmental Trauma
Theory, Research and Practice

Daniel Cruz

Developmental Trauma offers a comprehensive introduction to the research findings that help us understand the effects on human development of early childhood trauma and adaptation to stress. It explains how PTSD differs from PTSD and emerges from a toxic seed planted at the beginning of an individual’s lifespan development. Ideal for students of child and adolescent psychology, developmental psychology, clinical psychology, primary care and health psychology, education, social work, and urban studies. It is relevant for graduate students in applied fields, such as clinical and counseling psychology, and those working with diverse children, and public health and policy.

Learning and Behavior

James E. Mazur and Amy L. Oдум, Utah State University

Learning and Behavior reviews how people and animals learn and how their behaviors are changed because of learning. It describes the most important principles, theories, controversies, and experiments that pertain to learning and behavior that are applicable to diverse species and different learning situations. Both classic studies and recent trends and developments are explored, providing a comprehensive survey of the field. Although the behavioral approach is emphasized, many cognitive theories are covered as well, along with a chapter on comparative cognition. Real-world examples and analogies make the concepts and theories more concrete and relevant to students.

Mistakes in Clinical Neuropsychology
Learning from a Case-based Approach

Oliver Turnbull, Rudi Coetzer and Christian Salas

This innovative book uses a case-based approach to discuss mistakes made in the practice of clinical neuropsychology to form a helpful tool in the training of early career clinicians. By allowing readers space for critical reflection during clinical practice, the book teaches competency in clinical neuropsychology, through the examination of errors as a central part of the learning process. This is valuable reading for students of clinical neuropsychology, occupational therapy and speech and language therapy as well as professionals in these fields such as neurologists, psychiatrists and other rehabilitation therapists.

Primatology, Ethics and Trauma
The Oklahoma Chimpanzee Studies

Robert Ingersoll and Antonina Anna Scarnà

Primatology, Ethics and Trauma offers an analytical re-examination of the research conducted into the linguistic abilities of the Oklahoma chimpanzees. It uncovers the historical reality of this research. It has been 50 years since the first language experiments on chimpanzees. Ingersoll and Scarnà discuss how this research failed to address the emotional needs of the animals. Research into trauma has made scientific advances since those studies. It is time to consider the research from a different perspective, examining the neglect and cruelty that was inflicted on those animals in the name of psychological science.

Myths and Lies about Dads
How They Hurt Us All

Linda Nielsen

This groundbreaking volume destroys the most damaging beliefs about fathers. Using the most recent research, it exposes these baseless beliefs and the toll they take on children’s relationships with their fathers, parents’ relationship with one another, and the physical and mental health of fathers and mothers. It is not only a wake-up call for parents, but also for students and professionals in medicine and family law, social work, child development, education, and in the publishing, advertising, media, and entertainment industries. Above all, the book empowers parents to free themselves from the myths and lies about fathers that bind them.

Statistical Power Analysis

A Simple and General Model for Traditional and Modern Hypothesis Tests

Brett Myors, Griffith University, Australia and Kevin R. Murphy

Statistical Power Analysis explains the key concepts in statistical power analysis and illustrates their application in both tests of traditional null hypotheses. It provides readers with the tools to understand and perform power analyses for virtually all the statistical methods used in the social and behavioral sciences. This edition includes new material and new power software. The programs used for power analysis in this book have been re-written in R, a language that is widely used and freely available. Statistical Power Analysis helps readers design studies, diagnose existing studies, and understand why hypothesis tests come out the way they do.

Rare Conditions, Diagnostic Challenges, and Controversies in Clinical Neuropsychology

Out of the Ordinary

Edited by Jessica Fish, Shai Betteridge and Barbara A. Wilson

This book highlights those rare, difficult to diagnose or controversial cases in contemporary clinical neuropsychology. By documenting the experiences and learning of clinicians who have worked with cases that are ‘out of the ordinary’, the book addresses an important gap in the literature. This book will be beneficial for clinical neuropsychologists and applied psychologists working with people with complex neurological conditions, along with individuals from medical, nursing, allied health and social work backgrounds. It will further be of appeal to educators, researchers and students of these professions and disciplines.

The Psychology of Counselling

Marie Percival

Series: The Psychology of Everything

The Psychology of Counselling explains the different approaches to therapy and how they are used in practice, giving information on what counselling can help with and what it cannot do. It looks at cognitive and behavioural therapies, psychoanalysis, and humanistic psychology, as well as exploring positive psychotherapy and the move away from a disease-based approach to counselling.

The text sheds light on the therapeutic process, what it involves, and how it works, to help all those seeking assistance for relieving emotional or psychological issues and improving their psychological wellness.

Women’s Lives

A Psychological Exploration

Claire A. Etaugh and Judith S. Bridges

Women’s Lives integrates the most current research and social issues to explore the psychological diversity of girls and women varying in age, ethnicity, social class, nationality, immigrant experience, sexual orientation, gender identity, ableness and body size and shape. The text embeds a lifespan perspective within each topical chapter and has an intersectional approach that integrates women’s diverse identities. It includes rich coverage of women with disabilities and on middle-aged and older women throughout. Taking a deeper transnational focus, it also examines the impact of social, cultural, and economic factors in shaping women’s lives around the world.

Big Little Hotel
Small Hotels Designed by Architects

Donna Kacmar
This book showcases different small hotels, all located in the US, designed by architects who use light and materials in interesting and intentional ways. The designs also deliberately connect to their local history, context, or land – in many cases all three. A condensed history of lodging helps to place the many typologies and histories of hospitality in relationship to world events and includes the many factors that influence hotel development such as business practices, technology, and even politics. Hotels are influenced by larger trends and innovations in hospitality such as the emergence of a variety of creative possibilities for future travel.

Information Economics with Real Estate Applications

Fredrik Armerin and Madeleine Hoefl

The purpose of this book is to give the reader an introduction to information economics in the context of applied real estate scenarios. It introduces the reader to many important economic concepts such as game theory, behavioural economics, oligopolies, probability and risk, but with real estate examples included throughout. Especially it describes what can go wrong, and how these situations can be avoided. By understanding the underlying theory, when faced with a new situation, e.g., a new type of contract, the reader has the tools to handle potential problems. It is ideal reading for courses in real estate economics, information economics, and real estate management.

New Aspects of Quantity Surveying Practice

Duncan Cartlidge, Construction Procurement Consultant, UK

The construction industry is undergoing great change particularly with the introduction of digital technologies and the increasing emphasis on sustainability and ethical practice. The fifth edition of New Aspects of Quantity Surveying Practice introduces and discusses these changes and their impact on the industry. Includes: A new chapter on the impact of digital construction and coverage of sustainable construction, procurement trends, ethics and ethical practice and the RICS Futures (2020) publication. Essential reading for all Quantity Surveying students, teachers and professionals.

A Beginner’s Guide to Urban Design and Development

The ABC of Quality, Sustainable Design
Laura B. Alvarez
This book provides invaluable guidance to all those with an interest in placemaking and the built environment, from those with no experience to those who have worked for many years in industry, illustrating key principles that will secure higher quality, more sustainable design in accessible, jargon-free language. It showcases a variety of evaluation tools, explaining how they operate, and giving guidance on how to create project-specific tools to drive schemes forward. With community empowerment at its core, the book explains technical language and shares bountiful knowledge to broaden place democracy and make influencing design accessible to many, not just a few.

Active Landscape Photography

Diverse Practices
Edited by Anne C Godfrey, State University of New York, USA
Series: Active Landscape Photography
Diverse Practices, the third book in the Active Landscape Photography series, presents a set of unique photographic examples for site-specific investigations of landscape places. Contributed by authors across academia, practice, and photography each chapter serves as both a rigorous discussion about the photographic methods and their underlying concepts and case studies from specific projects, places, and landscape issues. Practitioners, academics, students, and researchers will be inspired by the underlying concepts of these examples and come away with a better understanding about how to create their own rigorous photographic practices.

Conceptual Landscapes

Fundamentals in the Beginning Design Process
Edited by Simon M. Bussiere
Conceptual Landscapes explores the dilemma faced in the early moments of design thinking through a gradient of work in landscape and environmental design media by both emerging and well-established designers and educators of landscape architecture. Through a careful arrangement of visual essays that integrate analogue, digital, and mixed-media works and processes, the book highlights differences between diverse techniques and triggers debate between design, representation, technology, and creative culture in the field. Lavishly illustrated with over 210 full-colour images, this book is a must-read for students and instructors in landscape architecture.

Landscape Performance Modeling Using Rhino and Grasshopper

Phillip Zawaros
This is a guidebook for landscape architects to learn the fundamental practices and use of the computational software Rhino 3D and the plugin Grasshopper for parametric modelling, landscape inventory, and performative analysis. Chapters cover parametric modelling scripts to measure ecosystem services of stormwater management, erosion control, tree benefits, outdoor comfort, accessibility, and many others. This book will be beneficial to educators, students and professionals interested in using computational modelling as a performance assessment and graphic visualization tool.

Neuroscience for Designing Green Spaces

Contemplative Landscapes
Agnieszka Olszewska-Guizzo
This book delves into the neuroscience behind contemplative landscapes, their key spatial characteristics, and practical application of the Contemplative Landscape Model through case studies from around the world. In the face of the global mental health crisis, and increasing disconnection from nature, design strategies for creating healthier urban environments are what our cities so sorely need. Landscape architects, urban planners, students, land managers, and anyone interested in unlocking the healing power of landscapes will find inspiration here.

Redesigning the Unremarkable

Evonne Miller, Associate Professor, Director, QUT Design Lab, Australia and Debra Flanders Cushing
This book is a timely and necessary reminder that the often neglected elements and spaces of our built environment—from trash bins, seats, stairwains, and fences to streets, bikeways, underpasses, parking lots, and shopping centers—must be thoughtfully redesigned to enhance human and planetary health. Using the lens of sustainable, salutogenic, and playable design, in this inspiring book, Miller and Cushing explore the challenges, opportunities, and importance of redesigning the unremarkable. This is a doer’s guide for researchers, policymakers, and practitioners wanting to transform and positively reimagine our urban environment.

This book presents emerging design-inspired practices, pointing to some of the threats and detrimental effects that may arise from their adoption. Departing from the idealism that tends to dominate the Scandinavian tradition on design, it instead proposes that concepts like participative design, social design and design thinking need to be analysed through a realist lens. Using the notion of Realdesign, as a parallel to Realpolitik, the authors aim to highlight political, social and methodological obstacles when designers turn to design thinking, participation and "living labs", with the hope of changing the world for the better.

Routledge Handbook of Cultural Landscape Practice
Edited by Steve Brown, University of Sydney, Australia and Cari Goetchues, University of Georgia, USA

This book centers on cultural landscapes, which in the field of heritage studies and practice relates to caring for and safeguarding heritage landscapes, a concept embedded in contemporary conservation. The aim of the Handbook is to strike a balance between theory and practice, which we see as inseparable, while also seeking to achieve a geographical spread, disciplinary diversity and perspectives, and a mix of authors from academic, practitioner, management, and community backgrounds.

Routledge Handbook of Urban Public Space
Use, Design, and Management
Edited by Karen A. Franck and Te-Sheng Huang

This handbook presents evidence that there has not been an end of public space and its varied use. In cities in different parts of the world people still use public space to pursue activities of their choice, including for recreation, commerce, protest, living and celebration. Each section of the book is international in scope, presenting cases of activities in Brazil, China, Colombia, DR Congo, Egypt, Finland, Germany, Libya, Taiwan, Turkey and the U.S. Graduate students, faculty members and researchers in social science, architecture, landscape architecture, geography, and urban design will find the book useful for understanding, studying, and designing urban public space.

Architect: The evolving story of a profession

Eleanor Jolliffe and Paul Crosby

The architect’s role is constantly adapting. Throughout history it has shifted significantly, shaped by social, cultural, technological and economic forces. The very definition of what an architect is and does has evolved over time from lead builder or master mason to principal designer. A collaborative and reactive profession, it is inextricably linked to the power of the patron, whether the client is an influential and affluent individual or a political, commercial, civic or religious organisation.

RIBA Climate Guide

Mina Hasman

Climate change is a threat to humankind, which requires immediate action. The built environment has a vital role to play in responding to the climate emergency. There is a pressing need for architects to acquire the requisite skills and knowledge to design buildings that deliver sustainable outcomes, meeting the RIBA 2030 Climate Challenge and mandatory competence in climate literacy. Equipping you with the key information that built environment professionals require to halt climate change and mitigate its impacts in your day-to-day work, this book is organised around six overarching topics.

Drawing Attention

Architecture in the Age of Social Media

Edited by Hamza Shaikh

How did you do that drawing? What software did you use? What’s your process? You may have found yourself asking these questions about a striking architectural drawing. In recent years, social media has become a primary source of expression for architects and designers, yet there isn’t always the means to find out how their works became reality. Giving you a peek behind the illustrative curtain, this book demystifies the process and technique that created some of the most outstanding drawings in your feed.

RIBA Ethical Practice Guide

Carys Rowlands and Alasdair Ben Dixon

Ethical practice distinguishes an RIBA chartered architect from other design professionals. The RIBA Code of Professional Conduct requires practitioners to uphold high standards, while encouraging and empowering them to reflect critically and to continually strive to improve. The Grenfell Tower tragedy was a significant reminder of the ethical responsibilities of the architect, and the importance of ethical decision-making. By making ethical practice one of its mandatory competences, the RIBA has made it a requirement that students and professionals develop a fundamental level of awareness and understanding of ethics.

Reworking the Workplace

Connecting people, purpose and place

Nicola Gillen and Richard Pickering

The office has changed forever. Emerging from the pandemic, the workplace has undergone its greatest disruption since the dawn of the service economy. Covid has rewritten the rule book for investors, developers, designers, operators and users of office buildings. This book delves into this changing landscape. Divided into three sections – People, Purpose and Place – it identifies the emerging trends in the reworking of work culture and offers insights into innovations and ideas that will inform the workplace of tomorrow.

The New Country

City style for rural living

Dean Keyworth

This book shows you how to create a sophisticated scheme while also understanding the practicalities of designing for rural living. This practical and attractive design guide, including inspirational case studies, gives a fresh perspective on designing for country homes, explaining how to integrate contemporary style while engaging with current concerns such as how to design for sustainable building and wellbeing.

Merchant Ship Types
Alexander Arnfinn Olsen, RINA Consulting Defence, UK
This gives students and cadets a detailed introduction to the classifications and main categories of merchant vessels. It introduces the concept of ship classification – by usage (feeder, general, container, tankers, dry bulk, multi-purpose, reefers, and roll on roll off), by cargo type (dry cargo, wet cargo, specialised), and by size (Handy, Seawaymax, Panamax, NeoPanamax, VLCC). It explains the ports and channels where and why each type is permitted to enter, showing the type of cargoes carried, and specific safety or risk factors, and their main characteristics, along with relevant case studies.

Introduction to Ship Engine Room Systems
Alexander Arnfinn Olsen, RINA Consulting Defence, UK
Introduction to Ship Engine Room Systems outlines the key systems, machinery and equipment found in a ship’s engine room. It covers the basics of their function with overall practical guidance for engine room operation and maintenance, recognising emerging environmental challenges. It serves as an introduction for engineering students at HNC, HND and foundation degree level and marine engineering cadets, as well as a useful guide for deck officers and cadets who want a general appreciation of how the engine room functions.

Firefighting and Fire Safety Systems on Ships
Alexander Arnfinn Olsen, RINA Consulting Defence, UK
This accessible reference introduces firefighting and fire safety systems on ships for professional seafarers, students and cadets, as well as leisure sailors and professionals involved in the logistics industry. It is written in line with the IACS Classification Rules for Firefighting Systems, covering the design, construction, use and maintenance of firefighting and fire safety systems, and with cross references to the American Bureau of Shipping rules and various Class regulations which pertain to specific Class rules. It is particularly useful for naval architects, ship designers and engineers who need to interpret the Class rules when developing shipboard firefighting systems.

Maritime Cargo Operations
Alexander Arnfinn Olsen, RINA Consulting Defence, UK
Maritime Cargo Operations introduces the core concepts of cargo work for marine engineering students and cadets. It provides enough detail to provide a sound basis for a future career, and is built around the essential principles of the maritime profession. Each subject area begins with a learning outcome and ends with self-test questions. It also offers a general overview for deck officers.

Water for Life
Drinking Water, Health, Food, Energy Nexus
A.W. Jayawardena, University of Hong Kong, Hong Kong
Although there is plenty of water to meet the demands of the present population and even for a projected population of about 9 billion, it is not always available when and where needed. The water-food-energy nexus is central to sustainable development with water driving the food and energy sectors. This book surveys the multi-faceted uses, values and importance of water for mankind: water resources, chemistry of water, drinking water, and the links between water and health, food, irrigation, soil, energy, transport, industry, recreation, disasters and conflicts. It includes some links with water engineering to help students and practitioners.

THE NEW CRITICAL IDIOM series includes invaluable introductory texts designed to meet the needs of students grappling with the complexities of modern critical terminology.

With a strong emphasis on clarity and the widest breadth of examples, these books are indispensable guides to key topics in literary studies.

Each book provides:
- A clear, explanatory guide to the use (and abuse) of the term
- An original overview by a leading literary and cultural critic
- Helpful definitions of the boundaries between the literary and non-literary
- Guidance for the introductory reader in how the term relates to the larger field
