Our history

Over two centuries ago, the foundations of the company were laid in pioneering fashion when in 1798 Richard Taylor launched the Philosophical Magazine, one of the first scientific journals produced by an independent company. It was the start of much close collaboration with scholarly societies. Dr William Francis, a chemist, joined Richard Taylor in 1852 and continued the tradition of the close links between the academic community and the company.

Today, we continue to be fully committed to the publication of academic and scholarly information of the highest quality and this remains our primary goal.

Taylor & Francis has grown rapidly to become a leading international, academic publisher. With offices across the globe, the Taylor & Francis Group now publishes more than 2,200 journals and over 5,200 new books each year; with a books backlist in excess of 110,000 specialist titles.

Prices featured are correct at time of going to press but are subject to change without notice.

Book orders should be addressed to the Taylor & Francis Customer Services Department at Hachette, or the appropriate overseas agent.

Hosting Earth

Facing the Climate Emergency

Edited by Richard Kearney Boston College, USA, Peter Klapes Boston College, USA, Urwa Hameed Free Immigrations Services, USA

Series: Psychology and the Other

Hosting Earth is a timely and much-needed volume in the emerging literature of environmental philosophy, drawing upon art, science, and politics to explore alternatives to the traditional domination of nature by humans. Focusing on the central role that the human psyche plays in answering our current ecological emergency, Hosting Earth is for anybody invested in the future of our planet and how psychological, psychoanalytic, and philosophical thought can reorient the current conversation about ecology.

Introducing Chinese Philosophy

From the Warring States to the 21st Century

Douglas Berger Leiden University

This book presents an introductory survey of the major themes, thinkers and texts, philosophical genres and profound insights of the Chinese philosophical tradition. Its coverage ranges from the foundational history of Chinese thought in the 6th-5th centuries BCE up to the present day. The first two chapters provide an overview of the broad history of Chinese philosophy and offer examples of the different literary styles in which philosophy was written throughout the ages. The remaining chapters explore major and ever-pervasive themes of Chinese philosophical reflection that span the entire development of the heritage.

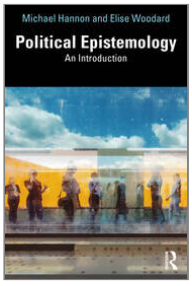
Political Epistemology

An Introduction



Michael Hannon University of Nottingham, UK, Elise Woodard Massachusetts Institute of Technology, USA

The New Scientist recently declared that "Philosophers of knowledge, your time has come" and even Barack Obama has warned of an "epistemological crisis". The rise of populism and conspiracy theories means epistemological questions are now forefront in our lives. This extremely timely introduction to political epistemology is the ideal starting place for anyone studying this fascinating and rapidly growing topic, whether in epistemology, political philosophy or applied ethics. It will also be of interest to students and researchers in related fields, such as political science, law and public policy.

The Routledge Guidebook to Hume's A Treatise of Human Nature

P. J. E. Kail University of Oxford, UK

Series: The Routledge Guides to the Great Books

David Hume is widely acknowledged as the greatest philosopher to have written in English, and A Treatise of Human Nature is regarded as his masterpiece. It is a profound work of great ambition, seeking to reorient philosophy by establishing a 'science of human nature'. Following the structure of the original work, this book provides a clear and accessible introduction to its key themes. Written for readers approaching Hume's work for the first time, it is an essential introduction for undergraduate students studying the history of modern philosophy, and all those who wish to engage more deeply with this classic work.

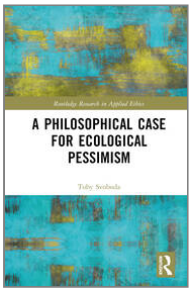
A Philosophical Case for Ecological Pessimism



Toby Svoboda Colgate University, USA

Series: Routledge Research in Applied Ethics

This book defends ecological pessimism, whose core feature is the belief that ecological catastrophe is likely to occur in the future. The author's defense has two components. First, he makes the case that the relevant ecological facts about our world make ecological pessimism a reasonable expectation. Second, he argues that ecological pessimism is morally and practically appropriate. Despite this, the author makes clear that being pessimistic about our ecological prospects is compatible with the melioristic project of improving our bad condition. He argues that environmental philosophy as a way of life is both a robust and attractive option for an ecological pessimist.

Ending Wars Justly

Theory and Applications

Edited by David K. Chan University of Alabama at Birmingham, USA

Series: Routledge Research in Applied Ethics

This volume features original essays on the ethics of ending wars (jus ex bello). The chapters address the question of how and when wars can end justly. Part 1 approaches jus ex bello from different theoretical angles, including just war theory, realism, pacifism, and feminism. Part 2 discusses specific aspects of recent wars: the U.S. withdrawal from Afghanistan after 20 years of military involvement in the country; and the war that began with the Russian invasion of Ukraine in 2022 and that is so difficult to end despite the escalating human cost. The book fills a significant gap in just war theory and sets the stage for other thinkers to engage with the topic.

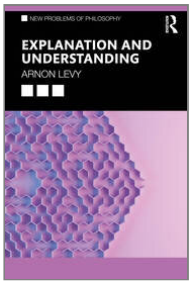
Explanation and Understanding



Arnon Levy Hebrew University of Jerusalem, Israel

Series: New Problems of Philosophy

Science has multiple goals: to describe the world, as it is now; to predict the future and to make inferences about the past. But science also aims to understand the world – to explain why it is the way it is. But what does it take to explain a phenomenon? What philosophical questions are at stake? In this thorough and clearly written introduction to scientific explanation, Arnon Levy explores the following questions and more. Additional features - such as chapter summaries, suggestions for further reading, and a glossary - make this an excellent resource for students of philosophy of science, metaphysics and philosophy of psychology.

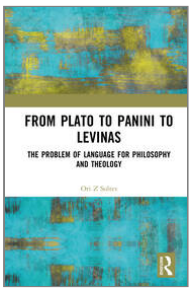
From Plato to Panini to Levinas

The Problem of Language for Philosophy and Theology



Ori Z Soltes

This volume offers an innovative exploration of Western social and religious thought and bridges the expression of a regional imagination with several planetary conversations. It reconnects Plato and philosophy to the issue of theology and religion and the limits of language as an instrument in engaging both disciplines. It thus offers new horizons in the Western World and India by connecting Plato's Cratylus to the works of Saussure, Wittgenstein, Barthes, Derrida, Levinas, as well as to Panini, Aurobindo, Ranjan Dass, Giri, and the Gita. The volume will be of great interest to scholars and researchers of philosophy, linguistics, and religion.

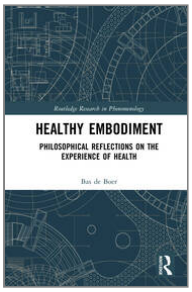
Healthy Embodiment

Philosophical Reflections on the Experience of Health



Bas de Boer University of Twente, The Netherlands

Series: Routledge Research in Phenomenology

This book provides a philosophical analysis of the experience of health and investigates how this experience is shaped by recent developments in medicine and public health. It argues that these developments shape how we experience the health of ourselves and others, as well as the way in which we distinguish between health and illness. Its starting point is that health is not so much an object with well-defined boundaries but is better understood as an embodied experience. The author develops a theory of healthy embodiment and argues that experiencing oneself as a healthy subject requires being made present as a healthy object by someone or something else.

Kant and the Systematicity of the Sciences

Edited by Gabriele Gava University of Turin, Italy, Thomas Sturm Autonomous University of Barcelona, Spain, Achim Vesper Goethe University Frankfurt, Germany

Series: Routledge Studies in Eighteenth-Century Philosophy

This book provides the first comprehensive discussion regarding the role that Kant ascribes to systematicity in the sciences. It considers not only what Kant has to say on systematicity in general, but also how the systematicity requirement for science is specified in different fields of knowledge. Part 1 explores precursors of Kant's account of the systematicity of the sciences. Part 2 addresses the application of systematicity to the special sciences—cosmology, physics, chemistry, logic, mathematics, the life sciences and history. Finally, Part 3 explores the systematicity of philosophy.

Knowledge and Rationality

Essays in Honor of Stewart Cohen

Edited by Juan Comesaña Rutgers University, USA, Matthew McGrath Washington University in St. Louis, USA

Series: Routledge Studies in Epistemology

This book features original essays on knowledge and rationality as related to the work of Stewart Cohen, one of the most influential epistemologists of the last few decades. The chapters in this book reflect of Cohen's legacy and address a variety of important topics related to his work, including the New Evil Demon problem, epistemic justification, epistemic contextualism, pragmatic and moral encroachment, epistemic obligations, skepticism, and the problem of easy knowledge. The book also includes a complete bibliography of Cohen's works.

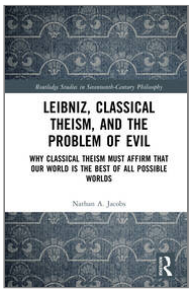
Leibniz, Classical Theism, and the Problem of Evil

Why Classical Theism Must Affirm That Our World is the Best of All Possible Worlds



Nathan A. Jacobs Vanderbilt University Divinity School, USA

Series: Routledge Studies in Seventeenth-Century Philosophy

This book offers a defense of Leibniz's theodicy and his claim that our world is the best of all possible worlds. It considers Leibniz's rationale for "optimism," examines its roots in ancient and medieval thought, and highlights the very real challenges of evading optimism from within the framework of classical theism. It demonstrates the ways in which Leibniz is relevant to not only classical theists and students of Modern philosophy but also to contemporary philosophy of religion more generally and philosophical theologians who are concerned with the problem of evil.

Political Tribalism

How it Hijacks Our Minds and Diminishes Our Humanity

Allen Buchanan Duke University, USA.

Combining hard data with the author's personal story of a life in the U.S. South and then as a university professor, this book sheds a new light on tribalistic ideologies. Such ideologies are a deeply troubling feature of civic life in America and in many western democracies as they erode trust among citizens, sow divisions, and pervert a larger pursuit of truth and understanding. Buchanan weaves together his own autobiography with the latest research in psychology, politics, anthropology, and philosophy to better understand the nature and causes of ideological tribalism, its effects on the individual and society, and the best possible solutions for curbing its spread.

Relational Theory

Feminist Approaches, Implications, and Applications

Edited by Christine M. Koggel Carleton University, Ottawa, Canada, Ami Harbin , Jennifer J. Llewellyn

Relational theory starts from the ontological fact of our being in networks of relationships and draws out what this means for theories of knowledge and for moral and political theory. This book uses insights from feminist relational theory to outline the ontological, epistemological, and moral/political implications of this theoretical approach. The chapters in this book were originally published in the Journal of Global Ethics.

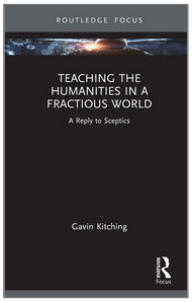
Teaching the Humanities in a Fractious World

A Reply to Sceptics



Gavin Kitching

In this book the author directly confronts an ever more popular suspicion - that a university education in the humanities and social sciences is actually an 'elitist' indoctrination into 'leftist' or 'liberal' views. This book is divided into 35 brief sections and can be read as a stand-alone discussion of some topic, or as a step in a sequential argument. This modular structure makes it an excellent teaching text for students. It appeals to a mass of social science students and academics, as well as philosophers.

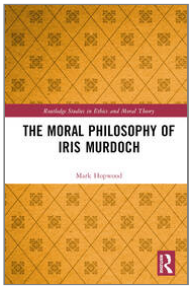
The Moral Philosophy of Iris Murdoch



Mark Hopwood The University of the South, Sewanee, USA

Series: Routledge Studies in Ethics and Moral Theory

In this wide-ranging book Mark Hopwood explores the moral significance of Iris Murdoch's philosophy, paying particular to her highly creative use of language and expression. Hopwood argues that the main reason Murdoch's philosophy remained so long initially at the margins of philosophy is that she offered a radically different conception of what it means to do moral philosophy. Examining the role of vision, imagination, love, goodness and transcendence in Murdoch's work The Moral Philosophy of Iris Murdoch presents a compelling and original argument that she is one of the major moral philosophers of the twentieth century.

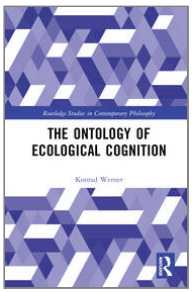
The Ontology of Ecological Cognition



Konrad Werner University of Warsaw, Poland

Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Philosophy

This book provides the first explicit examination of the underlying ontology of the ecological/embodied cognition philosophical project. More specifically, it examines the locative concepts used by defenders of representationalism and the more environmentally oriented, ecological/embodied views on cognition. The book tackles questions of what it means that internal representations are internal, that the external world is external, that the extended mind is extended, how we should understand the claim that cognition and consciousness are in the head, or, alternatively, in the environment.

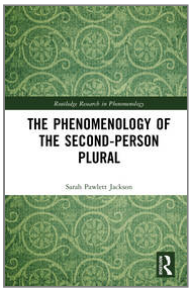
The Phenomenology of the Second-Person Plural



Sarah Pawlett Jackson University of London, UK

Series: Routledge Research in Phenomenology

This book presents the case that there are forms of human interaction which should be understood as properly second-person plural. It engages with the work of Sartre, Levinas and contemporary phenomenology to show that this claim is not just about grammatical forms of address, but about the phenomenology and structure of our intersubjective experience. The book also offers a positive account of the second-person plural, supported by an understanding of subjectivity as necessarily embodied and embedded in the world. This account opens an exciting path for further analyses of complex multi-person intersubjectivities in small group contexts.

2ND EDITION

Why Machines Will Never Rule the World

Artificial Intelligence without Fear

Jobst Landgrebe University of New York (SUNY), Barry Smith

This book's core argument is that an artificial intelligence that could equal or exceed human intelligence – sometimes called 'artificial general intelligence' (AGI) – is for mathematical reasons impossible. It offers two specific reasons for this claim: 1. Human intelligence is a capability of the human brain and central nervous system, which is a complex dynamic system 2. Systems of this sort cannot be modelled mathematically in a way that allows them to operate inside a computer.

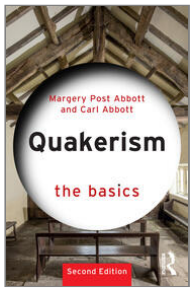
2ND EDITION

Quakerism: The Basics



Margery Post Abbott , Carl Abbott

Series: The Basics

Quakerism: The Basics introduces a vibrant twenty-first century religion, tracing the evolution of the Religious Society of Friends from its origins in seventeenth-century England to a world-wide religion, balancing discussion of Quaker history, evolving beliefs and practices, and contemporary social action. This book treats Quakerism as a global religion with wide geographic reach and varied beliefs that range from evangelical Christianity to non-theism. The thoroughly revised second edition now includes information on Quakers in Africa, Friends active engagement with electoral politics, electronic communication and online meetings and a new appendix on Quakers in film.

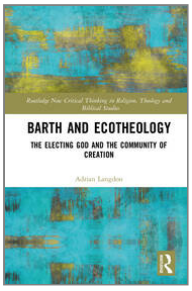
Barth and Ecotheology

The Electing God and the Community of Creation



Adrian Langdon

Series: Routledge New Critical Thinking in Religion, Theology and Biblical Studies

Barth and Ecotheology offers a critical and constructive reading of Karl Barth's theology in the context of the Anthropocene. It reflects on how a contemporary doctrine of creation must be broad enough to address issues such as climate change, colonialism and racism, sexism, as well as integrating modern science. The volume will be of particular interest to theologians focused on the doctrine of creation, ecotheology, and Barth studies.

Christianity and Democracy Today

International Perspectives

Edited by David P. Gushee Mercer University, USA, Paul Silas Peterson University of Tübingen, Germany

Series: Studies in World Christianity and Interreligious Relations

This volume explores Christianity's relationship with democracy in a global perspective. How are the various democratic ideals being addressed by influential Christian intellectuals, theologians, ethicists, churches and church leaders around the world today? The contributors reflect on the status of the democratic idea in the churches, theological academy and public religious life in a variety of social and political contexts. They consider how the democratic idea can be cultivated in Christian communities and intellectual traditions with a view to contemporary challenges.

Conceptualizing Islam

Current Approaches

Edited by Frank Peter , Paula Schrode , Ricarda Stegmann

Series: Routledge Studies in Religion

In recent decades, academic debates on how to conceptualize 'Islam' as an object of study and how to approach it theoretically have been revitalised. Not only has research on Islam grown enormously and become much more differentiated, but Islam is also being discussed more intensively in society and politics than ever before. This book brings together the perspectives of various disciplines, provides an overview of academic approaches to Islam, and offers its readers entry points to a more complex and refined understanding of Islam, but also to research processes within the study of Islam as well as religion in general.

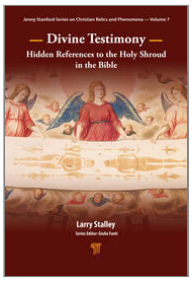
Divine Testimony

Hidden References to the Holy Shroud in the Bible



Larry Stalley

The significance of this work is monumental, both with regard to New Testament studies and with regard to our understanding of the Shroud of Turin! The book's focus—that hidden or cryptic statements concerning the Shroud and its incredible image actually exist within the Bible—is a game changer with respect to (1) "the quest for the historical Jesus," (2) the existence of biblical evidence supporting the authenticity of the Turin Shroud, and (3) the believer's assurance of personal resurrection and eternal life!

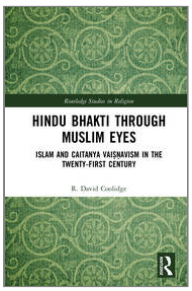
Hindu Bhakti Through Muslim Eyes

Islam and Caitanya Vaisnavism in the Twenty-First Century



R. David Coolidge

Series: Routledge Studies in Religion

Hindu Bhakti Through Muslim Eyes puts the Caitanya Vaisnava tradition of devotion to Krishna in scholarly conversation with Islam for the first time. It builds on a millennium of Muslim reflections regarding Hindu theology and practice, despite common assumptions that Hindus and Muslims are destined for misunderstanding and conflict. Relevant for scholars in Islamic Studies, Hindu Studies, Interreligious Studies, Comparative Theology, and Decolonial Studies, Hindu Bhakti Through Muslim Eyes forges new ground in Muslim scholarship regarding religious and cultural pluralism.

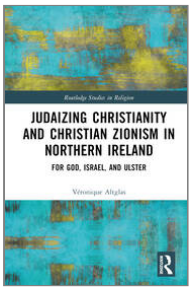
Judaizing Christianity and Christian Zionism in Northern Ireland

For God, Israel, and Ulster



Véronique Altglas Queen's University Belfast, UK.

Series: Routledge Studies in Religion

This book explores the contemporary judaization of evangelical Christianity through the ethnography of a messianic congregation in Northern Ireland. Is there any logic to the combinations of Christian and Jewish sources in messianic beliefs and practices? How can we understand this fascination with Jews and Judaism? Finally, what is the political significance of messianics' relationship with Jewish people, the state of Israel, and Christian Zionism? The book will be of particular interest to scholars of the sociology and anthropology of religion, religion and politics, and Jewish-Christian relations.

Marian Reflections on War and Peace

Trauma, Mourning and Justice in Ukraine and Beyond

Edited by Lenart Škof , Emily A. Holmes , Pavlo Smytsnyuk

Series: Transforming Political Theologies

This book presents an original Marian approach towards war and peace, dedicated to the suffering of children, women and men in Mariupol and elsewhere in Ukraine and in the world. Offering new theological perspectives on the contemporary impact of war, the contributions take inspiration from the figure and symbol of Mary – as protector of children and guardian of peace, intermediary of the incarnation, as well as model for ecumenical, interreligious, and intercultural engagements. The book provides readers with valuable theological reflections on conflict, global theological ethics, ecofeminist and peace-building thinking in theology, and contemporary political theology.

Queer Omissions

Unmarried Women and Social Justice Activism in the Church

Karen M. Pack

Queer Omissions uses biographical case studies of two unmarried, childless women, Frances Levvy (1831-1924) and Constance Duncan (1896-1970), to critique the writing of Protestant religious histories in Australia, asking why those outside a heteronormative framework have been relegated to the margins. This book will be of great interest to scholars of religion, gender and sexuality, as well as people of faith trying to understand and reclaim their place in the story.

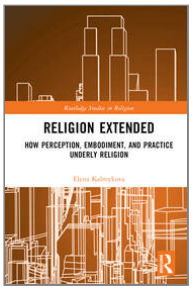
Religion Extended

How Perception, Embodiment, and Practice Underly Religion



Elena Kalmykova Uppsala University, Sweden

Series: Routledge Studies in Religion

Religion Extended contributes to discussions of aspects of religion that go beyond the epistemology of belief, incorporating other states such as understanding, emotion, knowledge of persons, knowledge-how, as well as practice. The author looks to bridge the gap in the study of religion between research of religious beliefs, on the one hand, and research of religious practices, on the other. Presenting a challenge to the received conceptual framework, this innovative and thought-provoking volume will advance discussions and open new areas of research.

The Invention and Reinventions of Methodism

Sect, Church and Radical Movement

Edited by Andrew J. Cheatle Liverpool Hope University, UK

Series: Routledge Methodist Studies Series

This book focuses on the transformative journey of Methodism and tackles a profound question: How did a radical revival movement evolve into an established mainstream Church? The volume delves into the enduring legacy of early Methodism, exploring its theological influences and developments over time. From the Holiness movement to the rise of Pentecostalism, its early radical and charismatic practices still resonate in the Church today. Featuring essays from leading Wesleyan scholars, this book is valuable for anyone interested in the dynamic history and lasting influence of the Methodist tradition.

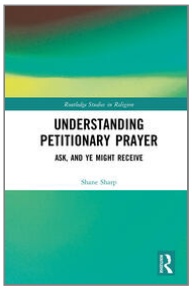
Understanding Petitionary Prayer

Ask, and Ye Might Receive



Shane Sharp

Series: Routledge Studies in Religion

This book explores the 'whats', 'whys', and 'hows' of petitionary prayer. Millions of people every single day ask God or some other supernatural being to make some outcome or event happen, whether it be to keep their children safe during a road trip, to give them the willpower to avoid succumbing to the temptation of alcohol, or help them find a job. The book will be of interest to scholars and students of religious studies, the sociology of religion, the psychology of religion, social psychology, and symbolic interactionism.

Universities' Purpose and Catholic Identity

Examining Governance, Communication, and Core Curriculum

Edited by Jordi Pujol , José María La Porte

This book addresses the contemporary challenges and aspirations of Catholic universities—inspired by the original idea of a university — through a rich historical, philosophical, and practical lens. It begins with an exploration of the history of secular and Catholic universities, laying a foundation for understanding their evolving roles and identities. It examines how identity and purpose must permeate all the spheres and goals: research, teaching, governance, communications, and the 'Third Mission'—the university's societal role. It was originally published as a special issue of Church, Communication and Culture.

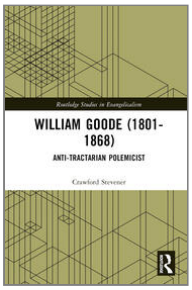
William Goode (1801–1868)

Anti-Tractarian Polemicist



Crawford M. Stevener

Series: Routledge Studies in Evangelicalism

This book examines the theology of William Goode (1801-1868), a leading Church of England theological polemicist in the nineteenth century. His position as the pre-eminent refuter of Tractarian theology is developed and interpreted contextually in this volume. The chapters consider Goode's role in ecclesiastical judicial settings, his defence of the Protestant nature of the Church of England as legally established in the Reformation, and his evangelical Anglican interpretation of the English formularies. This book is valuable reading for scholars of religious and Church history, and those interested in the Oxford Movement, Anglicanism, Evangelicalism, and the Reformation.

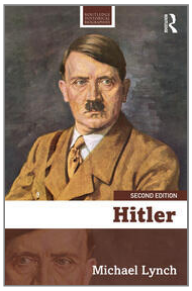
Hitler



Michael Lynch

Series: Routledge Historical Biographies

Adolf Hitler is the most notorious political figure of the twentieth century. The story of his life, how he became a dictator, and how he managed to convince so many to follow his cause is a subject of perennial fascination. Balancing narrative and analysis, this biography employs a chronological approach to describe the main features of Hitler's career. Set against the background of developments in Germany and Europe during his lifetime, the text tells the extraordinary story of how an Austrian layabout rose to become Führer of the Third Reich.

(Un)Doing History

Thinking with the European Middle Ages

Vanita Seth

Against the grain of much contemporary scholarship within medieval studies, this work emphasizes the radical alterity and historical rupture that the Middle Ages represents in European history. Through an engagement with three contentious debates in medieval studies – historiography, race and individuated subjectivity – Vanita Seth's work employs postcolonial and postmodern theorizing to explore questions of ontology, epistemology, facial privileging, and emotion and identity in the European Middle Ages and early modern period.

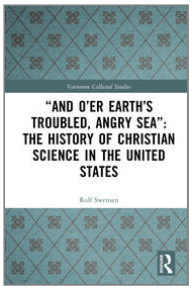
"And O'er Earth's Troubled, Angry Sea": The History of Christian Science in the United States



Rolf Swensen

Series: Variorum Collected Studies

This volume investigates the origins of the Christian Science movement, illustrates how Eddy's students -- mainly women -- helped its rapid spread through healings, how Eddy guided and restrained her students, examines some denominational growing pains, underscores how The Mother Church in Boston and Eddy's Church Manual evolved, recounts dozens of testimonies of healing, and shows how local, or branch, churches operated before and after Eddy's passing. Contrary to previous assumptions, the new Christian religion was surprisingly diverse, with almost one half of the membership coming from the lower middle and working classes.

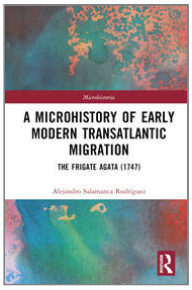
A Microhistory of Early Modern Transatlantic Migration

The Frigate Agata (1747)



Alejandro Salamanca Rodríguez

Series: Microhistories

Through a microscopical lens, the book delves into the lives of some of the migrants linked to the Agata, either as members of the crew —a ship, after all, is a moving workplace—, as passengers, or as people sending letters through the ship. Their stories and anecdotes illustrate how early modern migrants in the Spanish Atlantic navigated the often-restrictive migration laws, stayed connected with family and friends back home, sent remittances and gifts, and built networks to support new migrants.

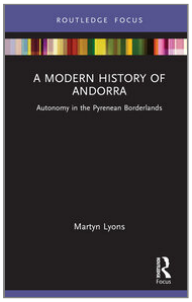
A Modern History of Andorra

Autonomy in the Pyrenean Borderlands



Martyn Lyons

Series: Routledge Studies in Modern European History

This book examines the fascinating survival of Andorra, one of Europe's micro-states nestled between France and Spain. Despite its medieval institutional framework, Andorra endured into the late 20th century without an army, police, currency, or customs barriers. It uncovers how Andorra skilfully exploited its strategic position between two powerful neighbours, using its unique dual sovereignty to navigate the pressures of the modern nation-state era and secure its survival. A valuable resource for students of modern French and Spanish history, this book will also appeal to specialists in border studies and anyone interested in the endurance of Europe's micro-states.

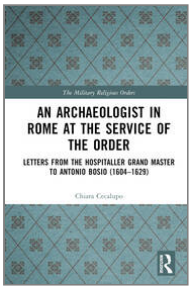
An Archaeologist in Rome at the Service of the Order

Letters from the Hospitaller Grand Master to Antonio Bosio (1604–1629)



Chiara Cecalupo

Series: The Military Religious Orders

An Archaeologist in Rome at the Service of the Order presents the so far completely unknown letters between the Grand Masters (Alof de Wignacourt, Luís Mendes de Vasconcellos, Antoine de Paule) and Antonio Bosio, well known worldwide for his extensive discoveries of the Roman Christian catacombs, but also Agent of the Order of Malta in Rome. The letters were sent between 1604 and 1629 and are currently held at the National Library of Malta.

Antiliberal Internationalism in the Twentieth Century

Edited by Matthijs Lok University of Amsterdam, Netherlands, Marjet Brolsma University of Amsterdam, Netherlands, Robin de Bruin University of Amsterdam, Netherlands, Stefan Couperus University of Groningen, Netherlands, Rachel McElroy White University of Groningen, Netherlands

Series: Routledge Studies in Fascism and the Far Right

This book shows how antiliberal discourse, thought, and mobilization have, in defiance of nationalist aims, been significantly shaped and determined in the international sphere, as new collaborations position themselves against the liberal order established after the fall of the Berlin Wall. It is intended for scholars and students of International Studies, Intellectual History, Political History, Political Science, European Studies, and Global Studies, as well as for journalists and policymakers interested in contemporary Europe, cosmopolitanism, political polarization, and the traditions of the right and far-right.

Architectural Heritage of the Ottoman Balkans

Public Buildings and Urban Spaces

Edited by Velika Ivkovska , Stela Tasheva , Haris Dervišević

Series: Birmingham Byzantine and Ottoman Studies

Architectural Heritage of the Ottoman Balkans: Public Buildings and Urban Spaces explores aspects and instances of Ottoman public architecture in the Balkans, a region that encompassed diverse populations, climates, and landscapes, all of which contributed to a wide array of architectural variations in both public and private structures. Throughout the book, a common thread emerges: the rich tapestry of Ottoman architecture in the Balkans reflects a synthesis of influences, both local and global. Ottoman, regional, and European architectural traditions intertwine to create a distinctive architectural identity that characterizes the region.

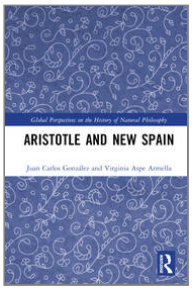
Aristotle and New Spain



Virginia Aspe Armella

Series: Global Perspectives on the History of Natural Philosophy

This book is a detailed exploration of the Hispanic intellectual context and the different Aristotelian traditions that prevailed until the 16th century. Through a review and contextualization of Aristotelian thinkers and texts, it argues that a unique Aristotelian tradition was formed in New Spain. It will be of interest to undergraduate and postgraduate philosophy students, as well as researchers focused on Aristotle, Renaissance philosophy or Latin American studies.

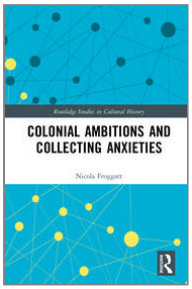
Colonial Ambitions and Collecting Anxieties

Aboriginal Objects and Western Australian Frontiers, 1828–1914



Nicola Froggatt

Series: Routledge Studies in Cultural History

This book assesses how non-Aboriginal collectors understood Aboriginal objects, and what this reveals about colonial relationships, anxieties and ambitions. Considering objects now spread across the British Isles, it examines intersecting impulses that informed collecting: notions of the 'frontier', the navigation of one's experiences across sites of empire, and the Eurocentric narrative of Aboriginal 'extinction', to show how colonial ideology intersected with personal experience. It scrutinises collectors' own accounts as well as the voices of other individuals involved in collecting episodes, using these to show how ideas about indigenous peoples were being developed and contested.

Continuity and Change

Postwar Migration Between Ireland and Australia 1945-2024

Edited by Patricia M. O'Connor , Fidelma McCorry

Bringing together a multi-disciplinary team of authors, this book relays the untold story of postwar migration between Ireland and Australia. Spanning the period 1945-2024, it explores the experiences of migrants from the Republic of Ireland and Northern Ireland and provides insights into the multiple reasons these migrants came to Australia, factors which prompted permanency or return, and the extent of continuity and change between recent arrivals and their historical predecessors. This book not only fills a gap in Ireland's diaspora research but also contributes to migration studies more broadly, particularly the experiences of invisible immigrants.

Early Modern Women's Work

Kinship, Community, and Social Justice

Patricia Anne Simpson

Series: New Interdisciplinary Approaches to Early Modern Culture

Early Modern Women's Work examines the contributions of female writers, artists, scientists, religious leaders, and patrons who engaged in entrepreneurial, intellectual, and emotional labor in German-speaking Europe. Through individual and collective authorship, the women analyzed in this study assert a claim to kinship and community, often beyond the hegemonic, heteronormative relationships to family, religion, and monarch.

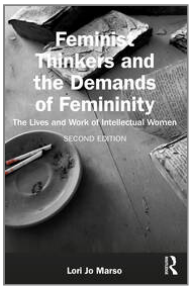
2ND EDITION

Feminist Thinkers and the Demands of Femininity

The Lives and Work of Intellectual Women



Lori Jo Marso Union College, USA

Examining the lives and work of feminist thinkers throughout history, this book explores how they have striven to balance politics, intellectual work, and the material conditions of femininity. A new introduction to this second edition resituates these themes in contemporary feminist literature. Written for students and scholars of Women's History, and everyone who "feels like a feminist," this book embodies and electrifies the feminist insight that the personal is political.

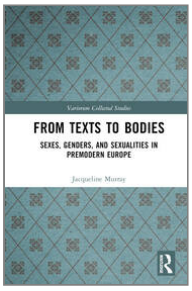
From Texts to Bodies

Sexes, Genders, and Sexualities in Premodern Europe



Jacqueline Murray

Series: Variorum Collected Studies

This book reflects the historiographical changes to the study of women, gender, and sexuality in premodern Europe across the 1990s into the 2010s. Developing from post-Baby Boom interest in marriage and the family, subsequently inspired by feminist theory and cultural studies, scholars turned their gaze to the wider field of sex and gender. Using an interdisciplinary methodology and a broad cross-section of medieval primary sources, these articles trace the evolution of medieval studies from the family, through women and gender, to focus on sex and sexuality, concluding with critical analyses of men, masculinity, and male embodiment.

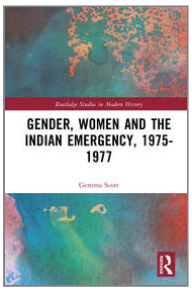
Gender, Women and the Indian Emergency, 1975-1977



Gemma Scott Keele University, United Kingdom

Series: Routledge Studies in Modern History

India's State of Emergency (1975-1977) is one of the most controversial moments in the country's history since independence. Drawing on doctoral research and new data, this book documents the many ways in which women and gender were integral to the regime's articulation and implementation. It reveals new insights into women's experiences of Emergency measures, and examines their participation in anti-Emergency activism, bringing previously untold histories to light. In doing so, it fundamentally re-shapes our understandings of this period.

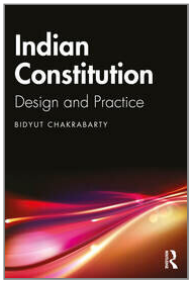
Indian Constitution

Design and Practice



Bidyut Chakrabarty Delhi University, India

The book deals with the making and unfolding of the Constitution of India, framed by the Constituent Assembly between 1946 and 1949. Superseding the conventional legalistic approach, it focuses on the politico-ideological priorities of the members of Assembly who played a critical role in preparing the provisions of the Constitution. Tailored to the academic requirements of a global readership, this volume would be useful to students, researchers and teachers working in the fields of Politics, Law, Public Administration and Public Policy. It would also be an invaluable resource for legal experts and policy makers.

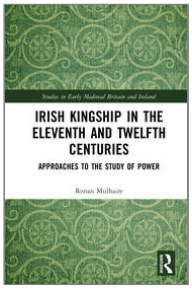
Irish Kingship in the Eleventh and Twelfth Centuries

Approaches to the Study of Power



Ronan Mulhaire

Series: Studies in Early Medieval Britain and Ireland

Irish Kingship in the Eleventh and Twelfth Centuries examines the power of medieval Irish kings but treats 'power' as a complex concept worthy of study in its own right. It starts from the premise that historians of medieval Ireland have interpreted 'power' in a narrow way. This book engages with the rich corpus of literature on power produced by political scientists and sociologists, which reveals the sheer complexity, and vicissitudes, of 'power' as a concept.

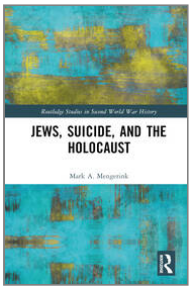
Jews, Suicide, and the Holocaust



Mark A. Mengerink Lamar University, USA

Series: Routledge Studies in Second World War History

This accessible study examines the Holocaust's "forgotten victims" – Jews and other victims who suicided from 1939 to 1945. Using diaries, survivor memoirs, and survivor interviews, the manuscript places suicide victims and their experiences into the traditional Holocaust narrative. Too few scholars have examined suicide among Jews during the Holocaust. This study hopes to bring focus to the topic and encourage further discussion among historians, sociologists, philosophers, literary scholars, students, and general audiences.

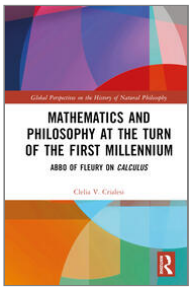
Mathematics and Philosophy at the Turn of the First Millennium

Abbo of Fleury on Calculus



Clelia V. Crialesi

Series: Global Perspectives on the History of Natural Philosophy

Mathematics and Philosophy at the Turn of the First Millennium sheds light on Abbo's original philosophical system anchored in two central doctrines, which serve as a compass to navigate it: the theory of oneness (henology) and the theory of composition. Yet, the Commentary on the Calculus covers much more. The present study, thus, explores an eclectic range of topics – from water-clocks to barleycorns, constellations to human voice, synodic month to the human lifespan, and numbers to God.

Medieval Europe From Another Angle

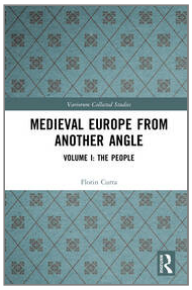
Volume I: The People



Florin Curta Department of History, University of Florida, USA

Series: Variorum Collected Studies

This is the first volume of essays explicitly to reassess the significance of the region, as well as the role of the archaeological evidence in studying ethnicity in the Middle Ages, particularly in the case of the Slavs and the Avars. Because of its geographic, chronological, thematic, and methodological scope, this book offers a new perspective from a different angle on the analysis of the archaeological and written sources. Some chapters focus on settlement sites, others discuss artifacts from burial assemblages.

Race and Beauty

Early Modern Cosmetics and the Mythology of Whiteness

Josie Schoel

Series: New Interdisciplinary Approaches to Early Modern Culture

This work examines how beauty standards, specifically the ideology of "fairness," contributed to the racialization of bodies in early modern England. Schoel emphasizes the need to dismantle whiteness's invisibility in historical criticism, noting that it has long been an unexamined norm. By focusing on the materiality of cosmetic whiteness, the text aims to disrupt colorblind ideologies and reveal the mechanisms behind white supremacy.

Race and the Politics of Fear

A History of an American Oligarchic Construct

J. Noel Hubler

Series: Routledge Advances in American History

Race and the Politics of Fear is a study of the role of race in American political history. It takes a novel approach by using Aristotle's theory of the mixed regime to analyze the American system. Aristotle's mixed regime—containing elements of oligarchy and democracy—was well-known to the Founders, who used it to design the Constitution. Accordingly, American political history has unfolded as a struggle between oligarchic and democratic forces. Oligarchs have frequently used race to divide the people and maintain power.

Recall and Retell

Literary Registers of Memory, Identity, and Resistance in India

Edited by Elwin Susan John , Amal P Mathews

This volume explores the instrumental role played by memory in our daily and collective narratives and the manifold ways in which it can destabilise the ones prevailing in India. It explores manifestations of memory and postmemory through written narratives, within India's social, political and cultural memoryscape. Drawing on archival research, oral history collection, textual and critical analysis, the book endeavors to reconstruct Indian experiences in all their richness and diversity, while challenging dominant paradigms and expanding the boundaries of collective memory.

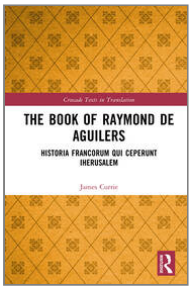
The Book of Raymond de Aguilers

Historia Francorum qui Ceperunt Iherusalem



James Currie

Series: Crusade Texts in Translation

The Book of Raymond of Aguilers, also called the Historia Francorum qui Ceperunt Iherusalem, is one of a handful of eyewitness accounts of the First Crusade, the name given to an armed expedition called for by Pope Urban II at the Council of Clermont in 1095 that journeyed and fought its way to the Holy Land, culminating in the conquest of Jerusalem in July 1099. This new translation is the first to be based on the critical edition of the Latin text produced by John France and is intended primarily for the benefit of undergraduates and to make Raymond more accessible in the classroom.

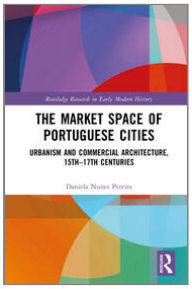
The Market Space of Portuguese Cities

Urbanism and Commercial Architecture, 15th–17th Centuries



Daniela Nunes Pereira Complutense University of Madrid, Spain

Series: Routledge Research in Early Modern History

This book explores the transformation of market spaces in Portuguese cities during the intensification of trade driven by increasing profits from overseas exchanges, and how architectural structures and urban planning were directly impacted by these changes to accommodate the new economic dynamics. It is intended for historians, architects, urban planners, and scholars interested in urban history, economic history, and the intersection of architecture and commerce. Its interdisciplinary approach makes it relevant for any reader seeking to understand how trade shaped cities in the early modern period.

U.S. Defense Policy toward Israel

A Cold War History

Daniel J. Samet

Series: Routledge Studies in US Foreign Policy

This book examines U.S. defense policy toward Israel during the Cold War, emphasizing arms sales, intelligence sharing, and other security cooperation. It argues that strategic interests drove American policy with other considerations, such as domestic politics and shared liberal values, mattering far less. It begins with the presidency of John F. Kennedy and ends with the presidency of George H. W. Bush with a particular focus on government officials: presidents, secretaries of state, secretaries of defense, national security advisors, other administration officials, and senators and Congressmen.

Mobile Heritage

Practices, Interventions, Politics

Edited by Ana-Maria Herman University of Greenwich, UK.

Series: Key Issues in Cultural Heritage

Mobile Heritage explores how diverse digital technologies (such as apps, GPS, games, social platforms, NFTs, drones, AR, VR, and MR, among others) have allowed for new types of heritage-related mobilities, and thereby established a novel set of practices, interventions, and politics in heritage collections, archives, exhibitions, entertainment, preservation, management, commerce, education, restitution, activism, and regulation. Mobile Heritage positions mobility as a critical tool to understanding the changing (digital) heritage landscape, making this volume an essential read for students, academics, and practitioners alike.

Undoing Things

How Objects, Bodies and Worlds Come Apart

Edited by Gavin Lucas University of Iceland, Iceland, Shannon Lee Dawdy

Series: Archaeological Orientations

Undoing Things explores all the ways in which things become undone, be they objects, bodies, places, or worlds. In the first quarter of the twenty-first century, human worlds have experienced a series of ruptures from climate-related disasters, political violence, and the Covid-19 pandemic. Undoing Things helps move us beyond a cloud of chaos with a deeper understanding of how and why things fall apart and is vital reading for archaeologists and those in related disciplines.

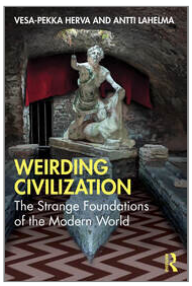
Weirding Civilization

The Strange Foundations of the Modern World



Vesa-Pekka Herva University of Oulu, Finland., Antti Lahelma University of Helsinki, Finland.

Weirding Civilization examines the irrational foundations of civilization, from the Bronze Age to the Anthropocene. Inspired by Twin Peaks and Lovecraftian horror, it reveals how weirdness – disorienting, monstrous, and ambivalent – has shaped human society since the rise of the first complex civilizations. This book is essential for archaeologists, anthropologists, and historians studying complex societies, as well as for readers fascinated by unconventional approaches to history and civilization. It appeals to anyone seeking to disrupt conventional understandings of humanity's development.

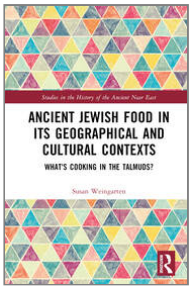
Ancient Jewish Food in Its Geographical and Cultural Contexts

What's Cooking in the Talmuds?



Susan Weingarten

Series: Studies in the History of the Ancient Near East

This book is the first in-depth study of food in talmudic literature in its geographical and cultural contexts. It demonstrates the sharing of foods and foodways between Jews and their non-Jewish neighbours in the Near East in Late Antiquity. It explores practices of food preparation and their contribution to the ancient diet, as well as analysing the relationships between food, status, and culture. The book will interest Food Historians as well as students and scholars of Jewish Studies, particularly the period of the Mishnah and Talmud, as well as those dealing with the wider social and cultural history of the Ancient Near East.

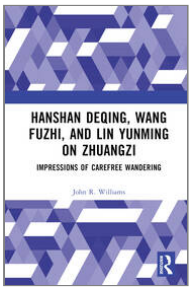
Hanshan Deqing, Wang Fuzhi, and Lin Yunming on Zhuangzi

Impressions of Carefree Wandering



John R. Williams

The book provides a glimpse into 17th-century Zhuāngzǐ (莊子; ca. 4th through 3rd century BCE) studies by introducing the works of Hānshān Déqīng (憨山德清; 1546–1623), Wáng Fūzhī (王夫之; 1619–1692), and Lín Yúnmíng (林雲銘; 1628–1697), which give a sense of diverse approaches to Zhuāngzǐ during this period. The three commentators represent three distinct orientations as reflected by their respective roles, with Hānshān Déqīng being a Buddhist monk, Wáng Fūzhī a philosopher, and Lín Yúnmíng a literary critic. General readers or specialists of ancient Chinese philosophy can gain insight into how Zhuāngzǐ was read in culturally relevant contexts.

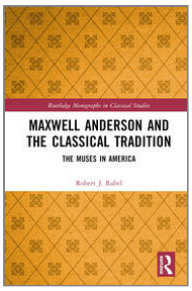
Maxwell Anderson and the Classical Tradition

The Muses in America



Robert J. Rabel University of Kentucky, USA

Series: Routledge Monographs in Classical Studies

This book sheds new light on the dramatic works of the American playwright, poet, and lyricist Maxwell Anderson, assessing the pervasive influence of Greek and Roman antiquity on his plays that dominated Broadway in the first half of the twentieth century. It explores Anderson's major theatrical works and adaptations of ancient Greek drama and poetry, including Winterset, The Winged Victory, the never-published Ulysses Africanus, and Bad Seed. Suitable for students and scholars of Classical Reception and the Classical Tradition, as well as those working on twentieth century American literature, drama, history, and politics.

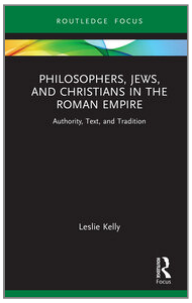
Philosophers, Jews, and Christians in the Roman Empire

Authority, Text, and Tradition



Leslie Kelly

Series: Routledge Focus on Classical Studies

This book explores how philosophical and religious communities in the Roman Empire of the first and second centuries CE engaged with and were shaped by their relationship to texts and tradition in their quest for true religious knowledge, or ultimate truth. It compares philosophers, Christians, and Jews as three distinct textual or reading communities, analyzing their practices of textual engagement and parallel attitudes towards textual authority in this period. Suitable for students and scholars working on ancient philosophy in the Roman Empire, classicists, and scholars of early Christianity and Judaism in this period.

State and Society in the Palaiologan Era

(13th–15th c.)

Edited by Marie-Hélène Blanchet , Raúl Estangüi Gómez

Series: Routledge Research in Byzantine Studies

State and Society in the Palaiologan Era brings together articles by some of the best specialists in the field and addresses various aspects of the functioning of the Byzantine state and society in the Palaiologan period. These contributions reflect the dynamism of the Byzantine society, but also the fractures and challenges created by the deep transformations in the socio-economic conditions of the time, and by the Ottoman conquest of the Byzantine territory.

The Greek Language after Antiquity

Advances and Challenges in Historical Linguistics

Edited by David Holton , Io Manolessou

Series: British School at Athens - Modern Greek and Byzantine Studies

The Greek Language after Antiquity offers an in-depth look at the diachrony of the Greek language, focusing on a period relatively neglected by modern scholarship: the more than 1,000 years between the end of Antiquity and the early modern period. These studies, written by experts in the field, target different levels of analysis (phonology, morphology, semantics, lexicon, dialectology, sociolinguistics), combining substantial primary data with various theoretical approaches.

The Hebrew Bible in Contemporary Fiction and Poetry

Edited by Lena-Sofia Tiemeyer

This book discusses 20th and 21st century literary retellings of biblical texts, focusing on how fiction and poetry fill the extant narrative gaps present in the often sparse biblical accounts and align the narratives with theological and/or cultural expectations of modern interpreting communities. The chapters, written by an international group of scholars, explore biblical retellings in a variety of modern languages. Of interest to students and scholars of biblical studies working on intertextuality and reception history. It is also of interest to those working on comparative literature, particularly with regards to the Hebrew Bible in popular culture and literature.

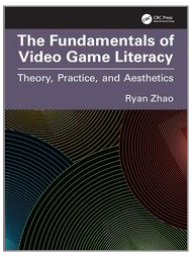
The Fundamentals of Video Game Literacy

Theory, Practice, and Aesthetics



Ryan Zhao

This book posits a novel framework for sense-making and meaning-making in the play of video games. Extending a modern, process-oriented, audience-inclusive philosophy of artistic meaning generation, the book grapples with the question of how to personally and critically examine video games as artistic artifacts that do not have set, predetermined, standardized forms until live play is enacted. These subjects are designed to give readers an in-depth understanding of the dynamics of gameplay in order to facilitate richer, more meaningful encounters with video games as cultural artifacts.

The Screens of Virtual Production

What is Real?

Edited by Sian Mitchell , Colin Perry , Sean Redmond Deakin University, Australia, Lienors Torre

This book is the first dedicated edited collection that explores the virtualization of screen-making processes from pre-production to post-production, while attuning to the aesthetic, ideological and performative contexts upended by these integrated technologies. This book explores what is real in virtual production, as a provocative one, implicitly drawing on the philosophies of the moving image and the recent work on new forms of post-human perceptual realism. This book encompasses many production themes and will appeal to media students and professionals interested in the production of film.

Filmonomics

Economists Discuss the Silver Screen

Edited by André de Palma , Luc Leruth

This book analyses how movie makers use economic and financial motives in their plots or to build their characters. Have they done it in line with economic theory? Or are they proposing a new angle, a new perspective, that economists should take note of? The authors here do not discuss wages in the film industry or the economics of movies. What interests them is the economic motivations underpinning the behaviour of fictional characters in their favorite films.

Aerial Visibilities

New Thoughts and Further Possibilities

Edited by Dennis Zuev , Gary Bratchford

The volume brings the sky and air into the view of visual sociology and argues that there is more to the sky than phenomenological and geopolitical dimensions. The chapters use the common thread of aerial visibilities to emphasise the need to rethink the aerial in terms of complex relations between humans, technological artefacts and devices, vertical superstructures, and non-human others. This rethinking helps unsettle notions of aerial biopolitics. The chapters foreground the visual to ask to what end the image of – or efforts to create images through – vertical registers shape our understanding of the vertical world.

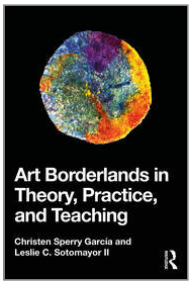
Art Borderlands in Theory, Practice, and Teaching



Christen Sperry García , Leslie C. Sotomayor II

Responding to an absence of Latina/e/o/x and Chicana/o/x artist and teaching resources, Art Borderlands in Theory, Practice, and Teaching shows how artists and educators can use borderlands, in-between geographical, emotional, cultural, and conceptual spaces, in three ways: theory, art practice, and teaching. Using hands-on approaches, the authors model how to use borderlands theories in the classroom by employing arts-based and teaching methodologies. This includes access to Latina/e/o/x and Chicana/o/x centered digital information, interactive classroom activities, artist resources, and beyond the classroom learning experiences.

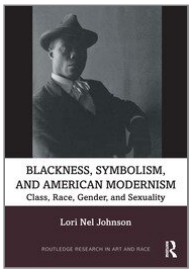
Blackness, Symbolism, and American Modernism

Class, Race, Gender, and Sexuality



Lori Nel Johnson Morgan State University, USA

Series: Routledge Research in Art and Race

In this book, Lori Nel Johnson examines the work of Henry Ossawa Tanner (1859-1937), Meta Warrick Fuller (1877-1968), and F. Holland Day (1864-1933) in relation to the development of modernism during the turn of the century, and the narratives surrounding this movement. The book compares the historical and social conditions that determined the lives and careers of these three artists, which curtailed their ambitions because of the intersections of class, race, gender, or sexuality. The book will interest scholars of art history, design history, photography, American studies, and African American studies.

Migrants, Television and Australian Stories

A New History

Kate Darian-Smith University of Melbourne, Australia, Sue Turnbull University of Wollongong, Australia, Sukhmani Khorana University of Wollongong, Australia, Kyle Harvey

This book examines the intertwined histories of television and migration in Australia, told from the perspectives of migrants who worked in the screen industry and the many more who watched television. Their stories demonstrate how Australia's growing cultural diversity has challenged conventional representations of 'Australianness' on television, and how ongoing advocacy has supported the growing inclusivity of multiple narratives and diverse experiences on screen. The first comprehensive Australian study of migrants and television, the book considers the ways multicultural audiences have experienced the small screen over seven decades.

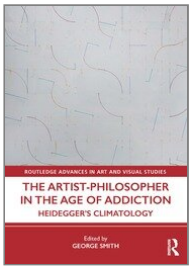
The Artist-Philosopher in the Age of Addiction

Heidegger's Climatology



George Smith Institute for Doctoral Studies in the Visual Arts, USA.

Series: Routledge Advances in Art and Visual Studies

George Smith argues that modern humanity suffers from a late-stage, pre-fatal addiction to scientific-technological thinking. Like most pre-fatal addictions, this one will most likely result in one of three ways: misery, extinction, or human transformation. The question remains, wherein lies the third way? The Sex Pistols on Screen

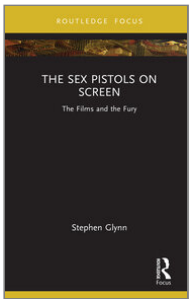
The Films and the Fury



Stephen Glynn

This unique book demonstrates the central importance of visual media to the significance of British Punk rock pioneers the Sex Pistols, beginning with their nation-shocking television interview with Bill Grundy in December 1976. Supported by an examination of surrounding documentary and fictional texts, The Sex Pistols on Screen centres on four key film and television/streaming depictions with and about the four-man group across four decades. Accessible yet academically rigorous, The Sex Pistols on Screen is a significant study of the visual media's importance in forging, reworking and reviving both the history and reputation of this seminal band.

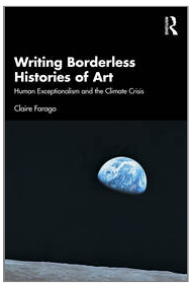
Writing Borderless Histories of Art

Human Exceptionalism and the Climate Crisis



Claire Farago

Writing Borderless Histories of Art is an aspirational, historical, and critical project that offers a fundamental rethinking of the relationship of humans to the rest of nature. Drawing upon writings from a wide range of fields, Claire Farago argues that Art History can play a role in advancing the public's interconnectedness with the planetary life-support system that so urgently needs to be restored. The book is neither a history of ideas nor a search for the origins of art history, but a recognition of the structures that drive its narratives. Its multilayered approach will appeal to art historians, archaeologists, anthropologists, musicologists, and philosophers.

A Hundred Years of Bibliotherapy

Healing through Books

Edited by Siobhan Campbell , Sara Haslam , Edmund G. C. King

The First World War gave new and vital impetus to the Victorian idea that books could heal trauma. This interdisciplinary collection provides a targeted survey of 100 years of historical and contemporary understandings and practices of 'the book as cure'. A Hundred Years of Bibliotherapy: Healing through Books provides the first interdisciplinary dialogue on and account of bibliotherapy, addressing both historical and present-day modes of engaging with the ostensibly curative power of reading and reading cultures. It is an invaluable resource for scholars of literary studies, book history, and the medical humanities.

Crisis and Body Politics in Twenty-First Century Cultural Production

Territorial Bodies

Edited by Charlotte Spear , Madeleine Sinclair

Series: Warwick Series in the Humanities

The chapters collected in Crisis and Body Politics in Twenty-First Century Cultural Production: Territorial Bodies deploy the framework of "Territorial Bodies" to address urgent social, ecological and political challenges. Examining themes such as (inter)national bodily governance, racialised bodies, eco-feminist movements, spatial justice and bodily displacement, this collection provides a deeper analysis of the interconnected forms of violence perpetrated against marginalised human and non-human bodies, taking this combined violence as the defining feature of contemporary crisis.

Cultural Perspectives on Sweets in Children's Literature and Media

Edited by Sabine Planka , Corina Löwe

Series: Children's Literature and Culture

What seems to be common to almost all cultures, is reflected in the fact that we humans are born with a taste for sweets, and that sweets have shaped our cultures and our language. This has also been reflected in children's literature and media. This is the starting point for this invaluable collection of essays, which deals specifically with sweets and the spectrum of hedonistic and regulated indulgence in different cultures and media for children. Cultural Perspectives on Sweets in Children's Literature and Media creates a kaleidoscope of the various functions of sweets and their significance for children's culture.

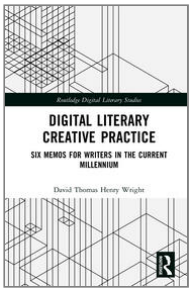
Digital Literary Creative Practice

Six Memos for Writers in the Current Millennium



David Thomas Henry Wright

Series: Routledge Digital Literary Studies

In 1985 Italo Calvino proposed six values he deemed crucial to literature as it moved into the next millennium: lightness, quickness, 'crystal' exactitude, visibility, multiplicity, and consistency. Using Italo Calvino's Six Memos for the Next Millennium as structure and methodology, this book conjoins literary studies with creative practice to interrogate, extend/subvert, and then reflect on the aesthetic and structural ambitions of multiple innovative print authors.

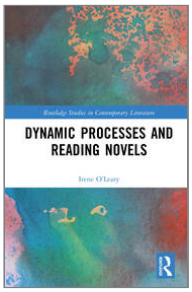
Dynamic Processes and Reading Novels



Irene O'Leary

Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Literature

This book is about the dynamic processes that generate novel-reading. It takes the view that the world is composed of dynamic processes and introduces a process dynamics approach to articulate this stance. This perspective draws on literary studies, process philosophy and neuroscience to argue that dynamic literary and microcognitive processes constantly reconfigure the conditions that they co-create during reading. Analyses of The.PowerBook,The Curious Incident of the Dog in the Night-time and Oryx and Crake in innovative terms of encounters among dynamic processes.

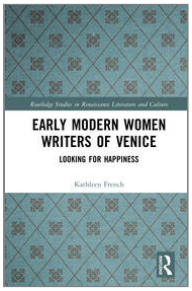
Early Modern Women Writers of Venice

Looking for Happiness



Kathleen French University of Sydney, Australia

Series: Routledge Studies in Renaissance Literature and Culture

Early Modern Women Writers of Venice: Looking for Happiness explores the ways in which five women used their writing to challenge misogynistic views about female inferiority, develop a sense of agency, and form meaningful interpersonal relationships that would enable them to find happiness. They are the forerunners of later feminist thinkers. This book is the first full length study of the happiness of women in early modern Italy. It takes an interdisciplinary approach that combines methodologies from literature, psychology, philosophy, history, religion, and emotion studies, emphasizing the importance of studying the search for happiness within a specific cultural context.

English and Indian Literature

Precolonial to Postcolonial

Edited by R.W. Desai , Christel R. Devadawson , Rajiva Verma

This book outlines the relationship between texts and the larger cultural context that they shape and are shaped by. The first section discusses British and Indian writers of the precolonial and colonial periods. The essays in the second section reflect on the question: Does the emergent nation-state seem at all like the visions that presaged it, or does it increasingly resemble the imperialistic nightmare that it seeks to replace? Finally, the last section explores the relationship between literature and human nature. Print edition not for sale in South Asia (India, Sri Lanka, Nepal, Bangladesh, Pakistan or Bhutan)

Esu-Elegba's Crossroads

Transcultural Creativity in the Works of Femi Euba

Edited by Eric Mayer-García , Solimar Otero

This book features a collection of essays and testimonials that provide new perspectives and incisive criticism on the writings and theatrical productions of Nigerian American author, director, and theorist Femi Euba. Esu, the Yoruba trickster deity of the crossroads, brings cohesion to this project and serves as a guiding principle for its contributors who draw upon Esu's mysteries to illuminate distinctive characteristics of Euba's oeuvre. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Atlantic Studies.

Global Literatures and Cultures of Modernity

Critical Perspectives from India

Edited by Srirupa Chatterjee , Sharada Chigurupati

Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Literature

Global Literatures and Cultures of Modernity: Critical Perspectives from India brings together essays written by academicians and scholars from India to scrutinize how global modernities have been shaped since World War II. The book's varied themes are united by the fact that they all converse with global and transnational dynamics shaped by postwar modernity that today defines our world. The book crafts narratives on contemporary global literatures and the modern conditions they represent and does so from the vantage point of postmillennial Indian literary scholarship.

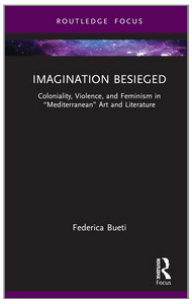
Imagination Besieged

Coloniality, Violence, and Feminism in "Mediterranean" Art and Literature



Federica Bueti

Series: Routledge Focus on Literature

Imagination Besieged grapples with the legacies of colonialism and the histories of violence that define the past and present of the Mediterranean in the regional artistic and cultural production. It records silenced stories of a mediterranean defined by displacement, dispossession, loss, sexual and racial violence. Stories in which the protagonists find ways to express their dissent, sometimes in tragic ways. Conceived as monster with many heads, each essay taps into the depth of the archive of the modern mediterranean to bring into the present precisely what this present seeks to conceal.

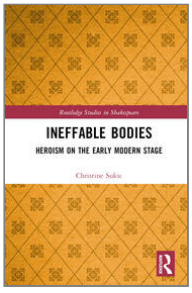
Ineffable Bodies

Heroism on the Early Modern Stage



Christine Sukic

Series: Routledge Studies in Shakespeare

Ineffable Bodies focuses on early modern heroism in drama through the notion of ineffability in order to define new dramatic forms. Drawing from Vladimir Jankélévitch's studies on the ineffable, the book focuses on heroic bodies on the early modern stage as the seat of an aesthetic shift in drama: the early modern heroic body testifies to an inability to tell heroic stories. Examples are taken from plays by Shakespeare, Chapman, and Daniel in which martial heroes are placed in a position where they cannot give full sway to their heroic status or are simply revealed as failed heroes.

Katherine Mansfield and Germany

Influences, Interactions, Afterlives

Edited by Janet M. Wilson , Tracy Miao

Series: Routledge Studies in Twentieth-Century Literature

Katherine Mansfield and Germany focuses on an under-researched yet crucially important aspect of Mansfield's life and art, her encounter with Germany and all things German: language, culture, society. For the first time, this influence is examined in chapters that provide another welcome examination of Mansfield's work from an international, transnational perspective. Katherine Mansfield and Germany turns to the diverse continental landscapes that fashioned Mansfield's world view and testifies to Germany's enduring hold on her imagination, so counterpointing and complementing the perception of France as her spiritual home.

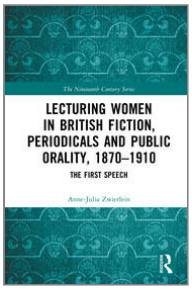
Lecturing Women in British Fiction, Periodicals and Public Orality, 1870–1910

The First Speech



Anne-Julia Zwierlein

Series: The Nineteenth Century Series

This book examines the emergence of women as audiences and speakers on the British metropolitan lecture circuit and in mass print representations from 1870-1910. Bringing together research on Victorian lecturing, periodicals, voice studies, and the cultural history of feminism, it sheds new light on the interdependence of orality and print and the rise of the British women's movement. Drawing on new and extensive primary research, this book intervenes in several flourishing fields of inquiry: literary studies, oral culture studies, sound and voice studies, performance studies, periodical studies, and Victorian and Edwardian cultural history.

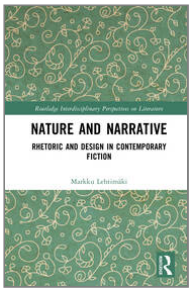
Nature and Narrative

Rhetoric and Design in Contemporary Fiction



Markku Lehtimäki

Series: Routledge Interdisciplinary Perspectives on Literature

The book explores environmental issues in twenty-first-century Anglophone fiction and how those issues are dealt with by specific literary means. Through its analysis of several contemporary novels, the study proposes a reciprocal relationship between nature and narrative, arguing that nature both informs and inspires artistic creations, while literary designs and rhetoric also shape our ideas and perceptions of nature.

New Writing Explorations

Researching Creative Writing

Edited by Graeme Harper

This book, New Writing Explorations: Researching Creative Writing, investigates creative writing as an area of research, building from a recognition of its qualities as a creative human practice. It presents a critical examination of current methodologies and highlights many of the latest advancements in the field of creative writing studies. The book's contributors examine writerly knowledge and action, places and spaces, tested methods and an array of associated concepts. The chapters in the book were originally published in the New Writing journal, accompanied by a new Introduction, Conclusion, as well as a Foreword by award-winning poet and critic, Dan Disney.

Nigerian Speculative Fiction

The Evolution

Chukwunonso Ezeiyoke

Series: Studies in Global Genre Fiction

This book is an exciting addition to a gap in non-Western genre studies of African fiction. It challenges the dominant canonicity of African literature, overshadowed by texts concerned with the colonial discourse and 'writing back' while exploring speculative themes in Nigerian fiction and writings that stem from an African cosmology and culture. The book examines important twentieth-century precursors of the post-millennial 'boom' in Nigerian Speculative Fiction (SF), reading texts that were omitted from the Nigerian literary canon developed in the 1960s.

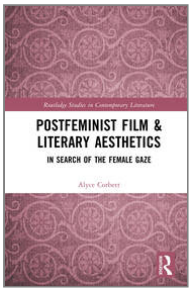
Postfeminist Film & Literary Aesthetics

In Search of the Female Gaze



Alyce Corbett

Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Literature

Postfeminist Film and Literary Aesthetics: In Search of the Female Gaze represents a novel and comprehensive study of the aesthetic and affective textual innovations of women in the 21st century from a postfeminist perspective. The book both defines and helps shape the contours of four fast-growing critically and commercially popular modes—millennial film and fiction, metamodernism, an anti-narrative and decorative realm named here as 'still life', and new cli-fi—in which there is no clear male equivalent or in which women's work can be read as a distinct aesthetic force.

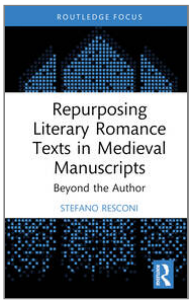
Repurposing Literary Romance Texts in Medieval Manuscripts

Beyond the Author



Stefano Resconi

Series: Young Feltrinelli Prize in the Moral Sciences

Transcribing a text within a Medieval manuscript was often not a culturally and ideologically neutral act. The lack of direct control by the authors over the circulation of their works allowed scribes to employ particularly refined strategies aimed at assigning new functions and meanings to these texts, which might appear very different from the original to the readers. This volume provides an overview within the manuscript tradition of Medieval Romance literary texts. This book will be of interest to readers of romance medieval literature, medieval manuscript culture and material philology.

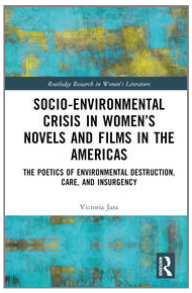
Socio-Environmental Crisis in Women's Novels and Films in The Americas

The Poetics of Environmental Destruction, Care, and Insurgency



Victoria Jara

Series: Routledge Research in Women's Literature

The climate crisis has reached a critical point, necessitating urgent global action. Women's activism against environmental dispossession in the Americas manifests not only in protests and classrooms but also through artistic filmmaking and writing. This book focuses on the overlooked contributions of women filmmakers and novelists, highlighting how their work reveals the connections between environmental dispossession and various injustices related to gender, ethnicity, age, class, and labor. Using an interdisciplinary approach from Environmental Humanities, Gender and Indigenous Studies, and Film and Literary Studies, the author compares works from Canada and Latin America.

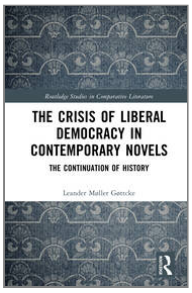
The Crisis of Liberal Democracy in Contemporary Novels

The Continuation of History



Leander Møller Gøttcke

Series: Routledge Studies in Comparative Literature

This book explores how contemporary novels reflect a profound shift in Western culture, from the political optimism of the post-Cold War era to growing fears about the future of liberal democracy. Analyzing four major works – Karl Ove Knausgård's My Struggle series, Zadie Smith's White Teeth, Boualem Sansal's 2084 and Michel Houellebecq's Submission – it shows how these novels illuminate current social discontents and engages the anxieties of our time.

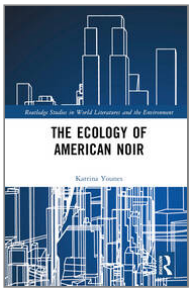
The Ecology of American Noir



Katrina Younes

Series: Routledge Studies in World Literatures and the Environment

This volume investigates the relationship between the conventions of noir fiction and film and its sub-types in relation to environmental crises. Dr. Younes addresses questions that not only allow readers to (re)read early hardboiled literature and neo-noir films, but also help identify a new sub-genre of noir and develop an ecocritical methodology: "eco-noir". This text traces the development of strategies of mapping urban blight and environmental deterioration in classic hardboiled fiction of the 1940s, neo-noir films of the 1970s, and eco-noir texts of the post-millennial period.

The Evolution of Literature in the Americas

A Timeline and Commentary

Earl E. Fitz

This book offers a systematic and comparative history of the evolution of literature in the Americas, from the beginning to the present day. A literary and, to a lesser degree, socio-political, history of America, from its indigenous past to 2026, the book offers the reader a great deal of information about America, understood not merely as the domain of one nation but as a giant, hemispheric complex, one full of fascinating (and sometimes maddening) interactions and relationships.

The Poems of Andrew Lang

Edited by John Sloan

Andrew Lang (1844-1912) made his name in the last quarter of the Victorian era in a remarkable number of literary and intellectual fields, as popular poet, influential literary critic, editor of the classic series of Fairy Books for the young, and as author of groundbreaking books on anthropology, Homeric scholarship, folklore and history. This is the first annotated edition of Lang's poems, bringing together his books of verse and over 150 additional poems, many of them collected for the first time. The edition offers an invaluable guide to the study of Lang's poetry for students and scholars of nineteenth-century British poetry.

The Rights War in Literature and Culture

From Literary Humanitarianism to Savior Victimism

Jennifer Rickel

Series: Routledge Literary Studies in Social Justice

Rights War analyzes the cultural narratives through which imperialism, white supremacy, and misogyny appropriate rights discourse to pose at once as savior and victim. While literary humanitarianism promotes rights as a contest of victimhood and disconnects national and international spaces, this book explores literary strategies for reimagining social justice.

Tom Murphy's Theatre of Everyday Space

Series: Routledge Studies in Irish Literature

By the time of his death in 2018, Tom Murphy was widely recognised as one of Ireland's most important modern playwrights. Focusing on one of Murphy's central innovations – his experimentation with theatre and everyday space – the book considers the significance of Murphy's work in modern drama more broadly. By applying new theoretical perspectives and showcasing new archival materials inaccessible to previous scholars, the book revisits Murphy as an international playwright—a cartographer of our modern-day "global village."

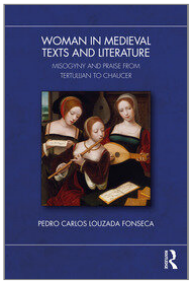
Woman in Medieval Texts and Literature

Misogyny and Praise from Tertullian to Chaucer



Pedro Carlos Louzada Fonseca

Employing a critical and analytical method, this volume takes an innovative approach to existing anthologies of medieval texts, proposing a comprehensive methodology for examining and understanding the historical and cultural construction of the image of women in medieval literature. Critically and analytically appreciating representative works and authors from the medieval period, Woman in Medieval Texts and Literature is interested not only in their essayistic examination but also in the intuitive perception of their values.

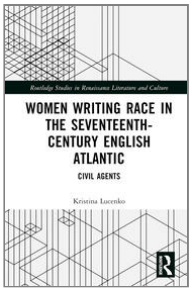
Women Writing Race in the Seventeenth-Century English Atlantic

Civil Agents



Kristina Lucenko

Series: Routledge Studies in Renaissance Literature and Culture

Women Writing Race in the Seventeenth-Century English Atlantic: Civil Agents highlights early modern women writers' invocations of civility to reach for the privileges of whiteness. As this book explores, women writing in the English Atlantic engaged and leveraged civility as a concept and an idiom whose racialist implications were becoming codified. Some of the women analyzed embraced and leveraged that practice as a form of agency, while others resisted and were marginalized by it.

Digital World Englishes

Patricia Friedrich

World Englishes Online aims to be an introduction to and exposition of the universe of world Englishes as represented in online spaces. It presents aspects of world Englishes theory in relation to our evolving digital reality and examples of authentic language variation, change and code-mixing. To do that, it visits such stations as world Englishes frameworks, pedagogy, new media, augmented intelligence, interactions with other languages, research methodology, and Internet user identities. The reader of the book will come away from the reading with a clear idea of what world Englishes are and how they have morphed, adapted, and come to manifest in online environments.

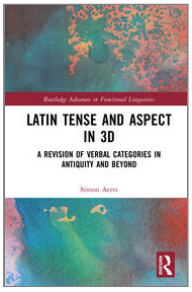
Latin Tense and Aspect in 3D

A Revision of Verbal Categories in Antiquity and Beyond



Simon Aerts

Series: Routledge Advances in Functional Linguistics

This book applies an SFL-inspired, multi-dimensional approach to Latin linguistics, offering fresh insights into Latin narrative tenses while addressing challenges posed by its closed-corpus nature. Bridging Classics and Linguistics, it categorizes the functional potential of the verbal categories "tense" and "aspect" and reshapes existing labels through a quantitative analysis of select historiographical narratives. Aerts elucidates the communicative subtleties of tense and aspect in Latin and highlights their relevance to modern linguistic methodologies and cross-linguistic investigations.

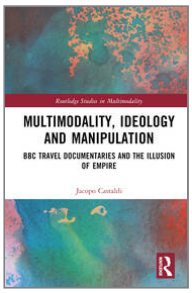
Multimodality, Ideology and Manipulation

BBC Travel Documentaries and the Illusion of Empire



Jacopo Castaldi

Series: Routledge Studies in Multimodality

This book examines how sociopolitical and intercultural ideologies surrounding globalization and neoliberalism are constructed and negotiated in travel documentaries, focusing on the BBC's role in reproducing neo-imperialistic and neoliberal values. It argues that these documentaries naturalize the values underpinning globalization and justify the exploitation of resources from the UK and the West at the expense of developing countries, reflecting forms of neo-imperialism. This book will interest scholars in multimodality, critical discourse analysis, media and communication studies, and semiotics.

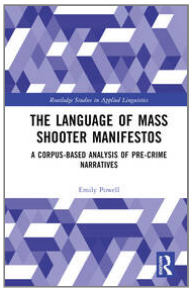
The Language of Mass Shooter Manifestos

A Corpus-Based Analysis of Pre-Crime Narratives



Emily Powell

Series: Routledge Studies in Applied Linguistics

Bringing together scholarship from corpus linguistics, forensic linguistics, and criminology, this book offers a nuanced exploration of moral agency in the pre-crime narratives of offenders written before they commit crimes.The volume seeks to complement existing literature in forensic linguistics, which often explore criminal narratives elicited after the crime with the benefit of hindsight, by examining texts written in the midst of events. Analyses draw on a corpus of over 200,000 words of manifestos and diaries written by four 'lone attackers' who perpetrated mass shootings and put together accounts of their lives and preparations of their crimes.

Below the Waist: Pads, Hoops, Crinolines and Bustles

Mandy Barrington Senior Lecturer, University Bournemouth

This book provides a wide range of historical patterns and instructions to construct a range of underpinnings, simple pads, a farthingale, 18th century hoops, 19th century crinolines and bustles. The examination of a wide range of original garments forms the basis for each pattern, giving the costumer a wider choice to create accurate period silhouettes. Clear step-by-step instructions, with supporting diagrams, enable the reader to produce accurate period undergarments. Mandy Barrington's method of pattern drafting allows anyone, from students on costume construction courses to professionals working in the costuming industry, to draft and make an authentic historical underpinning.

Dramaturgies of Immersion

Analysing Poetics of Immersion and Emersion

Edited by Janek Szatkowski , Thomas Rosendal Nielsen

Dramaturgies of Immersion draws on case studies from international productions to conceptualise and analyse the state of contemporary immersive theatre. Immersion appears in different forms, raising the core question: What is at stake in immersive theatre for participants, artists, and society? The answer depends on the underlying values of the different immersive poetics. An insightful exploration of the potentials of immersive theatre, Dramaturgies of Immersion is essential for advanced undergraduate and postgraduate students of dramaturgy and immersive theatre, scholars and researchers in these fields, as well as theatre practitioners.

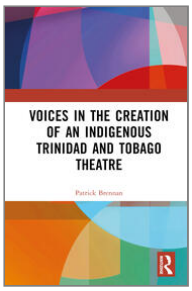
Voices in the Creation of an Indigenous Trinidad and Tobago Theatre



Patrick Brennan

This book explores how, from the mid-20th century, a new form of theatre that emerged in Trinidad and Tobago as its playwrights came to mine the Afro-Creole Trinidadian folk milieu. This book examines how in its creation, it would distance itself from Western forms as the stage was decolonized, making way for a variety of new forms that mimetically reflect the reality of Trinidad's Afro-Creole folk. Readers that have an interest in theatre, cultural, gender, postcolonial or Caribbean studies will enjoy this book.

A Biographical Dictionary of English Court Musicians, 1485–1714, Volumes I and II

Andrew Ashebee , Davud Lasocki , Fiona Kisby

Compiled by scholars with unrivalled knowledge of the sources, this dictionary provides biographies of all musicians and instrument makers employed by the English court from 1485-1714. A number of the musicians featured here have never previously received a dictionary entry. Coverage of these minor figures helps to flesh out the picture of musical life in the court in a way which individual studies of more major composers cannot. In addition to basic biographical details, entries feature information on: appointments; probate material; family background; heraldry; signatures and holograph documents; subscriptions to books; bibliographic references.

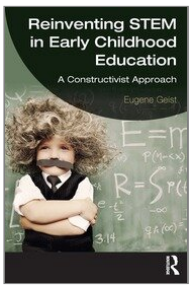
Reinventing STEM in Early Childhood Education

A Constructivist Approach



Eugene Geist

Teaching STEM to young children is about more than helping them learn their numbers and facts. It is an important and complex process that, to be effective, should honor the way children's brains are developing. This book outlines how early childhood educators can best support young children's STEM journeys as children naturally take in information about their environment, synthesize it, and grow in the process. Reinventing STEM in Early Childhood Education is meant to be a core text for preservice teachers in math and science methods courses and is also important reading for teacher educators and professional development programs.

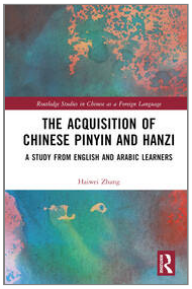
The Acquisition of Chinese Pinyin and Hanzi

A Study from English and Arabic Learners



Haiwei Zhang

Series: Routledge Studies in Chinese as a Foreign Language

The Acquisition of Chinese Pinyin and Hanzi focuses on the learning of Pinyin and Hanzi among learners of Chinese as a second language (CSL) from Egypt and the United Kingdom. The objective is to explore the roles of L1 writing system background, individual differences and metalinguistic awareness in the acquisition of Pinyin and Hanzi. It presents a unique comparison of the performance in learning Chinese between two groups of CSL learners using L1 scripts with different writing directions, namely the right-to-left Arabic and the left-to-right English. It is intended for researchers, graduate students, and practitioners interested in CSL teaching and learning.

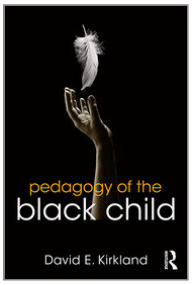
Pedagogy of the Black Child



David E. Kirkland

In Pedagogy of the Black Child, David E. Kirkland invites readers into an urgent and profound conversation about race, education, and the future of Black childhoods. Through the lens of his own experiences as a Black child, he uncovers the hidden ways that societal structures undermine the humanity and potential of Black children. His powerful narrative calls on educators, policymakers, and readers alike to confront the realities of racial injustice with courage and conviction to uplift possibilities that create spaces where Black children can thrive—where their dignity is restored, their potential embraced, and their futures are shaped by hope, not oppression.

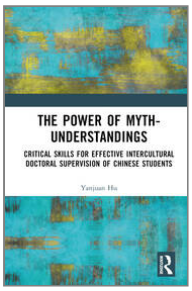
The Power of Myth-understandings

Critical Skills for Effective Intercultural Doctoral Supervision of Chinese Students



Yanjuan Hu

The book addresses the misunderstandings and implicit stereotypes that continue to arise in and influence the intercultural encounters of staff and international doctoral students. The author proposes the concept of "myth-understanding" to describe a temporary and transitional state of clarity deficiency before misunderstandings arise, which helps to create a "buffer zone" to address potential misunderstandings. The book will attract scholars of intercultural education, European university staff and professors who interact with international students, intercultural education officers, as well as doctoral students with an international (especially Asian) background.

Thriving on Campus

Promoting the Inclusion, Academic Development, and Wellbeing of Diverse 2SLGBTQ+ University and College Students

Edited by Michael R. Woodford , Antonio Duran Arizona State University, USA, Tin D. Vo , Corey W. Johnson University of Waterloo, Canada, Lee Airton , Simon Coulombe

This book addresses crucial gaps in understanding campus climate and academic and wellbeing outcomes for diverse 2SLGBTQ+ students. It also provides examples of campus-based initiatives to foster students' belonging and flourishing. It highlights the experiences of often-overlooked subgroups, including asexual and nonbinary students, and those with multiple marginalized identities, such as students of color and disabled students. Uniquely, to inform meaningful change on campuses, the book presents illustrations of campus-based 2SLGBTQ+ initiatives, with several focusing on students often excluded from dominant "LGBT" narratives and student services.

Ethnography and Education in the South

The Emergence of Alternative Schools of Thinking

Edited by Diana Milstein , Regina Coeli Machado e Silva , Sofia Marques da Silva

This book presents results of educational ethnographies carried out in non-hegemonic academies situated in the South. The chapters bring out methodological and theoretical contributions and offer the possibility to discuss tensions between universalizable and local ways of knowing and the emergence of alternative schools of ethnographic thinking. Education is explored in an ample sense considering that educational processes extrapolate the school context and transcend institutionalised forms. It was originally published as a special issue of the journal Ethnography and Education.

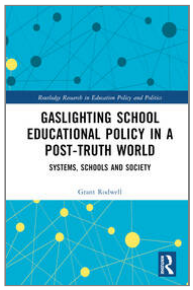
Gaslighting School Educational Policy in a Post-Truth World

Systems, Schools and Society



Grant Rodwell The University of Newcastle, Australia

Series: Routledge Research in Education Policy and Politics

Focusing on current educational systems in the US, UK, and Australia, Grant Rodwell examines the politics of gaslighting within school educational policy and how this links to political motives in a post-truth world. Using sustained comparative description and analysis, Rodwell provides up-to-date research on how gaslighting impacts school educational policy. As gaslighting is a complex term, the book gives a framework of how to comprehend it relative to school educational topics and issues. This book will be a foundational resource for tertiary institutions, educational policy students and researchers, politicians and parents concerned with gaslighting policies and practices.

The Contested Future of Higher Education

Lessons from Alberta

Edited by Laurie E. Adkin

This book contributes to critical university studies by providing a detailed examination of the corporatization of higher education at the University of Alberta, placing this experience in a broad comparative context, and drawing attention to aspects of the politics of knowledge that have often been overlooked in this genre. The essays provide a detailed account of the restructuring of higher education by successive neo-liberal governments in Alberta, Canada, with a focus on developments at the University of Alberta since 2019. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the Review of Education, Pedagogy, and Cultural Studies.

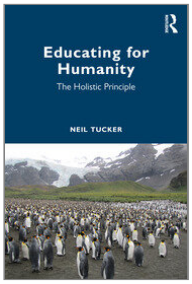
Educating for Humanity

The Holistic Principle



Neil Tucker

This book explores the international landscape of educational scholarship, policy, and practice. Tucker argues there is a fundamental aim for world education. It is to educate complete human beings in all their dimensions, such that they become the best persons they can be, and participate fully in 'the human story'. The book is an essential resource for those involved in the world of education - teachers, university administrators, school authorities, policy makers, and educational organizations. Parents and community members with a strong interest in the education of all children will also find much that is informative and challenging to think about.

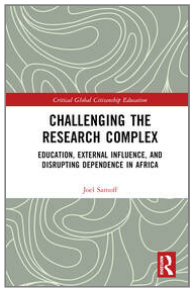
Challenging the Research Complex

Education, External Influence, and Disrupting Dependence in Africa



Joel Samoff

Series: Critical Global Citizenship Education

Starting with an overview of the intersection of local and global dynamics in education in Africa, this book focuses critical attention on education research and the problematic research process. This book unpacks those relationships, exploring the narrow gaze of education research and its problematic character. Examining the research complex—interconnected institutions with distributed authority acting in concert—requires attention to how knowledge is generated, where, and to whose benefit. On this important and exciting terrain—Africa, education, research—readers will find this an accessible and stimulating analysis.

Educating for Care and Virtue Development in Young Children

Research Approaches in Ethics Education from the MelArete Project

Edited by Luigina Mortari University of Verona, Italy

Series: Routledge Research in Character and Virtue Education

This book champions care education in early childhood school contexts, addressing the critical need for an effective and meaningful moral education grounded in Platonic and Aristotelian reflections on virtues, and ultimately positing a theory of ethical education that connects ancient philosophy to contemporary care thinking. This argument is supported by the empirical findings of the MelArete Project, a 10-year research project in care and virtues education that guides children's attention to the concepts of care and virtues. Mortari and her colleagues have developed a rich research base that combines ancient and continental philosophy, and character education.

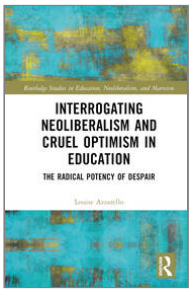
Interrogating Neoliberalism and Cruel Optimism in Education

The Radical Potency of Despair



Louise Azzarello

Series: Routledge Studies in Education, Neoliberalism, and Marxism

This book is a philosophical examination of the ways in which neoliberalism underpins and impedes public education. It proposes that education's adoption of neoliberal logic generates a sense of despair amongst educators, who often enter the profession with the hope of building a better, more just world. A compelling and original volume, it will appeal to scholars, researchers, and upper-level students with interests in neoliberalism and education, philosophy of education, critical pedagogy, and educational policy and politics.

Why School Doesn't Work for Every Child

How to Create a Culture of Inclusion and Belonging

Matt Bromley

Series: Building Equitable Schools

This first book in the Equity in Education series looks at how schools can foster a better sense of belonging and ensure they are truly inclusive of all learners, thus mitigating the effects of an increasingly unequal, fractured society. The book sets out the practical ways schools can create a collaborative culture in which all staff understand the importance of inclusion as well as the part they play in helping to achieve it. It is essential reading for all teachers and school leaders who want to ensure that every child has an equitable chance of success at school and in later life.

COVID-19 and Education in India

Impact on Access, Inclusion and Learning

Edited by Satvinderpal Kaur Panjab University, Chandigarh, Pradeep Kumar Choudhury Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi

This volume provides an overview of the multiple effects of the pandemic on education under three thematic sections – learning and opportunity losses in the COVID-19 pandemic; access, inclusivity, and the idea of education in the online pedagogy market; and the neo-liberal agenda of education and the pandemic. It problematises the state's response to the educational inequality crisis which the pandemic has laid bare. With both theoretical and data evidence, this book outlines the important strategies and plans needed to minimise the long-term cascading effect of the pandemic on human capital development in developing countries, and more specifically in India.

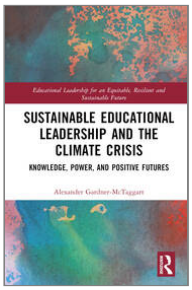
Sustainable Educational Leadership and the Climate Crisis

Knowledge, Power, and Positive Futures



Alexander Gardner-McTaggart Manchester University, UK

Series: Educational Leadership for an Equitable, Resilient and Sustainable Future

Challenging conventional leadership models, this timely and pioneering volume offers a critical rethinking of educational leadership in the context of global crises, particularly climate change and social inequality. Ultimately, the book champions critical thinking as a tool for leadership and a resource for leading, and will be of use to researchers, scholars, and postgraduate students interested in leadership strategy, sustainability education, training, and leadership, and the theory of education more broadly. Those involved with higher education management and philosophy of education will also find the book of value.

Leveraging AI for Human-Centered Learning

Culturally Responsive and Social-Emotional Classroom Practice in Grades 6-12

Marlee Bunch , Brittany Collins

Leveraging AI for Human-Centered Learning provides intentional approaches to the integration of artificial intelligence tools into middle and high school classrooms, specifically to foster equity and social-emotional wellbeing. Featuring activities, lesson plans, and discussion and writing prompts for use with adolescent learners, each chapter offers concrete pedagogical approaches and instructional innovations that align technological changes with learning objectives in ways that advance, rather than replace or neutralize, attention to equity and mental health.

Pop Culture Literacies

Teaching Interpretation, Response, and Composition in a Digital World

Mia Hood

This book illustrates how young people engage with pop culture—music, TV, films, fashion, dance, video games, memes, and digital content in its many forms—and outlines lessons that support them in engaging more actively, critically, and strategically. It is ideal for teachers who want to better understand how their students are engaging in and making sense of the pop culture texts that saturate the digital world and to help them reimagine who they are in and out of that world.

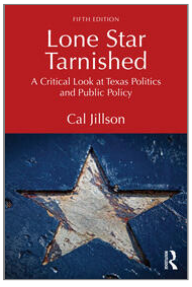
Lone Star Tarnished

A Critical Look at Texas Politics and Public Policy



Cal Jillson Southern Methodist University, USA

Lone Star Tarnished approaches public policy in the nation's most populous "red state" from historical, comparative, and critical perspectives. The historical perspective provides the scope for asking how various policy domains have developed in Texas history. Through Jillson's lively and lucid prose, students are well equipped to analyse how Texas has done and is doing compared to selected states and the national average over time and today. This text is aimed at students and professors of Texas politics who want to stress history, political culture, and public policy.

Civic Activism in Authoritarian Space

Urban Development Interventions in Kazakhstan

Sara O'Connor

Series: Post-Soviet Politics

This book is about citizenship under globalized governance, and how people in urban spaces manoeuvre overlapping authorities to advance their common interests. It shows how citizens can affect change in the policy implementation process by creating spaces and opportunities for political participation, while at the same time staying "safe" and free from surveillance in settings of political repression. The comparative case study of political participation in urban development politics in three cities in Kazakhstan, shows that, despite the centralized and authoritarian nature of Kazakhstan's government, there are variations in governance within a centralized sovereign state.

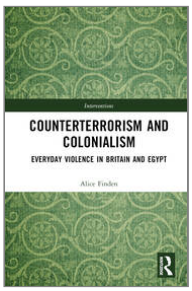
Counterterrorism and Colonialism

Everyday Violence in Britain and Egypt



Alice Finden Durham University, UK

Series: Interventions

This book uses feminist and postcolonial approaches to archival research and interviews to interrogate the persistence of colonial logics in contemporary counter terrorism practice, exposing how forms of state violence are normalised and legitimised. The book investigates the historical development of preventive tools through the discursive imagery of vulnerability, morality and extremism that characterise contemporary counter terrorism and counter violent extremism in Britain and Egypt. In so doing the book argues that counterterror tools are based upon a colonial hierarchy of humanity that legitimises more violent treatment for racialised, classed and gendered subjects.

Series: Worlding Beyond the West

The observation that we cannot fully uproot the epistemological-material violence of coercive systems, nor fully (re)imagine more ethical visions of planetary community, without shared attention to the deeper histories of place and peoples that shape the present. Accordingly, the volumes gather social scientists and humanists, Indigenous and non-Indigenous scholars, and intersectional and materialist thinkers who reconceptualize longue-durée history and its afterlives. Elections, the Ethnic Factor and Patronal Politics in the Russian Regions

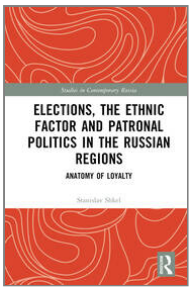
Anatomy of Loyalty



Stanislav Shkel

Series: Studies in Contemporary Russia

This book focuses on the intricacies of elections within Russian ethnic republics and political loyalty in these regions. Many of the ethnic republics support the Russian president and the ruling party to a significantly greater degree than the national average and serve as crucial regional pillars in maintaining the stability of electoral authoritarianism in Russia. Why are non-Russian voters so supportive of the Russian president? How does the ethnic factor contribute to the situation and what are the specific mechanisms involved?

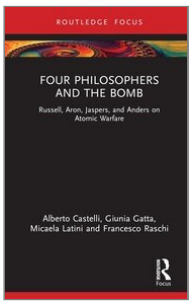
Four Philosophers and the Bomb

Russell, Aron, Jaspers, and Anders on Atomic Warfare



Alberto Castelli University of Ferrara, Italy, Guinia Gatta , Micaela Latini , Francesco Raschi

Series: Routledge Studies in Social and Political Thought

In this book, Alberto Castelli, Giunia Gatta, Micaela Latini and Francesco Raschi examine how four prominent intellectuals of the twentieth century (Bertrand Russell, Karl Jaspers, Raymond Aron, and Günther Anders) understood the atomic warfare. With a chapter devoted to philosophical ideas of each thinker and how they understood and interpret war, the authors analyze the historic-political context in which these ideas emerged and what they proposed to avoid a nuclear disaster. Four Philosophers and the Bomb will be of interest to students and researchers of peace studies, international relations, political philosophy, and moral philosophy.

Fraternity as an Overlooked Element in Global Politics

Edited by Joanna Kulska , Anna M. Solarz

Series: Routledge Studies in Social and Political Thought

This collection of essays explores the often-overlooked concept of fraternity, positioning it alongside freedom and equality as a vital pillar of political discourse from its ancient origins to contemporary practice. The contributors investigate fraternity from three key perspectives: its ambivalence and complexity rooted in the tension between inward and outward orientations, and its dual presence in secular and religious discourse. Targeted towards students, academics, and general readers, this thought-provoking anthology invites readers to reconsider the importance of fraternity in modern society and its potential to foster connections in an increasingly fragmented world.

Global Governance and The Political South

Continuity and Change In and Beyond the BRICS

Edited by Marek Rewizorski , Andrew F. Cooper

Series: Global Governance

Expert contributors highlight the interplay between politics, economy, and security, offering insights into how the Global South perceives and responds to Russian invasion of Ukraine, the COVID-19 pandemic, and the 2008 Financial Crisis. How non-Western countries interpret and react to these turning points, and explore a diverse array of interests, values, and political behaviours often misunderstood in the West. Whether initiatives from the Global South can reshape global governance institutions, influence the existing structures, and provide a historical and philosophical context to understand the continuities and changes in global governance.

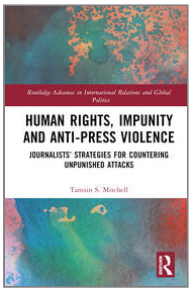
Human Rights, Impunity and Anti-Press Violence

Journalists' Strategies for Countering Unpunished Attacks



Tamsin S. Mitchell

Series: Routledge Advances in International Relations and Global Politics

Human Rights, Impunity and Anti-Press Violence is a qualitative, comparative and interdisciplinary exploration of journalists' responses to impunity for anti-press violence in two Latin American partial democracies, Mexico and Honduras. Critical of International Relations scholarly debates on the value of international human rights norms to local civil society, Tamsin Mitchell demonstrates that while protection approaches based on such standards are important and valued, they are not enough. Suitable for both academics and practitioners, this book prescribes new areas of research and debate in international relations, global studies, human rights, and media/journalism studies.

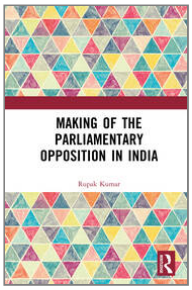
Making of the Parliamentary Opposition in India



Rupak Kumar

This book is a detailed historical and analytical account of the making of parliamentary opposition in Independent India. Historically, it examines the working of the Opposition in four phases –the Formative Phase (1952-1966), the Resilience Phase (1967-1984), the Consolidation Phase (1985-1999), and the Fragmentation Phase (1999-2014); parallelly, the question of the Opposition is framed in two facets: as democracy's necessity and as governance imperative. This book will be useful to students, researchers, academics of political science, governance and policy makers will find this work engaging.

Media Messages in the 2022 Midterm Election

Division, Deniers, Dobbs, and the Donald

Edited by John Allen Hendricks Stephen F. Austin State University, USA, Dan Schill James Madison University, USA

The 2022 midterms marked a transformative moment in American politics, as the combined influence of legacy media and social platforms reached new heights. As these platforms shaped the voter experience in a fragmented and often-polarized media environment, campaigns and citizens harnessed their power to reach diverse audiences and build momentum across both established and emerging channels. Through detailed analyses, data-driven research, and case studies from high-profile races, this book uncovers how media strategies influenced voter behavior, shaped public discourse, and framed electoral outcomes.

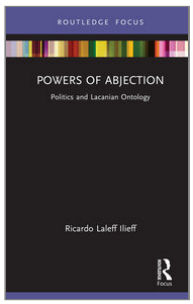
Powers of Abjection

Politics and Lacanian Ontology



Ricardo Laleff Ilieff

Series: Psychoanalytic Political Theory

In this book, Ricardo Laleff Ilieff presents a new ontological understanding of politics through the writings of Julia Kristeva's notion of "abjection", in dialogue with Sigmund Freud's concept of "Unheimlich" and Jacques Lacan's ontology "du réel". Examining the abject in sacrifice, war and the One as articulated by contemporary thinkers such as Walter Benjamin, Judith Butler, Carl Schmitt, René Girard, Pierre Clastres, Giorgio Agamben and Jacques Rancière, Laleff Ilieff argues that abjection does not operate on the margins of the social but is what unveils the failure of all identity.

Predictive Intelligence for Tomorrow's Threats

Edited by Erik J Dahl , David Strachan-Morris

The world is facing an ever-changing array of complex threats to international security. Yet intelligence agencies have a mixed record of anticipating these threats, while decision makers have an equally mixed record of effectively acting on predictive intelligence when offered. This book casts new light on past failures and suggests new frameworks for thinking about future threats and challenges. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Journal of Policing, Intelligence and Counter Terrorism.

Reconceiving Identities in Political Economy

Decolonial Reconstellations, Volume Three

Edited by Laura Doyle , Simon Gikandi , Mwangi wa Gĩthĩnji

Series: Worlding Beyond the West

The observation that we cannot fully uproot the epistemological-material violence of coercive systems, nor fully (re)imagine more ethical visions of planetary community, without shared attention to the deeper histories of place and peoples that shape the present. Accordingly, the volumes gather social scientists and humanists, Indigenous and non-Indigenous scholars, and intersectional and materialist thinkers who reconceptualize longue-durée history and its afterlives. They engage in the dual project to dismantle eurocentric, colonial, androcentric frameworks and to make visible the legacies of care and creative world-making that have sustained human communities.

Reconsidering Chinese Citizenship

Cultural Roots and Cultural Reach

Edited by Canglong Wang , Zhenzhou Zhao The Education University of Hong Kong, Zhonghua Guo Sun Yat-Sen University, China

This book reconsiders the concept of Chinese citizenship through the lens of cultural traditions and their deep historical roots. It challenges the state's monolithic interpretation of culture, exploring how cultural practices influence citizenship in modern China. The contributors to this volume examine how various actors, from government forces to grassroots activists, engage in culture-informed citizenship practices. They highlight the role of political ideology, spirituality, Confucianism, and minority religious traditions in shaping citizenship discourse. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Citizenship Studies.

Scottish Loyalism in the British Atlantic World

Edited by Katie Louise McCullough , Graeme Morton

Using recent work on loyalism in Britain, Ireland, and the British Atlantic as a foundation, this book offers a pioneering exploration of Scottish loyalism and explores the many ways in which Scottish loyalists shaped the British Atlantic world in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries. By examining these different strands of Scottish loyalism, this volume reveals the new histories of Scots and those of Scottish heritage and the contributions they made to a broad and popular political movement on both sides of the Atlantic. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue in Atlantic Studies and are supplemented by a new Preface and Conclusion.

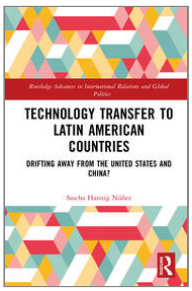
Technology Transfer to Latin American Countries

Drifting Away from the United States and China?



Sascha Hannig Núñez Hitotsubashi University, Japan

Series: Routledge Advances in International Relations and Global Politics

Hannig Núñez analyzes the processes behind technology transfers at a state-decision-making level in Latin America. She challenges the conventional notion that the United States and China hold a dominant technological presence over the region, highlighting the increasing influence from both middle powers and regional actors. This book demonstrates how technology transfer is not solely an economic process but a significant geopolitical tool that influences international order, national sovereignty, and regional integration. Transformative Feminist Mobilization in the Arab Region

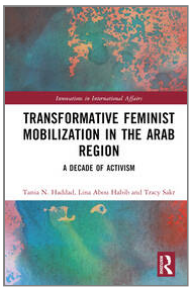
A Decade of Activism



Tania N. Haddad American University of Beirut, Lebanon , Lina Abou Habib American University of Beirut, Lebanon, Tracy Sakr

Series: Innovations in International Affairs

Transformative Feminist Mobilization in the Arab Region aims to identify how intersectional feminist civil society groups in selected countries in the MENA/SWANA region advocate for change, how they interact with governments and the strategies, tools, and skills they utilize. The following questions are raised concerning the advocacy strategies of feminist civil society in the Arab world: How can we determine the success or failure of these strategies in achieving better civic engagement and in gaining popular support for feminists' advocacy goals? What type of dynamics is developed between the government and these feminist movements?

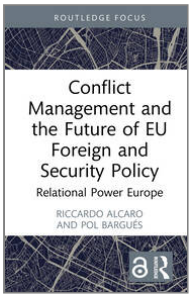
Conflict Management and the Future of EU Foreign and Security Policy

Relational Power Europe



Riccardo Alcaro , Pol Bargués

Series: Trends and Perspectives in International Politics

The European Union (EU) has dealt with crises and conflicts, including Russia's invasion of Ukraine, Iran's nuclear dispute, and Syria's civil war, to understand the peculiar nature of its role in international security. Rather than focusing on the institutional set-up of the EU's foreign and security policy, the authors look at the 'outer' world, concentrating on crises and conflicts impinging on Europe's security. They argue that the EU and its member states' policies are constrained by systemic factors such as acute geopolitical rivalries and the fragmentation of regional governance systems, as well as by multi-source internal contestation of policies across member states.

Identity, Multiplicity, and Resistance in Taiwanese Poetry

Edited by Wen-chi Li University of Zurich, Switzerland

Series: Routledge Research on Taiwan Series

Poetry in Taiwan sits at an intersection of Taiwanese, Mandarin and Japanese languages and traditions. The rise of China has contributed to the shrinking of international space for Taiwan and consequently Taiwanese cultures are often seen as tributaries of China in the eyes of the world. Li and his contributors explore how Taiwanese poets conceptualize their identities, manipulating multiple voices to overcome political hegemony and re-evaluate both Taiwan's colonial legacy and its nationalism.

Bidyut Chakrabarty Delhi University, India

This book is a political biography of Rabindranath Tagore. It identifies the principal threads in Tagore's ideational universe and discusses them with reference to his written treatises. The book looks at the issues that made Tagore a thinker of visions and were complementary to the uplift of humanity regardless of race, religion, and ethnicity. According to Tagore, religion, caste, and gender were the major deterrents to the socio-cultural uniformity of contemporary India. He championed an ideational vision castigating those socio-cultural practices which impaired the coming together of human beings.

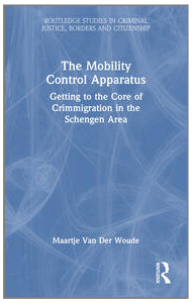
The Mobility Control Apparatus

Getting to the Core of Crimmigration in the Schengen Area



Maartje Van Der Woude

Series: Routledge Studies in Criminal Justice, Borders and Citizenship

This book critically explores the complexities of intra-Schengen border control and migration dynamics within Europe. It provides a comprehensive analysis of how various actors, including border officials and state apparatuses, interact in managing mobility and enforcing controls. The theoretical foundation draws on Foucault's concept of the dispositif, examining how borders are enforced through a combination of legal frameworks, discourses, and on-the-ground practices. This book will be of interest to criminologists, sociologists, legal scholars, and political scientists alike, as well as all those engaged in studies on migration, mobility and the European Union.

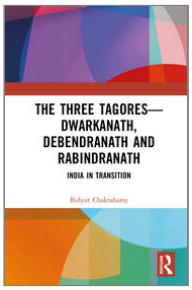
The Three Tagores—Dwarkanath, Debendranath and Rabindranath

India in Transition



Bidyut Chakrabarty Delhi University, India

This book maps the intellectual and cultural transformation that India witnessed in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries through the three Tagores—Dwarkanath Tagore (1794–1846), Debendranath Tagore (1817–1905), and Rabindranath Tagore (1861–1941). It examines how these three generations of Tagores drew on the intellectual strands of the time to chart a different course for India's socio-cultural and politico-ideological development in the wake of the colonial rule.

Urban River Restoration and Waterfront Development in Asian Cities

The Social Question

Edited by Maartje van Eerd , Banashree Banerjee

The book looks at recent initiatives for river restoration and riverfront intended to contribute to making Asian cities clean, resilient and investment worthy. It uses an interdisciplinary perspective to assert that insufficient consideration of social issues in the planning and management of urban riverscapes leads to social exclusion. Utilising diverse entry points and theoretical orientations, every chapter of the volume contributes to the exploration of the way urban river restoration is entwined with questions around urban citizenship, violation of international housing rights, poverty and vulnerability, livelihoods, and the use of common property resources.

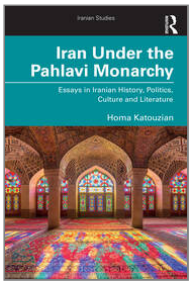
Iran Under the Pahlavi Monarchy

Essays in Iranian History, Politics, Culture and Literature



Homa Katouzian University of Oxford, UK

Series: Iranian Studies

Bringing together eighteen essays from Homa Katouzian, this book explores Iranian history, politics, culture, and Persian literature from mediaeval times through the nineteenth century and into the contemporary period. The book analyses Iran in a way that has seldom been done in one single volume – the history of the Qajar and Pahlavi dynasties, the two great revolutions in the twentieth century, the unfamiliar nature of state and society in Iranian history, as well as some of the high points in modern and classical Persian literature – and is vital reading for anyone interested in the Middle East.

Turkey's Diaspora Governance

Policies from the Past to the Present

Edited by Bahar Baser Durham University, UK, Ahmet Erdi Öztürk London Metropolitan University, UK, Hakkı Taş

This book examines Turkey's evolving diaspora policies, analysing how the state engages, controls, and mobilizes its overseas communities as tools of diplomacy and nation-building. Through an interdisciplinary lens, it highlights the political, ideological, and cultural motivations driving Turkey's approach, particularly under the AKP's influence. This compelling exploration is essential for understanding the impacts of state-led diaspora engagement on transnational identities and relations in a globalized world. It was originally published as a special issue of Middle East Critique.

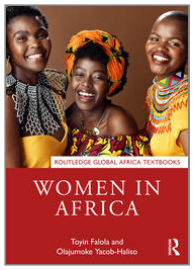
Women in Africa



Toyin Falola University of Texas at Austin, USA, Olajumoke Yacob-Haliso Babcock University, Nigeria

Series: Routledge Global Africa Textbooks

This book introduces readers to the rich and diverse experiences of women across the African continent, covering their socio-cultural, political and economic realities from the pre-colonial era right up to the modern day. In many precolonial African societies, women were empowered and considered to be important participants in the social structures and political systems that managed their communities, but during the colonial era, women were often marginalized. This book invites us to think about the changing roles of African women across time and is the perfect introduction for any student of gender or African studies, or anyone looking for a reader-friendly guide to the subject.

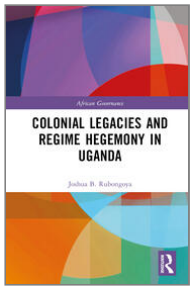
Colonial Legacies and Regime Hegemony in Uganda



Joshua B. Rubongoya Roanoke College, USA

Series: African Governance

This book explains the prevalence of electoral authoritarianism (or multi-party autocracy) in the politics of sub-Saharan Africa and examines why repeated elections have not deepened democracy. Using Uganda as a case study, the book examines the hegemonic regimes that underpin electoral authoritarian regimes in the context of a colonial legacy. This book considers independence struggles as formative moments and the nationalist period as a critical juncture in Uganda's historical experience. Shedding light on how to deconstruct movement politics and consolidate democracy in Africa, this book will be of interest to scholars of African politics and democratization.

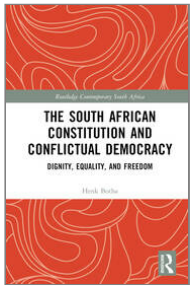
Conflictual Democracy and the South African Constitution

Dignity, Equality, and Freedom



Henk Botha

Series: Routledge Contemporary South Africa

Human dignity, equality, and freedom are central to the South African Constitution. This book examines these values through a conflictual democratic lens, which views conflict, power, and disagreement as constitutive of democracy. The book explores the capacity of value-based constitutional interpretation to create openings for democratic dialogue and emancipatory social struggles. Drawing on the text of the Constitution, case law, academic commentary, and constitutional, political, and critical legal theory, this book will be an important read for researchers of constitutional law and critical legal theory, both within South Africa and beyond.

Malawi

Enduring Concerns and New Directions

Edited by Zoë R. Groves , Jessica Johnson University of Birmingham, UK

Series: Southern African Studies

This book explores Malawi's recent history in light of longer-term historical developments, contributing important new insights to debates about migration, citizenship, chieftaincy, language, cultural practice, anti-colonialism and nationalism. Chapters analyse decolonisation in a political and a cultural sense, and show how the beginning and end of colonial rule were gradual processes rather than sharp ruptures. This volume contains a revised Introduction, five additional chapters, all previously published in JSAS, and a new Afterword.

Political Instability in Guinea-Bissau

Edited by Ricardo Real P. de Sousa , Jens Herpolsheimer , Jara Cuadrado

Series: African Governance

How can we make sense of the persistent political instability in Guinea-Bissau, a small country that has hosted extensive international interventions and made world news headlines over several decades? This book tackles this question, arguing for the need to understand politics in Guinea-Bissau as intricately linked to and deeply embedded in transnational, regional and trans-regional dynamics. With important new perspectives and insights both on Guinea-Bissau, and wider regional dynamics, this book will be an important read for researchers and policy makers involved in African politics and security issues.

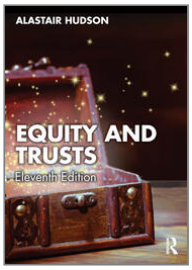
Equity and Trusts



Alastair Hudson

Alastair Hudson's Equity and Trusts is the ideal textbook for undergraduate courses on the law of trusts and equitable remedies. The author's enthusiasm and expertise shine through, helping to bring to life an area of the law which students often find challenging. It has been cited as being authoritative in the courts of numerous countries. It probes the geopolitical problems which trusts law has created, as well as the traditional technical problems. Explaining concepts by using easy-to-understand examples from real life, it is essential reading for all core modules in the subject.

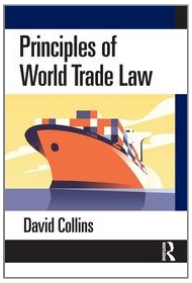
Principles of World Trade Law



David Collins

Principles of World Trade Law presents a comprehensive and balanced picture of the legal framework underpinning the modern world trading system – covering the law of the WTO but also drawing on bilateral and regional instruments. It acknowledges the shifting relevance of the WTO in world trade law in favour of regionalism, particularly in relation to new fields such as digital trade. It is an ideal introductory textbook for advanced undergraduate and postgraduate students taking courses in world trade law, international trade law and international economic law, as well as a valuable guide for scholars, legal practitioners and policymakers.

Accountability of Judicial Power

Theoretical and Comparative Perspectives

Edited by Piotr Mikuli

Series: Routledge Frontiers in Accountability Studies

This book brings together international scholars to discuss theoretical and comparative considerations of judicial accountability in light of recent research, including on the crisis of the rule of law in the contemporary world. It explores the essence of the concept of accountability of the judiciary, emerging standards relating primarily to the individual accountability of judges, and the position of constitutional judges through the lens of accountability. It provides a detailed consideration of the specific accountability mechanisms. The work will be a valuable resource for academics, researchers and policymakers in Constitutional Law and Politics, and Accountability Studies.

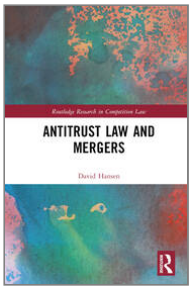
Antitrust Law and Mergers



David Hansen

Series: Routledge Research in Competition Law

This book discusses the economic models and quantitative research involved in merger control forecasts, and the relationship between antitrust law and economics. Analysing qualitative and quantitative models within forecasts of merger control, it applies the framework of antitrust law. This book proposes that economic modelling, econometrics application, and juridical application of antitrust law go hand in hand. It covers both the basic concepts and theory behind economic model forecasts, as well as the application of merger control law. The volume will be of interest to researchers in the field of antitrust law, competition law, economics and corporate law.

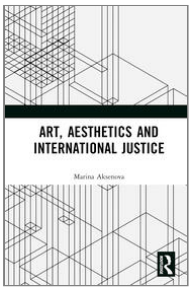
Art, Aesthetics and International Justice



Marina Aksenova

This book demonstrates that art is implicit in the process of administration of international justice. It focuses on the theoretical component linking justice with aesthetics as well as on the practical manifestation of this connection evident, inter alia, in the rhetoric of international courts, their architectural design, and their commemorative practices expressed by the practice of symbolic reparations adopted by some of the courts. Boardroom Behaviour and the Law

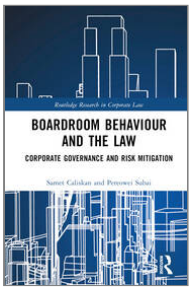
Corporate Governance and Risk Mitigation



Samet Caliskan , Pereowei Subai

Series: Routledge Research in Corporate Law

This book examines how various areas of law collectively influence the relationship between a company and its directors, particularly in safeguarding the long-term interests of stakeholders. It evaluates various tools designed to regulate directors' behaviour and ensure accountability, questioning whether the legal frameworks strike the right balance between corporate liability and personal accountability. It argues that these mechanisms do not sufficiently protect the long-term interests of stakeholders, leaving companies vulnerable to directors' misconduct. This book will be of interest to researchers of corporate law, competition law and corporate governance.

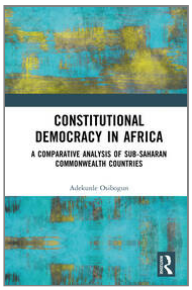
Constitutional Democracy in Africa

A Comparative Analysis of Sub-Saharan Commonwealth Countries



Adekunle Osibogun

This book examines the development of constitutional democracy in Commonwealth Sub-Saharan Africa. It focuses on the constitutional systems of different countries and their effectiveness in curbing excesses in the exercise of government powers and functions. The work highlights a culture of subordination in the governance structure inherited from the colonial era in Sub-Saharan Africa. It finds weaknesses in the ability of constitutional institutions to implement the doctrine of separation of powers and systems of checks and balances. It will be of interest to academics, researchers and policy-makers in Comparative Constitutional Law and Politics, African History and African Studies.

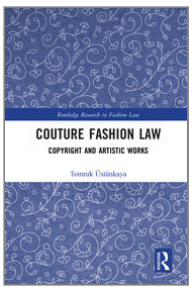
Couture Fashion Law

Copyright and Artistic Works



Tomruk Üstűnkaya

Series: Routledge Research in Fashion Law

This book provides an insight into the legal workings of the most ostentatious fashion sector, couture, whilst simultaneously advocating for stronger legal protection in this industry. Offering an interdisciplinary approach, including art theory from Tolstoy and Rand amongst others, it examines where couture fashion sits within the law. Most significantly the book considers the couturier as an 'artist' and couture as 'art' in relation to how this art form may be protected legally by copyright. It will be of interest to researchers in the field of fashion law, copyright law, art and intellectual property.

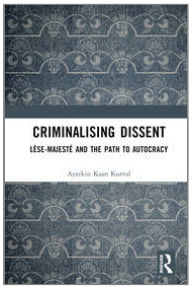
Criminalising Dissent

Lèse-majesté and the Path to Autocracy



Aytekin Kaan Kurtul

This book addresses one of the oldest political offences in the European continent, lèse-majesté, exploring its historical evolution and the threat it poses to a democratic public sphere in modern-day Europe. It calls for the abolition of lèse-majesté laws as a democratic necessity. It will be a useful reference for legal scholars and practitioners, offering a historical and theoretical background and an exploration of how lèse-majesté cases are assessed by domestic criminal courts and international human rights bodies. It will also be of use to political scientists and journalists wishing to learn more about how ciminal law can effectively make heads of state immune to criticism.

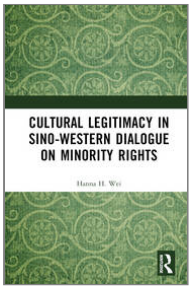
Cultural Legitimacy in Sino-Western Dialogue on Minority Rights



Hanna H. Wei

Based on a cross-cultural approach, the book aims to explore the most plausible way to enhance Sino-Western dialogue on minority rights. Since China has been periodically engaged in dialogue on minority rights with the European Union, the UK, the US, various other European states, etc., the author seeks to identify and examine the ideological and practical difficulties that such dialogues have encountered and will continue to encounter in the future. The book will appeal to scholars, postgraduate students, NGOs and policy makers in the fields of human and minority rights with a particular interest in multiculturalism, intercultural dialogue and human and minority rights in China.

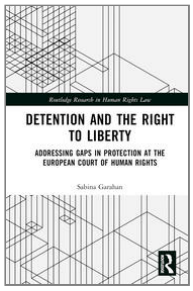
Detention and the Right to Liberty

Addressing Gaps in Protection at the European Court of Human Rights



Sabina Garahan

Series: Routledge Research in Human Rights Law

This book is a ground-breaking study of how the European Court of Human Rights interprets Article 5 of the European Convention on Human Rights – the right to liberty and security. It presents an original framework for the progressive interpretation of the right to liberty. It outlines the normative justifications for an evolutive approach to Article 5 and elaborates how a dynamic interpretation could be enacted in practice, including by reference to original interview data and insights from European Court of Human Rights judges. It will serve as a key point of reference for anyone researching or working on detention and the right to liberty across the Council of Europe and beyond.

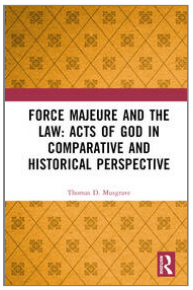
Force Majeure and the Law: Acts of God in Comparative and Historical Perspective



Thomas D. Musgrave

This book examines how the Roman, French and English legal systems have each dealt with the issue of unforeseen, supervening events which have rendered the performance of contractual obligations either impossible or fundamentally different in nature, sometimes known as Force Majeure or Acts of God. The volume will be a valuable guide for academics and researchers in the areas of Comparative Law, Legal History, Legal Theory and Contract Law. As the English approach to such events is very different from that of France, the book will benefit both English and French practitioners as they seek to understand how supervening events are dealt with across the Channel.

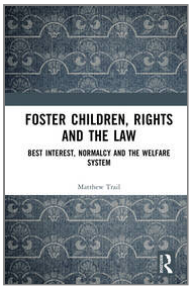
Foster Children, Rights and the Law

Best Interest, Normalcy and the Welfare System



Matthew Trail Max Planck Institute for Research on Collective Goods, Germany

This book discusses child wishes, rights and participation in the foster care system. Making decisions in a foster child's best interest is a widely used, but also widely criticized international legal doctrine. Mixing both empirical legal and child welfare research, the book demonstrates the ways in which risk aversion and fear drive best interest decision making to the detriment of both practitioners and the children they aim to serve. It argues that a children's rights framework starting with normalcy is a better tool for promoting child participation and centering the child within the dependency process.

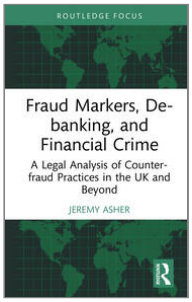
Fraud Markers, De-banking, and Financial Crime

A Legal Analysis of Counter-fraud Practices in the UK and Beyond



Jeremy Asher

Series: The Law of Financial Crime

This book explores how the financial sector in the UK operates fraud databases to help combat fraud, and to explain the phenomenon of 'debanking'. It offers a practical slant to the theory behind the secretive counter-fraud and money-laundering investigation techniques, technology, and practices employed by financial organisations to disrupt fraud and money laundering. Drawing on real-life examples, the book explores the benefits of transparency, and whether the databases and the organisations that utilise them can better build fairness into their systems. It will be an invaluable resource for researchers, practitioners and policy-makers in counter-fraud and anti-money laundering.

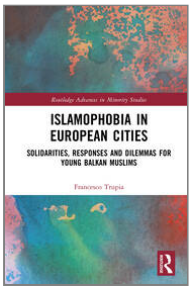
Islamophobia in European Cities

Solidarities, Responses and Dilemmas for Young Balkan Muslims



Francesco Trupia Nicolaus Copernicus University, Poland

Series: Routledge Advances in Minority Studies

The demise of socialism in Southeast Europe coincided with the breakout of wars and genocidal violence against local Muslim populations. This book spotlights the "generations after" born to Balkan Muslim families whose repatriation could not take place due to the political instability in their homeland. It investigates the new modes of these "second generations" to respond to the current crisis of liberal democracy and rampant Islamophobia in their places of residence. By relating spatial issues to broader religious and political questions, the book shines a light on the civic engagement, religious practices and political sensitivities of young Muslims with Balkan roots.

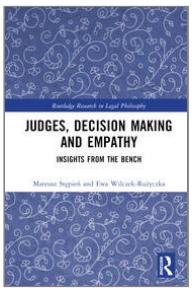
Judges, Decision Making and Empathy

Insights from the Bench



Mateusz Stępień , Ewa Wilczek-Rużyczka

Series: Routledge Research in Legal Philosophy

This book presents empirical research uncovering the views and experiences of Polish judges regarding the utilization of empathy in their work. It offers an in-depth examination of judges' opinions collected through an empirical study involving in-depth interviews. It reveals that while judges may differ in their approaches to empathy in a judicial context, many of their practices and strategies can be linked to empathy-like phenomena. It outlines a scenario for empathy training based on their experiences and expectations. The work will be of interest to academics and researchers in the areas of philosophy of law, legal theory, sociology of law, psychology of law and emotions studies.

Judicial Review, Fundamental Rights and Rule of Law

The Construction of the European Constitutional Identity

Edited by Maria Grazia Rodomonte , Ludovica Durst

Series: Routledge-Giappichelli Studies in Law

This book explores the complex issue of building a common European identity and the factors that contribute to it, with special regard to the role played by the interaction between national Constitutional Courts and European Courts. It examines the 'lights and shadows' of constructing the European identity through the instruments of multilevel and inter-court relationships, particularly from the Court of Justice of the European Union. It addresses jurisprudential trends of supranational and national Courts and recent cases. It will be of interest to those working in the fields of Constitutional, European and Comparative Public Law, as well as Legal History and Sociology.

Legal Empowerment in Informal Settlements

Grassroots Experiences in the Global South

Edited by Adrian Di Giovanni , Luciana Bercovich

This book investigates grassroots, community-led justice strategies - known as legal empowerment - being used to promote the human rights of people living in informal settlements in the Global South. Residents of these settlements encounter a complex array of human rights violations; from systemic discrimination by public officials, to threats to physical security from forced evictions, or arbitrary arrests, to a lack of access to basic services such as housing, water, sanitation, and education. This book will be an important read for researchers, practitioners, and policymakers, working in realms of social and economic rights, access to justice and urban poverty and development.

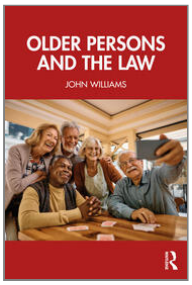
Older Persons and the Law



John Williams Aberystwyth University, UK

This book explores the law and legal system's impact on older persons. As well as describing the current law primarily in England and in Wales, it highlights the pivotal role that elder law lawyers play in using that law to challenge and combat ageism effectively. Important questions are raised about whether the law perpetuates ageism and whether the current working of the law effectively challenges discrimination, abuse, and social exclusion faced by older persons. This book will interest researchers specialising in family and social welfare law, elder law, human rights law, and discrimination law.

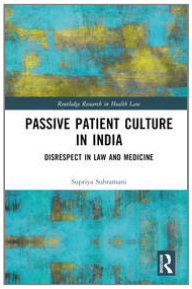
Passive Patient Culture in India

Disrespect in Law and Medicine



Supriya Subramani University of Sydney

Series: Routledge Research in Health Law

This book critiques the archetype of the "passive patient" entrenched in both medicine and law in India–an image that undermines agency, diminishes self-respect, and sustains a culture of disrespect. Chapters of the book unpacks the intersections of power, social categories, and patienthood, exposing how marginalized communities face routine indignities in healthcare and law. It explores law and medicine's role in maintaining presumed "passive patient" archetype, especially through legal judgements and healthcare encounters. It argues that the "passive patient" is not an isolated phenomenon but an outcome of broader, oppressive structures.

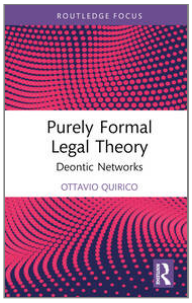
Purely Formal Legal Theory

Deontic Networks



Ottavio Quirico University of New England, Australia

Series: Routledge Research in Legal Philosophy

This book elaborates on deontic logic and network theory to present a reductionist theory of the law, disclosing a simple understanding of legal norms based on minimum necessary and sufficient notions. It explores the concept of a 'norm' as a claim-obligation relation that regulates conduct, that is, action and inaction, among subjects, in space and time. Based on these five minimum notions, the study illustrates legal systems as networks of substantive right-duty relations that are procedurally organised according to time. The work will be of interest to academics, researchers and practitioners working in the areas of Legal Philosophy, Legal Theory and International Law.

The Routledge Handbook on Sports Law and Governance

Edited by Annette Greenhow , John Wolohan

The Routledge Handbook on Sports Law and Governance provides a definitive guide to the regulation of international and national sport through the lens of both regulatory, governance and legal frameworks. Exploring a wide range of perspectives across disciplines and transcending jurisdictional boundaries, the handbook analyses complex international and national sports challenges. Taking a nuanced approach to traditional themes, it recognises the context and sport as a regulatory domain when applying law and legal frameworks. This book is an essential resource for students and academics exploring issues in international sports law, sports regulation and sport governance.

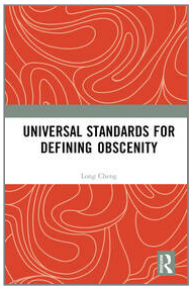
Universal Standards for Defining Obscenity



CHENG Long

In the existing literature, there is no universal standard for defining obscenity. The book aims to demonstrate that there indeed exist underlying universal standards for defining obscenity (USDOs). However, their application to different contexts of time, place, and culture, may legitimately result in varied manifestations. It also explores how positive law, including legislation, case law, and customary law, should respond to the proposed USDOs. The book will appeal to scholars of legal philosophy, natural law theories, obscenity law, and free speech.

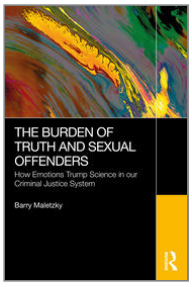
The Burden of Truth and Sexual Offenders

How Emotions Trump Science in our Criminal Justice System



Barry Maletzky

This book demonstrates that the criminal justice system in the United States has allowed the natural emotions surrounding sexuality to allow the minority of sexual offenders who are truly dangerous to be merged with the majority of offenders who pose little, if any, risk to be at large. This work is thought-provoking for attorneys, prosecutors, legal assistants and law clerks, members of the judiciary, those who teach or are students of the administration of justice, those who assess or treat sexual offenders, and offenders and their families affected by the system.

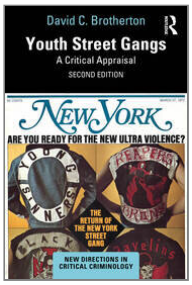
Youth Street Gangs

A Critical Appraisal



David C. Brotherton John Jay College, New York, USA

The book critiques the pathologization of gangs in recent decades, particularly its negative consequences for democracy in an age of punishment, cruelty and coercive social control. It critically reviews gang theory and concludes by making a plea for researchers to engage the gang reflexively. The new edition contains three new chapters offering alternative approaches to interventions in gang violence and desistance, drawing on interviews with Antonio Fernandez (King Tone), former head of the Latin Kings. The book is essential reading for academics and students involved in the study of juvenile delinquency, youth studies, deviance, gang studies and cultural criminology.

Desistance, Resistance, and Normalcy

Tea Fredriksson Stockholm University, Robin Gålnander

Series: International Series on Desistance and Rehabilitation

This book provides a critique of normalcy as both an aspirational and oppressive goal in desistance journeys, particularly through the lens of women's experiences. Through this lens, the book uncovers tensions between desistance as a journey toward societal (re)integration and the resistances desisters experience when encountering state institutions and social norms. Being no longer part of the old life, and not yet part of the new, desisters face both familiar and unfamiliar harms. It will appeal to students and scholars of criminology, desistance, gender studies, recovery from addiction, and to practitioners and policy makers in these fields.

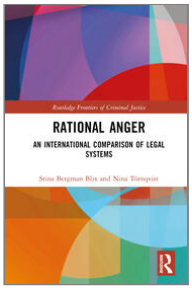
Rational Anger

An International Comparison of Legal Systems



Stina Bergman Blix Uppsala University, Sweden., Nina Törnqvist Uppsala University

Series: Routledge Frontiers of Criminal Justice

When do judges and prosecutors become angry in court, what do they become angry about, and which other emotions open up for anger? Anger brings people to court and is essential in evaluating wrongdoing and attributing blame, but at the same time anger is seen as a threat to well-reasoned and just decision-making. Drawing on observations, interviews, and shadowing of legal professionals, the text demonstrates how anger is entangled with legal thought and comes into play in legal practices.

The Gender Gap in White-Collar Crime

A Multi-Country Study of Women Offenders in Economic Crime

Edited by Maryam Kamaei , Petter Gottschalk , Thomas E. Dearden

Studies white collar crimes, focusing on the disparity in such crimes between men and women. It looks at how pink-collar crime differs dramatically in different countries, with case studies from various countries to further enhance the understanding of the explained concepts. It offers a specific focus on the convenience theory, to explain general white-collar crime. Both theoretical arguments and empirical work examine the validity of the theory for explaining women white-collar crime. It focuses on crimes of convenience in cybercrime by considering the importance of gender in the history of internet crime and the relationship between cybercrime and white-collar crime.

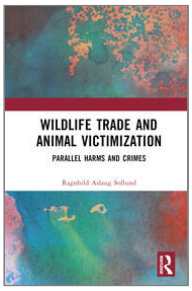
Wildlife Trade and Animal Victimization

Parallel Harms and Crimes



Ragnhild Aslaug Sollund

This book examines the trade in nonhuman animals of endangered wild species. It draws on extensive empirical data from Norway to highlight the parallel legal and illegal markets, the motivation of traders, animal victimization, weaknesses of existing regulatory frameworks, and difficulties of legal enforcement. The work will be an essential resource for researchers and academics in green criminology, global criminology, environmental law and environmental studies. It will also be of value to professionals working in wildlife and animal welfare policies and enforcement, such as governmental and non-governmental organizations.

Wrongful Convictions and the Criminalization of Innocence

International Perspectives on Contributing Factors, Models of Exoneration and Case Studies

Edited by Kathryn M. Campbell University of Ottawa, Barak Ariel , Anat Horovitz , Irwin Colter

Series: Directions and Developments in Criminal Justice and Law

This edited international collection explores the nature and extent of wrongful convictions, as well as examining the systems in place that attempt to exonerate the wrongly convicted. Inspired by two conventions of legal scholars, jurists, lawyers, and law students gathered to examine miscarriages of justice as well as the means to address them, in Israel and Canada, this compilation presents work arising from those workshops as well as newer research dedicated to examining this phenomenon. The book is useful for all those interested in studying miscarriages of justice, why they occur, and how to eliminate or minimize them.

Good Growth

How Brands Win with Social Impact

Omar Rodriguez-Vila , Sundar Bharadwaj

Many sustainability books offer 30,000-foot strategic views and broad-brush guidance on the business of "doing well by doing good," but here is a ground-level guide for profitably integrating social and environmental benefits into individual products and brands.The book introduces the rapidly emerging phenomenon of social impact markets, and shows how companies can capitalize on these new pockets of consumer demand through focused strategy, data-informed implementation, and a clear eye on the future, including how digital technologies are creating new ways for brands to expand their social impact and make social mission a central element of competitive strategy.

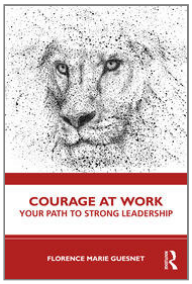
Courage at Work

Your Path to Strong Leadership



Florence Guesnet

Building on examples from a 30-year international career in marketing, coaching, and political activism, Florence Guesnet introduces the pioneering concept of the "courage zone." This shifts courage from an unattainable heroism to a competence that can be built with five steps: recognize fear, perceive your heart's desires, analyze reality, make a decision, and take the step. The book begins by strengthening the reader's courage as an individual, inspiring a bold mindset and vision and including hands-on exercises.

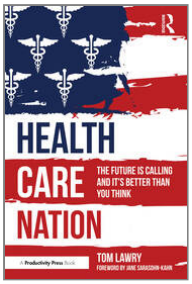
Healthcare Nation

The Future Is Calling and It's Better Than You Think



Tom Lawry

Despite spending more money per capita on healthcare than any other country in the world, the U.S. struggles to match other nations in life expectancy, health outcomes and general well-being. Meanwhile the system spends more on unnecessary, ineffective and wasteful services than what we collectively invest in K-12 education in America. All the while, our health status is declining. For the first time kids born today may not live as long as their older siblings. This is a book about the interconnectedness between the health of people and the health of a nation.

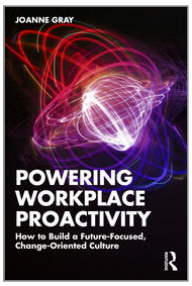
Powering Workplace Proactivity

How to Build a Future-Focused, Change-Oriented Culture



Joanne Gray

The pressures and expectations of 21st-century life have led to short-term, reactive behavior in the workplace, however, long-term business success relies on proactive behavior, which is self-directed, future-focused, and change-orientated. But proactivity does not occur in a vacuum – it is a complex, social process heavily affected by contextual and situational factors. With its distinct and flexible design model, this book solves the problem of 'how' to create the optimal conditions for proactivity at work to flourish, and to drive sustainability and competitive advantage.

The Dark Side of Leadership: A Cross-Cultural Compendium

With Lessons for Leaders

Edited by Adebukola Oyewunmi , Gill Owens , Ogechi Adeola

In the last three decades, the research in leadership and organizational sciences has expanded in theoretical and typological breadth to include the dark side. These works have aimed at uncovering the complex interplay of personalities, power dynamics, and organizational cultures that can lead to destructive and unethical behaviors in the workplace. While there are volumes of literature on leadership, there is a dearth of research that integrates dark leadership and cross-cultural norms, perspectives, variances and interventions.

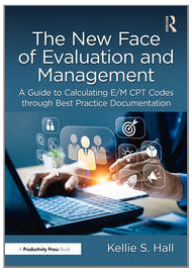
The New Face of Evaluation and Management

A Guide to Calculating E/M CPT Codes through Best Practice Documentation



Kellie Hall

Physicians want to care for patients, not spend their time documenting in an electronic medical record. Physicians are always complaining about the amount of time they spend documenting patient care in support of medical billing through an evaluation and management coding system (E/M). New guidelines were created to lessen the time a physician/provider spends on documentation as many of the mandatory elements are no longer a requirement for calculating a code level. Previously an E/M (evaluation and management) note required documentation of history, exam, and medical decision-making with required elements in each component to support a level for payment.

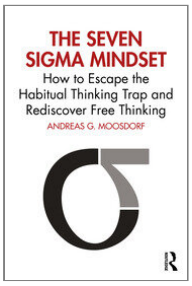
The Seven Sigma Mindset

How to Escape the Habitual Thinking Trap and Rediscover Free Thinking



Andreas G. Moosdorf

Unless you can name six thoughts you had today that you haven't had before, you are a habitual thinker 99.9% of the time, just like everyone else. This is because our hard-wired survivor bias drives us to repeat mental patterns and solutions that seemed sensible in the past, and that provide comfort, social rewards, and a stable identity. This means that our thinking follows a Six Sigma distribution and that only a tiny fraction of our daily thoughts are truly novel and free, which prevents us from reaching the groundbreaking solutions we need to adapt to a fast-changing world.

Transforming Health in Turkey

An Evaluation of Two Decades of Reform

Edited by Dilek Başar , Selcen Öztürk

Turkey's Health Transformation Programme (H.T.P.) has been instrumental in reshaping the country's healthcare landscape, aiming at enhancing accessibility, efficiency, and quality of services. Despite generating significant academic and policy interest, there remains a gap in consolidated scholarly resources. This forthcoming book addresses this need, synthesizing existing research to provide a comprehensive overview and critical analysis of the H.T.P.'s impacts from multiple perspectives.

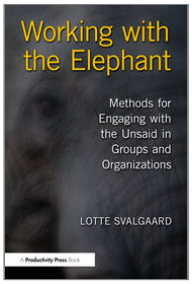
Working with the Elephant

Methods for Engaging with the Unsaid in Groups and Organizations



Lotte Svalgaard

This is an example of 'the elephant in the room.' Most of us notice the elephant, it gets in the way, and it's difficult to deal with until someone points at it and says, 'There it is, let's take a look at it and reduce its impact.' With an engaging use of examples and questions, Lotte Svalgaard addresses how we can best deal with the elephant and thus promote job satisfaction, creativity and productivity. In the context of action, what we notice often recedes into the background and gradually slips out of focus until we eventually reconnect with our need to reflect and recreate a space for it.

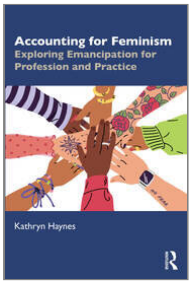
Accounting for Feminism

Exploring Emancipation for Profession and Practice



Kathryn Haynes Newcastle University, UK

Although gender challenges in accounting are widely acknowledged, research often addresses the relational position of men and women in relation to various issues, without necessarily challenging the underlying structures and social constructions of gender. In contrast, this book takes a much more overtly feminist position, informed by feminist theory, feminist methodology and feminist activism, to challenge these constructs and resulting inequalities. The book addresses contemporary global feminisms and their potential emancipatory implications for accounting, as a profession and as a tool or technology.

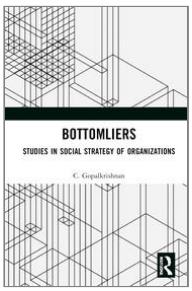
Bottomliers

Studies in Social Strategy of Organizations in India



C. Gopalkrishnan

The subjects or beneficiaries of social work that organizations undertake are usually people or communities that are at the 'bottom of the pyramid'. This book looks at social action programmes and strategies targeted to help the 'bottomliers' or the most vulnerable groups in society. This book focuses on people such as the sick, the poor, the physically challenged, and the old; and explores the intent and strategy of social organizations—charitable, social business, corporate social action programmes and civil society organisations—to help the marginalised and address challenges they face.

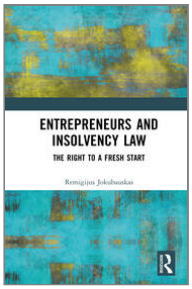
Entrepreneurs and Insolvency Law

The Right to a Fresh Start



Remigijus Jokubauskas

This book analyses the discharge of debts procedure in relation to insolvent entrepreneurs, covering the protection of human rights under insolvency law. It promotes the "fresh start" principle, which is the primary objective of the debt discharge process for insolvent entrepreneurs, and explores how fundamental human rights apply within such insolvency proceedings. Aiming to justify the limitation of creditors' property rights when their claims are discharged, it discusses the models and procedures for insolvency proceedings involving entrepreneurs. The book will be of interest to researchers in the field of insolvency law, financial law and entrepreneurship.

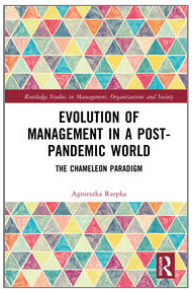
Evolution of Management in a Post-Pandemic World

The Chameleon Paradigm



Agnieszka Rzepka Lublin University of Technology, Poland

Series: Routledge Studies in Management, Organizations and Society

Developed by Agnieszka Rzepka, The Chameleon Paradigm is the culmination of twenty years of global research which identifies critical factors essential for organizational success in a volatile marketplace. The Paradigm provides a roadmap for organizations, addressing key elements necessary for thriving in a 5.0 reality. With market trends pushing companies towards sustainable, human-centric industries, the book argues that organizations should function as living organisms, where one failing component can disrupt the whole system. By applying Rzepka's model, managers can design, build, and operate innovative and resilient local and global organizations.

Women in Logistics and Transport

Trends, Challenges, and Future Research

Edited by Nor Aida Abdul Rahman Universiti Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, Zawiah Binti Abdul Majid , Nurhayati Mohd Nur , Nihan Şenbursa

Series: Routledge Frontiers of Business Management

This book details the challenges and opportunities for gender equality in the logistics and transport sectors. Drawing on real-world insights from maritime, rail, aviation, and humanitarian logistics, contributors, many of whom are active members of the Women in Logistics and Transport association and the Chartered Institute of Logistics and Transport, explore the unique barriers women face in these traditionally male-dominated fields. Key topics include women's empowerment and leadership, capacity building, sectoral challenges, gender bias, and career obstacles. An essential read for researchers, policymakers, and professionals in aviation, rail, and maritime transport sectors.

Work Engagement and Employee Well-being

Psychosocial Support to Build Engaged Human Capital

Edited by Małgorzata Adamska-Chudzińska , Justyna Pawlak

Series: Routledge Research in Human Resource Management

Work Engagement and Employee Well-being highlights the vital role of psychosocial support in building and stimulating work engagement. It is a response to the growing phenomenon of the weakened employee attachment and engagement instability. The authors underscore the importance of creating a friendly work environment, which accommodates a variety of employee needs, elicits positive emotions, thus fostering the well-being and complete engagement of employees.

A History of the Global Wheat Trade

Actors and Dynamics (1840-1914)

Edited by Marco Bertilorenzi , Carlo Fumian , Giovanni Gozzini

Series: Routledge Explorations in Economic History

During the second half of the nineteenth century, a new global market for wheat came to the fore. Ever since, scarce and perishable food has been transformed into a modern global commodity. This book explores the historical origin of the global wheat market, offering an actor-centred view of the history of this new global commodity. The book also examines new global actors, such Cargill, Louis Dreyfus, or Burge y Born, who took advantage of the new opportunities provided by the interlinked and globalized world grain trade. The book will be of great interest to historians of economics, business, trade, agriculture, globalization and commodities.

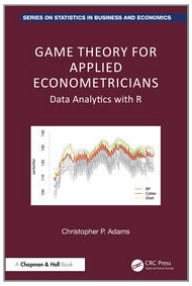
Game Theory for Applied Econometricians

Data Analytics with R



Christopher P. Adams Federal Trade Commission

Series: Chapman and Hall/CRC Series on Statistics in Business and Economics

Over the last 30 years the practice and use of game theory has changed dramatically, yet textbooks continue to present game theory with algebraic formalism and toy models. This book, on the other hand, illustrates game theory concepts using real-world data and analyses problems with real policy implications. The examples include an analysis of bargaining between hospitals and insurers, equilibrium entry of retail tire stores, bid rigging in timber auctions and contracts in 19th century whaling. This book is aimed at the general reader with the equivalent of a bachelor's degree in economics, statistics or some more technical field.

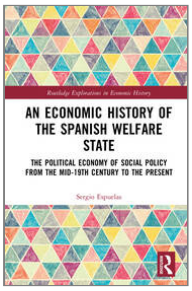
An Economic History of the Spanish Welfare State

The Political Economy of Social Policy from the Mid-19th Century to the Present



Sergio Espuelas

Series: Routledge Explorations in Economic History

This monograph analyses the evolution of the welfare state in Spain from qualitative and quantitative perspectives. It basically relies on estimates of public social spending from 1850 to the present and offers comparisons with the rest of Europe. As a whole, the volume sheds light on the historical, political and economic conditions at play during the relatively late development of the Spanish welfare state. This volume will be of interest to advanced students and researchers of economic history, welfare states, European history and social policy.

Degrowth through Knowledge-Based Development

Social Flourishing in the Anthropocene

Francisco Javier Carrillo

Series: Routledge Research in Sustainable Planning and Development in Asia

This book tackles the terms under which a knowledge-based society can indefinitely improve while pursuing an eco-economic steady state. In doing so, it addresses the literature gap on continued social improvement within a postgrowth economic and cultural paradigm. Carrillo consolidates research on the degrowth paradigm and proposes a conceptual framework for continued social improvement based on the integration of tangible and intangible collective value. This transdisciplinary book will be of particular interest to researchers of degrowth economics, sustainable development, and urban planning.

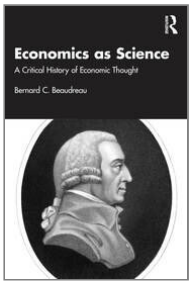
Economics as Science

A Critical History of Economic Thought



Bernard C. Beaudreau

This novel text provides a critical approach to the study of economic thought – from neoclassical economics, to Marxian economics, to Keynesian economics – through the lens of science and the scientific method. It examines the collection of ideas that constitute the core of economic thought in the five basic fields of economics: growth theory, income distribution, macroeconomics, price theory and international trade, and offers a critical examination of the various scholarly contributions, including those of Nobel Prize laureates. It will be an invaluable resource for students of the history of economic thought, and of economics more generally.

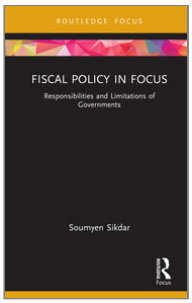
Fiscal Policy in Focus

Responsibilities and Limitations of Governments



Soumyen Sikdar

Series: Routledge Focus on Management and Society

Most economists today oppose governments playing a significant role in economic affairs, favoring supply-side policies and emphasizing the risks of government failure. The book challenges this view, arguing that for inclusive and sustainable development over the long run, the State must act as an active enabler and regulator of private initiative. A complementary public-private relationship, supported by well-designed fiscal policies, is indispensable for promoting social welfare. Keeping the 'government failure vs market failure' debate as a focal point, the subject matter discusses the strengths and limitations of tax-expenditure policies in managing the economy.

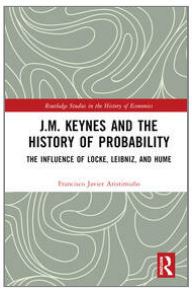
J.M. Keynes and the History of Probability

The Influence of Locke, Leibniz, and Hume



Francisco Javier Aristimuño

Series: Routledge Studies in the History of Economics

John Maynard Keynes is best known for his contributions to economics, yet he spent nearly two decades exploring the concept of probability. His extensive work culminated in the Treatise on Probability (1921), where he developed a unique notion of probability that continues to divide scholars regarding its relevance to economic theory. This book delves into the connections between Keynes's ideas on probability and those of early Enlightenment philosophers, such as Locke, Leibniz and Hume. This book is addressed to readers interested in the philosophy of probability and offers economists a fuller understanding of Keynes's intellectual framework.

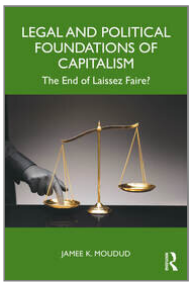
Legal and Political Foundations of Capitalism

The End of Laissez Faire?



Jamee K. Moudud

Series: Economics as Social Theory

"Institutions matter", is a common refrain amongst all economists – including many who have proposed progressive alternatives to free market fundamentalism. However, this sentiment does not go far enough.This book draws principally on the original institutional economics and American legal realist traditions to propose a theory of legal institutionalism or institutional political economy. This book will be of interest to readers of economics, law, public policy, international and development studies, and all those seeking to explore progressive alternatives in this period of multiple crises.

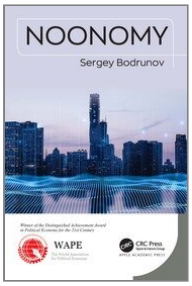
Noonomy



Sergey Bodrunov

Shows that production will undergo qualitative changes due to technology that will create new opportunities for personal development and the satisfaction of wants but also engender risks associated with growth opportunities of human interference with nature and technogenic stress on the environment. Based on the study of cutting-edge technologies and resulting socioeconomic shifts, Bodrunov concludes that the crisis can be overcome through the formation of a new industrial society that is reliant on knowledge-intensive material production and gradual removal of humans from immediate material production processes.

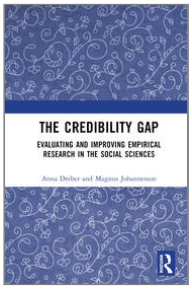
The Credibility Gap

Evaluating and Improving Empirical Research in the Social Sciences



Anna Dreber , Magnus Johannesson

The authors provide a framework for evaluating reproducibility, replicability and generalizability of empirical research in the social sciences. They define different types of reproducibility and replicability and show how they can be measured to evaluate the credibility of published findings. Even if published results are not systematically biased, the variation in results across populations, research designs, and analyses decreases the reliability and generalizability of published findings. The book shows how such heterogeneity in results can be measured and incorporated in the analysis to more accurately represent the uncertainty and thereby generalizability of reported results.

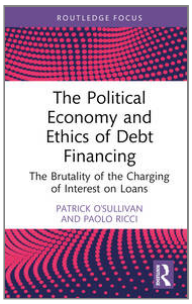
The Political Economy and Ethics of Debt Financing

The Brutality of the Charging of Interest on Loans



Patrick O'Sullivan , Paolo Ricci University of Naples Federico II, Italy.

Series: Routledge Frontiers of Political Economy

This book takes a fresh look at an age-old controversy in ethics and political economy. It endeavours to show the immense relevance of those ancient debates in the contemporary economy . This book argues that in fact the question of the morality of charging interest is still debateable and deserves to be considered anew in the 21st century for the light it can shine on certain salient contemporary sources of economic malaise. The book will be of significant interest to readers in ethics, moral philosophy and political economy as well as to policy makers and thinkers grappling with issues around debt burdens (public and private), inequality and fairness.

The Urbanising Dynamics of Global China

Speculation, Articulation, and Translation in Global Capitalism

Edited by Hyun Bang Shin , Yimin Zhao , Sin Yee Koh

The book focuses on the urban dimension of global China, especially regarding the impacts of its urbanising dynamics on the (re)imaginings and manifestations of global urban futures. It situates China's urban question in contemporary global change, and vice versa, by understanding the rise of global China as an urban process that weaves together compressed spaces, variegated times and trans-scalar power dynamics in the making of global capitalism. This book was originally published as a special issue of Urban Geography.

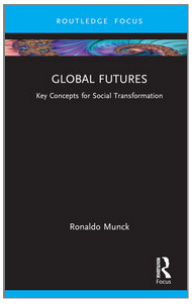
Global Futures

Key Concepts for Social Transformation



Ronaldo Munck Dublin City University, Ireland

Series: Routledge Critical Development Studies

Global Futures is a provocation for us to rethink some of the key words and concepts which define the current global order. Prompted by crises around the world, it seeks to re-energise our desire for a better future. The book takes seven key concepts from the new global studies and considers how they are used and whether they are adequate for addressing the twenty-first century's increasingly complex global order. Written by Ronaldo Munck, a key social theorist and social activist with a Latin American and European background, this book will be perfect for students and researchers of sociology, politics, international relations, and global development.

Post-Development from the Global South

Radical Alternatives or Ambivalent Engagements?

Edited by Sally Matthews , Alba Castellsagué

Series: Rethinking Development

Post-development advocates and decolonial thinkers are calling for radical alternatives to development, but how do these ideals sit with the day-to-day reality of marginalised communities struggling with poverty, precarity, and the deprivation of human rights? The book investigates how post-development alternatives are being understood and negotiated on the ground in the Global South. Taking the reader from abstract post-development theory right into the heart of communities directly impacted by development, the book will be an important guide for students, researchers and practitioners looking for better ways to address the aspirations of marginalised communities in the Global South.

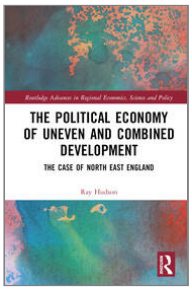
The Political Economy of Uneven and Combined Development

The Case of North East England



Ray Hudson

Series: Routledge Advances in Regional Economics, Science and Policy

The focus of this book is the processes through which industries and regions grow and decline in capitalist economies via an investigation of the trajectory of change in the North East of England. The core message of the book is that the growth and decline of the region and of the changing map of regional development, is most appropriately understood within a conceptual framework of uneven and combined development grounded in Marxian political economy. The book will be of interest to academic researchers and students of political economy, regional development, geography, sociology, planning and policy studies as well as policy makers in central, regional and local government.

Human Societies

A Brief Introduction

Mark Q. Sutton

Human Societies: A Brief Introduction succinctly covers the basic concepts of Cultural Anthropology in a way that is relevant and engaging to the introductory student. The book deals with topics such as sexuality, religion, how people adapt to their environments, the ways people organize themselves, foods and cuisines, climate change, refugees and migrants, and reproduction. The book also includes short "Spotlight" boxes that enlighten the reader about specific topics, as well as chapter summaries, exercises, key terms, and a comprehensive glossary. It is essential reading for undergraduate students making their first steps into Cultural and Applied Anthropology.

Can We Trust Technology?

Sarah Pink Monash University, Australia, Emma Quilty Monash University, Australia

Can we Trust Technology? examines the contemporary crisis of trust, where people's trust in organisations and in emerging technologies is decreasing. Drawing on incisive analysis of the contemporary context and ethnographic research with those who develop and use technologies, the book reconsiders dominant assumptions about trust, arguing for a shift in thinking away from motifs of trustable technology and toward motifs of trustable futures.

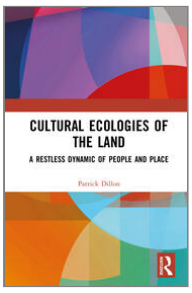
Cultural Ecologies of the Land

A Restless Dynamic of People and Place



Patrick J. Dillon

Cultural Ecologies of the Land is a radical and challenging reassessment of the way we relate to the land and to infrastructure. This book is a multi-layered account of people and environment shaping each other through cumulative, moment-to-moment, day-to-day change, and a template for thinking about place, locality, belonging, and identity. It presents the existential crisis that many believe we now face as a systemic problem, arising from social institutions and forms of behaviour that have been marginalised with our dependency on modern infrastructure, and explains how regenerating relationships with the land offers a route towards alleviating it.

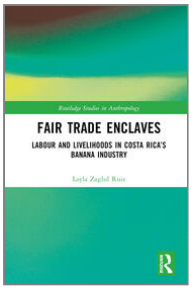
Fair Trade Enclaves

Labour and Livelihoods in Costa Rica's Banana Industry



Layla Zaglul Ruiz London School of Economics, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in Anthropology

Fair Trade Enclaves tells the story of exploitation in the production of Fair Trade bananas. It draws on fieldwork in Costa Rica, which is today the world's third-largest exporter of bananas. The book offers an ethnographic study of Fair Trade's impact on the 'Dollar' banana system and considers how the growth in Fair Trade affects workers' livelihoods at the source of production. The author reveals how, in some respects, workers at the conventional farm enjoy better conditions compared with those employed on the Fair Trade farm. The book is valuable reading for scholars of Anthropology, Development and Latin American Studies.

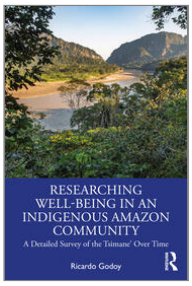
Researching Well-Being in an Indigenous Amazon Community

A Detailed Survey of the Tsimane' Over Time



Ricardo Godoy

Using data compiled by the Tsimane' Amazonian Panel Study (2002-2010) which monitored change in Tsimane' communities, this book aims to analyse important social and economic outcomes in a farming and foraging society of native Amazonians in Bolivia. It uses multidisciplinary methods through real longitudinal research to bring together three themes: well-being, economic inequalities, and the fate of Indigenous People in small-scale rural societies of the Global South to ask the question 'Why is a society that faces material deprivations, considerable economic inequalities, and declining material standards of living so happy?'

The Benefits of the Cold and Domestication

A New Understanding of Human-Animal Partnerships for Survival in Extreme Environments

Edited by Florian Stammler University of Lapland, Finland , Hiroki Takakura Tohoku University, Japan

Series: Arctic Worlds

This book explores cooperation between humans and animals in extreme environments and contends that understanding domestication is crucial to explaining how life is possible in such conditions. The chapters draw on work from anthropology, genetics, law, and geography, with a range of ethnographic case studies from cold environments. The contributors offer new evidence for rethinking the dichotomy of trust vs domination previously used to characterise human-animal relations. They show how humans and animals partner for survival, and how a cold environment does not merely threaten existence, but rather creates opportunities.

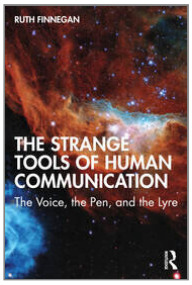
The Strange Tools of Human Communication

The Voice, the Pen, and the Lyre



Ruth Finnegan

The Strange Tools of Human Communication: The Voice, the Pen, and the Lyre is an exploration of the everyday tools of communication that weaves together history, art, and science to reveal how the voice, hand, and mind shape our shared experiences. Through a blend of scholarly research, personal insights, and field experiences—from the oral tales of Sierra Leone's Limba storytellers to ancient cave art and modern iconography—this book offers fresh perspectives on how we connect across time and cultures. It is an ideal supplement to upper level undergraduate and graduate courses in cultural anthropology, sociocultural linguistics, and cultural studies.

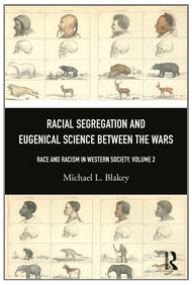
Racial Segregation and Eugenical Science Between the Wars

Race and Racism in Western Society, Volume 2



Michael L. Blakey

This volume examines the rise and decline of racial science and its relationship to the political and social imposition of Jim Crow in the American South, a racialized code of laws grounded upon an inherently racist and prejudicial pseudoscience. The author argues, here, that the study of human beings within the emerging 18th and 19th century institutions of Western science were corrupted by the limited social intuitions of its enslaving, colonizing, and elitist members.

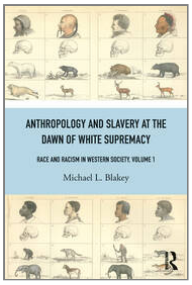
The Blinding Light of Race: Race and Racism in Western Society, Volume 1

Anthropology and Slavery at the Dawn of White Supremacy



Michael L. Blakey

In the first of three volumes, Anthropology and Slavery at the Dawn of White Supremacy, Michael Blakey discusses both the background and function of anthropological racism as he questions whether racism has always been with us. Using evolutionary, classical, historical, and ethnographic critique, Blakey definitively answers 'no.' The long-standing problem of racism in America, as both an obvious and hidden phenomenon, has been a developing one – with the Civil War as a watershed for American science and society, which has progressed into new versions of the old justifications (as social Darwinism) for continued racial inequity (Jim Crow segregation).

Unmarking Whiteness and the New American Racism

Michael L. Blakey

This book criticizes recent performative solutions to racism ('diversity' programs at universities, for example) and White people's 'Fragility' or intolerance of mature criticism. These ideas are locked in an intellectually gated and defensive conversation that effectively denies the ongoing, particular abuses of White supremacy. The book instead proposes expensive educational and economic changes (including reparations) as necessary to achieve real equity.

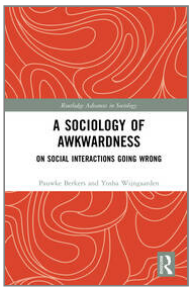
A Sociology of Awkwardness

On Social Interactions Going Wrong



Pauwke Berkers Erasmus University Rotterdam, Netherland, Yosha Wijngaarden Erasmus University Rotterdam, Netherlands

Series: Routledge Advances in Sociology

This book shows how awkward feelings are the outcome of social interactions going wrong. Combing insights from cultural sociology and the sociologies of interactions and emotions, this book develops the first comprehensive sociology of awkwardness. It provides an understanding of how people define, express, and experience awkwardness, while locating its causes not within individuals, but within social interactions. This book will appeal to scholars across the social sciences, particularly those interested in culture, social interactions, and emotions. It will also attract readers seeking to understand awkwardness as a cultural phenomenon, though not as a self-help guide.

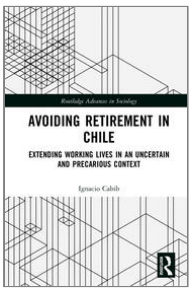
Avoiding Retirement in Chile

Extending Working Lives in an Uncertain and Precarious Context



Ignacio Cabib Pontificia Universidad Católica de Chile, Chile

Series: Routledge Advances in Sociology

Drawing on life-course, gender, and welfare regime theories, and relying on primary longitudinal qualitative data (life story interviews with 90 older workers) and primary longitudinal quantitative data (life course calendar surveys among 802 older individuals), this book critically examines the generalizability of traditional age norms involving the transition to retirement, within a persistently uncertain and precarious setting. Azerbaijani Literature and the Gendered Narratives of Nationhood

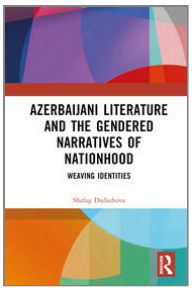
Weaving Identities



Shafag Dadashova

Azerbaijani Literature and the Gendered Narratives of Nationhood explores the dynamic relationship between Azerbaijani literature and the region's socio-political history. The book reveals evolving gender roles and their portrayal in literature, highlighting the complex interaction between gender, literature, and the narratives that define the gender identity. It traces the tension between tradition and modernity, highlighting how authors viewed the negotiation of gender roles, cultural norms, and national identity. It a valuable text for both students and scholars researching the history, literature and politics of Eastern Europe and Central Asia.

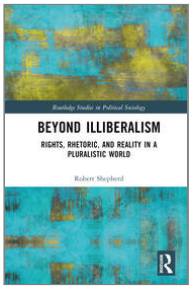
Beyond Illiberalism

Rights, Rhetoric, and Reality in a Pluralistic World



Robert Shepherd George Washington University, USA

Series: Routledge Studies in Political Sociology

While rights seem to exist universally – existing within societies and states that have not been shaped by the nineteenth century liberal values – Beyond Illiberalism contends that human rights are conceived, imagined, and promoted by dominant states, organizations and activists within a specific liberal framework, and that, after more than 200 years, the dream of a universal history rooted in the worldview of G.W.F. Hegel has been displaced by the stuff of practical reality.

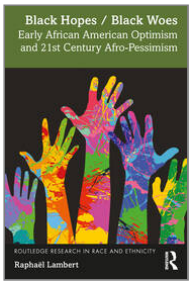
Black Hopes / Black Woes

Early African American Optimism and 21st Century Afro-Pessimism



Raphaël Lambert Kansai University, Japan

Series: Routledge Research in Race and Ethnicity

Black Hopes/Black Woes begins by delving into the contrasting mindsets of postbellum African Americans and their twenty-first-century counterparts, aiming to elucidate the shift from early black optimism to present-day black pessimism. It then focuses on the rationale behind Afro-pessimism, a contemporary school of thought with an inconspicuous yet potent influence on mainstream culture.

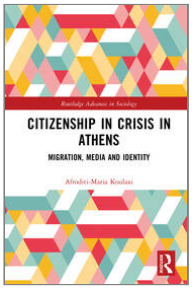
Citizenship in Crisis in Athens

Migration, Media and Identity



Afroditi-Maria Koulaxi London School of Economics and Political Science, UK

Series: Routledge Advances in Sociology

Citizenship in Crisis in Athens explores the construction of citizen identity through embodied and mediated encounters with noncitizen migrants in the spatio-temporality of compounded crises. Drawing on ethnographic research in Athens, the book introduces innovative concepts like crisis reflexivity, culturalist reflexivity, and convivial reflexivity to examine how embodied and mediated encounters with citizens-in-the-making shape citizen identity. This book is suited for postgraduate courses in media and communications and sociology, particularly those focusing on identity, transnationalism, and migration in crisis-affected cities.

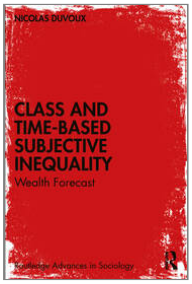
Class and Time-Based Subjective Inequality

Wealth Forecast



Nicolas Duvoux University of Paris 8, France

Series: Routledge Advances in Sociology

Challenging the inference in social science that taking subjectivity into account somehow conflicts with approaches that emphasize the reality of the material conditions of existence, this book shows how subjective perceptions of one's future can help to capture class and inequality, considering the extent to which material conditions (such as wealth, income and power) are revealed by subjective indicators. It will appeal to scholars of sociology, economics, and politics with interests in social theory, contemporary inequalities, and social class.

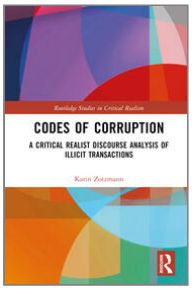
Codes of Corruption

A Critical Realist Discourse Analysis of Illicit Transactions



Karin Zotzmann University of Southampton, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in Critical Realism

Corruption is expanding internationally and so are strategic accusations of others being corrupt. It has become quite common for some politicians and their supporters to make false accusations of corruption against opponents in order to win power. A precise understanding of the phenomenon is therefore urgently needed for economic and political governance. This book fills this gap and contributes to debates and emerging research agendas in the study of corruption and further the conceptualization of the phenomenon, its causes, and potential remedies. It will be of interest to researchers of Critical Realism and more widely governmental and non-governmental institutions.

Culture, the Arts, and Inequality

American Artists and Social Justice

Ian Peddie

Examining how writers and musicians respond to attempts to define and categorize inequality in moral terms, Culture, the Arts and Inequality: American Artists and Social Justice analyses the writers and artists who challenge the moral categories through which inequality has been maintained and mobilized. Recognizing that new ways of thinking about class, dominated by moral questions but with real material effects, and its impact on writers, musicians, and society are at stake, this interdisciplinary project redefines discourses on inequality in the United States today.

Dalit Feminist Discourse

Voices in Dalit Writings

Edited by Charu Arya , Nabanita Deka

Dalit Feminist Discourse: Voices in Dalit Writings documents Dalit voices from different regions and languages of India. This book aims to foster Dalit feminist discourse by reading Dalit writings. The contributors pick up different Dalit texts written by both Dalit men and women to analyse how Dalit women subjectivities have emerged over the years. The subject matter covers the theories and history of Dalit feminism, writings by Dalit women, and also explores the politics of gender, society, and caste from the perspective of this section. Decoloniality in Gender Discourse and Praxis

A View from the Margins

Edited by Mtisunge Isabel Kamlongera

Series: Routledge ISS Gender, Sexuality and Development Studies

This book showcases Global South theorizations and understandings of gender. By taking voices from the margins and putting them center stage, the book provides an important example of decoloniality in action, challenging a field that continues to be rooted in Western Feminist epistemology. Each chapter presents instances of decoloniality in action, with possible retheorizations and rationalizations of how to be decolonial within gender discourse and praxis. Offering detailed empirical accounts of decoloniality in action, this book will be a useful guide for researchers of gender and post-colonial studies.

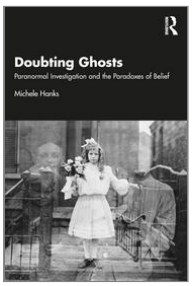
Doubting Ghosts

Paranormal Investigation and the Paradoxes of Belief



Michele Hanks New York University, USA

Based on Ethnographic research in England, Doubting Ghosts explores the paradoxes faced by paranormal investigators or 'ghost hunters': in spite of spending significant time observing and documenting what they suspect to be paranormal phenomena – in a scientific, secular and rational fashion – many paranormal investigators remain skeptical about the existence of the paranormal. What, then, does it mean to regularly see ghosts and yet to not believe ghosts are real? A contribution to understandings of doubt, science, religion, and disenchantment, this book will appeal to scholars of sociology and anthropology.

Engagement with Culture in Transformative Times

Mapping the Societal Drivers and Impacts of Cultural Understandings, Practices, Perceptions, and Values across Europe

Edited by Susanne Janssen Erasmus University Rotterdam, The Netherlands, Nete Kristensen University of Copenhagen, Denmark, Marc Verboord Erasmus University Rotterdam, The Netherlands

At the heart of this volume are the questions: What does culture mean to European citizens in the face of globalisation, digitalisation, diversity, and social inequality? How do Europeans engage with culture in its various forms, and what societal values are tied to this cultural engagement? These questions are explored in depth across the fifteen chapters of this book. By delving into the understandings, practices, perceptions, affordances, and impacts of culture, this book advances the study of the societal values of culture in contemporary European societies, offering insights beneficial to both research and cultural policy work.

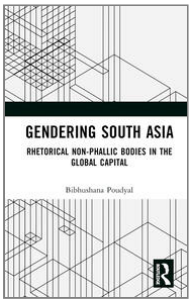
Gendering South Asia

Rhetorical Non-Phallic Bodies in the Global Capital



Bibhushana Poudyal

This book looks at how gendered female bodies and non-phallic bodies function, are rhetoricized as functioning, are made to function, or are functioned upon in two extremized spaces—the private and the public. Using rape and menstruation as the marker of the invisible /private and the female body and non-phallic bodies on the street as the marker of the visible/public, it shows how these binaries often overlap in the global capital.

Interviews as Activated Storytelling

Contexts and Subjectivities

Edited by Amir B. Marvasti Penn State Altoona, USA, Jaber F. Gubrium University of Missouri, USA

Series: Routledge Advances in Research Methods

Through a series of case studies, Interviews as Activated Storytelling explores how prior conceptions of the interview subject inform the process from the outset, and sheds light on the imagination, construction and use of interviewee subjectivities across a variety of social worlds. Challenging the static view of the respondent that characterizes standardized research interviews, it demonstrates that interviews are interactional, meaning-making processes that produce useful but context-sensitive knowledge. This volume will appeal to scholars across the social sciences with interests in research methods and methodology, and the research interview in particular.

Safer Spaces, Feminist Movements and Emotions

Giada Bonu Rosenkranz Scuola Normale Superiore, Italy

Series: The Mobilization Series on Social Movements, Protest, and Culture

Drawing on a participatory action research conducted in Italy and Spain among feminist spaces, this book examines the production of safer spaces and the underlying infrastructure of affect and emotions that shape, enable, and support collective action. By challenging a binary understanding of safe spaces, it presents a dynamic conceptualization of safety within feminist movements, and argues that the work on affect and emotions within feminist spaces has transformative effects, by increasing the potential for collective action. As such, it will appeal to scholars of political science and sociology with interests in social movements, gender and democracy.

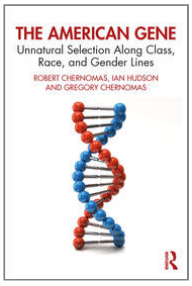
The American Gene

Unnatural Selection Along Class, Race, and Gender Lines



Robert Chernomas , IAN HUDSON , Gregory Chernomas

The American Gene details new research that suggests that the social and economic environment can affect how genes express themselves in specific human traits and social outcomes. Using the three cases of the American white working class, Black Americans and American women, the authors demonstrate that relying on nature as an explanation is seriously flawed – showing that the socioeconomic inheritance created by the conditions in which these populations worked and lived offer a far better explanation than nature for the stratified results.

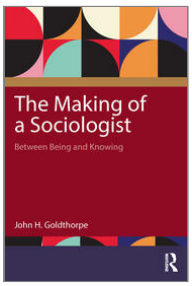
The Making of a Sociologist

Between Being and Knowing



John H. Goldthorpe

This book offers a journey through the problems and the progress of the discipline of sociology in the UK and Europe throughout the second half of the twentieth century via an exploration of seven social settings from the life of a now eminent sociologist. It conceptualises the complex relation that exists between being and knowing, and between the personal knowledge that comes from lived experience and the essentially impersonal knowledge that any science seeks to pursue. It will ultimately appeal to those with interests in sociology, philosophy of science, sociological histories, and biographical methods.

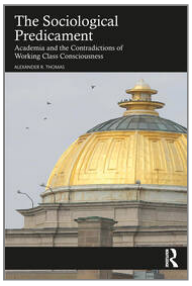
The Sociological Predicament

Academia and the Contradictions of Working Class Consciousness



Alexander Thomas Chair and Professor of Sociology at the SUNY College at Oneonta

A sociological phenomenon afflicts sociology: academics think of themselves as the vanguard of the working class despite the fact that they are not working class, as the willingness to side with the oppressed contrasts their reliance on authority to bolster their politics. The Sociological Predicament is then a conscious work of professional self-loathing that traces the evolution of ideologies found in academia from the mid-twentieth century to today, which demonstrates the ways in which biases around class have given short shrift to the concerns of working-class Americans in deindustrialized cities and towns that have ultimately turned away and then against them.

The Cultural Complexity of Carbon

Green Transformations in Contemporary Society

Edited by Steffen Dalsgaard , Andy Lautrup , Katinka A. Schyberg , Ingmar Lippert

Series: Routledge Advances in Climate Change Research

This volume discusses the transformational role that carbon – both as a concept and as a distinct set of material forms and effects – has come to play in social and cultural life. It draws on case studies from a diverse range of topics including peatland restoration, religion and energy systems to explore questions that have so far been under-explored in the current literature. By addressing the intimate social and cultural changes that stem from humanity's involvement with its natural and climatic resources, this volume is of interest to students and scholars of climate change within the social sciences and environmental humanities.

Understanding Human-Nature Practices for Environmental Management

Examples from Northern Europe

Edited by E. C. H. Keskitalo Umeå University, Sweden.

Series: Routledge Explorations in Environmental Studies

Nature has often been understood in literature through a disjunction to human systems. This can be seen in the nature-culture binary, or even more clearly in the opposition of 'wilderness' to 'civilization'. This volume will be of great interest to students and scholars of environmental management, environmental law and policy and environmental anthropology.

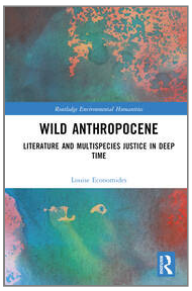
Wild Anthropocene

Literature and Multispecies Justice in Deep Time



Louise Economides

Series: Routledge Environmental Humanities

Wild Anthropocene examines four key areas—the politics of deep time, neoliberalism's socio-ecological impacts, global population growth and inter-species entanglement—to demonstrate how literature illuminates progressive solutions to Anthropocene challenges. The book argues that technological mitigation of contemporary environmental crises must be complimented by a politics committed to multispecies justice. This interdisciplinary text will be a useful addition to theoretical discussions on the Anthropocene for scholars, researchers and students in the environmental humanities, literary studies, ecocriticism and environmental philosophy.

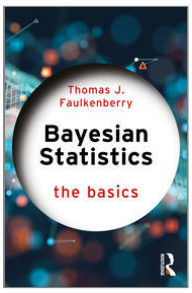
Bayesian Statistics

The Basics



Thomas J. Faulkenberry

Series: The Basics

Bayesian Statistics: The Basics provides a comprehensive yet accessible introduction to Bayesian statistics, specifically tailored for any researcher with an interest in statistical methods. It covers the theoretical foundations of Bayesian inference, contrasting it with classical statistical methods like null hypothesis significance testing. It emphasizes key concepts such as prior and posterior distributions, Bayes' theorem, and the Bayes factor, making them understandable even for readers with minimal mathematical backgrounds. It emphasizes the advantages of Bayesian model comparison over traditional approaches, especially in quantifying evidence for competing hypotheses.

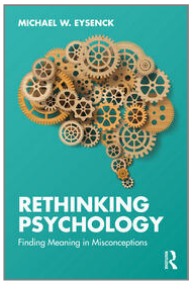
Rethinking Psychology

Finding Meaning in Misconceptions



Michael W. Eysenck Emeritus Professor of Psychology in the psychology department at Royal Holloway University of London, UK

In this thought-provoking exploration of 44 of the most common psychological myths, Mike Eysenck examines the complexity of psychological science as well as the distortion of data, not only through the media, but also by researchers, textbook writers, and individuals themselves. He challenges the notion that the substantial progress made by psychology has provided enough convincing experimental evidence to successfully demolish these inaccuracies, and explores the ways in which psychological research should be systematically improved so that psychology can take its place as a robust scientific discipline.

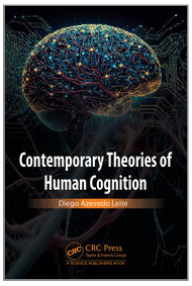
Contemporary Theories of Human Cognition



Diego Azevedo Leite

The book provides a systematic presentation of some of the most relevant contemporary major theories of human cognition. Each theory is analyzed in terms of their origins, central idea, central theoretical elements, empirical evidence and major criticism. This analysis shows the advantages and disadvantages in each theoretical system, thus providing reasonable means for evaluating and comparing these proposals. The discussions are often supported by empirical research, mainly from fields such as cognitive science, cognitive neuroscience and artificial intelligence, and they are combined with rigorous theoretical and argument analysis.

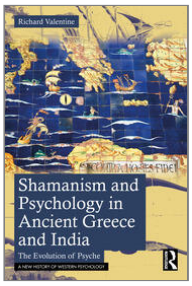
Shamanism and Psychology in Ancient Greece and India

The Evolution of Psyche



Richard Valentine Researcher and Cultural Consultant for the induction of international students coming to UK universities.

Series: A New History of Western Psychology

This book offers a historical introduction to psychology. It investigates the evolutionary origins of our capacity to practice psychology, including its language and the cultural containers in which it can emerge, such as those of ancient Greece and ancient India. This is the second book in a new series, which intends to present the emergence of Western psychology in a global context. Presented in an accessible manner, this is an excellent resource for students and teachers of psychology, philosophy, history, linguistics, archaeology, and anthropology, as well as general readers who want to learn more about the origins of this fascinating subject on a global stage.

The Psychology of False Beliefs

Collective Delusions and Conspiracy Theories

Edited by Joseph P. Forgas

Series: Sydney Symposium of Social Psychology

This insightful book outlines the social psychology of false beliefs and tribal delusions, examining the common human tendency to create and maintain collectively shared belief systems that are have no foundation in reality. Bringing together leading international researchers, the book explores how evolutionary, biological, cognitive, and social variables shape the creation and maintenance of widely shared, but obviously false belief systems. It explores how psychological processes promote the formation and maintenance of fallacious beliefs and discusses the philosophical and epistemological criteria we can use to classify some beliefs as false, and others as true.

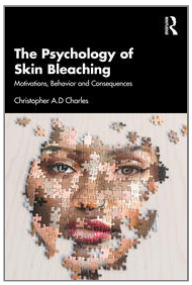
The Psychology of Skin Bleaching

Motivations, Behavior and Consequences



Christopher A.D. Charles

This book examines the controversial global phenomenon of skin bleaching. It uses a social psychological approach to explain the motivations, behaviour and medical consequences of the practice, considering why some people use products to lighten their complexion. Written by a world leading expert in skin bleaching, the book takes a nuanced approach to understanding skin bleaching that looks further than the standard claims of low self-esteem, a form of self-hatred.

Time to (Re-)integrate Dissociation into Psychoanalytic Psychotherapy?

Edited by Paul Cundy , Golan Shahar

This book brings together contributions from leading authors in the field of dissociation to facilitate the pursuit of integrative clinical scholarship, connecting psychoanalytic thinking and practice with dissociation research and treatment. The DSM-V and ICD-11 categorise at least six dissociative disorders. Whilst many clinicians will have encountered various forms of dissociative psychopathology, Dissociative Identity Disorder remains an elusive and contested presentation. Perhaps in parallel to the disorder itself, it continues to be challenging for theorists and clinicians to view the field as a whole and contain the disagreements, contradictions, and paradoxes.

A Re-mapping of Womanhood and Creativity

A Literary and Depth Psychological Perspective

Clara Oropeza, PhD Santa Barbara City College, USA

A Re-mapping of Womanhood and Creativity investigates the diverse ways in which women set out to find a matrilineal line as a well-spring for creative transformation, and, through a lens of analytical psychology, how we read women's literary history and narratives about womanhood. Combining literature, myth, and psychology, this book will be an illuminating read for students, scholars, and professionals in the areas of literature, psychoanalysis, and mythology. This book will be crucial reading for women, in particular women of color, interested in the process of individuation, creativity and womanhood.

Cinema and Psyche in Analytical Psychology

Individuation as a Pathway to Love

Joanna Dovalis Private practice, USA, John Izod University of Stirling, UK

Peering into the unconscious through cinema can give audiences an uncanny feeling about what lives in the beyond, something alien to consciousness. This book creates psychological interpretations of films that lend themselves to the depths, and investigates the personal and cultural appeal of cinema as a powerful art form. This book will be of interest for therapists, students and academics working in film studies, looking to engage in psychological studies in depth, as well as film goers who want to explore their relationship to the screen.

Cultural Complexes in Europe

A Jungian Exploration of Soul, Psyche and Identity

Edited by Jörg Rasche , Thomas Singer

Series: The Cultural Complex Series

What is going on in Europe? The actual conflicts between its nations or states can be traced back to old and revived cultural complexes. In this book, first compiled in 2016, Jungian analysts explore the cultural identities of their European homelands and nations. This remarkable book is an important read for Jungian analysts and those interested in Europe's historical and cultural development.

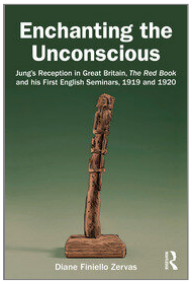
Enchanting the Unconscious

Jung's Reception in Great Britain, The Red Book and his First English Seminars, 1919 and 1920



Diane Finiello Zervas

This original volume explores Jung's earliest English seminars, held in 1919 and 1920, in relation to the impact of Liber Novus and The Red Book and his new exoteric and esoteric concepts of analytical psychology created during the Great War. Enchanting the Unconscious is an important and timeless contribution to Jungian history and our understanding of early formulations of Jung's conceptual model of the psyche, making it of great interest to Jungian analysts, analytical psychologists, students of Jungian history, and general readers interested in exploring Jung's earliest teaching seminars previously undocumented or distorted by hearsay.

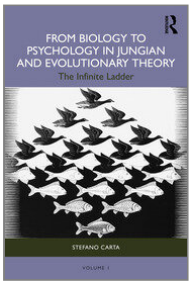
From Biology to Psychology in Jungian and Evolutionary Theory

The Infinite Ladder



Stefano Carta

This ground-breaking book re-positions C.G. Jung's legacy, and the field of analytical psychology, within the panorama of contemporary knowledge in biology, psychology and anthropology, on the grounds of the role of affects and emotion as the foundation of all psychic activity. With international appeal and original and interdisciplinary in scope, this will be of great interest to Jungian scholars and analysts, as well as students and those on Jungian-oriented training courses.

Jungian and Interdisciplinary Analyses of Emotions

Method and Imagery

Edited by Elizabeth Brodersen C. G. Jung Institute, Switzerland, Isabelle Meier , Valeria Céspedes Musso

This comprehensive collection of chapters concentrates on the multifaceted theme of emotions, and deepens our understanding of the role emotions play within the psyche. This collection offers a timely contribution to the interdisciplinary study of emotions placing Jungian psychology firmly within that framework. It will be of great interest to Jungian analysts, trainees, psychotherapists, as well as interdisciplinary academic researchers interested in methodology, unconscious processes, transference and dreams.

Jungian and Interdisciplinary Interfaces Between Emotions

Individual and Collective Trauma

Edited by Elizabeth Brodersen C. G. Jung Institute, Switzerland, Isabelle Meier , Valeria Céspedes Musso

C.G. Jung stressed that emotions are the driving forces behind social and psychological lives, enabling individuals to connect with themselves and their environment. Divided into five parts, this innovative volume explores the enmeshments between emotions. This volume will be of great interest to Jungian analysts and trainees, psychotherapists, and interdisciplinary cultural theorists. It will aid scholars in Jungian academic studies and related fields interested in metaphor, symbols, gender, and LGBTQ+ perspectives.

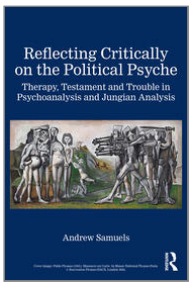
Reflecting Critically on the Political Psyche

Therapy, Testament and Trouble in Psychoanalysis and Jungian Analysis



Andrew Samuels

With passion and originality, Samuels presents powerful material on culture and politics (including critical takes on 'the Other' and on political violence), and a compassionate account of the role of an individual when it comes to progressive politics. There are provocative accounts of what a critical psychotherapy might look like plus a section on Jung and 'race'. In a clinical chapter, Samuels show us what he means by the dynamic concept of the 'activist client'.

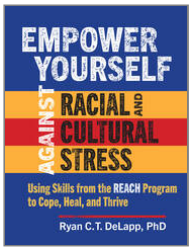
Empower Yourself Against Racial and Cultural Stress

Using Skills from the REACH Program to Cope, Heal, and Thrive



Ryan C.T. DeLapp and Cultural Healing (REACH) Program; The Ross Center, United States

People of color know how it feels to be judged, mistreated, or denied opportunities because of their background. Psychologist Ryan C. T. DeLapp is dedicated to helping young people understand racial and cultural stress and build skills for coping with it. This empowering book provides tools to safely navigate painful emotions while undoing the deep, often hidden impact of society's negative messages. Teens and young adults are guided to identify their own cultural stressors, explore their strengths and values, and uncover who they truly want to be, from a place of self-love and cultural pride. Illustrated with stories of diverse individuals, the book features downloadable practical tools.

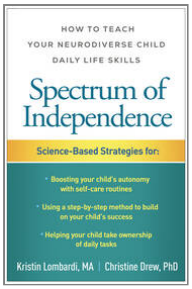
Spectrum of Independence

How to Teach Your Neurodiverse Child Daily Life Skills



Kristin Lombardi , Christine Drew Auburn University, United States

This motivating, practical book gives worried parents concrete strategies for maximizing the independence of their child or teen with autism, intellectual disabilities, or other forms of neurodiversity. Exercises and downloadable worksheets are rooted in scientifically based behavioral principles and illustrated with vivid, relatable examples. By breaking down tasks like getting dressed, brushing teeth, and making a sandwich into manageable "micro steps," parents learn to phase out assistance gradually and systematically as kids take ownership of their routines. Daily life skills truly can be improved with the right tools--and they are vital stepping stones for the challenges of adulthood.

Standards, Emergence, and Complex Outcomes

The Missing Link between Cause and Effect

D. Linda Garcia

This book redefines how we think about standards, framing them as interfaces that govern interactions and connect causes to their effects. Expanding beyond traditional technical and geopolitical discussions, Garcia introduces a fresh theoretical perspective that positions standards as central to understanding complexity. From food safety and workplace regulations to standardized parts in manufacturing and our reliance on technology, standards shape nearly every aspect of modern life. An essential resource for academics and students across the social sciences, policy makers shaping standards-dependent fields, and professionals in industries where standards dictate progress.

Pediatric Treatment of Sleep Apnea

With Teledontics/Telegnathics

Edited by Joseph Yousefian

There is a disconnect on how health professions perceive and treat the causes of upper airway conditions. Various comorbidities can result from sleep apnea, oxygen deprivation, and upper airway conditions. This book connects oropharyngeal structure to metabolic disease through the practice of teledontics. Teledontics as a new interdisciplinary integrative medical - dental approach for treatment of obstructive sleep apnea is emerging rapidly. It relates oxygen needs of the body in addition to other nutritional requirements focusing on how oxygen insufficiency can lead to multiple health comorbidities.

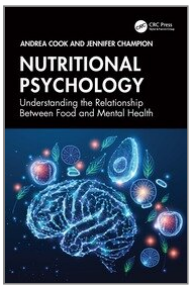
Nutritional Psychology

Understanding the Relationship Between Food and Mental Health



Andrea Cook , Jennifer Champion

Nutritional Psychology: Understanding the Relationship Between Food and Mental Health combines psychology, nutrition, and medicine to form a framework for optimizing the relationship between diet and mental wellbeing. This textbook is designed for undergraduate and graduate psychology and nutrition college courses for students pursuing careers as psychologists, dietitians, nurses, social workers, and a variety of health professionals who want to incorporate nutrition and eating behavior into their discussions with patients.

Nanomedicine for Neurodegenerative Disorders

Selective Treatment Strategies

Edited by Rishabha Malviya , Kamla Pathak , Swati Verma

Provides an informative overview of the cutting-edge applications of various nanocarriers that encapsulate active compounds to effectively treat NDs. Provides a comprehensive review of neurological disorders, clinical strategies for the management of neuro disorders, and the challenges in their treatment, it reviews the types, diagnosis, and treatment strategies of neurodegenerative disorders. It then provides an overview of the blood-brain barrier (BBB) transport mechanisms. It discusses specific techniques such as the delivery of RNA/DNA to the brain using nanoscience, nanodiamonds as emerging nanotherapeutics for brain-targeted drug etc.

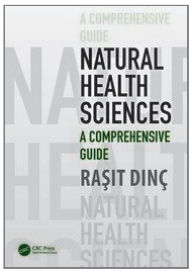
Natural Health Sciences

A Comprehensive Guide



Raşit Dinç

Natural Health Sciences: A Comprehensive Guide serves as a valuable resource for both healthcare practitioners and business professionals, supporting ongoing professional development by bridging the gap between proponents of traditional or natural health systems and those who follow scientific or medical perspectives. The book synthesizes existing literature and fosters a more nuanced understanding of the benefits and limitations of natural health practices.

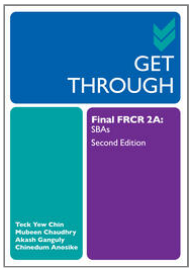
Get Through Final FRCR 2A

SBAs



Teck Yew Chin , Mubeen Chaudhry Everlight Radiology, UK and Ireland, Akash Ganguly , Chinedum Anosike

Series: Get Through

This is the first revision guide to map directly to the new structure of the FRCR Final Part A examination (CR2A). Spanning a broad range of topics, the second edition follows the core clinical radiology curriculum, covering all modalities. It is divided into 7 test papers, consisting of 120 mixed SBA-type questions each with detailed answers in sequential order. The content has been updated in line with question stems from recent examinations. Delivering over 20 hours of focused exam practice, this guide is a sound investment for trainee radiologists preparing for their Final Part A exam.

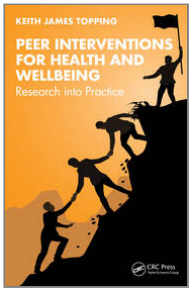
Peer Interventions for Health and Wellbeing

Research into Practice



Keith James Topping

This book introduces peer interventions (primarily peer education, peer counselling and peer support) for the positive promotion of health and well-being as alternative or parallel methods to traditional clinical processes for reaching hard-to-access populations. It is strongly evidence-based, with chapters discussing reviews of the evidence, followed by important papers with key messages for implementation. Furthermore, it describes implementation and evaluation procedures, both in resource-rich environments and in developing countries.

100 Cases in Clinical Medicine

Series: 100 Cases

100 Cases in Clinical Medicine presents 100 scenarios commonly seen by medical students and junior doctors in the emergency or outpatient department, on the ward, or in the community setting. Each case begins with a succinct summary of the patient's history, examination, and initial investigation. The text includes photographs where relevant and questions on the diagnosis and management of each case. The answers provide a detailed discussion on each topic, with further illustration where appropriate.

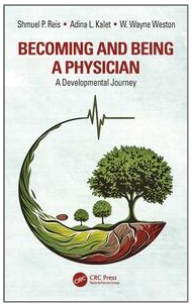
Becoming and Being a Physician

A Developmental Journey



Shmuel P. Reis Holon Institute of Technology, Israel, Adina L. Kalet Medical College of Wisconsin, WI, USA, W. Wayne Weston University of Western Ontario, Canada

Structured around personal stories, this book provides a rigorous review of current thinking and research on the physician life cycle. It considers the trajectories and factors that influence a doctor's development over decades of a medical career. Taking an integrated approach, the authors consider the formal stages of a physician's training including medical school, residency training and practice, and review discourses around professionalism, competency-based education, lifelong learning, expertise development, reflection, and narrative that merge into the construct of medical professional identity formation.

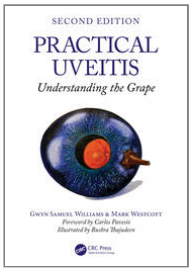
Practical Uveitis

Understanding the Grape



Gwyn Samuel Williams , Mark Westcott

This accessible, jargon-free guide to uveitis for non-specialists explains how to diagnose and manage inflammatory eye disease in practical, easy-to-understand language. The book describes how to differentiate between the various inflammatory eye diseases, which investigations to choose, how to interpret the results and how best to manage immunosuppression in these patients. Updated to reflect the newest findings and practices in the field, such as practical biologic therapy, recently approved steroid injections, and intraocular pressure control in uveitis, this book makes this fascinating subject accessible to the non-uveitis specialists.

Reflections of a Microvascular Plastic Surgeon

Reconstructing Shattered Lives

Frederic Deleyiannis

For decades, Dr. Deleyiannis has practiced one of the most demanding fields of surgery, treating patients with highly complex and devastating deformities from cancer, trauma, and birth anomalies. In reviewing modern microsurgical practice, he takes us "behind the scenes" with real patients' stories, highlighting surgical innovation in his own career and the impact on the lives of those he treats. Plastic surgeons and surgeons specialising in reconstruction techniques for patients who have suffered either trauma or cancer will find inspiration and renewed dedication for their specialism within the pages of this book.

Avian Medicine and Surgery in Practice

Companion and Aviary Birds

Bob Doneley Queensland University, Shangzhe Xie Mandai Wildlife Group

Avian Medicine and Surgery in Practice is an invaluable quick reference resource for clinicians, veterinary students and residents. Together Bob Doneley and Shangzhe Xie have thoroughly updated the book, incorporating the latest research and covering a larger range of species. Building on the practical aspects that make this book stand out from other resources, they have added step-by-step pictorial guides to common procedures and surgeries, as well as videos for more complicated ones. The book will therefore allow the practitioner to immediately help the patient at hand, whether to prescribe medication or perform life-saving surgery.

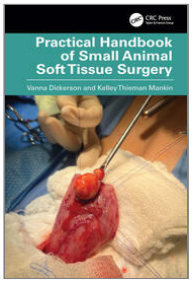
Practical Handbook of Small Animal Soft Tissue Surgery



Vanna Dickerson , Kelley Thieman Mankin

This concise, image-heavy text provides a step-by-step guide to perform common surgical procedures encountered in small animal general practice. A resource for busy practitioners as well as upper-level undergraduate veterinary students, it offers a "how to" with tips and tricks. Select surgical procedures are broken down into steps, including suggested suture materials and patterns. The spiralbound, portable format allows practitioners to reference the book, open, during surgery. The bullet-point presentation also enables fast review of "need to know" information prior to entering the operating room.

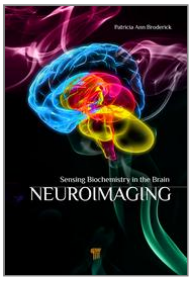
Neuroimaging

Sensing Biochemistry in the Brain



Patricia Broderick

This imaging textbook covers in detail the beginning of neuromolecular imaging from in vivo electrochemistry. It discusses how neuromolecular imaging solved the persistent problem of electrocatalysis with empirical recording with the new imaging nanotechnology and circuits designed by the author. The BRODERICK PROBE® nanobiosensor is smaller than one strand of human hair, does not scar, and does not produce bacterial growth. These properties of the nanobiosensor have been validated by pathologists and immunologists from New York University clinical and preclinical departments.

Using Microbes to Improve Crop Yields

Edited by Tariq Shah University of Agriculture Peshawar, Fazal Munsif , Muhammad Arif , Roberto D'Amato Dept. of Agricultural, Food and Environmental Science, University of Perugia

This book will address all the major mechanisms by which microbiomes are thought to impact plant growth and health. A unique aspect of this publication is that it is multidisciplinary, covering plant microbiology, plant physiology, fungal and bacterial endophytes, plant biochemistry, and genomics. Just as research on the mammalian microbiome has demonstrated its importance for overall health of the host, the plant microbiota is essential for plant health in natural environments.

Advanced Statistical Methods In Life Science

Basavarajaiah D.M KVAFSU, Bengaluru, Narasimhamurthy B National Health Mission, MOH&FW, Govt. of India

This book introduces the principles and foundations of advanced statistical methods for designing experiments and testing hypotheses in Life sciences. Advanced statistical methods like testing of hypotheses, recent methods of sample size determination/ imputation, estimation techniques, probability distributions and univariate analysis as demonstrated by real data, and their integration into life sciences are included in the book. Advanced topics are presented with sufficient conceptual depth and examples to explain the use of recent statistical techniques and to demonstrate what conclusions can be drawn at the right time using modelling in life science research.

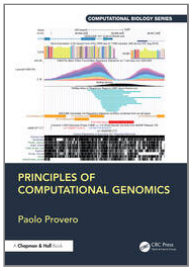
Principles of Computational Genomics



Paolo Provero NC A&T State University, North Carolina, USA

Series: Chapman & Hall/CRC Computational Biology Series

This book aims to provide them with the conceptual framework needed to understand computational genomics enough to be able to follow the arguments in a recent paper, or to collaborate with computational scientist in a research project. In particular, it introduces the mathematical and statistical basis of the methods in some depth, but not their implementation in terms of computer code. The main focus is on the analysis of next-generation-sequencing assays, both for the interpretation of the DNA sequence per se and for the study of gene regulation and epigenomics.

Advances in Growth Regulation of Fruit Crops

Edited by Vishal Singh Rana Dr. Y S Parmar Uni of Horticulture and Forestry, India, Neerja Rana , Sunny Sharma Dr YSP UHF Solan

During the last era, Life science has experienced unique progress, particularly in growth and development, and so is true with the regulation of fruit crops. Hence, the authors got an insight to write a book entitled "Advances in Growth Regulation of Fruit Crops". There are limited books with advanced knowledge on the growth and development of fruit crops. However, there needs to be more books on the basic and advanced concepts of growth and regulation vis-a-vis fruit development.

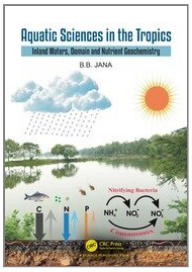
Aquatic Sciences in the Tropics

Inland Waters, Domain and Nutrient Geochemistry



B.B. Jana University of Kalyani, West Bengal, India

The tropical environment is unique due to its geographic location, climatic features, intense solar radiation, high temperature, heavy precipitation, less seasonal variation, enhanced food and productivity, faster metabolism, ecological dynamics and co-evolutionary processes that favor niches for specialized species. It also provides the richest biodiversity with endemic fish species that support millions of people in rural areas. The book Aquatic Sciences in the Tropics: Inland Waters, Domain and Nutrient Geochemistry comprises nine primary chapters that address various topics.

Diversity and Geography of Cultivated Plants

Edited by Karl Hammer Retired, Formerly University of Kassel, Institute of Crop Science, Germany, Miguel Esquivel , Long Chunlin

This book presents information on cultivated plants located within 12 different regions throughout the world. The content introduces cultural evolution and species richness in cultivated plants, considering domestication assessments, which make it possible to obtain a deeper insight into the diversity of these plants. The aim of this book is to bring together an actualized list of cultivated plants. It was necessary to organize, store and analyze gathered data during the exploration and collection missions, as well as those resulting from the ethnobotanical, archaeological and genomics studies.

Flies

Agricultural and Public-Health Perspectives

Edited by Omkar University of Lucknow, India

The term Flies apply to the insects belonging to the order Diptera. They are commonly known by the term's flies, gnats, midges, leaf minors, etc. They often possess a pair of aristate antennae, a set of sponging type of mouthparts, two functional and developed forewings, which help in the flight while the two hindwings are reduced to halteres, which work as balancing organs during the flight.

Freshwater Mussels of Central America

Kevin S. Cummings Drexel University, Daniel L. Graf University of Wisconsin, John M. Pfeiffer Smithsonian Institution, Jeremy S. Tiemann Illinois University

Freshwater Mussels of Central America describes a fauna of global conservation concern and provides a framework for researchers to begin to test hypotheses regarding the evolution of freshwater mussels in Central America. Placing the Central American fauna in context with that of North and South America, the authors fill a gap in our knowledge of this endangered and largely endemic fauna. Through photographs, distribution maps and a complete list of species described and reported from Central America, this book will inspire conservationists, aquatic biologists and those interested in natural history of temperate and tropical freshwater ecosystems.

Handbook of Regenerative Medicine

Stem Cell-based Approach

Edited by Khawaja H. Haider

This handbook covers various aspects of stem cells and their secretome in the field of regenerative medicine. It explores the biology and applications of mesenchymal and non-mesenchymal stem cells in diverse medical contexts, including their potential for treating conditions such as radiation injuries, diabetes, aging-related diseases, and cancer. The book also investigates innovative approaches like neural repair with neuronal stem cells, myoblast implants for muscular dystrophy, and immunotherapy using natural killer cells. It is intended for researchers, and professionals in the fields of regenerative medicine, stem cell biology, and medical biotechnology.

Handbook of Regenerative Medicine

Cell-Free Therapy Approach

Edited by Khawaja H. Haider

This book reviews the therapeutic potential of cell-free and cell-based therapies, including extracellular vesicles (EVs) and mesenchymal stem cell-derived exosomes in regenerative medicine. It discusses the applications of EVs in neurodegenerative, ophthalmological, and diabetic conditions. It discusses the advanced diagnostic and therapeutic applications, including the use of EVs as biomarkers in liquid biopsies, as well as novel tissue engineering. The book also addresses the transition from lab research to clinical practice, covering formulation, GMP production, and regulatory requirements. This book is a useful resource for researchers and students in regenerative medicine.

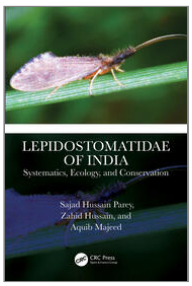
Lepidostomatidae of India

Systematics, Ecology, and Conservation



Sajad Hussain Parey Department of Zoology, Baba Ghulam Shah Badshah University Rajouri (J&K) India, Zahid Hussain , Aquib Majeed

This comprehensive reference book delves into the various aspects of the Lepidostomatidae (Trichoptera) in India, including systematics, taxonomy, morphology, ecology, and behaviour. It also offers valuable insights into the morphological and molecular techniques utilized for the identification of caddisflies. The book addresses the threats faced by Trichoptera, with a particular focus on the Lepidostomatidae family, shedding light on the challenges that endanger their survival. This book serves as essential reference for upper undergraduate and graduate students, academicians, and researchers specializing in entomology, zoology, and environmental sciences.

Machine Learning for Neurodegenerative Disorders

Advancements and Applications

Edited by Biswajit Jena , Sanjay Saxena Department of Computer Science & Engineering, IIIT Bhubaneswar, Odisha, India, Sudip Paul North-Eastern Hill University, Shillong, India

Series: Artificial Intelligence in Biomedical Image Processing

This book explores the application of machine learning to the understanding, early diagnosis, and management of neurodegenerative disorders. With a specific focus on its role in ongoing clinical trials, the book covers essential topics such as data collection, pre-processing, feature extraction, model development, and validation techniques. It delves into the applications of neuroimaging techniques like MRI, CT, and PET in the diagnosis and understanding of neurodegenerative disorders. This comprehensive resource is intended for neuroscientists, students, researchers, and neurologists to understand the emerging scope of machine learning in neurodegenerative disorders.

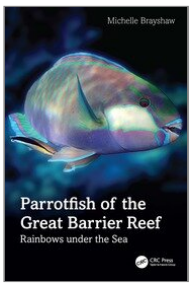
Parrotfish of the Great Barrier Reef

Rainbows under the Sea



Michelle Brayshaw

The array of colours found on the Scarini tribe (family:Labridae) commonly known as the Parrotfish, is truly astounding and is showcased to breathtaking effect in this book. Michelle Brayshaw reveals the array of colour changes which these fish display through ontological and physiological processes, most excitingly when they are transitioning from female to male. Through hundreds of hours of observational research, this book highlights the light play and colour changes of the Scarini found on the Great Barrier Reef in stunning photographic accuracy. It also includes comprehensive information about why this tribe of fish is one of the most important on the reef.

Plant Retrotransposons

Genomic, Evolutionary and Biotechnological Perspectives

Edited by Deepu Pandita , Anu Pandita

Retrotransposons transpose via "copy and paste" mechanisms and are classified into Long Terminal Repeat (LTR) and non-LTR retrotransposons based on their transposition and structure. LTR retrotransposons include Ty1-copia and Ty3-gypsy, while non-LTR retrotransposons comprise LINEs and SINEs. Once considered "JUNK DNA," these elements are now recognized as "Just Unexplored Novel Know-how." Retrotransposons play crucial roles in gene function, genomic organization, mutations, stress responses, genome regulation, diversity, evolution, and plant speciation. Leveraging them as biotechnological tools can help develop climate-smart crops.

The Human Place in Nature

Evolution, Context and Choice

John Schooneveldt

This book explores a new approach to understanding the evolution of mind and consciousness by examining the perceptual abilities of animals and the way they experience their world. It offers a science-based bottom-up approach to our own conscious worldview by seeing it through the eyes of others. The core argument is that a context, which is subjective and based of the perceptual capacities, offers new insights into the evolution of mind. Rather than seeing biological evolution in terms of the emergence of mindless forms and cultural evolution as the emergence of disembodied minds, the book seeks to integrate these two perspectives through the rigorous mapping of contexts.

Truffles

Diversity, Ecology and Biotechnology

Edited by Kandikere Ramaiah Sridhar , Sunil Kumar Deshmukh GreenVention Biotech Private Limited, India

Series: Progress in Mycological Research

Truffles are economically valued macro-fungi with numerous environmental, agricultural, and human health applications. They have attracted attention due to their ability to produce varied metabolites of basic, health and industrial significance. They are used in traditional remedies, therapeutics and to control many lifestyle diseases. They pose challenges in the cultivation, fermentation and purification of products. Their habitats and ecological niches are of special significance for ex situ conservation. The book emphasizes diversity, ecology, cultivation, product development and marketing of truffles.

Urban Food Systems in Latin America

Territories, Mobilities and Governance

Edited by Tiana Bakić Hayden , Joaquín Pérez Martín

Series: Routledge Studies in Food, Society and the Environment

Drawing on case studies from across Latin America, this book highlights the ways that urbanization shapes the food systems that feed this region's cities, approaching the problem of food in cities as a particularly urban problem. Drawing on studies and theoretical approaches written by scholars and practitioners from Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Ecuador, Mexico and Peru, it provides a Latin American perspective on global discussions surrounding the role of cities in ensuring food access to urban populations. It will be of interest to students, scholars and policymakers interested in food systems, urban food, urban planning, sustainable urban development and Latin American studies.

Edited by Juan Molina , Gabriela E. Blasina Instituto Argentino de Oceanografía (IADO), UNS-CONICET, Bahía Blanca, Argentina

Series: Marine Science Series

Marine systems face a multitude of anthropogenic stressors such as climate change, recreational and commercial fishing, aquaculture practices, pollution, and coastal urbanization. These stressors exert escalating pressure on marine ecosystems, leading to noticeable changes in habitat conditions as well as alterations in the abundance and diversity of their communities. Understanding the impacts of these stressors proves challenging due to their interactions with various factors, such as species richness, environmental fluctuations, system openness, stressor tolerance, and the occurrence rate and intensity of each stressor.

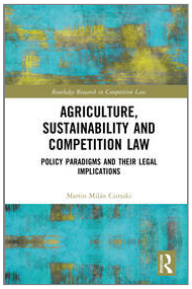
Agriculture, Sustainability and Competition Law

Policy Paradigms and Their Legal Implications



Martin Milán Csirszki

Series: Routledge Research in Competition Law

This book investigates competition law and policy in relation to agricultural producers, examining the topic in light of both the neoliberal agricultural policy and food sovereignty paradigms, with a focus on their differing approaches to competition and sustainability. It addresses the increasing pressures faced by agricultural producers, stemming from two major developments: the shift towards neoliberal economic policies in agri-food markets, and the growing recognition of the agricultural sector's role in environmental degradation due to unsustainable practices. It will be of interest to researchers in the field of agricultural law, competition law, and sustainability.

Handbook of Analysis and Extraction Methods of Anthocyanins

Edited by Leo M.L. Nollet University College Ghent, Semih Otles

Series: Food Analysis & Properties

Anthocyanins belong to a class of main molecules called flavonoids and are found in all tissues of higher plants. Anthocyanins have been widely studied for their biological activities, but analysis of anthocyanins is complex, as a result of their ability to undergo structural transformations and complexation reactions. In addition, they are difficult to measure independently of other flavonoids because they have similar structural and reactivity properties. This handbook covers the chemical properties and analyzes of anthocyanins, which have different structures and properties, and the new developments in these subjects today.

Handbook of Starch Science and Technology

Edited by Ming Miao State Key Laboratory of Food Science and Resources, Jiangnan University, Long Chen School of Food Science and Technology, Jiangnan University, James N. BeMiller Whistler Center for Carbohydrate Research, Purdue University

The Handbook of Starch Science and Technology explores new developments on starch science and technologies to achieve new paradigms of the development of natural glucose polymer. New developments of starches with enhanced nutritional and health benefits and specialized starch derivatives are discussed in terms of novel applications for the design of functional products and recent development for structuring starch that have not been covered in the previous literature. Further it discusses the uses of starch in the manufacture of starch inclusion complexes and nanoparticles and as a key component in carrier delivery applications.

Neuro-Nutraceuticals and Drug Discovery and Delivery in Alzheimer's Disease

Volume 2: Strategies to Unlock the Brain's Fortress

Edited by Varinder Singh , Amit Kumar , Parul Sood

Offers a comprehensive exploration on the latest strategies for the pursuit of effective Alzheimer's management. It explores nutraceuticals and their pivotal role in managing Alzheimer's disease. It discusses natural antioxidant therapeutics, natural steroidal phytopharmaceuticals and Terpenes (aromatic compounds found in many plants), anti-apoptotic natural products, polysaccharides, neuro-protective role of vitamin D, non-flavonoidal agents for the effective treatment of Alzheimer's. Recent developments and advancements in the delivery of nutraceuticals are explored as well, looking at nanotechnology and advanced drug delivery systems.

Neuro-Nutraceuticals and Drug Discovery and Delivery in Alzheimer's Disease

2-volume set

Edited by Varinder Singh , Amit Kumar , Parul Sood

Represents a collective effort to delve into the potential of nature's pharmacopeia against Alzheimer's disease. It provides essential insights into the disease and potential therapeutic interventions covering pathophysiology and diagnosis, and more. It offers a comprehensive exploration into the cutting-edge strategies for the pursuit of effective Alzheimer's management. It explores nutraceuticals, and provides insights into their mechanisms, efficacy, and potential integration into holistic Alzheimer's management strategies. Together, these volumes reflect the current state of knowledge and pave the way for future exploration in the field.

Neuro-Nutraceuticals and Drug Discovery and Delivery in Alzheimer's Disease

Volume 1: Targeting Key Pathological Pathways

Details the underlying pathological, biochemical, molecular, and genetic aspects of Alzheimer's disease. It provides essential insights into the disease and serves as a springboard for the subsequent discussions on potential therapeutic interventions. Chapters cover pathophysiology and diagnosis, the connection of gut microbiome and Alzheimer's disease, drug-induced Alzheimer's disease, and more. It explores various medicinal plants and their secondary metabolites that show promise in treating the condition. Covered are the role of diet, micronutrients, and macronutrients in managing Alzheimer's disease.

Nutraceuticals in Arthritis and Psoriasis

Management and Prevention of Diseases

Edited by Meenakshi Jaiswal , Raj K. Keservani , Rajesh K. Kesharwani , Swati G. Talele

Series: AAP Advances in Nutraceuticals

Explores plant-derived nutraceuticals that can be used as crucial therapeutic tools in the prevention and treatment of arthritis and psoriasis. It provides detailed information on the use of plant-derived nutraceuticals, such as microalgae and other marine botanicals, omega polyunsaturated fatty acids, and others in the treatment and management of arthritis and psoriasis. It focuses on nutraceutical treatments for arthritis and then goes on to focus on the role of nutraceuticals in the prevention and treatment of psoriasis.

11TH EDITION

Architect's Legal Handbook

The Law for Architects

Edited by Anthony Speaight KC Pump Court, UK, Matthew Thorne Pump Court, UK

Since the last edition of this book in 2021, unprecedented change has occurred in the construction sector. An overhaul of the Building Regulations and the creation of a new Building Safety Regulator are only some of the ways in which the landscape has changed. This eleventh edition features all the latest developments in the law which affect an architect's work, as well as providing comprehensive coverage of relevant UK law topics. The Architect's Legal Handbook is the essential legal reference work for all architects and students of architecture.

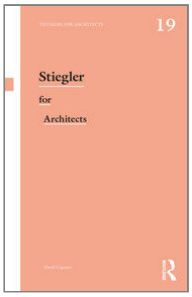
Stiegler for Architects



David Capener

Series: Thinkers for Architects

Stiegler for Architects is the first introduction to the key concepts and ideas of Bernard Stiegler that are relevant to architects. The book asks to what extent it might be possible to have a right to the city in our age of contemporary algorithmic technology. This book is essential reading for any architect or designer who is interested in how contemporary digital technology affects everyday life in the city, or anyone wrestling with Stiegler's ideas.

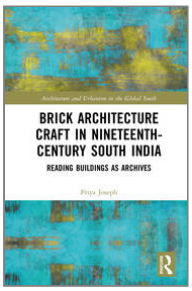
Brick Architecture Craft in Nineteenth-Century South India

Reading Buildings as Archives



Priya Joseph

Series: Architecture and Urbanism in the Global South

This book explores brick architecture of the nineteenth century in South India, through the lens of tectonics and materiality. The book is a diachronically elaborated history of brick architecture, especially analysing the hybridity due to the indigenous and colonial intersections of 19th century India. It offers a decolonial reading of architecture through meticulous measured drawings as a tool, and presents an argument for reading buildings as archives.

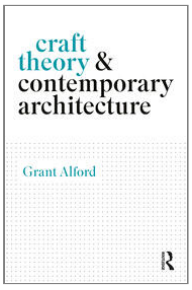
Craft Theory and Contemporary Architecture



Grant Alford

This book offers a comprehensive exploration of craft theory in relation to contemporary architecture. Craft is an old and familiar idea, but the line between craft and art or craft and mere manufacturing, for example, is notoriously hard to describe. Architecture is changing and within the ongoing story of craft explored in this book are new and surprising ways to understand, design, and construct the built environment. Written for students and scholars, this book challenges and extends the legacy of craft thinking in architecture.

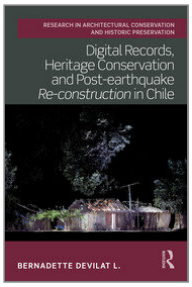
Digital Records, Heritage Conservation and Post-earthquake Re-construction in Chile



Bernadette Devilat L.

Series: Routledge Research in Architectural Conservation and Historic Preservation

The conservation of built heritage implies constant intervention. One form of intervention is reconstruction, which, in the context of disasters, usually tries to bring buildings and places back to their previous state and is contested in heritage discourses. This book challenges reconstruction as a replica to physically preserve damaged built heritage by critically examining a context of constant change resulting from earthquakes — Chile — advocating for the digital record to be an analytical basis for design, following the principles embedded in vernacular domestic architecture.

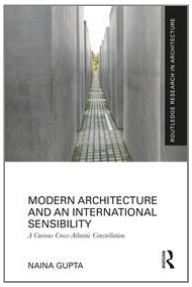
Modern Architecture and an International Sensibility

A Curious Cross-Atlantic Constellation



Naina Gupta

Series: Routledge Research in Architecture

Modern Architecture and an International Sensibility: A Curious Constellation presents an alternative history of internationalism and modernism, with a specific focus on the role of architecture and spatial practices. Beginning at the tail-end of the peace movements - the turn of the twentieth century – and ending with the Nuremberg trials, the book highlights the part played by individual agency, social reform and architecture in moulding a working everyday-definition of what it meant to be international during this time.

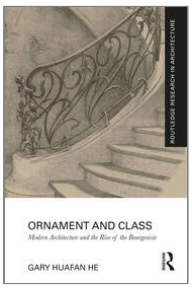
Ornament and Class

Modern Architecture and the Rise of the Bourgeoisie



Gary Huafan He

Series: Routledge Research in Architecture

This groundbreaking study examines the intricate relationship between the rise of the nineteenth-century bourgeoisie and the emergence of modern architecture, exploring this connection through major intellectual and theoretical works while also analyzing their tangible manifestations in buildings and architectural projects. Historians, architecture scholars, and students interested in modern architecture, aesthetics, and European history, especially those focusing on the interplay between modern architecture and social development, will find this book an invaluable resource.

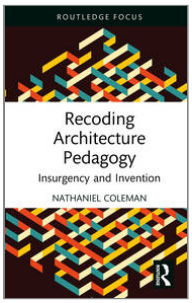
Recoding Architecture Pedagogy

Insurgency and Invention



Nathaniel Coleman University of Newcastle, UK

Series: Routledge Focus on Design Pedagogy

Disabled by chasing curricular criteria (required for accreditation and professional registration), architecture schools are mostly compliance and reproduction machines serving the building industry. As a corrective, Recoding Architecture Pedagogy: Insurgency and Invention asserts disciplinary knowledge over professional skills as the proper aim and focus of architecture education. The insurgent pedagogy introduced subverts architecture and its teaching's capture by capitalism's dominant modes of production and consumption to reveal unexpected tactics for enlarging possibilities.

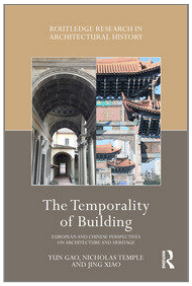
The Temporality of Building

European and Chinese Perspectives on Architecture and Heritage



Yun Gao , Nicholas Temple , Jing Xiao

Series: Routledge Research in Architectural History

This book examines the role that time plays in the life of buildings, adopting a comparative study of this influence between European and Chinese traditions. Whilst issues of time in architecture have attracted increasing interest by academics in the West, challenging the dominant modernist precepts of space, there is little understanding of the subject in China and how these compare to historical and contemporary perspectives in Europe. A guiding premise of the investigation is that notions of building time require insight into how cultural habits commingle with natural rhythms, or what David Leatherbarrow calls "concurrency".

Vittorio Gregotti. Architect of the Modern Project

Lorenzo Ciccarelli

Series: Routledge Research in Architecture

This book is a historical-critical analysis of Vittorio Gregotti's peculiar figure. Like few others, Gregotti embodied the model of the architect-intellectual that characterised post-war Italian design culture. Editor of leading magazines, author of influential books and essays, professor at prestigious universities, curator of memorable exhibitions and events such as the 1976 Venice Biennale, and founder of a firm that developed a wide range of projects for over forty years, Gregotti tenaciously occupied all the territories available to the architectural profession, promoting cultural and design trends and triggering long-lasting controversies.

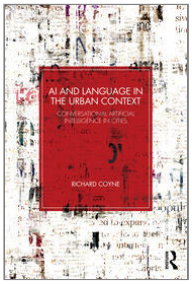
AI and Language in the Urban Context

Conversational Artificial Intelligence in Cities



Richard Coyne

In a world increasingly influenced by artificial intelligence (AI), the city emerges as a dynamic hub of digital conversations. AI in the Urban Context offers a novel exploration of how AI, particularly large language models (LLMs), is transforming urban environments. Moving beyond the typical technological narratives, this book draws on the author's unique expertise in design, semiotics, and hermeneutics to present a critical cultural perspective on AI's role in the city. By merging practical knowledge of AI algorithms with an understanding of urban practices, the author highlights the opportunities and challenges AI presents for modern cities.

Designing Therapeutic Environments

Social and Cultural Practice for Health and Well-Being

Edited by Bruno Marques , Jacqueline McIntosh

This book draws on the relationship between culture and the environment and its connection with health and well-being. Therapeutic environments are settings that comprise the physical, ecological, psychological, spiritual, and social environments associated with treatment and healing. Throughout the chapters, the understanding of therapeutic environments is broadened through the exploration of specific Indigenous cultural and social dimensions. This book is essential for practitioners, scholars and students in architecture, landscape architecture, interior architecture, urban design, planning, geography, building science, public health, and environmental engineering.

Integrated Landscapes in Policy, Practice and Everyday Life

Edited by Kathryn Moore , Anastasia Nikologianni , Alex Albans , Paul Cureton Lancaster University, UK

Exploring the ways in which an integrated landscape vision can help deliver regional, national and international agendas, this book investigates how a new idea of landscape can reimagine governance, policy, economics, culture, identity, health, transport and development priorities by connecting in a more powerful and meaningful way with local aspirations and demands. Divided into three main sections, it includes illustrated case studies from the UK, Europe, East Asia, South Asia, and more. As part of a strategy to capture, build and disseminate expertise in this approach, the book aims to develop an interdisciplinary body of work that will appeal to academics and professionals.

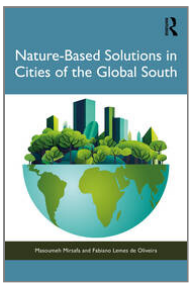
Nature-Based Solutions in Cities of the Global South



Masoumeh Mirsafa , Fabiano Lemes de Oliveira

This book explores the practice of Nature-Based Solutions (NBS) in the cities of the Global South. This book promotes implemented urban NBS projects in the Global South to help identify region-specific challenges and opportunities, and to develop more effective and equitable solutions. The presented case studies support resilient planning in the Global South and significantly inform urban debates in the Global North. This book offers pragmatic policy and planning recommendations, providing decision-makers with clear guidance on implementing NBS in urban settings and transforming knowledge into actionable strategies for sustainable and resilient urban development.

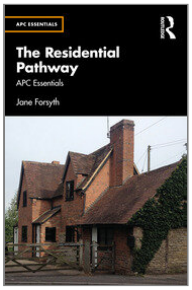
The Residential Pathway

APC Essentials



Jane Forsyth

Series: APC Essentials

APC Essentials is a series of books providing guidance to RICS APC and AssocRICS candidates on various mandatory and technical competencies, relevant to each individual pathway. This book on the Residential pathway covers the key technical competencies and provide candidates with an excellent baseline knowledge, handy tips, and useful tricks they should know to ace their APC. Written by an experienced Chartered Surveyor, Lecturer, Landlord and APC Assessor, the book provides cost-effective, practical, and concise guidance to property professionals.

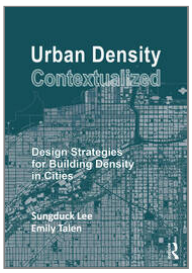
Urban Density Contextualized

Design Strategies for Building Density in Cities



Sungduck Lee , Emily Talen

Urban Density Contextualized provides planners with the tools to understand, assess, and implement urban density successfully. It systematically explores the social context of urban density, and how it plays a role in urban design and planning strategies. Chapters include the following topics: density and housing, accessibility, affordability, zoning, typology, and history, as well as case studies of design strategy from across the US. It is essential for urban planners, architects, landscape architects and others working in design and planning fields.

Community Change in Action

Sarah L. Young Kennesaw State University, USA, Carly L. Redding

Series: Community Development Research and Practice Series

Community Change in Action guides students through the process of turning their personal passion into goal-driven action for community development. Using an evidence-based curriculum, the book breaks down exactly how to initiate and drive social change in a way that speaks to the unique characteristics of Gen Zs. Taking best practice approaches to youth leadership, community development, and social change beyond the classroom, this book inspires and illustrates how Gen Z students can take their passion and turn it into social action.

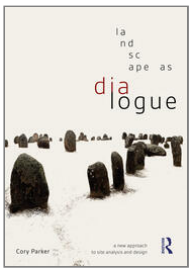
Landscape as Dialogue

A New Approach to Site Analysis and Design



Cory Parker

This book examines the process of landscape dialogue as a natural give and take with the environment. Each chapter begins with a discussion of a theoretical approach to landscape dialogue, such as perception, information, or critique, before offering a series of practical steps and representation techniques that designers can use in understanding the landscape. Detailed illustrated case studies from Hawaii, the US, Japan, China, Mexico, Turkey, and Peru, explore the book's lessons in practice. It offers a radical alternative to conventional analytical approaches, inspiring designers to fully engage in the landscape to ultimately generate ecologically considered place-making.

Rural Planning Futures

Principles, Policy and Practice in the UK and Ireland

Edited by Mark Scott University College Dublin, Ireland., John Sturzaker University of Liverpool, UK, Nick Gallent University College London, United Kingdom, Gavin Parker , Amy Burnett , Ian Mell

Series: RTPI Library Series

This book charts the critical societal challenges that are reshaping rural places across the UK and Ireland. The book evaluates current planning processes and explores the prospects for an enhanced, cross-sectoral and holistic future planning that manages rural change towards more resilient and sustainable outcomes. Using case studies, the chapters detail approaches that can effectively meet the challenges currently facing rural planners globally and consider what an appraisal of the UK and Irish context might have for different planning systems across the world. This book is essential for students in planning, geography, rural studies, landscape studies, and regional studies.

A New Index for Public Space

After Distancing

Tali Hatuka , Andrea Mubi Brighenti University of Trento, Italy

A New Index for Public Space: After Distancing offers readers a re-evaluation of the notion of publicness as a lens to unpack the complexity of urban space. A 'new index' is proposed to reconstitute the promises and the predicaments of public space to better prepare for the contemporary challenges of post-pandemic, conflict-ridden society. This book is the outcome of a conversation across disciplines—specifically, urban design and social theory—revolving around the recognition that public space is inherently fragile, messy, conflicted, and evolving. It will be of interest to urban planners, architects, urban designers, and those working in community development.

Cities and Digital Platforms

Elham Bahmanteymouri

This book unravels the transformative impact of digital platforms like Airbnb and Zoom on urban landscapes, illustrating their profound influence on housing, city planning, and the broader economic fabric. Through rigorous case studies from cities such as Amsterdam, Auckland, Sydney, and Singapore, this book delves into the operational dynamics of these platforms as part of the the nuanced interplay between digital innovations and capitalist cycles. This book is an essential read for policymakers, urban planners, and anyone intrigued by the intersection of technology, economy, and urban life, providing critical insights into the evolving dynamics of our cities in the digital age.

Critical Planning Futures

New Directions in Planning Theory

Edited by Philip Allmendinger , Mark Tewdwr-Jones , Matthew Wargent

Planning lies at the heart of successful and sustainable places, yet planning scholarship often appears stuck in routinised patterns of thought. Critical Planning Futures brings together an international range of voices from diverse disciplinary backgrounds to explore new directions in planning theory, interrogate planning's orthodoxy, and push the boundaries of contemporary theory using ideas both from within planning and beyond. This book will be a vital resource for planning specialists, though the breadth of ideas will be of interest to academics and researchers in a wide range of disciplines, including urban studies, geography, political science, and sociology.

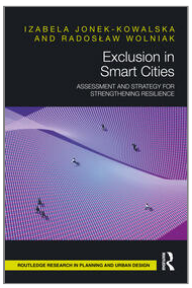
Exclusion in Smart Cities

Assessment and Strategy for Strengthening Resilience



Izabela Jonek-Kowalska , Radosław Wolniak

Series: Routledge Research in Planning and Urban Design

Smart cities are fascinating, but they also have a dark side that little is said or written about. One issue is the possibility of generating various types of exclusion. For this reason, this book will develop principles for assessing the inclusiveness of smart cities and outlines strategies for strengthening urban resistance to exclusion.

Local Development and Socio-environmental Systems

Experiences and Practices toward Sustainability in Mediterranean Europe

Edited by Clio Ciaschini , Vito Imbrenda

Series: River Publishers Series in Social, Urban, Economic and Environmental Sustainability

Departing from conventional narratives centered on environmental complexity, this book offers a fresh perspective on ecological dynamics in the Mediterranean basin, positing their correlation with social and economic regimes, demographic transformations, local governance structures, and deficiencies in spatial planning. The analysis delves into the neglected potential for mitigating environmental degradation, conducting a meticulous examination of ecological issues vis à vis economic disparities in Southern European regions.

Resilient Urbanism

Edited by Gihan Karunaratne

Series: Routledge Research in Planning and Urban Design

As urban populations grow unprecedentedly, cities worldwide face pressures from rapid expansion, climate change, and social inequalities. Resilient Urbanism critically examines how cities, towns, and informal settlements adapt to these multifaceted challenges, exploring urban resilience in the 21st century. This volume investigates resilience across a variety of urban contexts, from megacities in the Global South to suburban and coastal regions, through interdisciplinary essays.

Smart Buildings and Cities with Remote Sensing and GIS

Edited by Shiv Mohan ISRO (Retired), Gujarat, India, Navneet Munoth MANIT Bhopal, MP, India, Neha Sharma ESRI R&D Centre, New Delhi, India

The book studies applications of remote sensing and GIS to highlight the possible integration of the advanced applications of remote sensing and GIS-based technologies in the architecture of smart buildings and city planning. It demonstrates the integration of remote sensing and GIS technologies applications and adaptations through case studies. It leads with the concepts of remote sensing, GIS, architectural and planning practices and how both these fields can be integrated together for smart construction, designing and planning of settlements.

Smart Cities to Smart Societies

Moving Beyond Technology

Edited by Esmat Zaidan , Imad Antoine Ibrahim , Elie Azar

Series: Routledge Studies in Sustainability

This book explores the governance of smart cities from a holistic approach, arguing that the creation of smart cities must consider the specific the circumstances of each country to improve the preservation, revitalisation, liveability, and sustainability of urban areas. This book argues that a comprehensive approach is necessary to consider all relevant aspects. The book will be an important asset for students and researchers studying law, engineering, political science, international relations, geopolitics, economics and engineering.

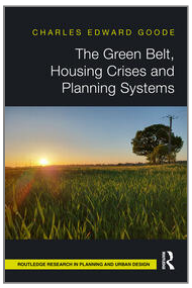
The Green Belt, Housing Crises and Planning Systems



Charles Edward Goode

Series: Routledge Research in Planning and Urban Design

This book evaluates the effectiveness of the Green Belt planning policy in England. It is one of the most well-known strategies internationally, with similar growth restraint policies having been adopted in a diverse range of cities around the world such as Portland, Medellin and Bangkok. Despite this, it is often argued that Green Belts contribute to wider inequitable outcomes in society.

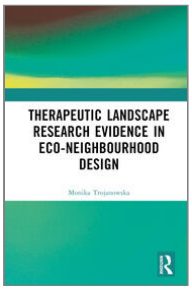
Therapeutic Landscape Research Evidence in Eco-neighbourhood Design



Monika Trojanowska

This book presents how to recreate therapeutic landscapes in everyday places of eco-neighbourhoods. The concept of eco-neighborhoods goes beyond the traditional form of a residential district. Eco-neighborhoods are characterized by many aspects related to sustainability, including protection of the environment, building social capital, ensuring a high quality of life with low economic costs, and promoting social and environmental justice. The presented work aims to systematize these phenomena and interpret them.

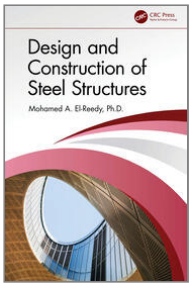
Design and Construction of Steel Structures



Mohamed A. El-Reedy

This book examines the design of steel structures and defines the approaches for various design codes, including AISC, BS, and EC3. It also discusses the theoretical background for the design of different structural members and provides illustrative examples of each, as well as structural connections, base plates with anchor bolt designs, and more. In addition, best practices for on-site construction methods including receipt of materials, and quality control and assurance, and inspection are also presented. Both non-destructive testing and destructive testing methods are presented.

Edited by João R. Correia Instituto Superior Técnico, Lisbon, Portugal, Thomas Keller , Jan Knippers , J. Toby Mottram , Carlo Paulotto , José Sena-Cruz University of Minho, Portugal, Luigi Ascione

The European Technical Specification CEN/TS 19101:2022, 'Design of Fibre-Polymer Composite Structures', constitutes a milestone for the use of fibre-polymer composites in civil engineering works. This Open Access book comprises around 400 background reports covering the most relevant paragraphs of the Technical Specification, providing supplementary information to the Technical Specification, justifying the options that were followed, and introducing references that were considered. It is ideal for professional engineers working in structural design, as well as a source of consensus information for graduate students and researchers in the area.

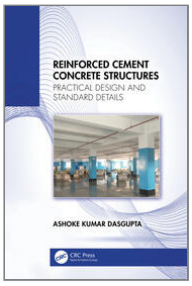
Reinforced Cement Concrete Structures

Practical Design and Standard Details



Ashoke Kumar Dasgupta

This book aims to provide actual methods of calculation and standard details followed by professionals in industrial projects pertaining to Reinforced Cement Concrete (RCC) structures backed by practical design and standard details. It covers engineering properties of soil and types of tests, different types of concrete grades, standard notes and codes, workout examples of piles, foundations, and super structure elements. It provides all the standard construction details including reinforcement arrangement, generally used for RCC works in superstructure and foundations. Steel Fibre Reinforced Concrete

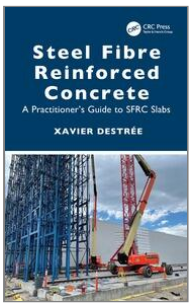
A Practitioner's Guide to SFRC Slabs



Xavier Destrée Consulting Engineer, Belgium

Steel fibre reinforced concrete for structures is generally unknown to engineers and contractors. This book presents essential information to enable its use in a variety of conditions; with focus on flat horizontal cast in-situ applications -- ground bearing slabs, ground suspended slabs, suspended elevated slabs, and raft slab foundations for buildings. Material testing and structural testing are covered, and some attention is given to shrinkage and cracking, fire resistance of slabs and walls, and environmental benefits, as well as to future opportunities and challenges.

Underwater Structures

The Strength of Submarines and Deep-Diving Submersibles.

Piero Caridis

Underwater Structures provides the necessary background theory of shell structures for the geometries encountered in submarine pressure hulls. Both analysis and design issues are considered, using analytical as well as numerical approaches. Classical thin-walled structures theory is implemented, and both elastic stability and collapse are considered for all types of structural geometries presented. These include ring-stiffened cylindrical shells, spheres, hemispherical shells, truncated cones, and torispherical end-closures.

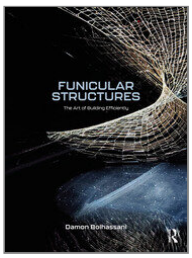
Funicular Structures

The Art of Building Efficiently



Damon Bolhassani

Funicular structures are structural skeletons designed using methodologies that analyze the flow and direction of forces, which can be categorized as compression, tension, or a combination of both. This book presents an in-depth overview of the theoretical foundations and practical methods of designing funicular structures for maximum efficiency. Tracing the various methods of designing funicular structures, including the latest computational tools, it provides a solid foundation for students of architecture, structural design, civil engineering, landscape design, and environmental design, to embark on their own funicular design projects.

Handbook of Microplastic Pollution in the Environment

Monitoring and Treatment of Microplastics and Policy Perspectives

Edited by Tonni Kurniawan , Abdelkader Anouzla Hassan II University, Morocco

In this handbook, one in a series of three, leading global contributors analyze approaches to microplastics treatment, address advanced techniques for mediating microplastic pollution, and explore policy perspectives on the implications of microplastic pollution for human and ecosystem health. In its exploration of the technologies and techniques for monitoring and treating microplastics and related policy perspectives, this handbook has deep implications and practical ramifications for academics, industry-based researchers, and policymakers to take a new direction to the reduction of microplastics in aquatic environments and agricultural soils around the world.

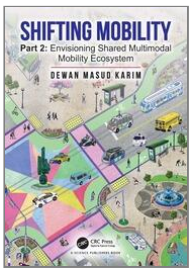
Shifting Mobility

Part 2: Envisioning Shared Multimodal Mobility Ecosystem



Dewan Masud Karim

This groundbreaking book explores the promises and perils of new mobility, navigating the intricate landscape where technology intersects with urban society. It addresses the moral dilemmas and systemic flaws in planning and design, while proposing a approach of a mobility ecosystem that prioritizes equity, well-being, and sustainability. From low-emission vehicles to multimodal transit hubs, this book presents a blueprint for reimagining urban spaces and redefining the way we move. By embracing shared values and collective responsibility, we strive to create a world where mobility is not just a privilege, but a fundamental human right.

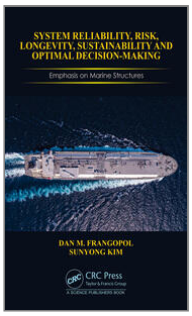
System Reliability, Risk, Longevity, Sustainability and Optimal Decision Making

Emphasis on Marine Structures



Dan M Frangopol , Sunyong Kim

This book provides the concepts and methodologies of probabilistic structural performance assessments and predictions for deteriorating structures, with emphasis on marine structures and special consideration of system reliability, risk, longevity, sustainability, and optimal decision-making. It introduces a comprehensive framework for time-dependent structural performance analysis, incorporating maintenance strategies to estimate and/or extend service life of infrastructure systems. The integration of structural health monitoring highlights the pivotal role of data analytics in addressing uncertainties and optimizing service life management.

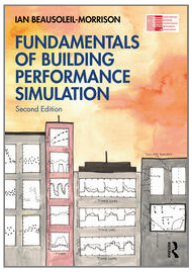
Fundamentals of Building Performance Simulation



Ian Beausoleil-Morrison Carleton University Ottawa, Ontario, Canada

Fundamentals of Building Performance Simulation, 2nd Edition compares the theory and practice of a multi-disciplinary field to the essentials for classroom learning and real-world applications. This textbook equips students and emerging and established professionals in engineering and architecture to predict and optimize buildings' energy use. The textbook will be accompanied by student and instructor digital resources including chapter introduction videos by the author, software and simulation walkthrough videos, weather data, photographs, drawings and measured data to support the culminating trials.

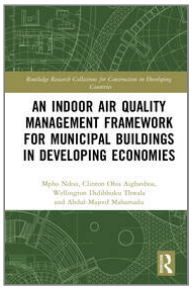
An Indoor Air Quality Management Framework for Municipal Buildings in Developing Economies



Mpho Ndou , Clinton Ohis Aigbavboa University of Johannesburg, South Africa, Wellington Didibhuku Thwala University of Johannesburg, South Africa, Abdul-Majeed Mahamadu

Series: Routledge Research Collections for Construction in Developing Countries

This book delves into the pivotal issue of Indoor Air Quality (IAQ) management in municipal buildings within developing economies, addressing a pressing need in today's digital age, where individuals spend over 70% of their time indoors. With a strong focus on enhancing environmental quality, this book presents theoretical frameworks and practical recommendations designed explicitly for stakeholders in the higher education sector, encompassing both public and private institutions.

Smart Cities and Japan's Energy Transition

Past, Present, and Future

Edited by Maciej Sokołowski , Fumio Shimpo

Series: Routledge Explorations in Energy Studies

This book offers a complex and problem-based analysis of the past, present, and future of smart cities in Japan's energy transition.The authors examine several issues including international cooperation, heating decarbonisation, foreign direct investments, city planning, housing policies, or technology-related risks in the context of Japan's energy transition. Drawing on case studies from different regions of Japan and sectors of Japanese economy significant for reaching carbon neutrality, this book will be a valuable resource for all interested in energy transition, climate action, and smart cities, where Japan and Japanese smart cities serve as excellent benchmarks.

The Energy Transition in Japan

Smart Cities and Smart Solutions

Edited by Maciej M. Sokołowski Basel University, Switzerland, Fumio Shimpo

Series: Routledge Explorations in Energy Studies

This book offers a distinctive and comprehensive view of the energy transition of Japan, with a particular focus on the rise of smart cities. Focusing on both stories of success and lessons learned, this book will be a valuable resource for students and scholars of energy transitions, climate action, smart cities, as well as Asian and Japanese studies more broadly.

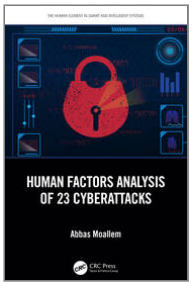
Human Factors Analysis of 23 Cyberattacks



Abbas Moallem

Series: The Human Element in Smart and Intelligent Systems

As cyber threat actors have become more sophisticated, data breaches, phishing attacks, and ransomware are increasing and the global cybercrime damage in 2021 was $16.4 billion a day. While technical issue analyses are fundamental in understanding how to improve system security, analyzing the roles of human agents is crucial. Human Factors Analysis of 23 Cyberattacks addresses, through examples, the human factors behind cybersecurity attacks. This title will appeal to students and practitioners in the fields of ergonomics, human factors, cybersecurity, computer engineering, industrial engineering and computer science.

Learning from Near Misses

Cross-Sector Reflections to Support Safety Management

Edited by Nick Woodier

Series: Workplace Safety, Risk Management, and Industrial Hygiene

Learning From Near Misses can provide opportunities to improve safety without the need for harm to have first occurred. This book explores how near misses contribute to safety management across a range of high-risk sectors and share lessons to help organisations, industries and sectors utilise learning from near misses in line with contemporary safety theory. An ideal and essential read for safety practitioners, consultants and academics, this book is also suitable for those working in safety management in high-risk and highly regulated sectors.

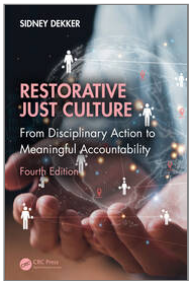
Restorative Just Culture

From Disciplinary Action to Meaningful Accountability, Fourth Edition



Sidney Dekker Griffith University, Nathan Campus, Queensland, Australia

In the world of work, accountability can often translate to punishment. This book explores trust, learning, and accountability in the aftermath of incidents. Fully updated, the fourth edition of Restorative Just Culture covers restorative justice, challenging conventional notions of blame and retribution to create a 'just culture' in the workplace. Restorative Just Culture: From Disciplinary Action to Real Accountability, Fourth Edition is a must-read for professionals in health and safety, business and management, and others with accountability in professional environments.

Antarctica and the Earth System

Edited by Michael Meredith , Jess Melbourne-Thomas , Alberto Naveira Garabato , Marilyn Raphael

This book presents a state-of-the-art overview of the role that Antarctica and the Southern Ocean play as integral parts of the Earth System.This book examines how Antarctica and the Southern Ocean are connected to the rest of the planet, and what these connections mean for the future of Planet Earth and all its inhabitants. It transcends traditional disciplinary boundaries to explore this role across physical, ecological, political and social systems. Antarctica and the Earth System will be of great interest to a wide range of interdisciplinary students and scholars of Earth sciences, Antarctic studies, polar science and environmental management.

Natural Pesticides and Allelochemicals

Advances and Trends in Crop Protection

Edited by Mozaniel Santana de Oliveira Museu Paraense Emilio Goeldi, Leo M.L. Nollet University College Ghent, Ravendra Kumar G.B. Pant University of Agriculture and Technology, India, Eloisa Helena de Aguiar Andrade Museu Paraense Emilio Goeldi Campus de Pesquisa, Brazil , Antônio Pedro da Silva Souza Filho Empresa Brasileira de Pesquisa Agropecuária, Brazil

Natural pesticides and allelochemicals are used for protection against invasive plants, but when released into the environment they can have both positive and negative effects on plants. This book discusses a holistic and sustainable approach that balances effective pest management with minimizing environmental impacts, promoting biodiversity, and ensuring food safety and quality. It brings together proposals to improve the quality of management and production of healthier foods using compounds of natural origin. The authors provide a diverse picture of the applications of terpenoids in plant safety and the possibilities for innovative biotechnological approaches for their extraction.

Nanotechnology in agriculture has created many concerns related to toxicity and environmental implications. Green synthesis techniques for producing nanomaterials utilizing plants, microorganisms, and other natural resources have been developed in response to the demand for green chemistry and nanotechnology. This book provides in-depth information on the plant-based synthesis of nanoparticles and promotes sustainable agriculture. It critically reviews nanomaterials synthesized from plants and their potential applications including nano-sized insecticides, herbicides, fungicides, fertilizers, and sensors, which can be helpful in studying and managing plant health and soil fertility.

The Tank Cascade System (TCS) of Sri Lanka is a connected series of tanks organized within a micro-catchment of a dry zone landscape for storing, conveying, and utilizing water from a temporary stream. FAO and the UN internationally recognize it as a Globally Important Agricultural Heritage System for food security and sustainable development in a changing climate. This edited volume offers a comprehensive and holistic coverage of the entire scope of cascade systems including their origins, governance, and integration with agriculture, biodiversity, cultural linkages, associated livelihoods, degradation causes, restoration efforts, gender perspectives, and disaster resilience.

Artificial Intelligence in Heat Transfer

Advances in Numerical Heat Transfer Volume VI

Edited by J.P. Abraham , J.M. Gorman

This book shows how AI tools and techniques, such as artificial neural networks, machine learning algorithms, genetic algorithms, etc., provide practical benefits specific to thermal sciences. It presents case studies involving heat and mass transfer, multi-objective optimization, conjugate heat transfer, nano-fluids, thermal radiation, heat transfer through porous media (metal foam), and more. This book will serve as an important resource for upper-level undergraduate students, researchers, engineers, and professionals, equipping them with the knowledge and inspiration to push the boundaries of the thermal sciences through AI-driven tools and techniques.

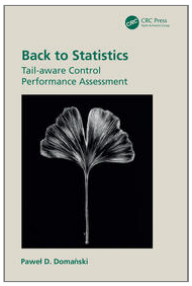
Back to Statistics

Tail-aware Control Performance Assessment



Paweł D. Domański

Due to the popularity of artificial intelligence today, scientists and practitioners tend to ignore the achievements of statistical methods. This book aims to re-establish statistical methods, especially for control practitioners, for whom the task of assessing control performance is important. By addressing statistical issues of sustainability, extreme statistics, non-Gaussianity, L-moments, tail index and index ratio diagrams, the author aims to change traditional concepts and broaden the scope of available methods. The book will be of interest to site control engineers and scholars assessing control systems and process performance.

Ballistics

Theory and Design of Guns and Ammunition

Donald E. Carlucci U.S. Army, Picatinny Arsenal, Rockaway Township, New Jersey, USA, Sidney S. Jacobson Retired, Chester, New Jersey, USA

Ballistics examines the analytical and computational tools for predicting a weapon's behavior in terms of pressure, stress, and velocity, demonstrating their applications in ammunition and weapons design. The new edition features a new chapter on closed bomb experimentation and analysis, which discusses closed bomb testing to incorporate new propellants into interior ballistics designs. With its thorough coverage of interior, exterior, and terminal ballistics, this new edition continues to be the standard resource for ballistics experts and researchers studying the technology of guns and ammunition and designing state-of-the-art propellants.

District Cooling Systems

A Practical Approach and Application for Design, Operations and Best Practice

Khin Zaw , Aung Myat , Md Raisul Islam , Poh Tiong Keng , Aung Kywe Nyunt

This book draws on the authors' industry and academic expertise to explain the theory and practice of district cooling systems (DCSs). The in-depth exploration of the design and development of DCSs presents detailed best practices for their optimization in both development and operation phases. As this book provides both industry know-how and future research directions related to DCSs, it is invaluable for DCS industry professionals and advanced undergraduate and postgraduate engineering students who aim to enter this industry and develop leading, highly efficient DCS systems.

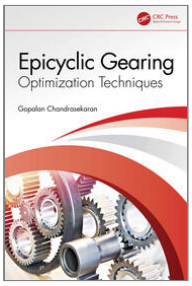
Epicyclic Gearing

Optimization Techniques



Gopalan Chandrasekaran

A variety of optimization techniques are covered with a focus on practical application. The formulation of the underlying mathematical models and the algorithms for solving are explained and then applied to solve real world problems in epicyclic gearing. Figures and charts are also provided. Each chapter includes a detailed case study based on a real-world application of epicyclic gearing. The case studies highlight the realities and challenges in the design optimization of epicyclic gearing systems, illustrate the application of optimization techniques in a real-world context, compare different optimization techniques and identify the areas of future work.

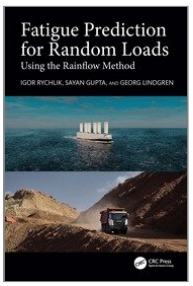
Fatigue Prediction for Random Loads

Using the Rainflow Method



Igor Rychlik , Sayan Gupta , Georg Lindgren Lund University, Sweden

Fatigue is an important mode of material degradation in structural components subjected to vibrations and reliable estimation of their fatigue life span, and is a key consideration in the design and development of such systems. This book uses advanced concepts of probability theory, random variables and random processes to develop spectral based methods and formulae for predicting expected fatigue damage and expected fatigue life. The developments presented here bypass the need for computationally expensive rainflow cycle counting that is usually adopted in time domain approaches.

Phase Change Heat Transfer

Boiling and Condensation

Vijay K. Dhir

This book covers theory and experiments in heat transfer associated with boiling and condensation. It presents the basics of solid-liquid-vapor phase interactions and methods to measure surface wettability and interfacial tension between liquid and vapor. It is intended for upper-level undergraduate mechanical, aerospace, and chemical engineering students taking courses in Phase Change Heat Transfer; Boiling and Condensation; Nuclear Thermal Hydraulics; Heat and Mass Transfer. Exploring the mechanistic details of flow boiling heat transfer in a pool, it gives correlations for prediction of nucleate boiling, critical heat flux, and post-critical heat flux.

5G Green Communication Networks for Smart Cities

Edited by Devasis Pradhan , Rajeswari , Hla Myo Tun , Naw Khu Say Wah , Thandar Oo

Explores the intersection of 5G technology and environmentally sustainable communication networks in the context of smart cities. It delves into the technical, social, and environmental aspects of 5G networks, highlighting their potential to drive eco-friendly urban development. It provides an overview of 5G technology and its potential environmental impact. It presents discussions on energy-efficient design and management of 5G networks and devices and the role of renewable energy sources in powering these networks.

Advances in Polymer Composite Research

Integrating Experimental and Computational Approaches

Edited by Atul Kumar Maurya Dep. Plastics Engineering, Univ. Massachusetts, United States, Gaurav Manik IIT Roorkee, Uttar Pradesh, Sushanta Kumar Sethi IIT Dharwad, Karnataka

This book emphasizes the importance of experimental characterization techniques and computational modeling tools in polymer composites. Topics covered include finite element analysis, computational fluid dynamics, molecular dynamics simulations, machine learning, material informatics, multiscale modeling, advanced characterization techniques, and the emerging field of nanocomposites. Each chapter provides detailed discussions, case studies, and examples to illustrate the practical application of these techniques in polymer composite research. This book is aimed at graduate students and researchers in polymers, polymer composites, and materials science.

AI and Blockchain in Smart Grids

Fundamentals, Methods, and Applications

Edited by Shrikant Tiwari , Amit Kumar Tyagi VIT, India

The book discusses emerging technologies driving the transformation of energy grids. It focuses on the integration of AI and blockchain to create digital twins that will provide real-time, data-driven insights into smart grid operations. It explores how these technologies optimize energy distribution, enhance grid resilience, and enable efficient demand-side management. Navigating the complex intersection of AI, blockchain, and smart grid technology, it offers a roadmap to a future of sustainable and intelligent energy systems.

AIoT and Smart Sensing

A Comprehensive Guide to the Next Generation of Smart Devices

Edited by Vaishali R Kulkarni , Thompson Stephan M. S. Ramaiah University of Applied Sciences, India, Punitha S , Fadi Al-Turjman Near East University, Turkey, Thinagaran Perumal

AIoT and Smart Sensing: A Comprehensive Guide to the Next Generation of Smart Devices offers an in-depth exploration of the intersection of Artificial Intelligence of Things (AIoT) and smart sensing technologies. As the convergence of AI and IoT reshapes industries, this book serves as an essential guide for understanding the technological foundations, security protocols, and wide-ranging applications that make AIoT a transformative force. By examining both foundational and applied aspects, the book aims to provide readers with a holistic view of how AIoT is driving innovation in agriculture, healthcare, smart cities, and beyond.

Transitioning from Healthcare 4.0 to Healthcare 5.0

Edited by Rashmi Gupta , Xiomara Patricia Blanco Valenc , Lalit Mohan Goyal J.C. Bose Univ. of Sci. and Tech., Jeetendra Kumar

Series: Innovations in Health Informatics and Healthcare

This book is perfect for students and researchers specializing in AAL and NLP. Professionals working on products for assisted living can also benefit from the valuable insights provided by recent research to improve the efficiency and advancement of their products. The topic of AAL is already a part of the curriculum in many universities and institutes, and this book will help students explore the various applications of NLP within this field. In addition, individuals looking to engage in innovative projects can find inspiration from the latest advancements in AAL.

Applications of Spinel Nano-Ferrites in Health, Environment and Safety Applications

Edited by Atul Thakur , Preeti Thakur

Series: Nanotechnology Advances and Applications

This book comprehensively presents the unique properties of spinel nano-ferrites, synthesis techniques, and cutting-edge applications. It explores various synthesis methods and their impact on structures and discusses the electrical and magnetic characteristics of spinel nanoferrites. The book highlights their roles in health, such as antibacterial agents, MRI, cancer detection, and drug delivery, as well as environmental applications like pollution remediation and water purification. It concludes with the development of sensors and safety devices. This book is intended for researchers, students, healthcare professionals, and environmental scientists.

Blockchain Technology

Transforming Businesses and Shaping the Future

Edited by Jay Daniel , Ashutosh Samadhiya O.P. Jindal Global University, India, Jose Arturo Garza-Reyes Derby Business School, The University of Derby, Kedleston Road Campus, Derby UK

Series: Smart Technologies for Engineers and Scientists

This book examines the origins, emergence, challenges, and opportunities in the blockchain field, rethinking business strategy and readiness in the digital world and how blockchain technology would improve businesses. It provides a blockchain readiness model for managing supply chains and reviews enabling technologies such as AI, big data and organisational capabilities that support the adoption of blockchain technology. Through innovative design and simulation of a blockchain framework, it aims to enhance the traceability and transparency of business operations and supply chains.

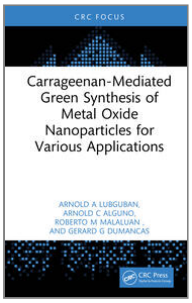
Carrageenan-Mediated Green Synthesis of Metal Oxide Nanoparticles for Various Applications



Arnold A Lubguban , Arnold C Alguno , Roberto M Malaluan , Gerard G Dumancas

This concise book delves into the innovative use of carrageenan in the green synthesis of metal oxide nanoparticle synthesis. It explores this approach's mechanisms, highlighting its benefits over traditional syntheses. The unique properties imparted by carrageenan to metal oxide nanoparticles and how these enhance the material for various applications are also discussed. Concerns about the scalability of this green synthesis are explored, particularly the challenges faced in large-scale production, reproducibility, economics, and environmental sustainability. This book serves as a primer for interested researchers and advanced students in materials science and chemistry.

Challenges and Opportunities for Innovation in India

Edited by Shweta Mishra , Avneesh Kumar Singh , Pankaj Prajapati Ambalika Institute of Management and Technology, Lucknow, India.

The conference was organized with the aim of providing a platform for experts, specialists, practitioners and researchers working in the field of technological and managerial innovation to share their views. It was instrumental in meeting the challenges and opportunities of technology and its application in today's technological world. It provided an excellent international forum to exchange knowledge resulting into the application of technological innovations and managerial practice. Eminent scientists and researchers across the country presented their work and discussed the prospects of innovative ideas in the field of science, engineering and management.

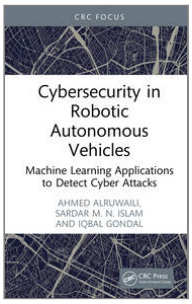
Cybersecurity in Robotic Autonomous Vehicles

Machine Learning Applications to Detect Cyber Attacks



Ahmed Alruwaili , Sardar M. N. Islam Victoria University, Australia, Iqbal Gondal

Cybersecurity in Robotic Autonomous Vehicles introduces a novel Intrusion Detection System (IDS) specifically designed for AVs, which leverages data prioritization in CAN IDs to enhance threat detection and mitigation. It offers a pioneering intrusion detection model for AVs that uses machine and deep learning algorithms. The book will interest researchers and advanced undergraduate students taking courses in cybersecurity, automotive engineering, and data science. Automotive industry and robotics professionals focusing on internet-of-vehicles and cybersecurity will also benefit from the contents.

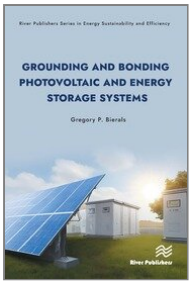
Grounding and Bonding Photovoltaic and Energy Storage Systems



Gregory P. Bierals

Series: River Publishers Series in Energy Sustainability and Efficiency

This book is designed for energy professionals to expand their understanding of proper grounding and bonding methods for photovoltaic (PV) and energy storage systems. While grounding and bonding are critical for any electrical distribution system, it is especially pertinent for PV systems due to the potential of high short circuit and ground-fault currents, as well as the possible and likely exposure to high magnitude and short duration lightning currents. This course will offer an in-depth exploration of these essential applications in the context of solar renewable and battery storage systems.

Innovation in Healthtech

A Roadmap for Empowering Healthcare

Edited by Rakesh Kumar , Meenu Gupta Chandigarh University, Punjab

Series: Advancing Science and Engineering through Artificial Intelligence, Machine Learning, and Mathematical Modeling

The book uncovers how sophisticated data analysis is revolutionizing healthcare decision-making, personalized treatments, and operational efficiency. It further highlights the significance of robust security measures in safeguarding sensitive medical data and ensuring patient confidentiality. The text provides insights into the development, implementation, and future potential of telemedicine infrastructure. It is primarily written for senior undergraduates, graduate students, and academic researchers in the fields including electrical engineering, electronics and communications engineering, computer engineering, and biomedical engineering.

Localized Energy Transition in the 4th Industrial Revolution

Edited by Opeyeolu Timothy Laseinde University of Johannesburg, South Africa, Andrew C. Eloka-Eboka North-West University, Potchefstroom

Series: Energy Transition in the 21st Century

This book creates a holistic view about the localized energy transition while addressing current challenges associated with the production of biofuels, introducing new materials to produce solar PV panels, and digital systems for sustainable energy monitoring on a small scale, carbon capture and sequestration. Also, each section of the book addresses specific aspects of the renewable and sustainable energy space while focusing more on energy improvement and storage technologies that are practical focused. This book is aimed at graduate students and researchers in mechanical, chemical, and mechatronics engineering, and renewable energy systems.

Machine Learning for Radio Resource Management and Optimization in 5G and Beyond

Edited by Mariyam Ouaissa , Mariya Ouaissa , Hanane Lamaazi , Khadija Slimani , Ihtiram Raza Khan Jamia Hamdard, New Delhi, B. Sundaravadivazhagan

This book aims to highlight a new line of research that uses innovative technologies and methods based on AI/ML techniques to address issues and challenges related to radio resource management in 5G and 6G communication systems. This book provides comprehensive coverage of current and emerging waveform design, channel modelling, multiple access, random access, scheduling, network slicing and resource optimization for 5G wireless networks and beyond. This book is suitable for researchers, scholars, and industry professionals working in different fields related to mobile networks and intelligent systems.

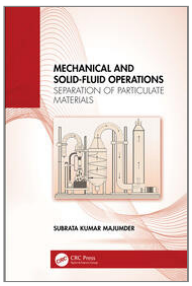
Mechanical and Solid-Fluid Operations

Separation of Particulate Materials



Subrata Kumar Majumder Indian Institute of Technology Guwahati, India

The text presents fundamental principles and analysis of the separation of particulate matter. Analysis and reduction of air pollution involve a variety of technical disciplines. The effective way to control air pollution is to prevent the release of pollutants at the source. The treatment can involve intimately contacting the effluent gases with liquids or solids capable of selectively removing gaseous pollutants or, in the case of particulate contaminants, directing the effluent flow through a device in which the particles are captured on surfaces.

Characteristics and Handling of Solids

The text comprehensively discusses the transport mechanism, storage, and conveying of the material, which are essential requirements for transporting solids in various process units, especially in mineral and chemical industries. It covers the properties of particles and particulate systems and focuses on their characterization and analysis. It is primarily written for senior undergraduates, graduate students, and academic researchers in fields including chemical engineering, mechanical engineering, environmental engineering, industrial engineering, manufacturing engineering, and chemistry.

4TH EDITION

Medical Regulatory Affairs

An International Handbook for Medical Devices and Healthcare Products (Fourth Edition)

Edited by Jack Wong , Raymond Tong

This handbook covers medical device regulatory systems in different countries, ISO standards for medical devices, clinical trial and regulatory requirements, and documentation for application. It is the first to cover the medical device regulatory affairs in Asia. Government bodies, the medical device industry, academics, students, and general readers will find the book immensely useful for understanding the global regulatory environment and in their research and development projects. The updated fourth edition includes specific contributions that address the needs of startups.

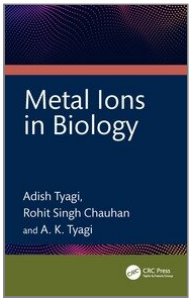
Metal Ions in Biology



Adish Tyagi Bhabha Atomic Research Centre, Mumbai, Rohit Singh Chauhan K J Somaiya College of Science and Commerce, Mumbai, A. K. Tyagi Bhabha Atomic Research Centre, Mumbai

The present book discusses the inherent need and significance of metal ions in metabolic reactions. It details their essential elements and mechanistic prospects to regulate biological reactions. It discusses the broad domain of elements, including main group as well as transition elements, in a comparative and comprehensive manner. Contemporary and advanced topics like nuclear medicine, bio-mineralization, and so forth are covered as well. This book is aimed at graduate students and researchers in chemical engineering, materials science, chemistry, and biological sciences.

Nanoelectronics

Materials to Chips Design

Edited by Balwinder Raj , Suman Lata Tripathi LPU, India, Tarun Chaudhary NIT Jalandhar, India, Mandeep Singh NIT Jalandhar, India

Series: Smart Engineering Systems

This book exhibits a unique way to explain nano materials, devices, analysis of its design parameters to meet the sub-nano-regime challenges for low power chip design. Since process variability, device sizing and power supply scaling is an ongoing challenge in large VLSI circuits design, this book highlights the conventional and novel nano materials, devices and circuits, leakage current mitigation techniques and other important tradeoffs along with exhaustive analysis. More focus has placed throughout the book on the various trade-offs for high speed and low power VLSI devices and circuits co-design.

Nanomaterials for Wound Healing

Edited by Mohammed Gulzar Ahmed , Sumel Ashique , Arshad Farid , Gokhan Zengin

This book offers an extensive overview of wound healing, emphasizing the fundamentals, molecular aspects, and the role of nanotechnology in treatment advancements. It discusses the challenges of chronic wound healing, explores the development and application of nanomaterials like smart 3D-printed hydrogels and bioactive compounds, and delves into the potential of nanotechnology in improving diabetic wound healing, tissue engineering, and antibacterial strategies. It examines the role of the immune system in healing and the significance of toxicity studies. This book is for researchers, clinical practitioners, students of biomedical engineering, human physiology, and nanotechnology.

Nanotherapeutics for Infectious Diseases

Iris L. Batalha

This book is more than just a compilation of nanomaterials used for the treatment and prevention of infectious diseases. It starts by tracing the historical trajectory of the nanomedicine field, charting its evolution to the present day. This is followed by two additional introductory chapters, one offering an overview of clinically approved nanoformulations for human use and another contextualizing the current landscape of infectious diseases. Subsequent chapters delve into the utilization of nanotherapeutics in the treatment and prevention of infections caused by various pathogens (such as viruses, bacteria, parasites, and fungi).

Natural Fibre Polylactic Acid Composites

Properties and Applications

S. M. Sapuan Universiti Putra, Malaysia, Vasi Uddin Siddiqui , R. A. Ilyas

This text provides readers with a comprehensive understanding of the properties, processing techniques, and applications of natural fibre-reinforced PLA composites, enabling them to develop sustainable and high-performance materials for a range of industries. It encompasses a wide range of topics within the field, spanning fundamentals, manufacturing processes and techniques, and applications. With its comprehensive coverage, scientific approach, and technical depth, this book serves as an invaluable resource for researchers, engineers, and practitioners seeking to advance their knowledge and expertise in the field of natural fibre-reinforced PLA composite materials.

Nonlinear Vibration and Dynamics of Smart Continuous Structures and Materials

Majid Ghadiri

Nonlinear Vibration and Dynamics of Smart Continuous Structures and Materials delves into intricate subjects concerning the analysis of nonlinear vibration issues in continuous structures. It covers general concepts and a history of nonlinear systems before evolving into kinetics and solution methods of continuous structures. Exploring the implementation of new types of materials in various sectors of automobile, aerospace, and structural engineering, the book provides applicable information on the behaviors of smart structures. The book will interest academic researchers and graduate students studying structural engineering, mechanics of solids, and smart materials.

Nonparametric Statistics on Stratified Spaces and Their Applications in Object Data Analysis

Victor Patrangenaru Florida State University, Tallahassee, USA, Daniel E. Osborne Florida Agricultural and Mechanical University, U.S.A

This book, a follow-up of Nonparametric Statistics on Manifolds and Their Applications to Object Data Analysis where the reader was introduced to data analysis on manifolds, is expanding the subject of data analysis on object spaces, to the case of metric spaces that have a smooth structure on an open dense subset only, that is comprised of manifolds whose boundaries are made of lower dimensional manifolds in this filtration. Such object spaces are known as stratified spaces. Key examples of complex data from which one extracts data representable as points on a stratified space, and a review on data analysis on manifolds, are provided.

Organic-Inorganic Hybrid Nanomaterials

Energy Harvesting, Storage, and Advanced Applications

Edited by Srikanta Moharana Centurion University of Technology and Management, Bolangir, Odisha, 767001, India, Bibhuti B. Sahu , Suresh Sagadevan

Series: Emerging Materials and Technologies

This book investigates the distinctive characteristics and potential of organic-inorganic hybrid nanomaterials in energy harvesting and storage devices in light of rising demand for effective and sustainable energy technology. It covers every aspect of organic-inorganic hybrid nanomaterials, from their basic principles to their synthesis, characterization, and potential uses. This book aims to encourage scientists, engineers, and policymakers to explore the limits of innovation to bring these materials closer to usage and serves as an important reference for academics, scientists, and engineers to explore the field of energy materials.

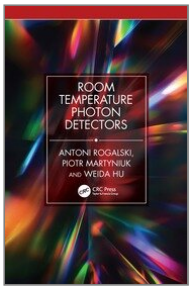
Room Temperature Photon Detectors



Antoni Rogalski , Piotr Martyniuk , Weida Hu

Room Temperature Photon Detectors provides an overview of the performance of emerging new generation of room temperature photodetectors generally called low-dimensional solid (LDS) photodetectors among which the most important are two-dimensional (2D) materials, perovskites, and quantum dots (QDs)/nanowires (NWs) operating in a wide spectral range from the ultraviolet (UV), visible (VIS), far infrared (FIR) to terahertz (THz). The LDS reported performance at room temperature is even better than that presented for standard commercial photodetectors.

Sustainability in Polymer Technology and Plastic Engineering

Concepts, Strategies, and Opportunities

Edited by Tamara Tatrishvili , Neha Kanwar Rawat , Swati Gokul Talele , A. K. Haghi

Covers the characterization of modern polymer and plastic materials with functional and sustainable applications in various sectors. In this era of rapidly advancing technology and global challenges, it has become crucial to adopt an integrated approach that bridges the gap between scientific principles and their practical applications. It provides a comprehensive overview of the engineering properties of polymer composites and plastics materials. It also brings together the most current literature and offers environmentally friendly alternatives to conventional polymeric composite materials and plastics.

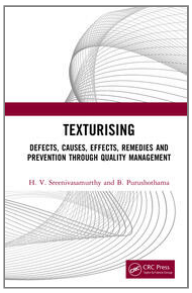
Texturising

Defects, Causes, Effects, Remedies and Prevention through Quality Management



H. V. Sreenivasamurthy , B. Purushothama

Drawing on the expertise of both academic and industry professionals, this book details all the fundamental aspects of yarn texturizing technology. From the origins of texturizing to machinery types, process control, quality testing, and management systems, the topics covered in this book serves as a guide to understanding and improving industry practices. Focusing on common challenges and solutions, this book is aimed at students studying man-made fibers and textiles, as well as shop-floor personnel navigating the day-to-day issues of texturizing units in India. The Science of Compression Bandages

Bipin Kumar , Apurba Das , R. Alagirusamy

This book introduces and assembles essential knowledge on compression bandages. It covers the various concepts of compression therapy—from basic principles to practical applications. The subject matter in this book introduces compression therapy fundamentals. It also discusses bandage structure, types, pressure dynamics, and material effects on long-term compression. Dynamic compression assessment, long-term compression performance, and prediction and modelling of the compression profile of the bandage are also detailed along with other important concepts. Transition Metal Oxides at Low Dimension

Augmented Properties and Advanced Applications

Raktima Basu Saha Institute of Nuclear Physics, India, Sandip Dhara Indira Gandhi Centre for Atomic Research, India

The book covers enhanced properties and cutting-edge applications of TMOs at low dimensions (2D, 1D, and 0D). The electronic band-gap modification and emergence of novel and fascinating properties due to reduced dimension is discussed in detail. It covers various synthesis procedures and advanced technical tools for the characterization of the TMOs at lower dimensions and enhanced properties of the TMOs at lower dimensions realizing ground-breaking applications in advanced energy storage and energy harvesting, catalysis, chemical sensing and so on. This book is aimed at researchers and graduate students in materials science.

Wave Energy Convertors in Tropical Seas

Large Floating Structures and Power Enhancement

Zhi Yung Tay

Tay provides a comprehensive description of the state of the art for recent conceptual designs on the integration of wave energy convertor (WEC) systems with floating structures in tropical seas, discusses the unique environmental challenges, and provides a guide for readers to develop WECs that are optimized for both wave patterns and the structures to which they are attached. The combination of presented case studies, discussion of the challenges of tropical seas, and design optimization parameters make this book invaluable to researchers and industry players working on the concepts of power enhancement and integrated WECs on floating structures.

Advancements in Machining Processes Through Hybrid and Sequential Approaches

Edited by Sahil Sharma IIT Roorkee, India, Tarlochan Singh Lovely Professional University, India, Akshay Dvivedi Indian Institute of Technology Roorkee, India

This book begins with an introduction to advanced machining techniques and their key areas of application. It then explores developments in the field, focusing on thermal, mechanical and electrochemical energy-based hybrid and sequential approaches. It covers triplex energy-based hybrid machining processes. It also delves into the sequential machining processes and the post-processing of materials through advanced finishing techniques. With its focus on advanced machining techniques and their applications in mechanical, biomedical, automotive, and aerospace engineering, this book is sure to pique the interest of those seeking to expand their understanding and enhance their practice.

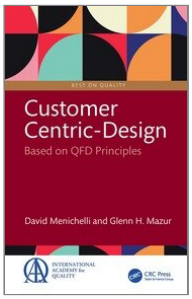
Customer Centric-Design

Based on QFD Principles



David Menichelli Program Manager, IBA Dosimetry GmbH, Germany, Glenn H. Mazur Executive Director, QFD Institute

Series: Best on Quality

This book presents a cutting-edge customer-centric design approach, equipping readers with specific tools to effectively analyze customer needs and develop top-tier designs while taking pricing and competition into account. The meticulously chosen, rigorously tested tools, are derived from Quality Function Deployment (QFD). Product managers, engineers, and technologists will find this book valuable, as it offers user-friendly methods and tools for validating marketing requirements and conducting market studies independently, as well as strategies to efficiently use these tools within tight time constraints.

Industry 5.0

Concepts and Strategies for Digital Transformation

Edited by Mahender Singh Kaswan Lovely Professional University, Rajeev Rathi , Jose Arturo Garza-Reyes Derby Business School, The University of Derby, Kedleston Road Campus, Derby UK

Series: Sustainable Manufacturing Technologies

Industry 5.0 is a new paradigm aiming to address social and environmental sustainability in future industries. This book explores various models and execution frameworks across different sectors, enabling organizations to stay competitive by integrating digital technologies with human creativity. This resource provides practitioners and industry leaders with tools to effectively address contemporary challenges associated with product life cycles and societal impacts. It also helps organizations enhance their resilience to achieve the objectives in the Paris Agreement and COP 28, and assists policymakers and government agencies.

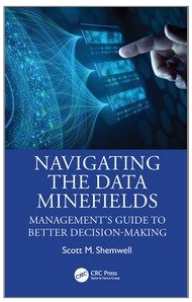
Navigating the Data Minefields

Management's Guide to Better Decision-Making



Scott M. Shemwell

Volumes have been written on the need for high-quality data to support organizational decision-making. Navigating the Data Minefields: Management's Guide to Better Decision-Making provides executives and SMEs with a 'reasonable' set of (useful) tools they can adapt to their specific organization and operating environment. Professionals that depend on large-high-quality data sets such as senior and midlevel management, engineering Subject Matter Experts (SMEs), Data Scientists, IT, Systems Engineers, and medical professionals will want to have this book in their decision-making arsenal.

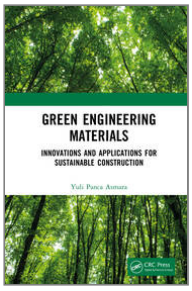
Green Engineering Materials

Innovations and Applications for Sustainable Construction



Yuli Panca Asmara

The use of green engineering materials represents a promising approach in sustainable development. This book explores various renewable materials and their properties, applications, and technological advancements driving their use in modern engineering and construction. Because this has a broad scope and provides readers with a basic level of technical knowledge, it is an ideal guide for general readers concerned with sustainability as well as anyone starting out in the field, including undergraduate students and readers in industry who want to keep abreast of current developments and trends in this field.

2ND EDITION

Modeling and Simulation of Everyday Things

Michael Roth

This Second Edition is a wonderful confluence of code development of Python and C++ applications and will cultivate broad perspective in the readership through having translations of major programs available in Python, C++ and FORTRAN. In addition to leveraging the best of the three languages, the readership can explore versatility in visualization by using native Python graphics as well as POV Raytracer and third-party animation tools. We approach modeling of a system by introducing the theoretical framework of the system, followed by its discretized form, then with narrated programs and sample results that also appear in the online repository.

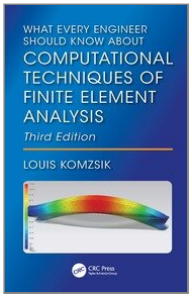
What Every Engineer Should Know About Computational Techniques of Finite Element Analysis



Louis Komzsik Siemens, Cypress, California, USA

This book is a concise, self-contained treatment of the finite element method and all the computational techniques needed for its efficient use and practical implementation. The book describes the process of transforming the physical problem into a mathematical model, the reduction of the mathematical model to numerically solvable computational form, and many practical engineering analysis solution techniques applied in various industries. This new edition presents finite element solutions to advanced industrial applications in response to readers of the earlier editions.

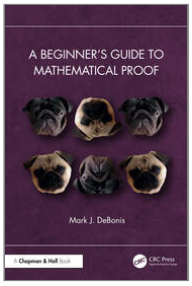
A Beginner's Guide to Mathematical Proof



Mark J. DeBonis Manhattan College, USA

A Beginner's Guide to Mathematical Proof prepares mathematics majors for the transition to abstract mathematics, as well as introducing a wider readership of quantitative science students, such as engineers, to the mathematical structures underlying more applied topics. The text is designed to be easily utilized by both instructor and student, with an accessible, step-by-step approach requiring minimal mathematical prerequisites. The book builds towards more complex ideas as it progresses, but never makes assumptions of the reader beyond the material already covered.

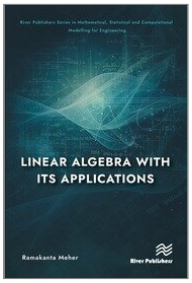
Linear Algebra with its Applications



Ramakant Meher

Series: River Publishers Series in Mathematical, Statistical and Computational Modelling for Engineering

This book contains a detailed discussion of the matrix operation, its properties, and its applications in finding the solution of linear equations and determinants. Linear algebra is a subject that has found the broadest range of applications in all branches of mathematics, physical and social sciences, and engineering. It has a more significant application in information sciences and control theory.

Elements of Algebraic Topology

James R Munkres , Steven G. Krantz , Harold Parks

Series: Textbooks in Mathematics

Elements of Algebraic Topology provides the most concrete approach to the subject. With coverage of homology and cohomology theory, universal coefficient theorems, Kunneth theorem, duality in manifolds, and applications to classical theorems of point-set topology, this book is perfect for communicating complex topics and the fun nature of algebraic topology for beginners. This edition retains the essential features of the original book. Most of the notation and terminology is the same. There are some useful additions. There is a new introduction to homotopy theory. A new Index of Notation is included. Many new exercises are added.

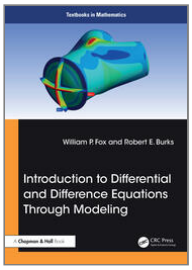
Introduction to Differential and Difference Equations Through Modeling



William P. Fox , Robert E. Burks

This book presents an opportunity to learn difference and differential equations through a modelling-first approach. The text is meant as an introduction to those equations and not as a text only for modelling courses. No previous exposure to these equations is expected. Modeling is presented as the vehicle for learning difference and differential equations. The presentation starts with a model (or several models) and presents the solution with minor discussions. Then, methods to obtain those solutions are presented and show these same models and others again in more detail.

Number Theory and Geometry through History

Jasbir S. Chahal

Series: Textbooks in Mathematics

The book develops an appreciation mathematics by not only looking at the work of individual, including Euclid, Euler, Gauss, etc. but also how mathematics developed from ancient civilizations. Brahmins (Hindu priests) devised our current decimal number system now adopted throughout the world. The concept of limit, which is what calculus is all about, was not alien to ancient civilizations as Archimedes used a method similar to the Riemann sums to compute the surface area and volume of the sphere.

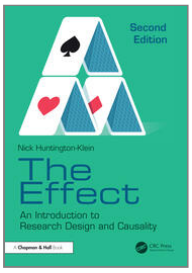
The Effect

An Introduction to Research Design and Causality



Nick Huntington-Klein

This book is about research design, specifically concerning research that uses non-experimental data to figure out whether one thing causes another. It introduces the concept of identification thoroughly and clearly and discusses it as a process of trying to isolate variation that has a causal interpretation. Concepts are demonstrated with a heavy emphasis on graphical intuition and the question of what we do to data. When we "add a control variable" what does that actually do? The second edition features a new chapter on partial identification, updated materials, methods, and writing throughout, and additional materials for help navigating the book or in using the book in teaching.

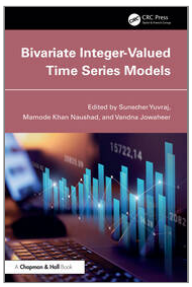
Bivariate Integer-Valued Time Series Models

Bivariate Models



Sunecher Yuvraj University of Technology Mauritius, Mamode Khan Naushad University of Mauritius, Vandna Jowaheer University of Mauritius

This book proposes some novel models based on the autoregressive and moving average structures under various distributional assumptions of the innovation series for analysing non-stationary bivariate time series of counts. Some bivariate models that allow for different levels of dispersion as well as non-stationarity are suggested, specifically, BINAR(1) and BINMA(1) models under Poisson, NB and COM-Poisson innovations are constructed and tested. This book also develops a novel estimation procedure for estimating the parameters of the proposed BINAR(1) and BINMA(1) models. A useful resource for scholars, researchers and academics in the field of time series models.

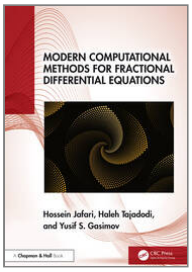
Modern Computational Methods for Fractional Differential Equations



Hossein Jafari , Haleh Tajadodi , Yusif S. Gasimov

Modern Computational Methods for Fractional Differential Equations provides a comprehensive introduction to the fundamentals of fractional calculus. Covering a range of analytical and numerical methods specifically designed for fractional calculus problems, the book explains the step-by-step implementation and computational aspects of these methods. With practical examples, case studies, and numerous interesting and novel problems, readers of this book will feel empowered to effectively apply analytical and numerical techniques to solve fractional calculus problems.

Health Metrics and the Spread of Infectious Diseases

Machine Learning Applications and Spatial Modelling Analysis with R

Federica Gazzelloni

Demonstrates how to calculate these metrics to compare the health status of different countries and explores the world of infectious diseases. It tests various machine learning tools for analyzing trends and relationships among key variables, aiming to prevent unexpected outcomes. Through detailed explanations and practical examples, readers will gain a comprehensive understanding of Disability Adjusted Life Years (DALYs) and their components.

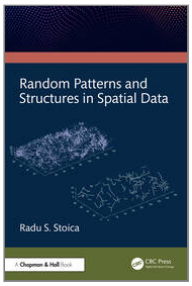
Random Patterns and Structures in Spatial Data



Radu Stoica Univ de Lorraine Nancy, France

The book presents a general mathematical framework able to detect and to characterize, from a morphological and statistical perspective, patterns hidden in spatial data. The mathematical tool employed is a Gibbs point process with interaction, which permits us to reduce the complexity of the pattern. It presents the framework, step by step, in three major parts: modeling, simulation, and inference. Each of these parts contains a theoretical development followed by applications and examples.

Ship's Ballast Water Analysis

Microfluidic Technology in Algae Analysis

Edited by Yongxin Song Dalian Maritime Univ, China, Junyan Zhang Dalian Maritime Univ, China, Mengqi Li. Dalian Maritime Uni, China, Ming Li School of Engineering, Macquarie University, Sydney, Xiangchun Xuan , Na Li Dalian Maritime Univ, China

The International Convention for the Control and Management of Ships' Ballast Water and Sediments mandates ships undertake ballast water treatment to reduce, remove or kill organisms of concern before being allowed to discharge their water. This book introduces technologies and devices that are used for the analysis of treated ballast water. Emphasis is placed on the separation, manipulation, detection, counting and sizing of microalgae in a microfluidic chip which shows great potential for developing miniatured analysis devices. This book is aimed at researchers and professionals in marine engineering, ocean technology, environmental engineering, and microfluidics.

2ND EDITION

Teaching and Learning Mathematics Online

Edited by James P. Howard, II Johns Hopkins Applied Physics Laboratory, USA, John F. Beyers University of Maryland Global Campus, USA

Teaching and Learning Mathematics Online, Second Edition continues to present meaningful and practical solutions for teaching mathematics and statistics online. It focuses on the problems observed by mathematics instructors currently working in the field who strive to hone their craft and share best practices with the community. The book provides a set of standard practices, improving the quality of online teaching and the learning of mathematics. With nine brand new chapters exploring new technological opportunities and reflecting on the lessons of COVID-19, instructors will benefit from learning new techniques and approaches to delivering content.

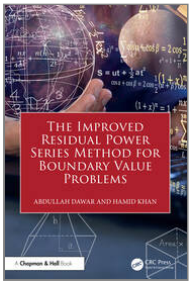
The Improved Residual Power Series Method for Boundary Value Problems



Abdullah Dawar , Hamid Khan

This book introduces a semi-analytical method, Improved Residual Power Series Method (IRPSM) for solving boundary value problems (BVPs). Unlike traditional numerical and analytical techniques, Improved Residual Power Series Method (IRPSM) offers quick convergence and minimal computational time, avoiding the pitfalls of round-off errors, linearization, perturbation, and discretization. This innovative approach has been rigorously compared with existing methods, demonstrating superior accuracy and efficiency. The book is meant for scholars, researchers, and students in mathematics, engineering, and physics.

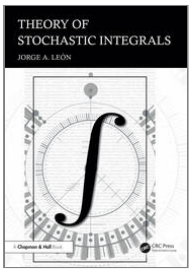
Theory of Stochastic Integrals



Jorge A. León

In applications of stochastic calculus, there are phenomena that cannot be analyzed through the classical Itô theory. It is necessary, therefore, to have a theory based on stochastic integration with respect to these situations. Theory of Stochastic Integrals aims to provide the answer to this problem by introducing readers to the study of some interpretations of stochastic integrals with respect to stochastic processes that are not necessarily semimartingales, such as Volterra Gaussian processes, or processes with bounded p-variation among which we can mention fractional Brownian motion and Riemann-Liouville fractional process.

A Cybersecurity Leader's Journey

Speaking the Language of the Board

Edward Marchewka

Series: Security, Audit and Leadership Series

Technical expertise alone is not enough for leaders to succeed. A Cybersecurity Leader's Journey: Speaking the Language of the Board follows Nick, a newly appointed CISO, as he learns to bridge the gap between complex cybersecurity concepts and the business-focused priorities of executives and boards. Guided by a mentor, Nick discovers how to address key stakeholder concerns, close information gaps, and build trust through effective, business-savvy communication. This engaging narrative, paired with actionable takeaways, equips CISOs, aspiring leaders, and technical professionals with the skills to make cybersecurity a valued component of business success.

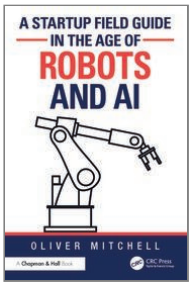
A Startup Field Guide in the Age of Robots and AI



Oliver Mitchell

This book acts as a detailed field guide for machine inventors and founders to meet customer demand and financing objectives. It acts as a pivotal point in the ideation process whilst introducing a cadre of potential mentors. Through interviews with some of the most respected luminaries in this field, Oliver Mitchell helps fortify our resolve to follow our passions and build a billion-dollar company. The chapters of this book have been organized like a field guide, as if setting out on a trip in the wild. Just like it's essential to satiate yourself before scaling mountains, fast-tracking your innovation into the hands of early adopters is vital for achieving success on Main Street.

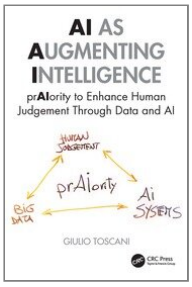
AI as Augmenting Intelligence

prAIority to Enhance Human judgement through Data and AI



Giulio Toscani

This book offers readers an accessible and insightful guide to the positive potential of AI for human augmentation. Drawing from consultations with 150 AI experts from across 50 countries, the book introduces the concept of "prAIority", which connects three essential pillars: Data, AI Systems, and Human Judgment. It examines how data fuels innovation, the intricacies of designing and refining AI systems, and the critical role of human expertise in harnessing AI's strengths. Breaking down complex ideas, it empowers readers to achieve better outcomes in diverse fields such as healthcare, design, and business. A must-read for professionals as well as curious beginners.

AI for Community

Preserving Culture and Tradition

Iran Davar Ardalan , Amir Banifatemi , Fernando Gonzalez , Myles Ingram , Reza Moradinezhad , Lucretia Williams

AI for Community examines how technology can bridge cultural divides while considering what it means to preserve culture responsibly and human flourishing. The book presents real-world examples and ethical insights that are timely, actionable, and deeply human-centered. Each chapter is also supported by online resources accessible as podcasts, videos, and articles to deepen understandings of culturally aware AI. The book highlights how community-driven language preservation, storytelling, and inclusive design can empower diverse cultures and protect their heritage, and is a vital resource for those seeking to create AI that respects and uplifts communities.

Edited by Javaid Iqbal , Alwi Bamhdi , Bilal Ahmad Pandow , Faheem Syeed Masoodi

The book offers an in-depth overview of the benefits and challenges of using blockchain in various industries, including healthcare, finance, real estate, government, and supply chain management. It also covers ethical considerations associated with blockchain and how to design and implement blockchain solutions ethically. The book also explores applying blockchain to such applications as IoT, smart grids, and cloud computing. With practical examples and case studies, the book also provides a clear and accessible introduction to the concepts supporting blockchain technology and to help readers gain a deeper understanding of blockchain technology.

Cybersecurity Culture

Gulsebnem Bishop

We can look at cybersecurity culture from different perspectives. We can look at it from the organizational point of view or from within the culture. Each organization has a culture. Attitudes toward security have different manifestations in each organizational culture. We also see how the cybersecurity phenomenon unfolds in other cultures is complicated. Each culture reacts differently to this phenomenon. This book will emphasize both aspects of cybersecurity.

This book explores ways of reducing risks of data loss by monitoring and controlling the flow of sensitive data via the network, email or web. This book also shows the guidance about data protection that data is not corrupted, is accessible for authorized purposes only, and is in compliance with applicable legal or regulatory requirements. The primary goal of data protection is not just to safeguard sensitive information but to ensure that it remains accessible and reliable, thus preserving trust and compliance in data-centric operations. While data protection law sets out what should be done to make sure everyone's data is used properly and fairly.

Scalable Artificial Intelligence for Healthcare

Advancing AI Solutions for Global Health Challenges

Edited by Houneida Sakly , Ramzi Guetari , Naoufel Kraiem

Series: Analytics and AI for Healthcare

This edited volume examines the transformative impact of AI technologies on global healthcare systems, with a focus on enhancing efficiency and accessibility. Key topics include data scalability, model deployment, and infrastructure design, highlighting the use of microservices, containerization, cloud computing, and big data technologies in building scalable AI systems. Providing a comprehensive exploration of AI applications in healthcare, this volume serves as a practical and theoretical guide for healthcare professionals, AI researchers, and technology enthusiasts seeking to develop or expand on AI-driven healthcare solutions to address global health challenges effectively.

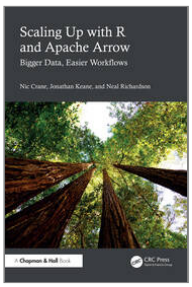
Scaling Up with R and Apache Arrow

Bigger Data, Easier Workflows



Nic Crane , Jonathan Keane , Neal Richardson

Scaling Up With R and Arrow provides a guide to working efficiently with larger-than-memory datasets using the arrow R package. As data grows in size and complexity, traditional data analysis methods in R often hit technical limitations. In this book, you'll learn how to overcome these hurdles without needing to set up complex infrastructure. This book also explores practical topics like data manipulation, file formats, working with larger datasets, and optimizing workflows for data in cloud storage. Written by developers of the Arrow R package, this guide is essential for anyone looking to scale their data processing capabilities in R.

Security Relationship Management

Leveraging Marketing Concepts to Advance a Cybersecurity Program

Lee Parrish Lee Parrish Ventures, USA

Series: Security, Audit and Leadership Series

Aligning information security with business goals is key to managing risks effectively without harming the company. But how can a Chief Information Security Officer (CISO) achieve this? This book explores how CISOs can tailor their messaging using proven marketing concepts—like segmentation, the Four P's, and customer relationship management—adapted for cybersecurity. It introduces Security Relationship Management (SRM), a framework for managing the complex web of relationships a CISO navigates. By tracking interactions and analysing SRM data, CISOs can improve alignment between security and business initiatives.

Sentiment Analysis Unveiled

Techniques, Applications, and Innovations

Edited by Neha Nandal Gokaraju Rangaraju Institute of Engineering and Technology, India, Rohit Tanwar , Varun Sapra University of Petroleum and Energy Studies

Series: Edge AI in Future Computing

This book is a comprehensive exploration into the realm of sentiment analysis. Sentiment Analysis Unveiled: Techniques, Applications, and Innovations is about unraveling the emotions, opinions, and perceptions encapsulated within the vast sea of textual data. It explores topics from opinion mining, social media analysis, deep learning, security concerns, healthcare systems, and it also delves into the ethical and legal implications of sentiment analysis. It is intended for professionals, researchers, and scientists in the field of Artificial Intelligence, and sentiments analysis, it will serve as a valuable resource for both beginners and experienced professionals in the field.

Social Cyber Engineering and Advanced Security Algorithms

Soorena Merat , Wahab Almuhtadi

This book delves into the dynamic interplay between algorithm design, quantum computing, human behavior, and the evolving landscape of cybersecurity regulation. It highlights the evolution in cybersecurity driven by breakthroughs in algorithmic development, it emphasizes the role of quantum computing in revolutionizing factorization approaches. This book will be of interest to computer scientists, engineers, and professionals working on algorithm design that are interested in understanding the intricate connection between mental health studies and the future of algorithms and the implications for cybersecurity laws.

Using Blockchain Technology in Healthcare Settings

Empowering Patients with Trustworthy Data

Edited by Ben Othman Soufiene University of Gabes, Tunisia, Saurav Mallik University of Arizona, US, Abdulatif Alabdulatif Qassim University, Saudi Arabia

Series: Analytics and AI for Healthcare

This book looks at the integration of blockchain technology in healthcare settings, focusing on its potential to address security and privacy concerns of medical applications. The authors explore the fundamental principles of blockchain technology and its applications within the healthcare landscape. From electronic health records and patient consent management to pharmaceutical supply chains and clinical research, this book examines how blockchain can drive efficiency, enhance security, and ultimately improve patient outcomes. A useful guide for healthcare professionals, patients, policymakers, and those interested in the intersection of technology and healthcare.

2ND EDITION

A Concise Introduction to Machine Learning

A.C. Faul University of Cambridge, UK

Series: Chapman & Hall/CRC Machine Learning & Pattern Recognition

A Concise Introduction to Machine Learning uses mathematics as the common language to explain a variety of machine learning concepts from basic principles and illustrates every concept using examples in both Python and Matlab® which are available on GitHub and can be run from there in Binder in a web browser. Each chapter concludes with exercises to explore the content. The emphasis of the book is on the question of Why - only if why an algorithm is successful is understood, can it be properly applied, and the results trusted. Standard techniques are treated rigorously, including an introduction to the necessary probability theory.

The Military Metaverse

Andy Fawkes , David Burden

This book explores the impact that the Metaverse is having today on how militaries procure, maintain, train, plan and fight, and how the Metaverse presents new challenges and opportunities for future conflict. The book provides a history of the use of metaverse technologies in the military, particularly in the areas of design, maintenance, training, planning and operations. It also considers what war in the Metaverse might look like, both in terms of in-world activities and the impact of cyber-war on the Metaverse itself. It should be of interest to militaries across the world, the industries that support them, and those in the wider public with an interest in the military.

Autodesk AutoCAD Certified User Study Guide

AutoCAD 2025 Edition

Daniel John Stine , William G. Wyatt

The Autodesk AutoCAD Certified User Study Guide is designed for the AutoCAD user who is already familiar with AutoCAD. It provides a series of hands on exercises and tutorials in the use of AutoCAD to help you prepare for the Autodesk AutoCAD Certified User Exam. The text covers all the exam objectives for the AutoCAD Certified User Exam. Each topic is covered in detail, and then is followed up with tutorials and quizzes to reinforce the material covered. The emphasis of the tutorials is to focus on the use of the ribbon and contextual menus rather than keyboard entry in the command line.

6TH EDITION

Computer Organization, Design and Architecture

Sajjan G. Shiva University of Memphis, Tennessee, USA

This unique and classroom-proven text provides a hands-on introduction to the design of computer systems. It depicts, step by step, the design and programming of a simple but complete hypothetical computer, followed by detailed architectural features of existing computer systems as enhancements to the structure of the simple computer. This treatment integrates the four categories of digital systems architecture: logic design, computer organization, computer hardware, and computer system architecture. The book covers the topics suggested by the recent IEEE/ACM curriculum for 'computer architecture and organization.

Introduction to Statistical Computing and Visualization Using R

Megha Rathi JIIT, Noida

The book provides a foundational guide to statistical computing and visualisation Using R programming with an emphasis on practical data analysis skills that are directly applicable to diverse fields like finance, defence, health, and education. It uniquely combines a thorough explanation of basic constructs with advanced topics such as data visualisation, statistical modeling, and probability, making it accessible yet comprehensive for learners across disciplines. This approach allows readers not only to build essential R skills but also to apply them to real-world scenarios, equipping students and professionals from various disciplines with versatile analytical tools.

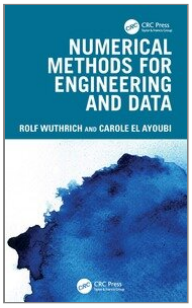
Numerical Methods for Engineering and Data Science



Rolf Wuthrich , Carole El Ayoubi

The textbook presents key principles building upon the fundamentals of engineering mathematics. It explores classical techniques for solving linear and nonlinear equations, computing definite integrals and differential equations. Emphasis is both on the theoretical underpinnings and in the practical implementation of these using Octave. Each chapter is supplemented with examples and exercises. The second half discusses machine learning. The authors introduce basic concepts and algorithms such as linear regression and classification. A special focus is on the understanding of errors and practical implementation of the algorithm, in particular the concepts of bias, variance and noise.

Operating System Design

The Xinu Approach

Douglas Comer

The third edition of Operating System Design expands and extends the text to include new chapters on a pipe mechanism, multicore operating systems, and considerations of operating systems being used in unexpected ways. The text covers all major operating system components, including the key topics of scheduling and context switching, physical and virtual memory management, file systems, device drivers, device-independent I/O, Internet communication, and user interfaces. By the end, readers will appreciate how all the components of an operating system work together to form a unified, integrated platform that allows arbitrary application programs to run concurrently.

AIoT

Artificial Intelligence of Things

Edited by Arun Sekar Rajasekaran , Fadi Al-Turjman Near East University, Turkey, Suganyadevi S

Series: Innovations in Intelligent Internet of Everything (IoE)

The book provides a comprehensive exploration of the intersection between AI and the Internet of Things (IoT) and offers an in-depth understanding of this rapidly evolving field. The book provides an insight on the integration of AI capabilities into everyday objects and devices, that are then enabled to become more intelligent, autonomous, and responsive. With a wide-ranging scope, the book covers various aspects of AIoT from fundamental concepts to advanced applications. It begins with an introduction to AI, IoT, and their synergistic relationship, explaining how AI technologies enhance the capabilities of IoT devices.

Artificial Intelligence and Machine Learning for Business

Edited by Namita Mishra , A. V. Senthil Kumar

Series: AAP Advances in Artificial Intelligence and Robotics

Demonstrates how artificial intelligence and machine learning can be used in every aspect of business and as a foundation for complex decision-making. It overviews artificial intelligence (AI) techniques that are used in business. Covering such topics as use of AI in employee training, in stock market prediction, in traffic detection, in opinion mining, in fraud detection, for retail purchase predictions, in online customer support interactions, and more. The use of AI is explored in fields such as garbage systems, agriculture, precious metals, banking, HR hiring, and so on. It provides an overview of frequently used methods, procedures, and models to control business activity.

Blockchain-Based Digital Twins

Research Trends and Challenges

Edited by A. Prasanth , Vandana Sharma , Rajesh Kumar Dhanaraj , Pethuru Raj

Blockchain-based digital twins are poised to influence and be influenced by artificial intelligence, machine learning, and the Internet of Things in integrating and implementing smart contracts across industries. This is detailed in this book, as it introduces and analyzes the challenges and opportunities, details modeling and simulation, and explores the various applications of blockchain-based digital twins. It discusses the security benefits of blockchain and analyses its use for the future of the Internet. The use of a blockchain-based digital twin model in various industries is also explored, including in the healthcare industry, agriculture industry, and mechanics.

Challenges in Information, Communication and Computing Technology

Proceedings of the 2nd International Conference on Challenges in Information, Communication, and Computing Technology (ICCICCT 2024), April 26th & 27th, 2024, Namakkal, Tamil Nadu, India

Edited by V. Sharmila K.S.R. College of Engineering, India, S. Kannadhasan Study World College of Engineering, India, A. Rajiv Kannan K.S.R. College of Engineering, India , P. Sivakumar K.S.R. College of Engineering, India, V. Vennila K.S.R. College of Engineering, India

This book explores the critical challenges and emerging trends in Information, Communication, and Computing Technology (ICCT). It provides a comprehensive overview of the key issues facing these rapidly evolving fields, from data security and privacy to advancements in artificial intelligence, communication networks, and quantum computing. Through in-depth analysis and expert perspectives, this volume aims to shed light on the complexities of ICCT and offer innovative solutions for researchers, practitioners, and students.

Cloud Computing for Smart Education and Collaborative Learning

Edited by Urmila Shrawankar RTM Univ., Prerna Mishra

The book presents next-generation education technology and the pedagogy of the Education Cloud. It covers technological developments, case studies, innovative research approaches and solutions for advanced learning paradigms using IoT, cloud computing, and machine learning to handle various challenges of the smart education system. It discussed cloud architecture, management, and framework for education from virtual classrooms and labs. It shows how cloud computing framework can be integrated with fog computing, edge computing, deep learning and IOT.

Computational Intelligence for Analysis of Trends in Industry 4.0 and 5.0

Edited by Joseph Bamidele Awotunde , Kamalakanta Muduli Papua New Guinea University of Technology, Biswajit Brahma

Series: Advances in Computational Collective Intelligence

The book offers a comprehensive exploration of cutting-edge computational intelligence techniques tailored for the industrial revolution background. The book explores trends at the intersection of cutting-edge technologies and industrial trends. Researching Artificial Intelligence, machine learning, and data analytics, the book showcases innovative applications driving the evolution from Industry 4.0 to 5.0. With insights for researchers and practitioners, it illuminates the transformative potential of computational intelligence in shaping the future of manufacturing and services.

Cybersecurity in Knowledge Management

Cyberthreats and Solutions

Edited by Narasimha Rao Vajjhala University of New York Tirana, Albania, Kenneth David Strang

The book explores the intersection of knowledge management and cybersecurity, offering an in-depth examination of the strategies, technologies, and frameworks necessary to safeguard organizational knowledge systems. As cyber threats grow more sophisticated, particularly within sectors such as digital marketing, supply chains, and higher education, this book examines methods for enhancing cybersecurity while maintaining the agility needed to foster innovation. By incorporating perspectives from AI, machine learning, and human factors, this work provides a holistic approach to securing knowledge in today's interconnected landscape.

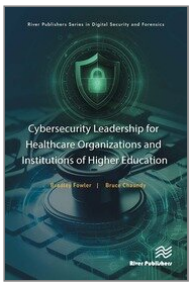
Cybersecurity Leadership for Healthcare Organizations and Institutions of Higher Education



Bradley Fowler , Bruce G. Chaundy

Series: River Publishers Series in Digital Security and Forensics

This book explores current cybersecurity trends and effective software applications, AI, and decision-making processes to combat cyberattacks. It emphasizes the importance of compliance, provides downloadable digital forensics software, and examines the psychology of organizational practice for effective cybersecurity leadership. This practical book supports the reader with downloadable digital forensics software, teaches how to utilize this software, as well as correctly securing this software as a key method to improve usage and deployment of these software applications for effective cybersecurity leadership.

Data Analytics in Finance

Huijian Dong

Series: Data Analytics Applications

The book delivers the methods and application of data analytics in all major areas of finance, including buy-side investments, sell-side investment banking, corporate finance, consumer finance, financial services, real estate, insurance, and commercial banking. It introduces statistical inference of big data, financial modeling, machine learning, database querying, data engineering, data visualization, and risk analysis. It serves as a roadmap for researchers, practitioners, and students to learn the trending data analytics instruments in finance. This book also presents a collection of selective resources for the readers' reference.

Deep Learning and Blockchain Technology for Smart and Sustainable Cities

Edited by Subramaniyaswamy V , G Revathy , Logesh Ravi , N. Thillaiarasu REVA University, Bengaluru, Naresh Kshetri

Series: Advances in Computational Collective Intelligence

In this age of digitization, a "smart city" has the potential to evolve into an intelligent society through the application of recent technological advancements. This book examines the paradigm shift towards a new digital smart city ecosystem brought about by the rapid adoption of deep learning, which has been combined with blockchain technology. Deep learning and blockchain applications cover a wide range of domains, ranging from risk management and financial services to cryptocurrency and public and social services, which this book explores.

Digital Twins for Smart Cities and Urban Planning

From Virtual to Reality

Edited by Mohammad Saif Wajid, Hugo Terashima-Marín , Aasim Zafar , Mohd Anas Wajid , Bharat Bhushan Sharda University, India

This book discusses the concept of the digital twin, which has the potential to change how systems are managed and created. It also discusses the metaverse as a new technology with literary roots, cross-platform avatars, and artificial intelligence-related cybersecurity risks. The book is an excellent resource for practitioners and scholars in manufacturing, operations research, and communications who are thinking about digitising their assets and related services. It is also a helpful resource for graduate students and academics looking to better understand pioneering Digital Twins technologies.

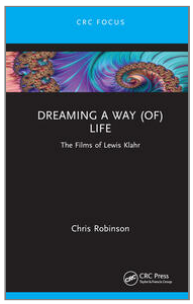
Dreaming a way (of) Life

The Films of Lewis Klahr



Chris Robinson

Series: Focus Animation

Since his debut in the 1980s, Lewis Klahr has built a mesmerizing and influential body of work, establishing himself as one of the foremost collage animators—or, as he prefers, a "re-animator." Through insightful analysis, Robinson unveils the depth and complexity of Klahr's artistic vision, guiding readers into the magic and mystery of his cinematic universe. Key Features: First in-depth study of the work of Lewis Klahr Mixed biography with philosophical influenced approach to the themes of his work Introduction of important experimental and independent animation figure that shows readers animation beyond typical industry fare.

Mastering Grid Computing

Scheduling and Resource Management

Edited by Ankita , Sudip Kumar Sahana

Highlights the salient features of grid computing, introduces grid and its architecture, and also discusses advances to the complex hybridized model of grid computing, grid scheduling, and grid resource management. It addresses problems causing grid bottlenecks, the formulation of solution strategies, implementation of grid scheduling, along with case studies of grid computing. It introduces several scheduling algorithms, such as FCFS, SJF, a few hybrid algorithms etc. It evaluates the efficiency of these algorithms while also discussing notable grid simulators. It presents information on nearly all the major grid applications in different domains and their prospects.

Parallel and High-Performance Computing in Artificial Intelligence

Edited by Mukesh Raghuwanshi , Pradnya Borkar Symbiosis International University Symbiosis Institute of Technology, Pune, Rutvij H. Jhaveri , Roshani Raut Pimpri Chinchwad College of Engineering, Pune, India

The book explores high-performance architectures for data-intensive applications, as well as efficient analytical strategies, to speed up data processing in applications in automation, machine learning, deep learning, bioinformatics, natural language processing, and vision intelligence. The book first covers high-performance architectures, multicore architectures, parallel computing techniques in high-performance computing with various APIs. It then examines dependence analysis that should be taken care of during parallel computing. It also presents GPU acceleration techniques used in Big Data applications as well as hardware acceleration.

Quantum Computing

The Future of Information Processing

Edited by Shrikant Tiwari , Amit Kumar Tyagi VIT, India, S.V. Nagaraj

Quantum computing is at the forefront of technological innovation. This book explains its principles, practical applications, and future implications in a clear and accessible manner. It takes readers on a journey from the fundamental principles of quantum mechanics to the practical applications reshaping such technologies as blockchain, cybersecurity, machine learning, and fintech. It features real-world case studies that provide a view of the technology's impact today. The book presents a clear roadmap for practical implementation, guiding readers through the complex process of integrating quantum computing into real-world applications.

Reimagining Literacy in the Age of AI

Theory and Practice

Edited by Jason D. DeHart , Suriati Abas , Raúl Alberto Mora , Damiana Gibbons Pyles

Series: CRC Press Reference Books in Computer Science

This edited volume assesses the critical intersection of AI and literacy education. Drawing on the concept of "living literacies," it explores the transformative potential of AI in literacy practices, offering a comprehensive narrative that bridges theoretical frameworks with practical applications. Scholars from different parts of the world examine how AI is not just changing what we read and write, but how we think, create, and express ourselves in a post-human context. This timely work serves as an essential guide for educators, researchers, and learners navigating the evolving terrain of literacy in a world increasingly augmented by AI.

Security Issues in Communication Devices, Networks and Computing Models

Volume 2

Edited by Budati Anil Kumar , Akella Ramakrishna , Goutham Makkena , Gheorghita Ghinea Brunel Uni.

The importance of addressing security issues in communication devices, networks, and computing models in Industry 5.0 cannot be overstated. Industry 5.0 represents the next phase in the evolution of manufacturing and industrial processes, characterized by increased connectivity, automation, and the integration of smart technologies. In summary, addressing security issues in communication devices, networks, and computing models is fundamental to the successful implementation of Industry 5.0. It not only protects the assets and operations of organizations but also contributes to the overall safety, reliability, and sustainability of advanced industrial systems.

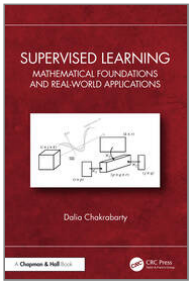
Supervised Learning

Mathematical Foundations and Real-world Applications



Dalia Chakrabarty Department of Mathematics, Brunel University London

This book discusses the relevance of probabilistic supervised learning, to the pursuit of automated and reliable prediction of an unknown that is in a state of relationship with another variable. It provides methods for secured mechanistic learning of the function that represents this relationship between the output and input variables, where said learning is undertaken within the remit of real-world information that can be messy in different ways. To help with the background, the book includes reviews on stochastic processes and basic probability theory. This makes it valuable for students across disciplines, including students of computational sciences, statistics, and mathematics.

Transfer and Stockpiling Operations in the Crude Oil Refining Industry

Marcio Wagner da Silva

This book provides an overview of the stockpiling and storage operations in a crude oil refinery and how these operations relate to the processing areas within refineries. It explores and offers solutions to challenges related to the management of stockpiling operations, calling attention to an operation that is essential to the success of a refining business. Filled with insights by an author sharing experience as a transfer and stockpiling manager at a major crude oil refinery, this book is an essential reference for oil and gas managers, technicians, and engineers seeking to better manage product flows for safety, environmental compliance, and economic performance.

Edited by Ashwani Kumar Tiwari School of Environmental Sciences, JNU, T.N. Singh IIT Patna, Bihar, Abhay Kumar Singh Central Institute of Mining and Fuel Research, Jharkhand

This book explains soil-water interaction, acid mine drainage (AMD) problems and contamination levels in water and soil resources. Main topics include soil-water interaction, mining impact on water and soil geochemistry, mining impact on water and soil quality, AMD, OB martials impact, groundwater level depletion, contamination evaluation, health risk assessment, water treatment, soil remediation, remote sensing, and GIS, contaminant transport modelling and water/soil resources management. This book is aimed at researchers and graduate students in soil resources management, mining, and environment science.

Applications of Big Data and Machine Learning in Galaxy Formation and Evolution

Tsutomu T. Takeuchi

Series: Series in Astronomy and Astrophysics

As investigations into our Universe become more complex, in-depth, and widespread, galaxy surveys are requiring state-of-the-art data scientific methods to analyze them. This book provides a practical introduction to big data in galaxy formation and evolution, introducing the astrophysical basics, before delving into the latest techniques being introduced to astronomy and astrophysics from data science.

2ND EDITION

Applied Mechanics of Solids

Allan F. Bower Brown University, Providence, Rhode Island, USA

The second edition of Applied Mechanics of Solids provides a concise description of all the concepts needed to predict how solid materials deform and fail under stress. With its companion volume of solved example problems, it is an invaluable class textbook or reference for personal study or review. With the aid of computer simulations, design engineers can predict failure in structural, mechanical, and bio-mechanical components with a few keystrokes. But simulations are built on sophisticated mathematics, physics, and numerical methods, and always involve some judicious approximations. This book contains all the theory needed to make the best use of their simulations.

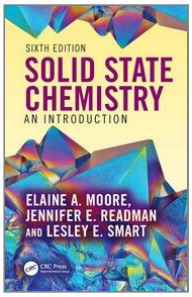
Solid State Chemistry

An Introduction



Elaine A. Moore The Open University, Milton Keynes, UK, Jennifer Readman University of Central Lancashire

Solid-state chemistry is still a rapidly advancing field, contributing to areas such as batteries for transport and energy storage, nanostructured materials, porous materials for the capture of carbon dioxide and other pollutants. This edition aims, as previously, not only to teach the basic science that underpins the subject, but also to direct the reader to the most modern techniques and to expanding and new areas of research. The user-friendly style takes a largely non-mathematical approach and gives practical examples of applications of solid state materials and concepts.

Statistical Mechanics of Liquids and Solutions

Intermolecular Forces, Structure and Surface Interactions

Roland Kjellander University of Gothenburg, Sweden

The statistical mechanical theory of liquids and solutions is a fundamental area of physical sciences with important implications in other fields of science and for many industrial applications. Statistical Mechanics of Liquids and Solutions: Intermolecular Forces, Structure and Surface Interactions consists of two volumes on this subject. The first volume introduces equilibrium statistical mechanics in general and statistical mechanics of liquids and solutions at an introductory level and the second volume presents an advanced treatment of the latter subject and penetrates much deeper into liquid state theory.

Advanced Materials for Next-Generation Technologies

Challenges and New Prospects

Edited by Shrikaant Kulkarni , Vipul Srivastava , Rabah Khenata , Yarub Al-Douri

Presents insight into the advances in materials with special reference to their structure, physical behaviors, and applications. It sheds light on the organizational and orientational order of the atoms responsible for characteristics and distinct architectures in these materials. It discusses how the materials can be maneuvered for attaining structural optimality. It explores novel materials for new technologies that make use of their properties, such as electronic band structure, band gap, half-metallicity, multiferoic behavior, piezoelectricity, thermoelectricity, optoelectronic behavior, and more.

Anisotropy of Metamaterials

Beyond Conventional Paradigms

Vladimir Mityushev , Tatjana Gric , Radoslaw Kycia , Natalia Rylko

Series: Series in Optics and Optoelectronics

Anisotropy of Metamaterials: Beyond Conventional Paradigms provides a comprehensive introduction to the mathematical modelling of metamaterials based on the macroscopic complex-valued permittivity tensor of dispersed random composites. Key topics include physical and mathematical theory, computer simulations, constructive homogenization, classification of dispersed random composites, and their applications in cancer recognition. Image processing and machine learning algorithms are used. The book also discusses the precision of various effective medium approximations, including Bruggeman and Maxwell-Garnett formulas.

Bioabsorbable Polymers for Drug Carriers and Fixation Devices

Edited by Arbind Prasad , Sougata Jana

Deals with the latest bio-based composites, processing, and characterization for drug delivery and fixation devices. It introduces various bioresorbable polymers along with their processing and characterization. It also looks at scaffolds that are multifunctional and can be used for bone support, drug delivery, and for anti-inflammatory, anti-microbial purposes. Various materials like nanomaterials, chitosan and its derivatives, biopolymers, and ceramic-based composites along with their applications are covered. It looks at the degradation of biomaterials and propose mitigation solutions.

Classical Electrodynamics

A Concise and Detailed Guide

Meng Lee Leek

Classical Electrodynamics: A Concise and Detailed Guide covers the essential theoretical foundations of electrodynamics from the vector calculus formulation to the classical gauge field theory. The essential theoretical formalism of electrodynamics is covered with all mathematical derivations provided. The derivations are uniquely presented with inline, line-by-line explanations which makes every derivation easy to follow. The reader can focus on pondering over the physical content and implications of the derived results. The content is supplemented with numerous exercises with their complete solutions included.

Contemporary Advancements in Materials Technology

Novel Solutions to Complex Problems

Edited by Shrikaant Kulkarni , Vipul Srivastava , P. William

Provides novel solutions to the problems in the field of materials technology, helping to pave the way in designing new materials for the future. The authors provide a comprehensive and theoretical understanding as well as experimental findings integrated with theory for furthering research in materials science and engineering. The book looks at advances and trends, tools and technologies, and characterization of smart materials and novel materials, highlighting the correlation between structure-property-utility in the materials. It also deliberates how materials can be fabricated for acquiring optimal performance in tandem with applications.

Introductory Solid State Physics

An Emphasis on Magnetism

David Johnston

Introductory Solid State Physics: An Emphasis on Magnetism acts as a supplement to students tackling solid state physics at both the undergraduate and graduate level. The BCS theory of superconductivity is not included in undergraduate-level books, because the theory is derived at the graduate level. However, this book uses the equations derived by BCS to calculate the thermodynamic properties of superconductors such as the temperature dependence of the heat capacity using techniques accessible to undergraduates.

Nuclear Reactor Physics and Operation

Neutronic Analysis For Nuclear Reactor Design

Bahman Zohuri , Seyed Kamal Mousavi Balgehshiri , Guglielmo Lomonaco

This book serves as a thorough reference for students, researchers, and professionals in nuclear engineering and reactor physics, offering a detailed exploration of the core principles behind nuclear reactor theory, neutron transport, neutronic analysis, and reactor core design and calculations. Each chapter includes at least one example to illustrate the topics covered, and the latter half focuses on key areas relevant to operating reactors—reactor kinetics/dynamics and in-core fuel management.

Plant Electrochemistry

Physiology and Applications

Antonio Doménech-Carbó Department of Analytical Chemistry, University of Valenica,Spain.

The book comprehensively views the intersection between electrochemistry and botany. It attempts to inform people about the capacity of electrochemistry to provide information of interest to plant science. This includes electrophysiology, plant communication, and plant defense responses, as well as chemoecological and phylogenetic aspects. Conversely, the book also treats the capabilities of vegetal systems and vegetal-derived materials to be used in electrochemical applications for sensing, energy production and storage, and environmental issues.

Self-Healing Structures, Machines and Systems

Dryver R. Huston

This book describes the behavior, underlying principles and design of self-healing materials, structures, machines, and systems. Self-healing is a ubiquitous phenomenon that appears in many systems ranging from the molecular scale up through to large macroscale systems and in domains ranging from materials such as self-healing polymers, to self-sealing tires, water distribution networks, and information systems including control systems for damaged aircraft. Self-healing extends performance and endurance in ways that are just not possible otherwise.

Advanced Treatment Technologies for the Removal of Microplastics in Wastewater

Edited by Izharul Haq , Maulin P. Shah Enviro Technology Limited, India

Advanced Treatment Technologies for the Removal of Microplastics in Wastewater presents the pervasive issue of microplastic pollution in wastewater, examining its origins in everyday activities and industrial processes and its spread through aquatic ecosystems. This book provides a deep dive into advanced treatment technologies include physico-chemical and biological methods, highlighting both the progress and challenges in effectively removing microplastics from wastewater. It also addresses the potential health risks posed by microplastic exposure, discussing how these particles act as carriers for toxic substances and their suspected links to health issues in humans and wildlife.

Computer-Aided Modelling of Stormwater Systems

Advanced Tools Supporting Sustainable Development of Urbanised Catchments

Bartosz Szeląg , Adam Kiczko , Grzegorz Łagód , Marek Sokáč , Yvetta Velísková , Cecilia Bruni , Francesco Fatone

Computer-Aided Modelling of Stormwater Systems deals with the construction of probabilistic models of rainfall and their use in the sizing of retention tanks. The book discusses methods of sensitivity and uncertainty analysis of hydrodynamic models of urban catchments, as well as proprietary calculation algorithms for the sizing of retention tanks. It is aimed at doctoral students, research workers and engineers as an introduction to modern methods of modeling stormwater and combined sewer networks together with the objects located on it, such as retention tanks.

Green Technologies for Wastewater Treatment and Bioenergy Production

Edited by Imran Ahmad Aligarh Muslim University, India

Currently, most of the physical and chemical technologies generally employed for the treatment of wastewater are costly and inefficient. Researchers have been working to find green technologies for the sustainable and economically viable treatment methods for wastewater, and Green Technologies for Wastewater Treatment and Bioenergy Production focuses on these latest advancements. These include bioremediation, bioaugmentation, wetlands, and algal treatment technologies, which are considered to contribute toward a circular bioeconomy and to be crucial in attaining various sustainable development goals.

Digital Humanities in Medieval and Early Modern Spanish Texts

Current Perspectives and Approaches

Edited by Roberto J. González Zalacain University of La Laguna, Spain, Gael Vaamonde University of de Granada, Spain

Series: Digital Research in the Arts and Humanities

This volume fills a gap in the literature on Digital Humanities in the Hispanic context by gathering a heterogeneous group of specialists who, from different standpoints in the Humanities, explore Spanish texts as the object of study, Digital Humanities as the work methodology, and Medieval and Early Modern Times as the historical framework. This volume will be of great interest to medievalists and early modern researchers, whether involved in linguistic, historical, or literary studies, demonstrating the advantages of considering digital tools and computational methods in their academic work.

Selection and Control

Teachers' Ratings of Children in the Infant School

Walter Brandis , Basil Bernstein

Series: Primary Socialization, Language and Education

First published in 1974, this title consists of an analysis of teachers' ratings of children in a middle-class and in a working-class area at the end of their first year and the end of second year of life in the infant school. Presented in two parts, Part One is highly technical as it sets out in some detail the logic of the statistical description. Part Two gives one interpretation of the findings as these might throw light upon differences in the patterns of the teachers' judgments in the middle-class and working-class area.

Series: Primary Socialization, Language and Education

Originally published in 1970, Social Class, Language and Communication explores the different effects of parental social class, the ability and sex of the child and a measure of the mother's reported communication to her child, upon aspects of five-year-old children's speech. The study shows the relationship between a measure of linguistic flexibility in children and their family's social class position and includes the construction and application of an index of maternal communication and control. Today it can be read in its historical context.

J. T. Hankinson on Sport

6 Volumes

J. T. Hankinson

Series: J. T. Hankinson on Sport

This 6-volume set, first published between 1946 and 1951, was groundbreaking at the time for its use of action photographs to illustrate sporting techniques. J. T. Hankinson was Sports Master at a boys' school and the pupils were pictured in the photographs to accompany his coaching methods. The first four books on team sports were primarily aimed at schools but contained enough instructional detail they would also have appealed to more mature players wanting to improve their game. The following two covering individual sports also had wide appeal. Today they can be viewed as a historical record of coaching style and school sport in the mid-twentieth century.

Soccer for Schools

J. T. Hankinson , A. H. Chadder

Series: J. T. Hankinson on Sport

Originally published in 1948, the book opens with descriptions of the basic arts of soccer: gathering the ball, kicking, heading, etc., required of all players, after which the play and tactics of each position on the field are analysed. A specially interesting chapter is that on team tactics and positional play, and is illustrated by some excellent photographs of a tactical table, in which the dispositions of the players in various situations are diagrammatically set out. While primarily for schools, the instructional detail and the attractiveness of the photographs would also have appealed to more mature players.

Lawn Tennis

J. T. Hankinson

Series: J. T. Hankinson on Sport

Originally published in 1951, in Lawn Tennis the intention was to teach the game from the very beginnings, and to this end the written description was reduced to a minimum, and, so far as possible, the teaching was built up round the photographs. The author introduced four most life-like puppets, which he named the Lawn Tennis Quads, and they most effectively demonstrate the principles of the basic strokes. They are supported by action shots of young players. The author also constructed a model lawn tennis court, and to illustrate the more simple tactical situations of the game the puppets were invited to play singles and doubles on this court.

Hockey for Schools

J. T. Hankinson

Series: J. T. Hankinson on Sport

Originally published in 1947, this book deals with hockey coaching and practice in schools. The book opens with descriptions of the basic arts: hitting, gathering, dribbling, tackling etc., required of all players, after which the play and tactics of each position on the field are analysed. Other chapters deal with captaincy, coaching, school organization, how to watch a match, and some explanatory comments on the rules of the game. The book is illustrated by many magnificent action photographs. While this book was primarily for schools, the instructional detail and the attractiveness of the photographs would also have appealed to more mature hockey players.

Squash Rackets

J. T. Hankinson

Series: J. T. Hankinson on Sport

Originally published in 1949, in Squash Rackets, Mr Hankinson produced something that was outstanding. The written description was reduced to a minimum, and the teaching was built up round the photographs – and these were remarkable for the time. For the first time action photographs illustrated all the strokes in squash rackets. Not content with that, the author and his photographer, used their ingenuity in providing excellent photographs to illustrate the tactical side of the game. A model court was constructed, and, as players, two realistic puppets were used. The result was a series of photographs which not only explain the tactics, but also looked most convincing.

Rugby Football for Schools

J. T. Hankinson

Series: J. T. Hankinson on Sport

Originally published in 1946, this book deals with rugby football coaching and practice in schools. It is written by a schoolmaster, it was produced in a school, and a unique feature is that the action photographs are of boys who were at that time in the school teams. In this book his methods are analysed in a style likely to appeal to readers of all ages. The book is illustrated by more than eighty magnificent action photographs. While this book was primarily for schools, the instructional detail and the attractiveness of the photographs would also have appealed to more mature rugby players and the book was strongly recommended to all those who are interested in the game.

Cricket for Schools

J. T. Hankinson

Series: J. T. Hankinson on Sport

Originally published in 1946, this was primarily a cricket book for schools and contained much that was new at the time. It was written by a schoolmaster, produced in a school, and a unique feature was that the action photographs are of boys who were at that time in the school team. In this book his methods are analysed in a style likely to commend itself to readers of all ages. There are 97 action photographs to illustrate the author's teaching. While this book was primarily for schools, the instructional detail and the attractiveness of the photographs would also have appealed to more mature cricketers and the book was strongly recommended to all who are interested in the game.

Primary Socialization, Language and Education

Various

Series: Primary Socialization, Language and Education

This 7-volume set, first published between 1970 and 1977, forms part of the original 13-volume Primary Socialization, Language and Education series. The research was concerned with the inter-relationship between culture, social organization and orientations towards certain uses of language. It studied in particular social class differences in the way mothers prepared children for the experience of the infant school, maternal communication and control over young children, and the speech of children aged five to seven years. The research programme also included the development and evaluation of an exploratory language programme for working-class infant schoolchildren.

Talk Reform

Explorations in Language for Infant School Children

D. M. Gahagan , G. A. Gahagan

Series: Primary Socialization, Language and Education

First published in 1970, this title describes the development of an exploratory language enrichment programme devised by the authors and carried out by teachers in a group of primary schools in a working-class area of London. Inspired by Bernstein's theory of different language codes and their relation to educational underachievement, the authors devised a series of situations in the classroom as preconditions for extending language use. Their aim was to reorient the reader to the social functions of language, so that teachers who understood the ideas behind this programme would be able to carry out the activities described as well as those they may have thought up for themselves.

A Question of Answers

W. P. Robinson , Susan J. Rackstraw

Series: Primary Socialization, Language and Education

First published in 1972, the research reported here presents a theoretical framework for describing linguistic features of a range of verbally expressed answers and their associated questions. Bernstein's theory is used to generate a number of predictions about the variety and quality of answers that mothers and children are likely to offer to 'wh' questions. The usefulness of the scheme is tested against the answering behaviour of members of different social classes, Bernstein's predictions are mostly supported. The validity of the categories in the classificatory scheme is explored more in later chapters by means of a correlational analysis of the answers of 7-year-old children.

Social Control and Socialization

A Study of Class Differences in the Language of Maternal Control

Jenny Cook-Gumperz

Series: Primary Socialization, Language and Education

Basil Bernstein's theory of social control was the foundation for this pioneer study of the language mothers use to socialize their children, and how it affects their understanding of social values and social attitudes as they grow older. First published in 1973, Cook-Gumperz's research was particularly important in that it made use of analytical methods which could measure numerically the manifestations of the three kinds of control – imperative, positional, personal – that Bernstein distinguished. Using the coding grid developed by Bernstein and herself, the author demonstrates clearly the relations between maternal class, maternal approach to discipline and the child's progress.

Code in Context

Diana S. Adlam

Series: Primary Socialization, Language and Education

In the 1970s, Basil Berstein's work on children's sociolinguistic codes and his formulation of the contexts in which they are transmitted were the most influential in the field. However, as Diana Adlam points out, neither code nor context as Bernstein saw them can be properly grasped until they are understood in interaction. Originally published in 1977, this collection of papers contains both theoretical and empirical investigations of Bernstein's ideas, and seeks to make that necessary connection. The study as a whole is concerned primarily with Basil Bernstein's ideas on the relationship of different familial transmission systems to the way in which children learn to use language.

Medieval Song

An Anthology of Hymns and Lyrics

Edited by James J. Wilhelm

Originally published in 1972, Medieval Song assembles the whole tradition of early European poetry, from the writings of the late Roman Empire to the time of the Hundred Years War. It covers a vast range of languages and cultures, beginning with the Latin of pagan song and Christian hymn and ending with the Middle English ballads of the time of Chaucer. The selection stresses the interdependence of the sacred and the profane. The sequence of the translations shows how the dawn songs or albas of France, Germany and Italy are clearly related to the sacred songs in Latin.

English Wayfaring Life in the Middle Ages

J. J. Jusserand

Originally published in 1889 and as a fourth edition in 1950, this book is a study of travel in fourteenth century England. It brings to life those contemporaries of Chaucer who passed up and down the highways for business or pleasure, whether they were minstrels, messengers, merchants, wandering preachers, friars or pilgrims. The book builds a picture not just of travel in Medieval England, but how those on such nomadic journeys felt and thought.

Political Thought in Medieval Times

John B. Morrall

Originally published in 1958 and as a third edition in 1971, this comprehensive account of political thought in the Middle Ages presents medieval thinking against the historical background which animated it. The main emphasis is on the currents of thought and action in which individuals and institutions played their part and the central theme is the growth of the conception of a religious-political commonwealth and its gradual replacement by the idea of the State.

China and Africa in the Middle Ages

Teobaldo Filesi

From the evidence of Chinese documents, East African excavations and the researches of scholars and historians, the author of this book, originally published in English in 1972, gives a fascinating account of China's early relations with Africa, the development of China's navy and overseas enterprises, the visits of the great Ming expeditionary fleets in the early fifteenth century, and finally, why the vast Chinese shipyards ceased all activity by the end of the 15th century.

The Luminous Vision

Six Medieval Mystics and Their Teachings

Anne Bancroft

Mystical understanding transfigured Christianity in the Middle Ages and led to some of its most sublime prose and poetry. Originally published in 1982, this was the first book of its kind to bring together some of the medieval mystics and to relate the depths of their understanding to modern life and to world views. The author, a writer and broadcaster on modern mystics and on the mystical aspects of eastern religions, particularly Zen, has interpreted each of these very different medieval mystics afresh.

Medieval Romance

Themes and Approaches

John Stevens

The subjects of medieval romance are the great and permanent concerns of the human mind. A literature is best approached by newcomers, through its major achievements, the author of this book, originally published in 1973, maintains. The book's discussion centres on the romances of Chaucer and Chrétien de Troyes, and on such texts as Sir Gawain and the Green Knight, the Roman de la Rose, and Malory's Morte d'Arthur. The book's introductory chapters stress the continuity between medieval and later literature.

The Hundred & The Hundred Rolls

An Outline of Local Government in Medieval England

Helen Cam

Originally published in 1930, this book outlines the system of local government at work in the reign of Edward I. The Hundreds were the districts of England into which every county was subdivided. They varied in size and shape but formed an indispensable part of the system of local government. For taxation, justice, police, law and military defence, the Hundred came into play. The Hundred Rolls were a complete statement as to the administration of the counties of England and the Hundred Rolls of 1274-75 are the starting point of this book.

Popes and Princes 1417–1517

Politics and Polity in the Late Medieval Church

John A. F. Thomson

This book, originally published in 1980, examines the history of the papacy in the century between the end of the Great Schism and the start of the Reformation, and considers how, and at what price, the popes were able to re-establish their power after the troubles of the years from 1378 to 1417. The author approaches the subject analytically rather than chronologically, covering such themes as theories of authority in the late Middle Ages, the problems of papal government and the potential areas of conflict between the popes and the secular princes.

Medieval Southampton

The Port and Trading Community, A.D. 1000–1600

Colin Platt

Originally published in 1973, this book examines the urban community of Southampton through its early and formative years. Southampton is one of the most interesting and important medieval towns, because of its position as a 'gateway' between England and the Continent. The author uses both historical and archaeological evidence to establish the characteristics of an emergent burgess class: its trading interests, social pre-occupations and tastes. Problems of government, of economic development, defence and faith are discussed as they came to prominence in the community.

Lordship and Feudalism in the Middle Ages

Guy Fourquin

Originally published in English in 1976, this book shed new light upon a dark aspect of a dark age in the social history of Europe. The book discusses and makes clear the differences between the feudal and 'seigneurial' organisation of society that developed with the disintegration of the State which followed the enormous enlargement of the Empire under Charlemagne. The author bases his analysis mainly upon the French experience but draws his evidence from England, Germany, Italy and Spain. Categories of Medieval Culture

A. J. Gurevich

Originally published in English in 1985, this book concentrates on the people of the Middle Ages and how they saw the world they lived in. Medieval behaviour – social, economic, political and religious, was regulated by the Medieval picture of the world. This book discusses the most important concepts of medieval culture – space and time, law, the attitude towards work, wealth and poverty – as they are reflected in the vernacular literature of the age: sagas, epics, courtly romances, the love songs of the troubadours, and the works of Dante, as well as numerous Latin writings.

English Medieval Theatre

1400–1500

William Tydeman

Originally published in 1986, this volume illuminates the predominant theatrical styles of a particular period in dramatic history. It does this by reconstructing – as far as conjecture permits – the manner in which five major plays of the late Middle Ages might have been staged in fifteenth-century Britain. The author draws on his experience in producing medieval plays to discuss the business of staging in a novel way. General conclusions are drawn from specific examples and the qualities which give medieval English drama its idiosyncratic features and appeal are characterized.

Traditions of Medieval English Drama

Stanley J. Kahrl

Originally published in 1974, this book examines in detail some of the finest plays from the great cycles of York, Wakefield and Chester. By considering the plays as plays rather than literary relics of a past age, he throws new light both on their aims and intentions as drama and on the intriguing problems of stage techniques. The major morality plays of the period are discussed not only for the interest of their content but for their effectiveness as theatre. Throughout the book the author stresses the richness and strength of a drama which, despite its small corpus of plays, survived as popular drama for several hundred years.

Documents Illustrating the History of Civilization in Medieval England

1066–1500

R. Trevor Davies

The author and acclaimed historian of this book, originally published in 1926, was a strong advocate for the use of original source documents in the study of history, maintaining that applying historical criticism to documents, and balancing one document against another was a process of 'the highest educational value'. He compiled this volume with the aim of giving easy access to the more important documents of political history for the period between the Norman Conquest and the Accession of the House of Tudor. All the documents are translated into English from French or Latin and important documents, such as the Magna Carta are given in their entirety.

Emotions in the US During the Long Nineteenth Century

Edited by Susan J. Matt

This collection of primary sources examines the history of emotions in the United States, spanning the years 1800-1865. This period was filled with dramatic political, social and economic changes, including the development of a new national identity, the spread of chattel slavery, the rise of capitalism, the surge of religious revivalism, military and settler expansion, and the Civil War. While these events have been well studied, this collection explores these upheavals using the lens of the history of emotions. This fascinating collection of materials, alongside extensive editorial commentary, will be of great interest to students of American History and the History of Emotions.

AI for EVERYTHING

Artificial intelligence (AI) is all around us. From driverless cars to game winning computers to fraud protection, AI is already involved in many aspects of life, and its impact will only continue to grow in future. Many of the world's most valuable companies are investing heavily in AI research and development, and not a day goes by without news of cutting-edge breakthroughs in AI and robotics. The AI for Everything series will explore the role of AI in contemporary life, from cars and aircraft to medicine, education, fashion and beyond. Concise and accessible, each book is written by an expert in the field and will bring the study and reality of AI to a broad readership including nterested professionals, students, researchers, and lay readers.
