Our history

Over two centuries ago, the foundations of the company were laid in pioneering fashion when in 1798 Richard Taylor launched the Philosophical Magazine, one of the first scientific journals produced by an independent company. It was the start of much close collaboration with scholarly societies. Dr William Francis, a chemist, joined Richard Taylor in 1852 and continued the tradition of the close links between the academic community and the company.

Today, we continue to be fully committed to the publication of academic and scholarly information of the highest quality and this remains our primary goal.

Taylor & Francis has grown rapidly to become a leading international, academic publisher. With offices across the globe, the Taylor & Francis Group now publishes more than 2,200 journals and over 5,200 new books each year; with a books backlist in excess of 110,000 specialist titles.

Prices featured are correct at time of going to press but are subject to change without notice.

Book orders should be addressed to the Taylor & Francis Customer Services Department at Hachette, or the appropriate overseas agent.

Animals, Ethics, and Engineering

Intersections and Implications

Rosalyn W. Berne

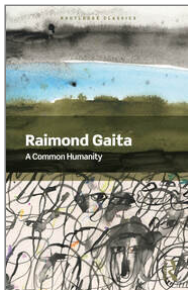

Animals, Ethics, and Engineering: Intersections and Implications is a seminal work that explores the intricate relationship between technology, ethics, and the welfare of non-human animals. Edited by Rosalyn W. Berne, this volume brings together leading scholars and practitioners to examine the ethical responsibilities inherent in technological progress and its impact on animal well-being.

A Common Humanity

Thinking About Love and Truth and Justice

Raimond Gaita University of Melbourne, Australia

Series: Routledge Classics

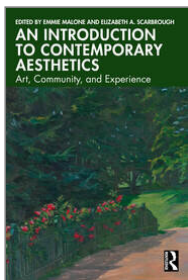

Holocaust denial, racism, genocide and the lasting harms inflicted by colonialism pose deep challenges to any idea of a common humanity. How can we include these and countless other examples of evil within our vision of a shared morality? These painful human incongruities are addressed in A Common Humanity. Drawing on the work of Arendt, Weil, Primo Levi and Iris Murdoch, amongst others, Raimond Gaita creates a beautifully written and provocative new picture of our common humanity. This Routledge Classics edition includes a new Preface and a substantial Postscript by the author.

An Introduction to Contemporary Aesthetics

Art, Community, and Experience

Edited by Emmie Malone San Jose State University, USA,
Elizabeth A. Scarborough Florida International University, USA.

This book gives students and other readers a comprehensive sense of the dynamic issues and problems in aesthetics and philosophy of art today. Each of the 14 chapters is written by a different expert in the field and together they cover a wide range of methodological approaches and perspectives, including those from analytic and Continental philosophy, non-Eurocentric global traditions, and critical stances taken up by feminist philosophers and philosophers of race. In addition, the volume makes use of recent empirical work on art and beauty as well as examples of artistic expressions from cultures from around the world.

From Socrates to the Supreme Court

An Introduction to Philosophy through the Law

Ken Glazer University of Maryland, USA.

Philosophy and law are separate disciplines but they deal with many of the same issues, from the meaning of equality and liberty, the nature of knowledge, reasoning, and mental states, to the indeterminacy of language, causation, free will, luck, and personal identity. This textbook introduces philosophy to undergraduates in a new and refreshing way—by using cases, concepts, and doctrines from the law to illustrate philosophical issues. It introduces the major areas in the discipline: moral and political philosophy, epistemology, metaphysics, philosophy of mind and language, alongside philosophy's great thinkers.

The Routledge Guidebook to Horkheimer and Adorno's Dialectic of Enlightenment

Espen Hammer Temple University, USA, Fred Rush University of Notre Dame, USA

Series: The Routledge Guides to the Great Books

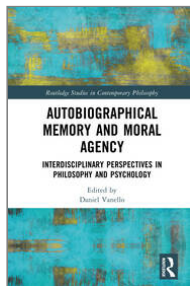

Composed whilst in exile during World War II, Horkheimer and Adorno's Dialectic of Enlightenment is one of the most influential texts of the Frankfurt School. A theoretical exploration of developed capitalism and the rise of authoritarianism in both fascism and communism, its core message remains highly relevant today. This is the first fully contextualized introduction to this foundational text in philosophy and social and political theory, addressing its central themes, reception, and influence. It is invaluable to students coming to the work for the first time, as well as more advanced students in philosophy, politics, sociology and the history of ideas.

Autobiographical Memory and Moral Agency

Interdisciplinary Perspectives in Philosophy and Psychology

Edited by Daniel Vanello University of Southampton, UK
Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Philosophy

Although a number of philosophers and psychologists have drawn attention to the role of autobiographical memory in moral agency, there is no sustained project that brings together these different lines of inquiry into a unified research area. The aim of this volume is to answer this need by bringing together leading voices in research in autobiographical memory and moral agency from both philosophy and psychology to provide a unified framework for a new interdisciplinary research area. Key areas of research explored in this volume include temporal perspectives, moral identity, autobiographical narrative, joint reminiscing, the internalisation of moral value, attachments, and amnesia.

Cartesianism and Philosophy of Mind

Edited by Vili Lähteenmäki University of Oulu, Finland, Oberto Marrama University of Oulu, Finland, Jani Sinokki University of Oulu, Finland

Series: Routledge Studies in Seventeenth-Century Philosophy

This book explores themes in the philosophy of mind as they emerge within the early modern Cartesian tradition. Part 1 focuses on fundamental features of cognition, such as the nature of ideas and intentionality, as they were debated by early interlocutors of Descartes. Part 2 analyzes how Cartesian philosophers conceived the relation between sensation and material objects, including the human body. Part 3 investigates the moral and social dimensions of the Cartesian mind, such as love and virtues.

Contemporary Quantum Philosophy

Guolin Wu

Following the first and second quantum revolutions, quantum information theory has expanded beyond the field of physics into numerous other interdisciplinary areas. This book provides a comprehensive philosophical exploration of quantum mechanics and quantum information. It specifically delves into core concepts like quantum reality, quantum entanglement, quantum information, the quantum world, quantum computing, and quantum matter. The book is well-suited for scholars and graduate students in the fields of philosophy of science, philosophy of technology, analytical philosophy, philosophy of language, phenomenology, and hermeneutics.

Cosmopolitan Husserl

From Transcendental Phenomenology to the Ethics of Renewal

Edited by Curtis Hutt University of Nebraska Omaha, USA, Halla Kim Sogang University, South Korea

Series: Routledge Studies in Twentieth-Century Philosophy

This volume reflects on Husserl's articles published in the Japanese magazine Kaizō in 1923. It addresses the cosmopolitan nature of Husserl's work, as well as the enduring appeal of Husserl's cultural phenomenology for today's globalized age. The chapters explore Husserl's earliest work on European Crisis, his unexpected interest in history, as well as his overlooked contributions on religion, politics, and the ethics of renewal. Finally, the volume concludes with new translations of the first Kaizō article published in 1922, as well as an early history of Husserlian phenomenology in Japan.

Derrida

Ethics in Deconstruction

Edited by Barry Stocker

Series: Angelaki: New Work in the Theoretical Humanities

Ethics in Deconstruction is vital reading for any interested in Derrida and the ethical implications of deconstruction broadly defined. It offers a comprehensive set of essays on the ethics of deconstruction and deconstruction as an ethical enterprise. Derrida is the main focus, but essays also look at Sextus Empiricus, Kierkegaard, Heidegger, Arendt, Lévinas, Lyotard, Deleuze and others. The volume broadly defines ethics to include law, justice, politics, religion, and practical reason.

From the Mental State of Noise to the New Frontiers of Techno-Human Cognition

Creative Disruptions Across AI, Gaming, Modelling, French Theory, and Politics

Edited by Cecile Malaspina

Series: Angelaki: New Work in the Theoretical Humanities

At the intersection of humanities and science, this book reexamines noise as a fundamental force in shaping contemporary thought and digital culture. Anchored by the republication of Steven Sands and John Ratey's influential 1986 article "The concept of noise", this volume explores how noise transcends its traditional definition as unwanted sound or mere signal interference to become a generative force in our increasingly complex, digitized world. It brings together leading thinkers including Catherine Malabou, Rosa Menkman, and Yuk Hui to investigate noise across multiple domains.

God, Souls, and Consciousness

Deconditioning the Mind from Naturalism

Joshua R. Farris Ruhr University Bochum, Germany

Series: Routledge Studies in the Philosophy of Religion

This book provides a critique of naturalistic views of subjects and agency and argues that these are conditioned ways of conceiving of the mind and the cosmos. It defends a form of theistic dualism in light of varying naturalistic trends that, arguably, place limiting pressures on our constructive views of humans as ensouled beings. The book takes seriously the notion of first-person phenomenological perspectives as the starting point for constructing a metaphysical view of the world. The author's arguments touch on the topics of consciousness, dualism, cosmic purpose, science and religion, and the meaning of life.

Inductive Metaphysics

Insights, Challenges, and Prospects

Edited by Andreas Hüttemann University of Cologne, Germany, Gerhard Schurz Heinrich Heine University Düsseldorf, Germany

Series: Routledge Studies in Metaphysics

Inductive Metaphysics (IM) justifies metaphysical principles by inductive or abductive inferences from empirical evidence, and this volume is the first to provide a picture of current research in this branch of metaphysics. It explores IM as a continuously expanding and topical field with contributions in virtually all domains of the discipline. The chapters address the role of IM in the history of philosophy and contemporary philosophy, the central role of the method of abduction for IM, the relation of IM to metaphysical accounts of grounding, explanation, and evidence, the formation of concepts and IM, and the applications of IM in physics and in the life sciences.

Kant's Highest Good

From Practical Reason to Rational Faith

Lawrence Robin Pasternack Oklahoma State University, USA

Series: Routledge Studies in Eighteenth-Century Philosophy

This book is the first comprehensive, English-language interpretation of the Highest Good's internal structure, its development, and its place within Kant's broader philosophical system. Pasternack offers sustained engagement with the contemporary secondary literature on these issues, and discusses key texts of the German Enlightenment which helped to shape Kant's conception of the Highest Good. He argues that prevailing interpretations rely upon a faulty understanding of the Highest Good, one which has its roots in a number of early interpretive missteps.

Locke's Religious Epistemology and Its Critics

Nathan Rockwood Brigham Young University, USA

Series: Routledge Studies in the Philosophy of Religion

This book offers a sustained defense of Locke's religious epistemology. It puts Locke into conversation with leading figures in contemporary religious epistemology and shows that Locke's views are more plausible than many philosophers of religion and epistemologists realize. In each chapter, the author contrasts Locke's view on a type of evidence with one of his critics: Michael Bergmann, David Hume, Alvin Plantinga, Richard Swinburne, and Linda Zagzebski. At the end of each chapter, the author shows how a Bayesian analysis of evidence can support Locke's evidence for religious belief, and specifically a belief in Christianity.

Matrixial Breath

Aesthetically Respiring into the Trauma of the Present

Christoph Solstreif-Pirker

Series: Routledge Critical Perspectives on Breath and Breathing

Day by day, the global climate crisis intensifies, yet there are little changes in the behavior of privileged societies. This book reveals that such paradoxical behavior is due to the prevalence of a narrative that considers planet Earth as a self-sustaining system, driven by a circular respiration pattern from one actor to the next. It argues that transforming this prevailing planetary breathing pattern is necessary to change humans' destructive behavior towards the more-than-human environment. The volume, in particular, references the feminine Matrixial Theory of psychoanalyst and philosopher Bracha L. Ettinger.

Mental Powers

From Descartes to Kant

Edited by Federico Boccaccini, Anna Marmodoro

Taking into consideration some representative figures of modern thought like Descartes, Cudworth, Locke, Spinoza, Leibniz, Hume and Kant, this edited volume presents a general account of the concept of 'mental power' in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, focusing on the issue of how a sample of influential thinkers of that period analyzed, described, and conceived the human agent's mental abilities and skills as governing perception, action and moral behavior. This book was originally published as a special issue of British Journal for the History of Philosophy.

Neurocognitive Foundations of Mind

Edited by Gualtiero Piccinini University of Missouri–St. Louis, USA

Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Philosophy

The rise of cognitive neuroscience has prompted a rethinking of levels, computation, representation, psychological explanation, and the relation between psychology and neuroscience. This book demonstrates the ways in which cognitive neuroscience supersedes traditional cognitive science and supports a unified, integrated, multilevel, mechanistic, neurocomputational account of the mind. The chapters address topics including computation, representation, explanation, perception, executive function, emotion, language, and motor control.

Patterns of Evil in Ancient Chinese and Greek Philosophy

Edited by R.A.H. King University of Bern, Switzerland, Pavlos Kontos University of Patras, Greece

The roots of evil are often held to be Biblical, but philosophers in ancient China and Greece were conversant with the phenomena and languages of evil. This volume provides a comparative examination of patterns of evil in the early Chinese and Greek traditions. With no genealogical connections to rely on, this volume utilizes the notion of "patterns" to address worries of methodological and ethical incommensurability, and to show what this means for the practice of comparative philosophy. In the case of evil, this methodology requires diving deep into the linguistic and political murk where evil lurks, with its deep roots in human dispositions for experience and action.

Pragmatism and Philosophy of Science

Historical and Contemporary Perspectives

Edited by Roberto Gronda University of Pisa, Italy, Marianne Janack Hamilton College, USA, Giancarlo Marchetti University of Perugia, Italy

Series: Routledge Studies in the Philosophy of Science

This volume traces how pragmatism—in its classical and contemporary versions—serves as a useful toolbox for philosophers of science. The first section contains essays addressing topics belonging to the general philosophy of science. The second section features chapters that deal with themes and concepts from special sciences, ranging from natural sciences to sociology, from mathematics to religious studies. Finally, the third section analyzes the societal role of science and scientific activity.

Public Health Virtue Ethics

Institutions, Structures, and Political Virtue for the Good Society

Kathryn L. MacKay

Series: Routledge Studies in Ethics and Moral Theory

This book argues that virtue ethics should be incorporated into public health ethics. It provides the theoretical foundation for a virtue ethics that is applicable to public health, as well as political institutions more broadly. First, it presents theoretical arguments for political virtues, explaining how institutions like public health have moral agency, and how these institutional agents can in turn have (or lack) virtues. It then presents three political virtues that are particularly relevant to public health: justice, civic friendship, and epistemic humility.

Rights-Based Ethics

Foundations and Applications

Edited by Marcus Düwell Technical University Darmstadt, Germany, Johannes Graf Keyserlingk Ruhr-University Bochum, Germany, Philipp Richter Ruhr-University Bochum, Germany

Series: Routledge Studies in Ethics and Moral Theory

This volume contends that rights-based approaches in ethics not only offer a theoretical framework to explain complex normative concepts but they can also offer answers to some of today's most complex moral questions. Its chapters are divided into three thematic sections. The first section addresses the conceptual and foundational questions of rights-based ethics. The second section offers historical and cultural perspectives on rights. Finally, the third section explores how rights-based ethics can address applied issues related to climate change, health systems, global supply chains, and the finance industry.

Shifting Paradigms of Evil in Philosophy

Reading the Armenian Genocide with the Shoah

Imge Oranli Arizona State University, USA

Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Philosophy

This book develops an interdisciplinary framework rooted in philosophy for addressing the political evils experienced around the world. It crystallizes the idea that evil is an inscrutable phenomenon, what the author calls the paradigm of evil's inscrutability. Tracing this paradigm through the legacies of five key philosophers—Plato, Augustine, Kant, Arendt, and Levinas—the author shows that by the time we arrive at 20th century, the framing of political evils like the Shoah as inscrutable and exceptional is profoundly constraining; it erases their continuity and connection with other atrocities, including the 1915 Armenian Genocide.

Speaking with Houses

A Cross-Cultural Critique of Heidegger's Ontology

Michael Linzey

This book critically examines the concept of "Being" in Western philosophy and its manifestation in architecture. This book is an invaluable resource for scholars in architecture, philosophy, and cultural studies. Its interdisciplinary approach provides a comprehensive critique of Western metaphysical assumptions, encouraging readers to reconsider the relationship between language, being, and architectural form. By integrating architectural analysis with philosophical inquiry, it fosters a deeper appreciation of cultural diversity in architectural practices and invites academics to explore alternative ontological perspectives in the built environment.

Sport and Species

Edited by S.P. Morris, Gabriela Tymowski-Gionet

This book is the first comprehensive examination of the complex intersection between sports, animal welfare, and ethical considerations. The chapters in this thought-provoking collection challenge conventional wisdom about animal participation in sporting activities. Distinguished scholars tackle pressing questions about animal agency, consent, and exploitation across a spectrum of activities—from traditional equestrian sports to controversial blood sports. Through diverse philosophical frameworks including consequentialism, virtue ethics, and the capabilities approach, the volume scrutinizes our moral obligations to non-human athletes.

Taking Moral Theorising Seriously

A Theory-First Approach to Moral Philosophy

Andrew Sneddon University of Ottawa, Canada

Series: Routledge Studies in Ethics and Moral Theory

This book develops a novel account of methodology for moral philosophy. It focuses on the structural features of moral theories, specifically what is taken as input and the process of theorizing itself. Part 1 argues that we should use "contrastively successful" judgments as input. A moral judgment about a case must be shown to be interpersonally superior to alternatives to qualify as input for moral theorizing. Part 2 follows recent work on theoretical virtues in science to develop an account of virtues of moral theories. It then applies this account to the topic of agent-relativity and agent-neutrality.

The Essence of History

Edited by Aaron Turner Royal Holloway, University of London, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Philosophy

This book brings together historical thinkers from a variety of disciplinary backgrounds to offer original interpretations of the essence of history. It addresses why it is that the essence of history itself cannot be so easily thematised or conceptualised. The chapters respond to questions such as: What is history? What, in the 'progress' of historical thought from antiquity to modernity, did we lose along the way? And what does it mean, if it means anything at all, to have history, to be historical?

The Phenomenology of Self-Awareness and the Nature of Conscious Subjects

Edited by Julien Bugnon University of Fribourg, Switzerland, Martine Nida-Rümelin, Donnchadh O'Conaill University of Fribourg, Switzerland

Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Philosophy

This volume explores the connections between the phenomenology of self-awareness and the metaphysical nature of subjects of experience, bringing together two important research areas in contemporary philosophy of mind into fruitful engagement with one another. The ten original essays in this volume are grouped into thematic sections covering the following topics: the nature of self-awareness and its relation to conscious experience, the metaphysical nature of the subject of experience, and whether self-awareness can reveal anything about the metaphysical nature of the subject. Each essay is accompanied by comments from another contributor to the volume and a response from the author.

The Philosophy of Georg Simmel

Frederick C. Beiser Syracuse University, USA

Georg Simmel's books, including The Philosophy of Money, moved sociology away from a strict concern with empiricism and helped establish the sociology of society, culture and ethics as fields of study. Less well-known is that Simmel's intellectual outlook was greatly influenced by his lifelong love of philosophy, especially Kant. It is this philosophical Simmel that Frederick C. Beiser, a renowned scholar of German philosophy, explores in this fascinating and important book. Essential reading for both philosophers and sociologists alike, particularly those studying nineteenth century philosophy and the history of sociology.

Too Weird to Believe, Too Plausible to Deny

Mind-Blowing Philosophical Ideas

Edited by Cliff Sosis Coastal Carolina University, USA.

Anyone new to philosophy soon encounters new ideas that challenge their hidden biases and cherished beliefs, or are at odds with common sense and tradition. Yet, these philosophical ideas are backed by strong arguments, arguments so strong that it's difficult to identify what is wrong with them. This book explores these strange yet cogent ideas in 29 short, clear chapters written by some of the best philosophers alive today. Each chapter starts with a seemingly counterintuitive philosophical conclusion and a simple, accurate description of the underlying argument supporting the conclusion, including historical and cultural context.

The Philosophy of Will

A Reexamination of Late Modern German Philosophy

Anthony K. Jensen Providence College, USA

Series: Routledge Studies in Nineteenth-Century Philosophy

This book argues that the history of 19th-century German philosophy has neglected a crucial narrative: the rich tradition of the philosophy of 'Will'. It examines the interconnected philosophies of 'Will' of Goethe, Schelling, Schopenhauer, Hartmann, Mainländer, Bahnsen, and Nietzsche. The book shows that the 19th-century conception of Will is fundamentally different than the commonplace use of Will as a synonym for motivated agency. By focusing on these Will theorists, it reveals a clearer interrelation between philosophy and the wider history of German intellectual culture. Finally, it reexamines these thinkers' positions in the history of philosophy.

Black Religion in America

An Introduction

Jonathan Chism

Series: Religion in America

Black Religion in America is an introduction to the religious history of African Americans from the period of slavery to the twenty-first century. The book traces the social justice thought and activism of Black Christians, Conjurers, Muslims, Pentecostals, Humanists, and various esoteric prophets across historical epochs, introducing students to major religious groups and innovators within African American religious history who have striven for full social inclusion. It offers a narrative interpretation of Black religion that engages this current generation of students grappling with enduring marginalization in the post-civil Rights and post-Obama era.

Sacred Drugs

How Psychoactive Substances Mix with Religious Life

Gary Laderman

Sacred Drugs explores the numerous ways in which psychoactive substances intersect with religious life. This cutting-edge volume acknowledges the ubiquity of drug use in American society and that, in fact, being drugged with an altered state of consciousness is a common feature of American life today, as it has been throughout human history and across global ancient cultures. This book touches on the presence of drugs in a number of religious traditions, like Christianity, Hinduism, and Islam, and will be the go-to volume for readers interested in the complex relationship between religious life and psychoactive substances.

Covenants with Allāh

Keystone of Islam

Halim Rane, Ibrahim Zein

Covenants with Allāh: Keystone of Islam offers a groundbreaking reappraisal of Islam as a religion rooted in sacred covenants—binding commitments that define the terms of human existence and coexistence. Drawing upon extensive analysis of the Qur'ān, covenants of Prophet Muhammad, and the historical record of Muslim governance, Halim Rane and Ibrahim Zein recover the concept of covenant ('ahd and mithāq) in Islam and its centrality to the principles of accountability, justice, and trust. This bold and timely work is rigorous but accessible—essential reading for anyone interested in Islam and our shared humanity.

Deconstructing Transhumanism

A Religion Without Religion

Michael G. Sherbert

Deconstructing Transhumanism: A Religion Without Religion challenges the widely held view that transhumanism—a movement advocating for the enhancement of human life through technology—is purely secular and scientific. Spanning philosophical inquiry, ethical reflection, and cultural critique, this book invites readers to rethink the assumptions behind some of today's most influential ideas about technology, progress, and the future. It offers a timely examination of the religious undercurrents shaping Western technological imaginaries—urging greater awareness of the powerful, and sometimes perilous, narratives we carry into our increasingly high-tech future.

From Blavatsky to Krishnamurti: "It is Finished"

Unravelling an Esoteric Eschatology and Christology

Al Boag

Series: Gnostica

This book highlights some important continuities as well as differences between the teachings of Helena Petrovna Blavatsky (1831-1891), co-founder of the Theosophical Society in 1875, and Jiddu Krishnamurti (1895-1986), the Theosophist who was trained to be the World Teacher. Until now very little has been written of the importance to Blavatsky of an esoteric eschatology and Christology, and their relation to the secret core of her Path of Initiation: the practice of an occult breathless meditation. It will be of particular interest to students and scholars of esotericism, new religious movements, and the history of religions.

Structural Sin and the Death of Institutions

Susannah Cornwall University of Exeter, UK.

Series: Routledge New Critical Thinking in Religion, Theology and Biblical Studies

Structural Sin and the Death of Institutions explores how Christian understandings of sin map onto institutional failures. It argues that institutions frequently create conditions in which individuals are disempowered and disposed to sin, and that uncritical appeals to redemption, reconciliation and restoration perpetuate harm. The book engages the turn to despair, abolition and termination in recent theologies, and builds on work by those working in other fields including the penal abolitionist movement.

Understanding Religion through the Eyes of Others

Case Studies of Key Thinkers

Timothy Stanley University of Newcastle, Australia

This book studies religion through the eyes of some of its most influential, exemplary and sometimes controversial people. Historically organized and philosophically nuanced, each chapter locates a thinker in their material context to elucidate the impact of their ideas. It draws students into perennial debates that evoke the habits of mind capable of engaging today's multi-religious societies, and provides options for further reading at the end of each chapter. Thought provoking and wide-ranging, this book will be essential reading for students and scholars of world religions, comparative religion, and the history and philosophy of religion.

The Politics of Spiritual Work in Christian Movements

Aini Linjakumpu

Series: Routledge Focus on Religion

This book examines how three conservative Christian movements – Jehovah's Witnesses, Conservative Laestadians, and the Old Order Amish – attribute spiritual meanings to both paid employment and voluntary work, and how work functions as a tool of governance within these communities. Framed by perspectives from the study of power and governance, the book identifies three key dimensions through which governance operates via work: shaping individual spirituality, reinforcing communal belonging and cohesion, and regulating the boundary between the religious community and the outside world.

Ambient History

Material Traces of World War II in Contemporary Warsaw

Kamila Baraniecka-Olszewska

Series: Material Culture and Modern Conflict

The book presents the role urban fabric plays in constructing the wartime history of Warsaw. It focuses on history embedded in matter and details the practices followed by municipal institutions, artists and historical reenactors, who pull history out of the background through their actions. Therefore, the book is valuable reading for researchers studying non-academic methods of curating history: scholars investigating materiality and things, anthropologist of history, scholars of heritage studies, experts in urban studies, historians focused on public history and archaeologists analysing the discipline's theory.

An Invisible Minority

The History, Society and Politics of Sikhs in Kashmir

Komal JB Singh

This book presents a groundbreaking study of the Kashmiri Sikh community, examining how identities are formed and negotiated across the intersections of religion, region, and nation. Combining deep ethnographic engagement with historical analysis, it examines Kashmir beyond the hegemonic boundaries of the Hindu-Muslim binary, by foregrounding an alternative discourse to see how majority-minority relations in a volatile region like Kashmir unfold, how the Sikh minority within the minorities is silenced in everyday discourses, and how all minorities are pushed to the margins.

Myth and Reality: Studies on the Templars and Hospitallers, Medieval Narratives, and the Trial of the Templars

Helen J. Nicholson

Spanning thirty-five years of scholarly research, the articles in this collection represent key research findings from Helen Nicholson's studies of the military religious orders and the crusades. Ranging across subjects as diverse as the Templars' religious practices, Arthurian romance inspired by the events of the Third Crusade, medieval European Christians' views of Muslims, and a heresy investigation in Ireland, these articles reflect Nicholson's research into the Templars and Hospitallers as religious institutions, medieval European fictional literature as an historical source, and the trial of the Templars.

Showing Salazarism

A Cultural History of Early Estado Novo through Political Exhibitions

Annarita Gori University of Lisbon, Portugal

Series: Routledge Studies in Fascism and the Far Right

Drawing on Jeffrey T. Schnapp's conceptual framework, this book examines political exhibitions organized by the Portuguese Estado Novo between 1934 and 1940 as spaces where regimes manipulated national history to legitimize their authority, crafting myths of origin and narratives of national pride. This volume fills a critical gap in the historiography of Salazar's Portugal while offering fresh insights into the study of political exhibitions and will be of value to students and scholars alike interested in the studies of fascism and European history.

Studies on Late Medieval Gdańsk

Beata Możejko University of Gdansk, Poland

Series: Variorum Collected Studies

Studies on Late Medieval Gdańsk discusses Gdańsk (Danzig), a city whose governing authorities changed in the 15th century, with Polish kings replacing the Teutonic Knights. Located on the Baltic Sea, the town was home to around twenty to thirty thousand people, many of whom made their living working at sea. The world of wealthy patricians intertwined with that of ordinary residents of Gdańsk. Sometimes conflicts and rivalries arose with close neighbours from Royal Prussia or distant ones from Poland and the Grand Duchy of Lithuania.

The Politics of Consumption in the Modern Age

Discourse, Regulation and Material Practices

Edited by Charris De Smet, Ilja Van Damme, Marnix Beyen Universiteit Antwerpen, Belgium

This volume explores the intersection of political history and consumption history by conceptualizing the "politics of consumption" as a discursive process in which consumers and acts of consumption are framed and politicized by state- and market-driven actors for broader societal objectives. The contributions in this study address key themes such as municipal governance of food markets, consumer citizenship in political debates, the nationalist framing of commodities, anti-imperial sartorial practices, and the rhetoric of consumer austerity during economic crises.

The Word Made Flesh: Lutheran Bodies, 1600–1720

Cover Image
Not Available

Karin Sennefelt

From children's visions of angels to the cancerous belly of a king, this book shows how the body was at the centre of religious experience in seventeenth-century Lutheran culture. It explores what it was like to live in a body that was situated between the heavenly and earthly realms in the century following the Reformations, how faith shaped the experience of the body, and how the body shaped religious experience. Lutherans fasted and fortified their bodies through asceticism or exposure to harsh conditions, people of all types could feel the Holy Spirit entering their bodies, and follow its movement within.

Those Who Stayed, 1922

Political Transitions and Minority Strategies of Endurance in the Eastern Mediterranean

Edited by Angelos Dalachanis, Alexis Rappas

Series: The Mediterranean Historical Review Book Series

The volume uses diverse methodologies—archival research, network analysis, microhistory, and translocal perspectives – to investigate the lived experiences of entrenched minorities. It offers new insights into both lesser-known and familiar minority groups, while engaging critically with existing literature. By emphasizing these groups' strategies and resilience, the volume challenges narratives dominated by violence and nostalgia, offering a more nuanced understanding of post-1922 Eastern Mediterranean history. It will appeal not only to scholars of minority studies but to anyone interested in the region's modern past.

Western Thoughts on Counterinsurgency

From 17th Century to the Present

Federica Saini Fasanotti

Series: Routledge Studies in Modern History

This comprehensive volume brings together essential testimonies on counterinsurgency doctrine and its evolution from the late 17th century to present. Structured in four parts, it examines historical manifestations of guerrilla warfare, profiles key Western theorists who shaped counterinsurgency thinking across centuries, explores critical tactical-strategic elements for confronting insurgencies, and focuses on the actual protagonists of irregular warfare and their evolving roles. By compiling diverse Western counterinsurgency experiences, this work provides a thorough overview of COIN theory, practice, and the influential figures who have shaped its development throughout history.

Imperialism and Appropriation in Rural Roman Syria

Paul Newson American University of Beirut, Lebanon

This book reassesses our understanding of rural landscapes in the Near East between the first and fourth centuries CE. Previous histories of the Roman Near East have been influenced by an underlying set of assumptions, based mainly on readings of Classical literature, regarding the impact of Rome on this region. Offering a new framework by which comparisons with other areas of the eastern half of the Roman Empire and the western provinces can be made, this book is for students and researchers interested in the process of imperialism, and the archaeology of the Near East and Roman Empire.

Decolonizing the Museum

Art, Activism and the Question of Race in Curation

Chiara de Cesari University of Amsterdam, Netherlands, Wayne Modest National Museum of World Cultures, Netherlands, Marta Pagliuca Pelacani

Series: Museums in Focus

This book asks what it means to decolonize museums in theory and practice. It explores recent calls by activists and artists for social change in and through museums, and how museums have responded to these calls and interventions. This book will be valuable for those studying or researching in the fields of Museum Studies, Heritage, Memory and Art Studies, Decolonial theory, Postcolonialism, Race and Racism, and Cultural Politics. Providing an important window into the political role of curators, the politics of race in transforming museums, it will also be beneficial to museum practitioners as well as activists and artists with a stake in these institutions.

The Archaeological Challenge of Gender

Edited by Anne Augereau, Christophe Darmangeat

The Archaeological Challenge of Gender asks, what do we know about the relations between men and women in past societies, and on what basis is this knowledge built? Although sources of data are meagre and often indirect, this book plays particular attention to exploring gender relations in a way that acknowledges its complexity. Taking a critical approach and addressing the way knowledge is constructed in this field, this book is for students and researchers in Archaeology, Anthropology and Gender Studies.

Velvet Capitalism and the Crisis of Liberal Democracy

Edited by Petr Agha , Petr Drulák

Recent concerns about the rise of populist movements obfuscate the limits and the contradictions inherent in the concept. The imposition of the liberal framework's economic policies, institutional designs and ideology across an entire region provides a unique opportunity to show the effects of the European project. Chapter contributors explore how the problems of the framework are most visibly demonstrated in post-communist countries where the internal tensions of liberal capitalism clash with locally embedded values. Recent research has focused on developments in the region in terms of how much the respective countries have strayed from liberal standards.

Higher Education in Constantinople in the Fifteenth Century

Elias Petrou

Series: Routledge Research in Byzantine Studies

Higher Education in Byzantine Constantinople in the Fifteenth Century explores the intellectual life and educational institutions of 15th-century Constantinople, a period often overlooked in the history of Byzantine scholarship. While the twilight of the empire is frequently associated with decline, this book demonstrates that it was, in fact, a time of vibrant intellectual activity, laying crucial groundwork for the Renaissance in the West.

The Routledge Handbook of Rewriting in Byzantium

Edited by Juan Signes Codoñer, Martin Hinterberger, Inmaculada Pérez Martín

Series: Routledge History Handbooks

The Routledge Handbook of Rewriting in Byzantium presents an overview of the various rewriting processes involved in the production of Byzantine literature. Due to the lack of recent systematic research on the totality of Byzantine literature, which embraces a long millennium of texts, the fluid concept of 'rewriting', here studied for the first time in all its complexity, serves as a unifying criterion for understanding the literary task of the Byzantines. Literature in Byzantium went well beyond the problems of language and genre and was adapted according to the audience and the expectations of the readers, which varied greatly in different periods.

José Rizal, the Philippines, and Greco-Roman Antiquity

Andreas T. Zanker

Series: Classics and the Postcolonial

This volume is the first extended investigation of the classicism of José Rizal (1861-1896), the de facto national hero of the Philippines, and explores how Greco-Roman antiquity was harnessed by Rizal and other Philippine artists and thinkers at the end of the Spanish colonial period. It not only explores the presence of Greco-Roman antiquity in Rizal's novels, but also his lesser-known works in a roughly chronological order. Of interest to students and scholars of Classics, particularly Classical Reception, and the colonial-era Philippines, as well as Latin American Studies, Southeast Asian Studies, and Postcolonial Studies more broadly.

Family Communication Perspectives on Adoptive Family

Empirical and Theoretical Considerations

Edited by Colleen Warner University of Missouri, USA

This book explores the intricate role of communication in adoption, featuring six empirical studies that advance understanding of adoption dynamics. Adoption has long been a cornerstone of family formation, taking various forms such as domestic, transracial, international, and kinship adoption. Central to adoption is communication, which shapes family dynamics, identity development, and the resolution of trauma and grief. Adoptive families are particularly reliant on discourse to build belongingness and validate family legitimacy amidst societal biases favoring biological ties.

Heaviness in Metal Music Production, Volume I

Jan-Peter Herbst , Mark Mynett

Heaviness in Metal Music Production, Volume I: How and Why It Works provides an in-depth analysis of the art and craft of producing heaviness, the fundamental musical quality in metal music. Using primarily ethnographic research which draws on interviews and engineering documentation from various producers across different generations, the distinguishing feature of the study is the song 'In Solitude', which was written, recorded, and produced by the researchers themselves. Part of a 2-volume set, this book serves as a vital resource for scholars, researchers, and students in audio engineering and metal music studies.

Images, Reality, and Digital Culture

Towards a Post-pictorial Condition

Edited by Krešimir Purgar J. J. Strossmayer University, Croatia

Series: Routledge Advances in Art and Visual Studies

Focusing on the moment of transition from the pictorial to the post-pictorial condition, this book advocates the opinion that what fundamentally distinguishes pictorial representation in Western civilization is one's ability to distinguish what the picture shows from what the picture refers to, and to that extent the reality inside the picture cannot be confused with what is outside it. The book will be of interest to scholars working in art history, image philosophy, image studies, and digital studies.

Media and Past Conflict in Europe

Dynamics of Mediation and Power

Edited by Eugenia Siapera University College Dublin, Ireland, Anke Fiedler University of Greifswald, Germany, Kenneth Andresen University of Agder, Norway

Series: Routledge Studies in Media, Communication, and Politics

Focusing on how the history of past conflicts is mediated in the present and recent past in six European countries, this book explores media processes as they intersect with power dynamics and hegemonic narratives of history and historical memory. Setting out in each chapter the implications of their analysis for journalistic education and practice, the book will attract readers among academics in the area of media and conflict, and media and memory; to students of media, communications and journalism; and to journalists who write on past conflict and commemoration, as well as those writing and researching on the six countries that form the case studies.

Morisot's Modernism and Impressionist Art

Interiors, Relationships, and Aesthetics

Claire Moran Queen's University, Belfast, UK

Series: Routledge Research in Gender and Art

This volume seeks to reframe French Impressionist painter Berthe Morisot (1841-95) in the history of art via a focus on the spaces and people that informed her work and thereby offer a new interpretation of Impressionism and of modernist aesthetics. This multi-pronged method of analysis, grounded in Morisot's lived experience, will allow a new understanding of Morisot's art to emerge, one with the potential to not only highlight the modernity of her aesthetics, but also question both public and critical assumptions about Impressionism.

Navigating Trust, Journalism, and Health in the Age of Populism

The Dengvaxia Vaccine Scandal in the Philippines

Karl Patrick R. Mendoza Uni of the Philippines

Breaking away from conventional perspectives that perceive scandals merely as maintainers of the status quo or reflections of elite-mass conflict, this book asserts that vaccine-related controversies, as seen in the 2017 Dengvaxia scandal in the Philippines, can reinforce trust in cultural terms. The narrative unfolds by scrutinizing how specific trust cultures, defined as particular ways of trust granting and reciprocating—and public perceptions of politics evolve in the aftermath of such crises. This book presents compelling in-depth case studies of news representation, production, and reception of the Dengvaxia scandal, unveiling significant findings.

Oscar Bait

The Academy Awards & Cultural Prestige

Robert Boucaut

Series: Routledge Advances in Film Studies

The Academy Awards – or 'the Oscars' – have held a unique position in defining and enacting 'prestige' for film industries and their publics. Oscar Bait captures a dynamic snapshot of the Oscars and Hollywood in a critical era. It advances popular culture scholarship by developing an analytical framework for understanding disparate media texts within an awards season – and it critically updates Oscars knowledges for modern contexts. Readers interested in media and cultural studies, celebrity studies, persona studies, popular culture and film will enjoy this book.

Place and the Moving Image

Experimental Film Practice as Topography

Elisabeth Brun University of Oslo, Norway

Series: Routledge Advances in Film Studies

This book offers a rethinking of how experimental film practice engages with spatial knowledge and environmental awareness. Rather than treating theory and practice as separate domains, this book shows how both emerge from the same topographical foundation. It will engage scholars, artists, and practitioners interested in place, environmental aesthetics, indigenous perspectives, and critical film practice — across fields such as film and media studies, visual art, design, architecture, and philosophy.

Powell and Pressburger

Filmmaker Historians

Edited by Ellen Z. Whitton

This book offers a new perspective on the renowned filmmaking duo The Archers – Michael Powell and Emeric Pressburger – through its examination of their engagement with history and its representation on screen. Through case studies, it highlights how they employed research practices that mirror those of traditional historians. In doing so, they crafted historically rich films that shaped public memory, demonstrating filmmaking practices that are now common among contemporary filmmakers in that genre. Beyond reassessing this aspect of The Archers' legacy, this methodology offers a practical framework for analysing and creating historical authenticity on screen.

Principles of Electronic Music Production

Edited by Thomas Brett

Series: Perspectives on Music Production

Principles of Electronic Music Production offers a comprehensive overview of the fundamental concepts that shape contemporary electronic music production, revealing it as a complex tradition. The chapters explore the power of serendipities and musical systems, the phenomenology of listening, using minimalism and constraints, the lessons of AI, playing software as a musical instrument, the alchemy of sound design, and creating dynamic musical form. Establishing foundations that music production students, professionals, and hobbyists can build on when thinking creatively in their own work, this book is a fascinating insight into the art of electronic musicianship.

Romance in the Digital Game

Edited by Amy Brierley-Bearé

Series: Routledge Advances in Popular Culture Studies

Book title positions optional romance in the AAA game as a central object of analysis. Based on the close analysis of some of the most commercially and culturally significant games of the last 30 years like Grand Theft Auto IV (2008), the Mass Effect series (2007-2021), and the Elder Scrolls series (1994-2024). Through theorising four representational categories of romance—Limerent, Physical, Domestic, and Ludic—Automatic Love introduces a new theoretical framework for scholars to understand romance, gender, and sexuality in gaming.

Soviet Narratology and Spatial Story Design

The Unintentional Storyteller

Sylke Rene Meyer Northeastern University, USA

Series: Routledge Research in Cultural and Media Studies

Based on Soviet narratology, this book offers a genealogy of spatial, user-centric story design and its current applications, situating spatial story design as medium sui generis that evolved as a counter-narrative to agonal games on the one hand, and in distinction to linear narrative such as classical novels and cinema on the other hand. Delineating how Soviet narratology had a formative—yet somehow unnamed—influence on the development of structuralist and post-structuralist narrative theory, this book will be essential for academics and artists in performance art, game design, interactive storytelling, narratology, philosophy, AI research, and Human-Machine-Interaction.

Teaching User Experience

A Process Approach

Edited by Heather Turner, Emma Rose

Series: ATTW Series in Technical and Professional Communication

Outlining a process approach, this book offers a theoretical and pedagogical framework for how to teach User Experience (UX) from a Technical and Professional Communication (TPC) perspective. The book includes case studies that showcase innovative teaching using the six-stage process such as creating accessible products for community partners with disabilities and culturally responsive content using indigenous research methods. It will appeal to instructors teaching UX within TPC programs and administrators interested in curricular innovation to bring more UX into their programs. The collection can also be used for postgraduate pedagogy courses offered within TPC programs.

The Discursive-Digital Link

Antagonism and Polarisation in Digital Spaces

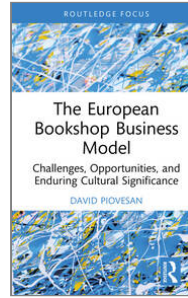

Ehsan Dehghan Queensland University of Technology, Australia

We are in a state of crisis. Democracy is under threat, authoritarian politics are on the rise, and digital media—once heralded as emancipatory technologies—are increasingly implicated in democratic erosion. The Discursive-Digital Link offers a critical framework for understanding the entangled relationships between discourse, digital media, and the hidden dynamics behind antagonism and polarisation. By revealing the logics of discursive-digital alliances and active passivity, Dehghan provides critical insights for academics, activists, and anyone seeking to foster progressive togetherness.

The Meme as the Message

Digital Culture Between Algorithm, Affect, and Aesthetics

Joanna Nowotny University of Bern, Germany, Julian Reidy University of Bern, Germany

Series: Routledge Studies in New Media and Cyberculture

This book sheds light on the phenomenon of memes, covering everything from pandemic humour to far-right propaganda, from feminist memes to algorithmic censorship. Memes are far more than light entertainment - they are complex cultural artefacts that play a role in politics, in art, and in platform economics. Offering an important contribution not only to the still young field of meme studies, but also to the general negotiations of questions around digital literacy, this book will interest not only scholars and students of digital media, visual communication, cultural studies, and media and politics, but anyone with a keen interest in digital culture - and how it shapes our lives.

A Guide to Academic Writing

How to Tame Your Essay

Edited by Irina Rupp

A Guide to Academic Writing: How to Tame Your Essay presents a holistic approach to writing in academia. At the heart of the book is a four-week course with each week dedicated to a specific aspect of the writer's training, and each day dedicated to one of the five components of the writing process. The course is supplemented by additional materials called 'weekend readings', featuring personal stories about writing challenges, reflections on conversations with students and discussions of writing samples.

Giving Voice to Exile in Literature

The Burdens and Privileges of Inheritance

Edited by Asher Z. Milbauer, James M. Sutton

Giving Voice to Exile in Literature: The Burdens and Privileges of Inheritance aims to provide undergraduate, graduate and professional readers with a nuanced understanding of how the unique status of exile, issues of displacement, complexities of cultural identity formation, the state of in-betweenness (liminality), and alienation shape fundamental human experiences. By acknowledging the burdensome traumatic travails of their ancestors, the contributors find pleasure and privilege in their filial and professional responsibility to bear witness to the resiliency of the human spirit, transcending exile, which Joseph Conrad called an "unnatural state of existence."

Global Urban Spaces

Reimagining the City in Salman Rushdie's Novels

Madhumita Roy Department of Architecture, Jadavpur University, Kolkata, India, Anjali Gera Roy Indian Institute of Technology, Kharagpur, India

From the pre-Islamic Jahilia, early modern Sikri and Florence, to postcolonial Bombay and Karachi, cities have played a pivotal role in Salman Rushdie's fiction. This book focuses on spatial concerns and urban imaginaries in his works, challenging the dominant metropolitan discourse on cities under globalization. Rushdie's works prominently feature cities of the Global South while they explores in great detail the figure of the postcolonial migrant. This book analyses the dynamic cities described in Midnight's Children (1981), The Satanic Verses (1988), The Moor's Last Sigh (1995) and The Ground Beneath Her Feet (1999) and discusses the idea of the global-urban.

Heroines of the Postmodern and their Worlds in Contemporary Historical Fiction

Edited by Alicja Bemben, Michael Joseph

Series: Routledge Research in Women's Literature

This volume focuses on historical fiction written by and for women, approximately, in the last 30 years and across the entire globe. It comprises three parts. The first one draws on the theme of the inner life and experiences of the female historical figure, the second one is concerned with genre-bending that fuels the construction of the vast majority of story worlds within the genre, and the third one with the idea of unusual angles that the historical fiction storytelling employs

Hybrid Novels

Post-postmodernism, Sincerity, and Race at the Turn of the 21st Century

George Kowalik

Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Literature

Hybrid Novels answers long-gestating questions in Contemporary Literary Studies about how to define post-postmodernism. It suggests that hybridity is the solution to this problem. It negotiates a balance between postmodern irony and post-postmodern sincerity, which existing studies have more often placed in opposition.

Hybridity, Identity and Belonging in the Poetry of Moniza Alvi and Choman Hardi

Writing Home

James Davey

Series: Routledge Studies in Comparative Literature

This book explores how contemporary British poets navigate the complex and often contested concept of 'home'. Focusing on the works of Moniza Alvi and Choman Hardi, as well as other contemporary poets, this book examines how 'home' is constructed through language, memory, and lived experience, existing as both a physical place and an evolving process of becoming. Drawing on postcolonial theory, diasporic perspectives, and literary representations of place, the book investigates themes of exile, hybridity, and the intersections of personal and national identity.

Hyperglossia and the Novel

The Production of (Non) Space

Elidio La Torre Lagares

Series: Routledge Studies in Latin American and Iberian Literature

A radical theorization of hyperglossia as a post-narrative condition, this book explores how language, identity, and space collapse into recursive textual excess. Through transdisciplinary readings, it charts a poetics of uncontainable meaning, proposing hyperglossia as the dispositif of our saturated, spectral, and increasingly unreadable present.

Magical Realism in Twenty-First-Century Transnational Fiction

The Global Supernatural

D. Chichester

Series: Routledge Studies in Speculative Fiction

Magical Realism in Twenty-First-Century Transnational Fiction: The Global Supernatural offers a much-needed re-evaluation of magical realism, moving beyond traditional postcolonial frameworks to explore its vibrant evolution in the 21st century. Analysing the works of contemporary authors like Helen Oyeyemi, Mohsin Hamid, Preeta Samarasan and Junot Díaz, this book explores how magical realism has been adapted to depict the complex, fluid identities and experiences of migrants and their children in a globalised world. By employing the psychoanalytic concept of relationality, it examines the intricate interplay between cultures, beliefs and personal narratives.

Muslim Writing, Writing Muslimness in Europe

Transcultural Perspectives

Edited by Carmen Zamorano Llana, Billy Gray Dalarna University, Sweden, Carolina León Vegas, Carles Magrinyà Badiella

Series: Literary Criticism and Cultural Theory

This collection of essays adds complexity to existing analyses of contemporary Muslim writing and writing about Muslims and Islam in the European context by emphasizing the comparative perspective of writings produced in different epochs and different linguistic and cultural contexts. Drawing on transcultural and world-literature perspectives, as well as on Critical Muslim Studies principles, Muslim writing is redefined so as to incorporate genres other than the novel and critical approaches that expand on disciplinary redefinitions of literature and literary studies.

Neighbourly Relationships in Early Modern Drama

Staged Communities

Iman Sheeha

Series: Routledge Studies in Renaissance Literature and Culture

This is the first book on neighbourly relationships in early modern English drama. Situating four unique, generically diverse plays within both contemporary prescriptive literature and the lived realities of neighbouring in the period, it argues that neighbourly relationships were as complex then as they continue to be today. Using a range of primary materials, it challenges the validity of any grand narratives surrounding the experience of early modern neighbouring and offers revisionist readings of both historical and critical paradigms.

Novel Friendships and Community in Cervantes's "Don Quixote"

Marsha S. Collins

Novel Friendships analyzes Don Quixote through the critical lens of friendship studies. Turning a critical spotlight on the friendship of Don Quixote and Sancho Panza, this book examines the formation, growth, and dynamics of their friendship as the nucleus of the first modern novel in the West and the source of the work's enduring power. It also studies the theme of amity in relationship to the evolving concept of community as a throughline in Cervantes's fiction in, before, and after Don Quixote. This book shows the power of the arts, especially storytelling, to build friendships and community

Reading T. S. Eliot

The Rose Garden and After (1930s–1950s)

Edited by Dídac Llorens-Cubedo, Viorica Patea

Series: Routledge Studies in Twentieth-Century Literature

Eliot, increasingly interested in playwriting, completed his meditative masterpiece (Four Quartets) while undertaking his ambitious project to revive verse drama. As a critic, he widened his scope to write about social issues. These aspects of Eliot's career are influenced by concrete historical and biographical circumstances such as the impact of war and his ongoing relationship with Emily Hale, who played a decisive role as his muse, guide, and mentor in his newfound passion for the stage. Reading T. S. Eliot: The Rose Garden and After (1930s-1950s) presents original work by numerous scholars addressing these facets of Eliot's writing.

Edited by Anjali I. Gunaratne, Jeffrey Lawrence

This book addresses the rise of the concept of the "Global Anglophone" in contemporary literary studies, both as an intellectual category and as a field designation. Moving beyond traditional postcolonial frameworks, it investigates how this emerging paradigm is reshaping our understanding of modern English-language literature across geographical boundaries. Through rigorous analysis and argumentation, the contributors demonstrate how this conceptual transformation reflects broader changes in academic field structures, job markets, and our understanding of world literature.

The Human and the Machine in Literature and Culture

Cultures of Automation

Edited by Kate Foster, Molly Crozier

Series: Perspectives on the Non-Human in Literature and Culture

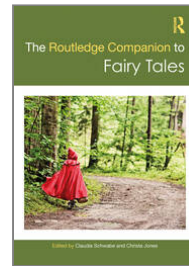

The Human and Machine in Literature and Culture argues that thought experiments in literature demonstrate how fears and hopes around automation may have more basis in imagination than reality. The volume asks how these understandings of automation can help to understand our technological present, and our increasingly technologized future.

The Satire of the New Black Renaissance

Open-Source Blackness

Kamil Chrzczonowicz

Series: Routledge Studies in African American Literature

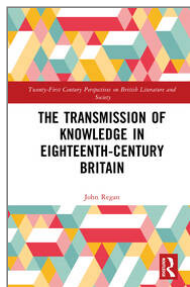

How do twenty-first-century Black satirists rewrite American ideas of race? This book plunges into the New Black Renaissance—a flowering of the 2000s and 2010s African American culture—and argues that its most potent tool is anti-essentialist satire. The study traces what Baratunde Thurston calls "Open-source Blackness," an ethos that prizes individuality, inclusivity, and remix.

Theorising Oliver Jeffers' Picturebooks

From How to Catch a Star to Now

Jade Dillon-Craig

Series: Routledge Focus on Literature

Theorising Oliver Jeffers' Picturebooks examines semiotic, affective, and metafictional storytelling in Oliver Jeffers' postmodern picturebooks from a multi-theoretical approach. This volume provides fresh insight into Jeffers' iconotextual narratives through textual and visual analysis, exploring how his multimodal texts construct childhood and evoke emotional resonances. From How to Catch a Star (2004) to Where to Hide a Star (2024), this book journeys through the mindscapes of Jeffers' design and analyses the nuances of metafictional storytelling from a postmodern perspective.

Transmodern Literatures in the 21st Century

Of(f) Limits

Edited by Claus-Peter Neumann, Pilar Royo-Grasa

Series: Routledge Studies in Contemporary Literature

Transmodern Literatures in the 21st Century offers an in-depth look into how transmodern literatures in English of the last two decades have been dealing with the phenomenon of the limit. It examines how geographical, racial, ethnical, sociocultural, generical, ontological, epistemological and other limits are articulated, transgressed and reconfigured in recent narratives by authors writing in a wide variety of transmodern trends such as Afro- and Africanfuturism, Young Adult feminist science fiction, food fiction, air travel fiction, the networked novel and future narratives amongst others.

Unveiling the Sacred in 20th and 21st-Century Latin American Literature

Edited by Alexander Torres, Pablo Baisotti University of Brasília, Brazil

Series: Routledge Studies in Latin American and Iberian Literature

Through an interdisciplinary approach, this collection delves into the interplay between modernity and sacred traditions in contemporary Latin America as represented in its literature, drawing on diverse scholarly and theoretical perspectives. It references important historical contexts, from the encounter of the Old and New Worlds to cultural mestizaje, highlighting the resilience of sacred discourse and experience amid a disenchanting capitalist modernity. Featuring analyses of diverse 20th and 21st-century literary works, this book offers deep insights into how the sacred persists multifariously in Latin American literature.

Variations of the Hero's Journey in Contemporary British, French and Australian Picture Books about the Great War

Reimagining the Horrors of the Past

Martin Kerby University of Southern Queensland, Denise Burkhard University of Bonn, Germany, Alison Bedford Uni of Southern Queensland, AUS, Marion Gymnich University of Bonn, Germany, Margaret Baguley University of Southern Queensland, Australia

This book is grounded in the belief that every nation had its own 'Great War', and that children's picture books are an important barometer of each country's national approach. It further maintains that the specific historical context of the Great War in these children's picture books can be used to identify a variant of the hero's journey: the 'ordinary soldier's journey.' This analysis of children's picture books about the Great War through the lens of Campbell's hero's journey will be of interest to both students and researchers in the fields of children's literature, literary theory, history, cultural studies and education

Contemporary Archival Fiction

A Multimodal Cognitive Stylistic Approach

Elin Ivansson

Series: Routledge Studies in Multimodality

This book presents a synthesised framework for analysing archival poetics in multimodal literature, examining case studies from 21st-century American fiction toward elucidating the archival turn in contemporary literature more broadly. Ivansson turns her focus on multimodal archival fiction, here understood as works which engage with archival practices of collecting and organising both verbal text and visual inclusions of fictional and factual archival material, such as photographs, sketches, notes, and newspaper clippings. This volume will appeal to students and scholars in multimodality, stylistics, American literature, and literary studies.

Expanding the Horizons of Translation-Induced Language Change

Migration Terminology in Multilingual Texts

Edward Clay

Series: Routledge Advances in Translation and Interpreting Studies

This book offers a comprehensive examination of translation-induced language change, arguing for a view of translation as a language contact scenario supported by case studies from multilingual texts on migration. The volume explores how language change arises through contact between languages in translation with linguistic features carrying over from a source text and becoming embedded, over time, in a target language. This book will appeal to scholars interested in the intersection of language and the law, in such fields as translation studies, corpus linguistics, and terminology.

Fundamentals of Integrationism and Foundations of Meaning

Xuan Fang Hanshan Normal University, China

Series: Routledge Advances in Communication and Linguistic Theory

This book looks at a long-standing question about "meaning" and the human experience — specifically, why meaning seems easy to recognize but hard to fully explain, especially from the perspective of integrationism. Fang pins down the fundamentals of Roy Harris's integrational linguistics and explores the relation between the nature of meaningfulness and human condition — the given features of human beings and human activities. This is a valuable read for anyone interested in integrationism, language theory, or the deeper questions about how meaning works.

Historical Medical Discourse

Corpus Linguistic Perspectives

Edited by Gavin Brookes, Niall Curry Manchester Metropolitan University, UK, Tony McEnery, Emma Putland

Series: Routledge Advances in Corpus Linguistics

This collection showcases original research highlighting innovations in the application of corpus linguistic methods to the study of English historical medical discourse. The volume builds on recent work expanding the contours of health communication research to extend to medical texts of the past, whose preservation allows for a clearer understanding of changes to medical knowledge and practices over time through their production, reception, and use. This book will be of interest to scholars in corpus linguistics, discourse analysis, medical humanities, and historical linguistics.

Innovations and Challenges in Digital Literacies

Literacies of Repair

Rodney H. Jones

Series: Innovations and Challenges in Applied Linguistics

Innovations and Challenges in Digital Literacies questions whether theoretical frameworks and pedagogical practices around digital literacies are sufficient to confront the current technological, social and political crises that we face. Jones invites readers to see themselves not just as users of digital technology, but as fixers of broken systems—and caretakers of our increasingly fragile world. This book provides a framework for educators, students and researchers to collaboratively develop practical strategies to challenge the logics of technological and social systems, cultivating new literacies for an age of online misinformation, algorithmic governance and generative AI.

Metacognitive Listening Instruction in the Second Language Classroom

Integrating Theory, Method, and Practice

Naheen Madarbakus-Ring University of Tsukuba, Japan

Series: Routledge Research in Language Education

This book addresses the gap between listening theory and practice by providing an outline of listening theory, offering practical listening methods, and presenting how metacognitive instruction can be integrated into real lesson practice. Applying these methods to teaching and learning can provide educators with the instructional guidance needed to offer their learners some tangibility in second language (L2) listening. This book is a useful resource for academics, scholars, educators, and curriculum designers in the field of applied linguistics, L2 language learning, and foreign language education.

Multilingualism as Opportunity

An Integrated Perspective on English and Languages Education in Australia

Edited by Marianne Turner Monash University, Australia, Bill Green Charles Sturt University, Australia

This book addresses how language is conceptualised in Australian schooling to deliver a better understanding of how multilingualism can be incorporated into everyday teaching and learning, practice and policy. By integrating different educational domains – namely, subject English, teaching English to speakers of other languages (TESOL), Languages as a subject area, and the learning of languages across the curriculum – the text (re-)frames language(s) learning for all students. This is an invaluable resource for students and academics in disciplines related to language(s) and education, as well as teacher educators, school leaders, and practitioners.

The Language of Democratization

Roles, Social Positions, and Discourse

Edited by Svenja Kranich, Simone Knewitz, Daniela Pirazzini, Hanna Bruns

Series: Routledge Studies in Applied Linguistics

Since the 1960s, liberal values such as non-discrimination, equal participation of all in social, political, and cultural spheres, and individual freedom have driven processes of democratization in Western societies – a trend that has recently been countered by the resurgence of illiberal forces, right-wing populism, and authoritarianism. This volume examines processes of democratization and de-democratization from an interdisciplinary perspective, showing how they unfold in language, cultural discourses, and communicative practices. ural studies, education, political science, and sociology.

On Qian Zhongshu's Conceptualization of Translation

Bridging Worlds between the East and the West

Chang Chung-An

Series: Routledge Studies in Chinese Translation

This book brings new perspective and insights to the discipline of translation studies at a time when Western theories dominate its main discourse. Through a meticulous analysis of Qian's profound, though stylistically fragmentary, commentaries, the author reveals how his comparative vision creates connections by breaking down linguistic and cultural barriers, challenging notions of untranslatability that often hinder cross-cultural exchange, and anticipating an inclusive and globalized understanding of translation so urgently needed today.

From Page to Stage

How Theatre Designers Make Connections Between Scripts and Images

Rosemary Ingham, Jamie Bullins

The second edition of this industry classic explores the relationship among text analysis, imagination, and creation of theatrical design. How does a designer harness something as elusive as imagination to create a world that will enhance a dramatic production? What steps are involved in making the jump from a script's text to an imaginative stage? The book explores these questions, offers advice for reading and understanding playscripts, and provides a clear method for identifying, collecting, and organizing script facts. Updated with new interviews, illustrations, and current processes, this guide will inform student and working designers on how to design a script for the stage.

Authentic Voices

An Australian Perspective on Neurodiversity in the Performing Arts

Edited by Robert Lewis Charles Sturt University, Australia,
Dan Graham

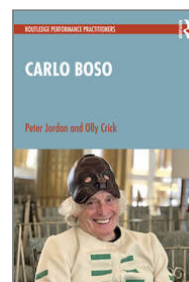

This book explores neurodiversity in the performing arts through personal stories of artists navigating training and industry pressures. Drawing on interviews with 12 Australian performing arts practitioners, it highlights the need for safer, inclusive spaces. It adopts an auto-ethnographic approach. It is particularly useful for educators, theatre practitioners, and policymakers seeking to create more inclusive and supportive environments for neurodiverse artists. By offering firsthand accounts and practical insights, it equips readers with a deeper understanding of the barriers and enablers within training institutions and the performing arts industry, fostering meaningful change.

Carlo Boso

Peter Jordan, Olly Crick

Series: Routledge Performance Practitioners

Carlo Boso is one of the foremost exponents of Commedia dell'Arte in the contemporary performance world, having trained generations of young actors in its history, techniques and performance. Staying true to – and promoting renewed awareness of – the diverse cultural and linguistic backgrounds of most commedia troupes, his work has also done a great deal to democratise this central pillar of European theatre, placing the actor and the audience squarely at the centre of his craft. As a first step towards critical understanding, and as an initial exploration before going on to further, primary research, Routledge Performance Practitioners offer unbeatable value for today's student.

Directorless Shakespeare

Transformations through collective Embodied Literary Criticism

Elena M. Pellone

Series: Routledge Advances in Theatre & Performance Studies

Challenging received scholarship on the practice of Shakespeare's theatre, this book displaces a contemporary cultural bias towards leadership models to reconsider possibilities of working in a non-hierarchical and inclusive creative theatrical practice. It offers ways of restoring to actors a sense of what the Existentialists termed "autonomy" that Shakespeare's company would have embodied. Directorless Shakespeare will be of great interest to students and scholars in theatre and performance studies, professional practitioners, and historians.

Documentary and Verbatim Theatre

Tracing Methodologies and Practitioners

Stuart Young

Documentary and Verbatim Theatre surveys the emergence and rise of work based on real life in contemporary theatre, exploring the artists, methodologies, plays and central themes that have characterised its enduring popularity. After charting the recent history of modern documentary theatre in the twentieth century and the debates that have surrounded it in the past thirty years, each chapter examines in depth key practices and practitioners. This is an essential introduction to documentary and verbatim theatre for theatre studies students, teachers, and scholars, as well as theatre practitioners.

Laughter, Power, and the Unconscious

Researching Emotional Responses in a Contemporary Audience Spectating Early Modern Comedy at the Globe Theatre

Maria Grazia Turri, Bridget Escolme Queen Mary, University of London, UK

Series: Audience Research

Laughter, Power, and the Unconscious presents groundbreaking research on humor's psychological and sociopolitical aspects. Based on Shakespeare's Globe experiments, it proposes humor as "manic defence," challenging Freudian theory while examining Renaissance comedy and exploring how humor both subverts and reinforces power structures.

Staging Monstrous Bodies

Questioning Normative Orders

Edited by Michael Mark Chemers UC Santa Cruz, USA, Ekaterina Trachsel, Gerald Siegmund

Staging Monstrous Bodies: Questioning Normative Orders brings together global perspectives from leading and emerging scholars to explore the intersections of monster studies and performances studies. Divided into three parts, the volume explores the connection between monstrosity and performance, such as representations of violence, gender and sexuality contexts, disability studies perspectives, anti-racism and post-colonial issues, and monstrosity as an artistic practice and dramaturgical process. With its global scope, Staging Monstrous Bodies is an essential book for theater, dance, and performance students at all levels, as well as for scholars in these fields.

Western Drama Confronts Selfish Humanity

Dramatic Altruisms

William W. Demastes

Series: Routledge Advances in Theatre & Performance Studies

Western theatre has consistently challenged the idea that humans are inherently selfish. Through dramatic works spanning millennia, theatre explores the balance between selfish and selfless behavior, suggesting that altruism is not merely idealistic but essential for human survival and flourishing—contradicting traditional social-Darwinist emphasis on selfishness as evolutionary necessity.

Heaviness in Metal Music Production

Volumes I and II

Jan-Peter Herbst , Mark Mynett

This 2-volume set, comprised of Heaviness in Metal Music Production, Volume I: How and Why It Works and Heaviness in Metal Music Production, Volume II: Learn from the Masters, offers insights into the production of heaviness in theory and practice. Drawing on interviews and engineering documentation, the distinguishing feature of the study is the song 'In Solitude', which was written, recorded, and produced by the researchers themselves. This set serves as both a practical primer for professional musicians, recording engineers, and producers, and a vital resource for students of music technology and production, ethnomusicology, cultural studies, media, and communication.

Iris Murdoch and Early Childhood Education

Enhancing Attention and Moral Vision in Pedagogy

Andrea Delaune University of Canterbury, New Zealand

Series: Contesting Early Childhood

What relevance does the philosophy of Iris Murdoch have to offer to our understanding of early childhood education? In "Iris Murdoch and Early Childhood Education", Andrea Delaune establishes the importance of attention, moral imagination, and moral vision for early childhood pedagogy. Delaune presents critical examinations of policy, pedagogy, and values for teaching, as well as practical examples of attention in action that will be of interest to teachers and educationalists alike. The text will be particularly relevant to those engaged in the study of early childhood education, including those pursuing initial teacher education and currently working in the field.

3RD EDITION

Essential Motivation in the Classroom

Seven Keys for Unlocking Your Students' Learning

Ian Gilbert Educational innovator, Founder of Independent Thinking

A great deal has changed in the world of education since Essential Motivation in the Classroom was first published in 2002. Then again, nothing has really changed at all: schools are still under pressure to raise standards, government ministers go along with various educational fads, initiatives and silver bullets, young people are still young people and teachers are still looking for ways to motivate their students to do their best which is why this new, updated third edition of Ian Gilbert's bestselling and classic text is very much needed.

Improving Maths Pedagogy and Practice (IMPP) Scale

An international self-reflection and quality improvement tool for educators working within early primary and elementary schools

Denise Kingston University of Oxford, University of Sussex, Iram Siraj University of Oxford, University of Maynooth, Judy Barrett Former primary school teacher, PGCE

The Improving Maths Pedagogy and Practice scale (IMPP) is an innovative way of assessing and improving the quality and effectiveness of mathematics teaching in the first few years of primary or elementary schooling. It is informed by evidence-based practice shown to improve children's outcomes and extensive professional development led by the authors. The IMPP will help teachers develop children's mathematical understanding, reasoning and problem solving. Educators can use the scale for self-evaluation, while leadership teams can audit quality and set targets. The scale is particularly useful when supporting children living with disadvantage or with additional learning needs.

A Curriculum of Courage, Conviction, Resolve

The Subjective Necessity of Nonviolence

William F. Pinar University of British Columbia, Canada

Series: Studies in Curriculum Theory Series

The world is periodically consumed in violence, in recent years by the Russian invasion of Ukraine, Hamas' October 7th terrorism in Israel, and by the genocide of Palestinians in Gaza by Israelis in response. To this world-historical situation, this book attempts a curriculum studies response. Drawing on foundational texts from Hongyu Wang, James B. Burns, Christopher Cruz, and Molly Quinn, as well as his own work on violence, Pinar considers nonviolence as a counterpart to the many forms of violence that are ever present in our modern world.

Children Who Survived a School Shooting and Chose to Teach

The Case of Columbine, Navigating Shared Trauma, and the Ethics of Care

Michelle Markert-Porter

Series: Routledge Research in Crises Education

Written from the perspective of a Columbine shooting survivor, this book documents the experiences of a group of school shooting survivors who became teachers. Participants share stories about bullying at Columbine and how teachers saved lives, as well as ideas on how to decrease school shootings, and views on arming teachers. The book concludes with survivor-informed best practices for US schools, adding an essential perspective to debates about teacher responsibility in preventing school shootings. This book is an essential resource for researchers, faculty, scholars, and post-graduate students with interests in education, criminology, restorative justice, and trauma studies.

Helping Students Become Climate Stewards

Storytelling for Environmental Advocacy and Problem-Solving

Xochitl Bentley

This resource examines the way storytelling can play a role in environmental problem-solving and climate stewardship. The author examines habits, myths, and mindsets that threaten our planet's ecosystems, and presents 'counter-stories' to build your middle and secondary students' capacity for environmental advocacy. Via practical entry points and pathways for lesson and unit design, educators can use narrative to help students envision themselves as systems thinkers, activists, problem solvers, and more. Ideal for any secondary educator grappling with climate change, this resource encourages inquiry investigation through the power of storytelling to cultivate climate stewardship.

Improving Learning in Physical Education

A Practice to Theory Approach

Edited by Susan Capel Brunel University, UK, Joanne Cliffe, Julia Lawrence University of Hull.

Improving Learning in Physical Education identifies some key challenges in physical education that impact on pupils' learning, looking at how they manifest over time and suggesting what teachers can do to address them. Each chapter features a real-life case study to illustrate a specific challenge and identify some possible causes. It then draws on theory, research and evidence that might explain what is happening. Many chapters are co-written by practising teachers and teacher educators and all include key takeaways and reflections, making this essential reading for all secondary physical education teachers.

Inclusive Journeys

Addressing Marginalisation in Schools

Kyriaki Messiou University of Southampton, UK

There is considerable interest in inclusion and equity in schools, however, widespread confusion accompanies what this means for policy and practice in the field. In Inclusive Journeys, Kyriaki Messiou draws on her involvement in a series of international development and research projects over thirty years to propose a new way of thinking about inclusive education. The book is relevant to researchers and academics focusing on developing inclusion in schools through collaborative forms of research. It will also be of interest to teachers of all ages, and to students on initial teacher education courses, undergraduate and postgraduate courses.

Holistic Admissions as a Global Phenomenon

Improving Higher Education Practices and Policies

Edited by Michael N. Bastedo

This edited book brings together leading scholars to share ongoing research on the diffusion of holistic admissions practices around the world. Many countries have adopted holistic admissions practices, and some have used them for incoming students for over two decades, but these developments have been rarely noted in policy and media discussions about university admissions. Chapters in this volume explore the similar challenges global institutions face related to college access, admissions transparency, and the potential for corruption, and how their admissions practices affect equity, access, and student diversity.

Teacher-Researcher Collaborations as Contexts for Learning

Edited by Susan R Goldman, Cindy E. Hmelo-Silver, Eleni A. Kyza

Collaborative design in which both teachers and researchers participate can be a powerful context for capacity- and knowledge-building. However, typically the focus is on what and how teachers learn through co-design efforts. As important is how researchers learn through co-design with teachers. The chapters in this volume exemplify a range of co-design contexts and thereby illuminate different expansive learning contexts for teachers and researchers. This book was originally published as a special issue of Cognition and Instruction.

The Global Education Policy Field

Theorization and Problematization

Edited by D. Brent Edwards Jr

This book challenges conventional approaches to global education policy (GEP) by exploring its often-overlooked onto-epistemic and religio-spiritual dimensions. Through eight thought-provoking chapters, leading scholars critically examine how fundamental questions of knowing, being, and worldview shape the field's theoretical foundations and practical implications. From Vietnam's educational exchange with Mozambique to Christian normativity in higher education, the chapters offer diverse perspectives on how colonial legacies, religious frameworks, and philosophical traditions continue to influence educational policy and practice worldwide.

Addressing Racism and Ableism in the Classroom and Teacher Education

Case Studies of Special Education Teachers of Color

Salli S. Kulkarni

Series: Theory to Practice in Critical and Social Justice Education

This book centers the often overlooked narratives of special education teachers of color as a vehicle for analyzing tensions of race and disability. These educators, who work and may themselves live at the intersection of these identities, are uniquely positioned to develop approaches to counter racism and ableism. Through five critical case studies, this book offers replicable practices with urgent implications for teacher education. Building toward a framework synthesizing DisCrit and Culturally Sustaining Pedagogies, these narratives refuse deficit readings of disability among students of color and prepare teachers to model collective joy and pride in their identities.

Essays on Nature and the Philosophy of Environmental Education

Edited by Michael Bonnett, Justin Dillon, Alan Reid
Monash University, Australia

The volume identifies and debates important elements of what would be involved in an education that is truly adequate for the environmental situation that currently confronts us. The chapters in the book present a wide variety of perspectives and raise questions about much mainstream environmental education, particularly the heavy emphasis given to science in understanding environmental problems and to technology for solving them. Consideration is given to the need for a curriculum in which morality, poetry and myth, art and the humanities, have key roles to play and where our understandings of the qualities of time and space that frame the curriculum are refreshed.

Ideologies of English in Taiwan's Language Schools

Storying Identity, Power, Privilege and Hope

Amanda J. Fiore

Series: Routledge Critical Studies in Asian Education

This timely, critical book presents an accessible glimpse into the beliefs and ideologies of English that govern Taiwan's private language schools. Drawing on the original analysis of over sixty hours of in-depth interviews with 43 teachers and students, as well as the author's personal experience teaching English in Asia, a combination of thematic analysis and storytelling are used to better understand the meaning of English in Taiwan, and its impact on Taiwanese and foreign teachers. A guide that offers academics, policymakers, educators and English school owners insight into the belief systems and ideologies of English that create power and privilege in Taiwan's schools.

Law as Civic Education

Reimagining a K-12 Curriculum for Democratic Citizenship and Individual Character

Ariel Liberman Assistant Professor in Law and Legal Studies at Auburn University, USA.

Series: Routledge Research in Character and Virtue Education

If civic education is an essential foundation for a functioning democracy, how should it be taught? This book offers an innovative solution, arguing that—far from abandoning the oft-emphasized, but little realized promise of civic education as a means of cultivating critical thinking skills and democratic character—we should embrace it, proposing a reimagined civic education founded in teaching primary and secondary school students law and legal reasoning. This compelling and deeply original work will be of interest to scholars and educators in the fields of civic education, democracy studies, character and virtue education, law and legal studies, and philosophy of education.

The Adoption of Artificial Intelligence and Inertia in Higher Education

Exploring Complex Resistance to Technological Change

James Hutson

Series: Routledge Research in the Sociology of Education

This research monograph explores the complex resistance to integrating Artificial Intelligence (AI) within higher education institutions. Despite the significant potential of AI to enhance education, faculty adoption remains inconsistent and is often met with skepticism. It points to actionable strategies for overcoming these barriers, and will be relevant for scholars, researchers, advanced students and educators grappling with issues navigating technological integration in academia, and with interests in the sociology of education, educational technology, and higher education administration.

The Diversity Paradox in International Education

A Critical Examination of Discourses of Difference

Lucy Bailey University of Bahrain, Bahrain

Series: Routledge Research in the Sociology of Education

This volume presents an investigation of the diversity paradox, positing that diversity has become a tool for distinguishing and legitimating the concept of educated Western elites, and arguing for a major reconceptualization of diversity in different social and cultural contexts within international education. Critiquing diversity as a rhetoric device that perpetuates structural and systemic inequalities, the book explores how diverse perspectives can be brought to discussion of diversity itself. It will appeal to scholars, postgraduate students, and researchers in the fields of the sociology of education, international and comparative education, and higher education.

Transformations of Higher Education in BRICS

Policy, Procedures, and Practice

Edited by Nicholas Sun-Keung Pang, Ewelina K. Niemczyk

Series: China's Education Modernization 2035

The book aims to study the current transformations of higher education in the BRICS countries. The conditions imposed by the pandemic exposed many vulnerabilities in higher education systems, but also provided valuable lessons that led to the implementation of effective changes. Contributors from the five BRICS member states present research findings and critical views on the recent development of higher education in their own countries. The book will appeal to researchers, policy-makers, and postgraduate students in higher education, educational governance, and comparative education.

The Shifting Geopolitics of Higher Education: Knowledge, Power, Protest

Edited by Katja Brøgger Aarhus University, Denmark, Hannah Moscovitz Aarhus University, Denmark, Susan L. Robertson University of Manchester, UK, Jenny J. Lee University of Arizona, USA

Series: World Yearbook of Education

The World Yearbook of Education 2026 discusses the shifting geopolitics of Higher Education (HE), directly engaging with an urgent call to theorize the academy as a site of power, politics, protest, and possibility. By exploring HE as a central institution caught within competing visions of world order; one rooted in international cooperation, another asserting the nation state, and yet another challenging the very notion of the university as territorially fixed, the book offers a perspective on the university, which is in line with pivotal global developments. It is a must-read for anyone interested in the new geopolitics of HE and the future of the university globally.

An Ed-Tech Tragedy?

Educational Technologies and School Closures in the Time of COVID-19

Mark West

The COVID-19 pandemic pushed education from schools to educational technologies at a pace and scale with no historical precedent. For hundreds of millions of students formal learning became fully dependent on technology – whether internet-connected digital devices, televisions or radios. In unpacking what went wrong, An Ed-Tech Tragedy? extracts lessons and recommendations to ensure that technology facilitates, rather than subverts, efforts to ensure the universal provision of inclusive, equitable and human-centred public education.

Teaching Literature with Artificial Intelligence

Sustaining Students' Creativity and Autonomy in ELA Classrooms

Eric D. Abrams

Teaching Literature with Artificial Intelligence explores the use of chatbots as participants in the teaching and learning of literature in high school and college classrooms while highlighting potentially outmoded norms and expectations of ELA instruction. Graduate students, teaching faculty, and scholars of teacher education, English and literature education, digital literacies, and learning design will come away with a sharp critique of the purported affordances of chatbots as well as an incisive demonstration of AI as a classroom tool that supports, rather than diminishes, the meaningful learning, critical thinking, and agentic development of young people today.

Learning Designers in Context

Examining Practices Across the Global South

Cover Image

Enilda Romero-Hall

Learning Designers in Context examines learning design across professional sectors, local cultures, and geographic regions in the Global South, addressing the ways in which practitioners effectively draw on the knowledge, skills, and resources available to them. Exploring design and implementation in higher education, corporate, non-profit, and government sectors while attending to urgent cultural and geographic distinctions, these chapters vividly illustrate the roles, challenges, and opportunities of learning designers use in real-world settings home to specific demographics, traditions, socioeconomic parameters, and policy orientations.

Creating Equitable Literacy Learning Environments

A Transformative Model

Helen Adam Edith Cowan University, Australia

This groundbreaking book introduces the Model for Equitable Literacy Learning Environments (MELLE), a comprehensive framework that integrates evidence-based instruction with culturally responsive pedagogy to create truly equitable learning environments for all children. The author examines how three key dimensions – quality instruction, opportunity to read, and authentic representation in reading materials – must work together within supportive cultural and community contexts. Moving beyond polarised literacy debates, this book is a must-read for educators seeking practical solutions to create equitable learning environments that empower learners from a range of backgrounds.

The Phonics Handbook

Fundamentals for Reading Teachers

Mary Jo Fresch

The Phonics Handbook provides a comprehensive guide to phonics by outlining the 44 sounds of English and how they work with its 26 letters to make reading and writing happen. Having a strong knowledge base around these sounds and patterns puts every teacher at an advantage for teaching and assessing how students apply the "code" when they read and write and can amplify their skillful phonics instruction, regardless of the curricular program used. This knowledge also provides a roadmap for understanding and supporting students who might be struggling in reading or writing, thus providing real-time assessment.

Bilingual Literacy Development at Home

A Longitudinal Ethnographic Exploration of Bilingual Reading and Writing

Yang Wang

This book explores pedagogical implications for how children read, write, respond to literature, and begin to learn an additional language in the home context. It explores a bilingual child's literacy development over a span of four years from kindergarten to the third grade in a real-life home context in the United States. It illustrates the child's Mandarin Chinese and English language support at home and charts the development in bilingual reading and writing and learning Spanish as a third language. It will be a valuable resource for literacy researchers, scholars, and bilingual educators with interests in sociolinguistics, literacy education, bilingualism, and translanguaging.

Classed Emotions

Navigating Social Class and Emotions in the Urban Indian and Diasporic Contexts

Edited by Anna Romanowicz, Ahana Choudhury

Series: Urban Futures

This book explores how urban spaces encompass, shape and reconfigure the emotional landscapes and socio-cultural spectres of their inhabitants. It highlights the arenas in which various politics and strategies of emotional relations are represented, created, enacted, and regulated through the inhabitants' lives and lifestyles. Exploring this, the chapters in the volume bring together and analyse the myriad forms of intersections within and between urban centres in India and Indian diaspora, as well as 'classed' emotions.

Are Islamists still Islamists?

An Ontological-Relational Analysis

Sümeyye Sakarya

Series: Routledge Studies in Global and Transnational Politics

This book offers an ontological study of Islamism and its transformation with a specific focus on Türkiye, Bangladesh and Senegal. This book suggests that the scholarship fails to recognise the political, ontological nature of Islamism. It argues that under-theorisation of the political, accompanied by Eurocentrism, hinders a proper understanding of Islamism by engendering state-centrism and obstructing Islamists as political actors by denying them political agency to undertake transformation. This book will appeal to scholars and students of Politics, International Relations, Area Studies, and Sociology, especially those specialising in Islam and Islamism.

Between Cooperation and Conflict

Strategies of Regional Mobilization towards the EU

Edited by Sandrina Antunes, Noé Cornago, Carolyn Rowe, Rachel Minto

This timely book presents conclusive new evidence on paradiplomacy in contemporary Europe, challenging mainstream understanding of how substate actors engage with the European Union. It establishes a fresh framework for understanding paradiplomacy, enriched by examining the domestic impact of independent substate activism on European policy. Through detailed analysis, it demonstrates how substate actors substantively influence the EU agenda, consequently reframing state activism and leadership within formal decision-making spaces.

Chile's Struggles for International Status and Domestic Legitimacy

Standing at the Liberal Order's Edge

Cristóbal Bywaters

Series: New International Relations

Chile's upward trajectory from the 1973 military coup to its accession to the OECD in 2010 shows how foreign policy elites utilise international status to build legitimacy, consolidate power, and shape collective agency in the world. It moves beyond treatments of status as a concern reserved for greater powers, introducing the concept of international status management to explain how small states navigate global and regional hierarchies while advancing domestic political aims. Blending International Relations theory and foreign policy analysis with a historical approach.

Climate Change at the UN Security Council

Protecting Pacific and Caribbean Island States

Ash Murphy Manchester Law School, United Kingdom

Series: Global Governance

This book examines the operation of the United Nations Security Council (UNSC) to better understand the motivating factors that underpin its activation of Article 39. Arguing that climate change should be considered a threat to international peace and security, the theory of securitisation is employed to dissect the UNSC and identify the power dynamics that dictate when and why Article 39 is activated. Exploring how contemporary threats to peace and security can unite the agenda of the UNSC and shedding light on the narratives used to reach consensus, the author considers how this knowledge might be purposed to support the transition of climate change into the realm of Article 39.

Conducting Social Marketing Research

A Practical Guide

Nancy R. Lee University of Washington, USA

High-quality research underpins all effective social marketing, but it can be hard for practitioners to find practical, accessible guidance on conducting, interpreting, and applying research. Conducting Social Marketing Research Efforts: A Practical Guide fills this gap. The book is designed to support research and communication firms in the development of social marketing campaigns.

Consulting Energy

From Judgment to Decision-Making

Arthur Mason

Series: Routledge Explorations in Energy Studies

This book examines a shift in the terrain of energy politics that has given rise to consultant experts as new types of intermediaries capable of orienting crucial decision-making, influencing energy politics, steering governance, and envisioning energy futures. Drawing on fieldwork at executive roundtables in global cities across North America and Europe, the book examines the development and consolidation of consultant expertise and the opulent settings in which it is distributed. By exploring the role of aesthetics and judgement in market-orientated decision-making, the book explores elites, expertise, and ethics by highlighting the relationship between credibility and luxury.

Contesting the Monolith

Intersectionality and Interfaces in the Jewish State of Israel

Priya Singh

The book challenges the notion that Israel is a homogeneous state, whether in theory or in practice. It offers a detailed and critical intersectional analysis of nationalism, ethnicity, gender, and marginality in Israeli society, revealing how these forces converge to produce multiple as well as fused identities within a complex social fabric.

Ecological Natives and Indigenous Class Warriors

The Indigenous Movement in Ecuador and the Uprisings of 2019 and 2022

Philipp Altmann

Series: Routledge Studies in Latin American Politics

The indigenous movement in Ecuador was one of the most influential social movements in Latin America during the 1990s. However, since the early 2000s, it has been in crisis due to problems with national leadership. This only changed in October 2019 when a national uprising led to the movement's reappearance in political attention, the reconstruction of alliances, and a renovation of its discourse. This book helps readers understand the evolution of the Indigenous movement in Ecuador, emphasizing the position and perspectives of the activists and organizations of the indigenous movement and delves into the movement's history and the exploration of its crises and its uprisings.

E-Governance in India

Heralding A New Era of Inclusive Governance

Sangita Dhal, Nachiketa Singh

This comprehensive volume provides a conceptual and theoretical understanding of e-governance and public administration in India. It examines e-governance as a citizen-enabling mechanism to deliver good governance, and as a bridge between the state and the citizens, as well as other stakeholders such as businesses, NGOs, civil society and international agencies. This book will be useful to the students, academics and researchers of public administration, public policy, rural and urban development, law and governance. It will also be beneficial to policymakers and practitioners, NGOs, those in public service and elected people's representatives.

EU Sanctions Litigation

Fundamental Rights and International Security

Alexandre Sztulman

Series: Routledge Research in International Law

This book comprehensively examines the EU judiciary's approach to international sanctions, drawing on recent case law from the Court of Justice and the General Court. It addresses the procedural framework governing judicial review, alongside substantive evaluation of restrictive measures in terms of their legality and conformity with fundamental rights and procedural guarantees. Examining both technical legal issues and broader principles of justice and human rights, the book includes recommendations for refining restrictive measures within the EU. It will be of interest to researchers in the field of EU law, international security, and human rights.

European Energy Security and US-Russian Competition

Power Struggles in a Changing World

Ioanna Mavromati

Series: Routledge Contemporary Russia and Eastern Europe Series

This book argues that the influence of US-Russia security competition on the energy policies of EU member states and on the development of a unified European energy security policy has been significantly underestimated. While most previous studies have focused on internal EU dynamics and the role of Russian interests, this work takes a broader perspective by examining how transatlantic rivalries have shaped European approaches to energy security. The book will be of interest to students and researchers in geopolitics, international relations, energy politics, regional studies, and European studies.

Foreign Aid of Gulf States

Continuity and Change

Edited by Mohammad Yaghi, Hanaa Almoaibed, Silvia Colombo Istituto Affari Internazionali, Italy

Series: ThirdWorlds

This book explores how Gulf States' foreign aid strategies have transformed in the wake of 9/11 and the 2011 Arab Uprisings. It traces the shift from a solidarity-based model to aid increasingly driven by political and military objectives, particularly in conflict zones like Yemen, Libya, and Syria. The book analyzes enduring traits and evolving trends in aid allocation, highlighting a growing emphasis on humanitarian assistance, transparency, and alignment with global governance norms. Yet, a persistent preference for bilateral aid raises questions about long-term impact and transparency.

Informal Governance and Crisis

How Invisible, Everyday Tactics of Survival Affect, Reshape and Redesign Policymaking and Governance

Edited by Joseph P. Helou, Abel Polese Dublin City University, Ireland

Series: ThirdWorlds

The book shows how an increase in the volume and scope of informal practices, in addition to the repetition of these practices over time, culminate in the rise of new modes of governance. It reveals that these new governance dynamics can supplant the state, defy state rules and/or complement state capacities. The analyses and reflections in this book provide policy makers with valuable insights to deal with governance in post-crises situations, while recognizing the role of informality in this process.

Muslims of Uttar Pradesh

Demographic Features and Socio-Economic Inequalities

Edited by Amir Ullah Khan MCRHRDI of the Government of Telangana, India, Abdul Shaban, Venkatanarayana Motkuri

This book provides a comprehensive look into the development challenges and critical socio-economic issues of the Muslim communities in Uttar Pradesh—India's most populous state and home to one of its largest Muslim populations. Well-known for its syncretic culture, benevolent kings and nawabs, Uttar Pradesh has also been a region that has historically experienced significant religious politics and communal violence. This book moves beyond these sectoral approaches and attempts to present a holistic, detailed, and contemporary perspective on the development of Muslims in the state.

Populism, Propaganda, and Political Extremism

Building the Rage Machine

Adam G. Klein

Populism, Propaganda, and Political Extremism: Building the Rage Machine explores the manufacturing of populist narratives and deployment of propaganda that together produce the state of outrage and disunity in American politics. Through chronicling these subversive communications, and the architects and influencers behind them, Adam Klein expertly deconstructs the processes that sow national division. As this book uncovers the forms and functions of political ragemaking, it also offers concrete prescriptions for addressing the hostile partisanship that has consumed the national conversation.

Public Diplomacy Between Asia and the Middle East

Edited by Francesca Frassinetti, Sook Jong Lee, Chiara Lovotti

Series: Changing Dynamics in Asia-Middle East Relations

This book considers how public diplomacy is employed as an instrument of statecraft by Middle Eastern and Asian governments to leverage soft power. Building and extending on the extant scholarship, which remains mostly focused on East Asia, it incorporates the Middle East not only as a recipient but also a practitioner of public diplomacy. The thematic focus is underpinned by case studies of individual nation-states, enabling analysis of concrete examples that shed light on the evolution of Asia-Middle East ties.

Reparative Justice in Authoritarian States

Brian Wong Yue Shun

Wong examines the normative responsibilities of citizens in authoritarian states to address injustices perpetrated by their governments. He challenges prevailing assumptions in political philosophy, arguing that certain citizens, by virtue of their agency and authorisation of their states, bear responsibilities to restore justice. Posing key questions about the evolving responsibilities of citizens in shaping just societies, this is an indispensable resource for scholars and students of political philosophy, international relations, and empirical political science as well as those interested in authoritarianism, reform in non-democratic contexts, and global justice.

Runaway Capitalism

James H. Mittelman

By homing in on the confluence of algorithmic capitalism, cognitive capitalism, and philanthropic capitalism, this tightly argued book offers a novel interpretation of an unnoticed and understudied transformation. The three forces form a trialectic, a system that lacks effective controls and is spreading globally. Conducted on four continents, the research shows how runaway capitalism is making work and daily life ever-more precarious and sparking anti-precarity movements. Tracing these metamorphoses both in the global North and global South, the author identifies plausible scenarios for blunting the sharp edges of runaway capitalism.

Status

Honor and White Privilege in Brazil and Beyond

Bernd Reiter Texas Tech University, USA

With this book, Bernd Reiter reflects on over three decades of research on race, exclusion, inequality, white supremacy and the defense of privilege in Brazil to explore how social hierarchies, honor, and dignity perpetuate systemic disparities in Latin America. Status is not purely hereditary, nor is it solely a function of economic class. Instead, it is a multifaceted construct that incorporates elements of race, class, gender, cultural capital, behavior, and descent. A passionate and illuminating alternative to the study of inequality in Latin America, this book adds important nuance to discussions of how to devise more equitable and inclusive strategies for the future.

The Book of Others

Schmitt, Althusser, Laclau, Rancière and Politics

Benjamin Arditi

The Book of Others examines the enduring theoretical influence of four major political thinkers; Carl Schmitt, Louis Althusser, Ernesto Laclau, and Jacques Rancière; who are framed as "others" central to shaping contemporary understandings of politics. Through chapters focused on themes like modernity, constituent power, decisionism, ideology, hegemony, post-hegemony, populism, and dissensus, the book explores how each thinker redefines the political as a space of contestation rather than a settled domain. The Book of Others significantly enriches critical political analysis, offering a substantive contribution to post-Marxist, democratic, and critical theory.

The European Parliament in Challenging Times

The Ninth Session of the EP, 2019 - 2024

Edited by Martin Steven

This book analyses the different dimensions of the European Parliament's work in the 2019-2024 session, with each chapter focusing on one of the many challenges that MEPs have faced and are still facing as a result of political volatility. These include the impact of the increase in profile of Eurosceptic Members on both coalition building and the committee work that have been a traditional strength of the legislature, the activities of parliamentarians in relation to key policy areas such as public health and immigration, as well as the wider and broadly respected role of the EP in democracy promotion.

The International System in the Post-Pandemic World

Perspectives for Europe and Asia

Edited by Marcin Grabowski, Luca Verzichelli

Series: Encounters with Complexity

This book analyses the multidimensional influence of COVID-19 on world politics, with a special focus on Euro-Asian relations, as well as changes in Europe caused by the pandemic. Expert international and interdisciplinary contributors analyse the measures undertaken to counter COVID, its use to justify increased governmental surveillance, the role of religion and regional institutions and the great power transformations, and the economic crisis that resulted from it. The driving question driving each chapter is to what extent COVID-19, and the reaction to it, transformed the world.

The Meaning of Growth

Anti-Environmental Rhetoric and the Defence of Modernity

Richard McNeill Douglas

Series: Routledge Research in Environmental Policy and Politics

In The Meaning of Growth, Richard McNeill Douglas uses interpretive social science to uncover the cultural roots of political resistance to environmental science and policy. Through a close reading of anti-environmentalist rhetoric the book identifies its idolisation of growth as a defence of a modern (Western-European) world-view, focusing on values of freedom, power, and immortality. This book should be of interest to academics in the fields of environmental sociology and communications studies, as well as activists interested in understanding the motivations of anti-environmentalist campaigners and how to counter their influence.

The Normative and the Political

Kelsen, Schmitt, Morgenthau, and the Future International Order

Leon Sosnowski

Series: Routledge Innovations in Political Theory

This book demonstrates the plausibility of a foreign policy recognizing the primacy of International Law, by synthesizing Hans Kelsen's legal cosmopolitanism and elements of Hans J. Morgenthau's classical realism into a new theoretical framework - Normative Effectivism. The author argues that it is an international political theory to challenge the current sovereigntist wave, contributing to a sustainable international order. Securing an important place the subfield of International Political Theory, The Normative and The Political will be equally useful to scholars in International Relations, Ethics, and International Law.

The Reality of This World

Volume Two: The Fate of This World and The Future of Humanity

Charles P. Webel University of New York in Prague

Series: Routledge Studies in Social and Political Thought

The Reality of this World, the companion to The World as Idea: A Conceptual History (Routledge, 2022), analyzes one of the most influential concepts known to humanity; the world. Examining the theories and policies that have constructed the world as it is, this book describes how social and natural sciences, philosophy, and humanities have abetted our understanding of this world, and explores why globalization, rationalization, digital, and AI technologies simultaneously advance our well-being while also putting life on Earth at risk.

The UN Human Rights Treaty System

Implementation of Recommendations in South Korea and Japan

Yoomin Won

Series: Law and Change

Through qualitative and quantitative methodologies, Won provides a nuanced analysis and discussion of the factors and domestic processes influencing the implementation of United Nations Human Rights Committee recommendations in South Korea and Japan, as well as across the globe. Won's research entangles the theoretical debate on whether the UN human rights treaty system is effective in prompting the implementation of HRC recommendations. Her findings, based on interviews with activists, lawyers, scholars, judges, and other practitioners in Korea and Japan, point to the complex interplay of treaty bodies, state parties, and civil society organizations in human rights implementation.

Trolling Democracy

How Trolls Distort Digital Discourse

J. Benjamin Taylor, Sean Richey Georgia State University, USA

Series: Routledge Research in Political Communication

Trolling Democracy offers both academic and practical insights into one of the most pressing challenges of the digital age. By leveraging theoretical insights, empirical evidence from new surveys, and innovative experiments, J. Benjamin Taylor and Sean Richey offers a comprehensive understanding of trolling's effect on the public sphere and its implications for democratic processes. Furthermore, they address the broader societal concerns raised by the proliferation of trolling, including the spread of misinformation, the erosion of trust in online platforms, and the exacerbation of political polarization.

US Security Interests in the 'New Eastern Mediterranean'

Balancing Russia in a Post-Unipolar World

Michalis Kontos

Series: Routledge Studies in US Foreign Policy

This book discusses US foreign and security policy in contemporary Eastern Mediterranean, against the backdrop of the war in Ukraine and renewed great power competition. It examines US relations with Turkey, Greece, and Cyprus and a balancing strategy in the region towards Russia. The author assesses the impact on Eastern Mediterranean politics and US interests, drawing on neorealist theories and the dynamics of an international system in transition and explores the impact of the global redistribution of power in regions which do not traditionally constitute top strategic priorities.

The Protective Intelligence Advantage

Mitigating the Rising Threat to Prominent People

Fred Burton, Scott Stewart TorchStone Global, USA

The world reacted in horror to the graphic security camera footage of United Healthcare CEO Brian Thompson being gunned down on a Manhattan sidewalk as he was on his way to attend a scheduled investor conference. Since this murder has already spawned copycat attacks, this book is especially needed at this moment in time. After a lifetime of investigating attacks on high-profile persons, heads of state, and celebrities the authors will be the first to examine the murder of Brian Thompson in detail, and use the lessons learned from that attack (and others) to illustrate how protective intelligence can be used to identify threats and prevent attacks.

Revitalizing the United Nations

Making and Keeping the Peace

Edited by Tapio Kanninen, John Torpey

Series: Global Institutions

This book explores whether the United Nations (UN) is relevant in resolving wars when the permanent members of the UN Security Council are directly or indirectly involved. It examines solutions to major wars by applying and testing the UN's vast experience in mediating and deploying peacekeeping, demilitarization, truce monitoring, UN temporary administration, and other tools. While some observers see the organization in deep decline as the Security Council cannot agree to stop the wars in Ukraine and Gaza, the expert contributors to this volume make the case that until the start of this century the UN played a critically important role in resolving and freezing major conflicts.

State Capability and Challenges to Russia's Food Security in the Twenty-first Century

Stephen K. Wegren

Series: Studies in Contemporary Russia

This book offers a rigorous examination of Russia's state capability through the critical lens of food security, revealing profound implications for domestic stability and international relations. Drawing on extensive research, the author demonstrates how food insecurity has historically catalysed political instability in Russia, explaining the Putin regime's substantial investment in agricultural self-sufficiency since 2014. The analysis extends beyond domestic considerations to interrogate Russia's unique position as the sole major authoritarian grain exporter in a changing global order.

Economic Governance, Political Freedoms and the Conditions of Societal Violence

Liberty and Peace

Indra de Soya

Series: Routledge Advances in International Relations and Global Politics

This book shows how the underlying causes of civil war and political violence is based in concrete conditions relating to economic governance. The author argues that what matters for cauterizing the potentiality of "sustainable" violence is economic governance, specifically growth-promoting governance that maximizes returns to investment due to competitive free-market processes upheld by the rule of law and the protection of private property rights. It will be of interest to those studying South Asian Politics, economic development, sociology, history, law, international relations, cultural studies and peace, security and conflict studies.

Engaging Pakistan

The History of British and American Public Diplomacy in Troubled Times

Ian Talbot University of Southampton, UK

Series: Routledge Advances in South Asian Studies

Engaging Pakistan examines the role of British and American Public Diplomacy in Pakistan. It focuses on case studies located in two periods (1955-64 and 2008-12) during which there was both intense public diplomacy activity and increasing public hostility particularly towards the US. Putting forth this juxtaposition of the two periods, the study provides an opportunity for a fine grain analysis to contribute to wider theoretical and comparative studies of public diplomacy as well as provide valuable empirical material.

Fiction, Memory, and Ethnic Politics in the South Caucasus

Edited by Mikail Mamedov , Peter Orte , Nona Shahnazarian , Ulvi Ismayi

Series: Routledge Contemporary Russia and Eastern Europe Series

The book explores the aftermath of the disintegration of the Soviet Union and the effects of war and nationalism in the South Caucasus. While the Soviet Union's dissolution seemed to promise democracy and liberalization, the rise of nationalist movements in Armenia and Azerbaijan led to those countries becoming undemocratic monoethnic states, which ethnically cleansed their largest minorities. This study will be useful to students and scholars of Soviet and Post-Soviet History, Nationalism, Empire and Conflict Studies.

Improving Learning Outcomes in Schools

Understanding the Challenge of Quality in the Indian Context

Edited by N. V. Varghese, Vrinda Sarup, Anuradha De, Amarjeet Sinha

Series: Innovations, Practice and the Future of Public Policy in India

What does 'quality education' truly mean, and how can we ensure it is accessible to all children, regardless of their background? This book delves into these pressing questions, offering a comprehensive exploration of the challenges and opportunities within India's education system. Why do millions of children in India attend school yet still struggle to acquire basic literacy and numeracy skills? This book examines the varied reasons behind poor learning outcomes, illustrating why high enrolment rates have not translated into meaningful educational progress. It underscores the urgent need to shift the focus from merely getting children into schools to ensuring they learn and thrive.

India and the Sovereignty Principle

The Disaggregation Imperative

Edited by Rudra Chaudhuri, Nabarun Roy

This book offers a comprehensive analysis of India's evolving relationship with sovereignty in a complex global order. Moving beyond conventional narratives, it examines how the sovereignty principle shapes India's behavior across four critical domains. Through meticulous analysis of India's military interventions in neighbouring states, its evolving stance on bilateral investment treaties, the complex hydro-politics of India-China relations, and its emerging positions on data sovereignty and technology governance, this study provides a nuanced understanding of when, why, and how India's commitment to sovereignty principles shifts across different contexts.

Social Exclusion, Inequality and Protest

Under Globalisation in India

Edited by Kameshwar Choudhary, B. K. Nagla

In India, traditional social collectivities like caste, tribe, gender, and religion continue to form the base of social exclusion, marginalisation and inequality to a large extent, despite operation of the mighty forces of modernisation and globalisation. This book presents an interdisciplinary critical analysis of social exclusion and inequality under contemporary globalisation with a focus on the condition of major historically marginalised communities in India.

State Politics in Contemporary India

Conundrums and Possibilities

Edited by Yatindra Singh Sisodia Madhya Pradesh Institute of Social Science Research, India, Ashutosh Kumar, Pratip Chattopadhyay University of Kalyani, West Bengal

This volume examines Indian states as analytical units, culminating in a comprehensive socio-political study of the country as a whole. The state-specific essays underline the federal context in which politics in India unfolds at the ground level. Employing a federalist and centrist analytical prism, this book aims to add to the existing body of work on state politics, with a particular focus on India in the last decade, which has shown visible shifts in political terms. The volume will be indispensable to scholars and researchers of South Asian politics, federalism and contemporary India.

Temporal Spaces in Calcutta

Digital Networks in the Wake of the Pandemic

Avishek Ray, Neha Gupta National Institute of Technology, India

Series: Academics, Politics and Society in the Post-Covid World

This book explores how the COVID-19 pandemic has reshaped urban spatialities through the rise of digitally mediated "temporal spaces" in Calcutta. Focusing on Uber-enabled mobility, cycling pathways, and cafés, it examines how digital infrastructures and human practices intersect to create fluid, dynamic urban experiences. Challenging fixed notions of place-making, the book interrogates what it means to "return to normal" and how digitality reconfigures urban life, sociality, and imagination.

The Planetary Subaltern

On Indian History, Theory, and Texts in the Anthropocene

Edited by Somasree Sarkar, Agnibha Maity

Series: South Asian Literature in Focus

This book initiates a dialogue between two discursive fields of study, the Anthropocene and the Subaltern Studies. It highlights communities that bear the brunt of climate precarity and planetary crises and examines critiques of the Anthropocene discourse for grossly overlooking the subaltern communities and failing to integrate their historiography. The essays in the volume retrieve and amplify voices of subaltern communities amid planetary crises. The volume will be of great interest to scholars and researchers of South Asian studies, literary criticism, especially ecocriticism, and environmental studies and climate action.

Tinai Philosophy

The Indigenous Lifeway for the Anthropocene

Nirmal Selvamony Chennai, India

This book refigures an ancient indigenous way of knowing and being practiced by the Tamil people for present times, by tracing the origin and structure of this philosophical tradition that has been continually evolving since the pre-Holocene epoch. Tinai is both the world of this philosophy as well as a way of living harmoniously with all beings of this world. This book illustrates how this philosophy was practiced both within and outside the home. It reconceptualizes the discipline of philosophy itself by exploring the semantic horizons of k̄atci without falling back on the western idea of this discipline and thus earns its indispensable niche.

Building the Belt and Road Initiative in the Arab World

China's Middle East Math

Jonathan Fulton Zayed University, UAE

*Series: *Chanqing Dynamics in Asia-Middle East Relations

This book analyzes the expansion of Chinese power in the Middle East North Africa (MENA) through Belt and Road Initiative projects undertaken in the '1+2+3 cooperation pattern'. Under this framework 1 represents energy, 2 represents infrastructure and trade and investment, and 3 represents nuclear energy, space satellite, and renewable energy. Taken together these elements indicate the trajectory of China's MENA presence, and by examining each element in different states across the region this book provides empirical evidence of which states or subregions are most important for Beijing's regional ambitions, as well as a better understanding of which sectors are being developed.

African Politics

An Introduction

Toyin Falola University of Texas at Austin, USA

Series: Routledge Global Africa Textbooks

African Politics: An Introduction is an engaging, broad-ranging guide to the politics of African states, reflecting on contemporary patterns and trends, whilst also situating them in their historical context. Viewed from the outside, African politics are often said to be too complex and multifarious to understand properly, leading to widespread misunderstandings and misinterpretations. This book challenges these assumptions, providing an accessible, reader-friendly guide. This book is perfect for an undergraduate student starting out in their studies of African politics, but it would also be a welcome read for any reader who wants to learn a bit more about African governance.

African Urban Creativity

Exploring Creative Economies Within and Beyond Cities

Edited by Lauren England Kings College London, UK,
Estrella Sendra

Series: Creative Economies in Africa

This edited collection contributes to understanding creative economies in Africa, specifically the urban dynamics of creativity and the urbanisation of the creative economy. The book contains six original contributions from academic researchers and creative practitioners, bringing together a range of disciplinary perspectives and presenting case studies from across the continent. It also acknowledges the role of the periphery and rural settings within their inputs and dialogic relation to the city, and provides readers with empirical insights from Africa that can lead to more research, debate and policy engagement on the sustainable development of creative economies in Africa.

Afterimages of Apartheid

Photography and Resistance

Kylie Thomas Stellenbosch University, Cape Town, South Africa

Series: Routledge Contemporary South Africa

Afterimages of Apartheid shows how photographs of the past can be mobilised as a critical tool for understanding the ongoing effects of apartheid in contemporary South Africa. Through close readings of significant images made during and after apartheid, the book shows how photography works as a means of documentation, commemoration, and resistance. This vivid account of the photography of apartheid will be of interest to students and researchers across the fields of South African history, visual studies, memory studies, art history, photography studies and transitional justice.

Apartheid and Fragmented Protest in Contemporary Southern Africa

Life Goes On

Cuthbeth Tagwirei

Series: Routledge Contemporary Africa

This book examines protest movements through the lens of Apartheid Studies, the first general theory of apartheid which explores how oppression, harm, injustice, poverty, loss, and inequality persist. By examining protest hashtags on X from South Africa and Zimbabwe, the book explores and identifies the forms, relations, meanings, trajectories, and effects protests take, evoke, and embody as fragments subsisting in a fractured apartheid universe. It will be of interest to researchers across the fields of social movements, protests, sociology, African Studies, and communication and media studies.

Constructive Resistance in Somali History

The Wind Before the Rain

Ebba Tellander

Series: Routledge Studies in the Modern History of Africa

In the 1980s, the arrests of a group of teachers, doctors, and other professionals triggered a wave of protests, helping to pave the way for Somaliland's self-declaration in 1991. This book provides an extensive analysis of that transformative moment, drawing on over 100 oral histories and archival materials, including trial protocols and political poetry. Richly supported with 19 illustrations, this important case study will be of interest to researchers working on African history, or politics and resistance studies more broadly. Contemporary Somali Diasporic Literature

Ambivalent Belonging and Phobic Cosmopolitanism

Denish Odanga

Series: Routledge Studies in African Literature

This book considers how the literature of the Somali diaspora deploys themes of ambivalent belonging in cosmopolitan spaces. In building this analysis, the book considers key texts from Ayaan Hirsi, Yasmmeen Maxamuud, Jonny Steinberg, Nuruddin Farah, and Santur Ghedi, with settings that range from North America, Canada, Norway, Holland, Germany, South Africa, Saudi Arabia to East Africa. Considering literature on the Somali diaspora within the context of major cosmopolitan theories and postcolonial inflexions, this book is an important contribution to contemporary sociopolitical conversations, and will be of interest to researchers across literary and cultural studies.

Development in Post-Apartheid South Africa

Political and Governance Considerations

Hlengiwe Mabizela , Nirmala Dorasamy

Series: Routledge Research in Business and Economics in Africa

The post-apartheid era in South Africa has been marked by significant political change, with each subsequent administration implementing its unique vision and goals for the country's development. This book provides a nuanced analysis of the complexities of political instability on the efficient execution of development policies that target significant socio-economic problems, leading to inadequate governance. It examines the impact of development initiatives, political dynamics, and governance practices on the economic outcomes of the country.

Governance and Security in Nigeria's Fourth Republic

Edited by V. Adefemi Isumonah University of Ibadan, Nigeria, Nathaniel Umukoro

Series: Routledge Studies in Peace, Conflict and Security in Africa

This book explores the link between the nature of governance and various dimensions of security in Nigeria since the beginning of the fourth republic in 1999. This book is different from some previously published books in the field because it engages Nigeria's security challenges in their abstract and concrete forms and connects governance indicators with security (or insecurity), taking a cue from key themes in state-society and intergroup relations. At a time of increasing conflict in Nigeria, this book's analysis will be valuable for researchers across Political Science, History, Security Studies, Law, and African Studies.

Extractive Industry Indigenisation in Zimbabwe

Neoextractivism, Resource Nationalism and Uneven Development

Kennedy Manduna

Series: Routledge Studies of the Extractive Industries and Sustainable Development

This book explains how and why Zimbabwe's extractive industry indigenisation over-promised its benefits yet under-delivered upon implementation. By examining the hidden structures and infrastructures of power, capital, and minerals and placing extractive industry indigenisation in capitalism, the book makes a crucial scholarly contribution to the renewed and burgeoning debates around the resurgence of resource nationalism in general and the struggle for economic sovereignty in particular. This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of the extractive industries, natural resource management, African politics and African development.

Mental Health Policy in South Africa

Exploring Problem Representation

Claire Morrison , Pieter Fourie Stellenbosch University, South Africa, Ubanesia Adams

Series: Routledge Studies in Health in Africa

This book investigates how mental health in South Africa is conceptualised and constructed in public policy. Critiquing embedded assumptions within existing policy documentation, the book advocates for policy solutions centred on poverty alleviation and economic development. Mental health in South Africa has historically been neglected, a stark reality underscored by the Life Esidimeni tragedy, which exposed widespread mismanagement, negligence, and insufficient resources in mental health care services. This book will be an essential read for mental health professionals and policy makers in South Africa, as well as for researchers working on the good governance of mental health.

Gender Research in Africa

Theoretical and Methodological Pathways

Vivian Ojong University of KwaZulu-Natal, South Africa, R. Sooryamoorthy University of KwaZulu-Natal, South Africa

Series: Routledge Studies on Gender and Sexuality in Africa

This book considers how methodologies, theories and analytical frameworks from gender studies can be applied to African societies' cultural, social, and historical contexts. Gender studies has grown in prominence over recent decades, rooted in an awareness that gender is no longer just an issue in the margins but core to the analysis of the interaction of power, identity, and social relations in the world. Overall, this book shows how gender-sensitive methodologies can help researchers to gain deeper insights into discrimination, inequalities, and gender-based violence, and thus contribute to better-adapted social and legal reforms.

Understanding Soft Power in Africa

The Power of Attraction from Pretoria to Beijing

Oluwaseun Tella

Series: Global Africa

Negative images of Africa which define the continent as being riven with poverty, crime, or war, are increasingly being challenged. Examples of soft power such as Nigeria's Nollywood, athletic successes in Kenya, Rwanda's commercial diplomacy, and South Africa's liberal constitution, are all reasserting African agency and shaping more positive understandings of the continent. This book considers the role and impact of soft power in the African context, and how it relates to the twenty-first century scramble for Africa. It will be an important read for researchers in political science, international relations, African studies, and cultural studies, as well as for African policymakers.

Youth Employment Programs in Africa

Edited by Ramos E. Mabugu, Lucas Ronconi

Series: Routledge Contemporary Africa

This book investigates youth employment programmes across nine African countries, providing important insights into the world's youngest continent by population, in which 60% of people are aged under 25. By 2050, the labour force in Sub-Saharan Africa is expected to be almost double the size of the labour force in high-income countries, representing a massive shift in the world's working population, and providing a significant challenge for job creation. Combining rich empirical findings with data about labour market outcomes and institutions, this book will be an important read for researchers wishing to understand the political economy of youth employment policy in Africa.

Decolonising Intellectual Property Law

An Afrocentric Approach

Edited by Jade Kouletakis, Nkem Itanyi

Series: Routledge Research in Intellectual Property

Highlighting the Eurocentric influence on the history of intellectual property law in Africa, the book demonstrates how this contradicts traditional African community culture. This book makes the case for legitimising cultural expressions of traditional communities despite the western legal framework within which they exist, reimagining a decolonised IP framework whereby African histories are centred. Questioning the fundamentals of the current IP landscape, such as the concept of eligibility in copyright which developed alongside European technological advances, the book also details the role of the courts in resolving IP disputes.

Series: Routledge-Giappichelli Studies in Religion, Law and Economics in the Mediterranean Space

This book investigates ways 'the Other' can be both a cause of and an answer to religious and cultural fears. The multi-layered question of cultural and religious diversity has received some attention recently both in academic and policy circles. It address this issue by focusing on fears and phobias, and the ways they are historically and sociologically produced and reproduced in a Global Era. The book will be essential reading for academics, researchers and policy-makers working in the areas of Intercultural Pedagogy, History, Anthropology and Sociology of Religions, Law and Religion, Contemporary Islam, Migration Studies, Interreligious Dialogue, and Ethnography.

Economic Regulation of Airports

A Private Law Approach

Di Mei

This book explores airport charges regulation, presenting a fresh perspective on a crucial yet marginalized subject. Providing a clear pathway for regulation of the economic aspects of airports, it employs an adaptable approach grounded in private law principles. Unlike the conventional command-and-control model of traditional regulation that once governed airports, the book contends that an agile private law approach offers a more efficient means of overseeing airport charges in the face of increasing complexity within the industry. It will be of interest to researchers in the field of air law, contract law, corporate law, competition law, and aviation business and management.

EU Law and Military Industries

Sovereignty and Strategic Autonomy in Military Procurement

Nathan Meershoek

Series: Routledge Research in EU Law

This book addresses how the EU can promote European strategic autonomy to overcome contemporary military challenges while respecting the sovereignty of its Member States. The volume considers both the regulation of military procurement and the increasing amount of EU funding instruments for military industries. Providing a comprehensive overview of the EU's involvement, it critically evaluates the compatibility of this involvement with the geopolitical and constitutional context in which they exist. The book will be of interest to researchers in the field of EU law and politics, military industries and public procurement law.

Internet Memes and Copyright Law

Diving into the Meme Pool

Brian Chun Lok Leung

Series: Routledge Research in Intellectual Property

This book explores the intricate relationship between copyright law and internet meme culture, challenging an assumption that copyright is a barrier to digital creativity. It confronts a common perception that copyright is the "destroyer" of internet memes on social media platforms. Covering core copyright concepts such as authorship, idea/expression, originality, fair dealing, and user rights, the book discusses how copyright can adapt to the digital age as a protector of cultural expressions, ensuring that internet memes are not only preserved but celebrated. It will be of interest to researchers of copyright law, the law of emerging technologies and intellectual property law.

Labour Regulation in International Aviation Law

A Crawl-Walk-Run Approach

Yuran Shi

Series: Routledge Research in Air and Space Law

This book critically examines how international law can address the pressing issues of labour regulation in the airline industry, highlighting the insufficiencies of current international labour standards and air law in safeguarding workers' rights and improving working conditions. Proposing a pragmatic "crawl-walk-run" approach, the volume advocates for the progressive enhancement of labour regulations, starting with refining Comprehensive Air Transport Agreements (CATAs) and advancing towards more comprehensive and enforceable standards. It will be of interest to researchers in labour law, international law and air and space law.

Law and the Exception

Towards a New Paradigm

Gian Giacomo Fusco , Przemysław Tacik

Series: Nomos Studies in Law, Culture and Power

This book proposes a paradigm shift in understanding 'the state of exception' in legal and political theory. It argues that exceptional measures need to be rethought beyond traditional boundaries. It develops concepts of 'exceptionality' and 'exceptionalisation' to show how exceptional measures are normalized outside classic frameworks, as demonstrated during COVID-19. Legal systems may disguise the exceptional as normal without formal declarations. It also analyzes how emergency laws reflect broader patterns of exceptionality, shaped by accumulated symbols, practices, and legal imagination, while revealing hidden authoritarian tendencies within liberal constitutionalism.

Litigating Corporate Surveillance

Privacy, Autonomy, Power, and Democracy in the Courtroom

David Rudolph

This book interrogates the legality of corporate surveillance, offering a corrective approach to protecting privacy through litigation—not through legislation. Analysing recent developments in data privacy law in light of ever-increasing data aggregation and cybersurveillance practices by corporations and governments, the volume examines the pervasive, multimodal corporate surveillance practices that now permeate both our digital and offline lives, and offers a prescription for fighting back through the courts. It will be of interest to researchers and practitioners in the field of corporate surveillance, digital law, and privacy law.

Routledge Handbook of NFT Law

Edited by Pinar Çağlayan Aksoy Bilkent Üniversitesi Hukuk Fakültesi, Turkey, Larry Dimatteo, Saskia Hufnagel University of Sydney Law School, Australia

Series: Routledge Handbooks in Law

Non-Fungible Tokens (NFTs) are types of crypto assets that function on the blockchain. Anything that one can digitize has the potential of becoming an NFT. While NFTs raise similar issues as other crypto assets, there are many use cases and characteristics that call for special attention. At a time when individual countries have started responding to various legal issues, this volume examines these matters from a comparative law perspective. It approaches NFTs from a multidisciplinary perspective and provides in-depth information about the potential legal problems that arise from their use and transfer. It will be an essential resource for researchers of Technology and Law.

The Frankfurt School and the Challenge of Fascism

An Intellectual and Philosophical Reconstruction

Claudio Corradetti

Fascism is a well-defined historical phenomenon but its political-ideological offshoots have extended into today's democracies. How should we understand the mimetic and dissimulating capacity of fascism? Starting from the analyses of the first Frankfurt School's exponents in their rethinking of the Marxian relationship of structure and superstructure, this study explores defining fascism as a specific organization of power together with a form of economic planning accompanied by a masochistic propensity to power. The Legal System of the Vatican City State

Between Secular and Canon Law

Konrad Dyda

Series: Law and Religion

This book examines one of the fundamental phenomena in jurisprudence, Legal Transplants (reception of law), the study of which allows us both to determine the relationships between various legal systems and between civil law and other normative systems. Taking the Vatican City State as a case study, the work explores the theoretical and practical significance of canon law in the legal system. It analyses the sources of law and how it is applied in practice, especially in the jurisprudence of the Vatican courts and other bodies applying the law. The book will be of interest to academics and researchers working in the areas of Law and Religion, Canon Law and Legal Philosophy.

Interviewing Police Informants

A Practitioner's Guide

Lee Moffett

This book provides students and practitioners alike with a comprehensive discussion of the latest psychological research relevant to interviewing informants. In particular, it provides a detailed outline of the R-WITS-US interview model. It examines the development of this model, bringing a clear focus on the specific definition of an informant and how this definition differentiates informants from other individuals who are likely to be interviewed by police – such as victims, witnesses or suspects. It is essential reading for police professionals and useful secondary reading for Professional Policing students.

Alternatives to Incarceration

Opportunities and Challenges in Reducing Violations and Revocations in Community Corrections

Edited by Ebony L. Ruhland

Historically, alternatives to incarceration were developed to reduce prison populations and decrease the fiscal cost of incarceration. They were to function as a diversion away from prison. Alternatives also keep people in the community while holding them accountable and protecting community safety. The book underscores the importance of ongoing research and the need for effective strategies to reduce violations and revocations. Chapters in this book address how barriers, such as mental illness, COVID-19, and financial constraints, may impede success on supervision and highlight in the findings ways to increase success despite these barriers.

Hauntology

An Introduction for Criminologists

Edited by Paul McGuinness University of Sussex, Alex Simpson Macquarie University, Tea Fredriksson Stockholm University, Michael Fiddler University of Greenwich

Series: Routledge Studies in Crime, Culture and Media

In response to the recent 'spectral turn' within criminology this book presents, for the first time, a concise, comprehensive, approachable, and critically engaged guide to hauntology for criminological researchers and graduate students. It outlines how criminological researchers may welcome hauntings into their work, to escape the ontological tethers of criminological realism and to reveal the importance of absence in their work, addressing how they can be used to expand criminological imagination. A guide for criminologists that is designed to, for the first time, help direct future hauntological research and enhanced learning capacity across the discipline of criminology.

Tolerating State Violence

Elizabeth Stanley

Series: Crimes of the Powerful

Using contemporary case examples from three liberal democracies – Aotearoa New Zealand, Australia and the United Kingdom- this book questions: how do state institutions create the conditions for the tolerance of state violence and harms? And, from this knowledge, how might we make the violence and harms intolerable? It is indispensable reading for students and scholars of criminology and criminal justice, sociology, and political science. The book will also appeal to policymakers, legal professionals, and social justice advocates concerned with institutional reform and addressing systemic violence.

Finding Your Groove

Resonant Leadership in a Disconnected World

Barry van Zyl, Chris Dalton

Finding Your Groove is an inspiring guide that challenges you to rediscover your innate rhythm amid today's disjointed, fast-paced world. Drawing on the timeless language of music and the universal patterns of nature, this book reframes everyday challenges as opportunities for creative transformation and genuine connection. Finding Your Groove is a call to reclaim the joy of connection, balance, and mindful presence. It invites you to lead with authenticity in an increasingly complex world.

Generative AI

Unlocking the Next Chapter in Healthcare

Rohit Mahajan, Ritu M. Uberoy

Drawing on frontline case studies from leading health systems, biotech labs, and tech giants, the book reveals how large language models, synthetic data engines, and multi agent ecosystems are boosting diagnostic accuracy, accelerating drug discovery, and personalizing patient engagement. It also confronts the hard questions—privacy, bias, liability, and the fear of “machines taking over”—offering clear, actionable frameworks for ethical, human centered deployment.

5TH EDITION

Goal Directed Project Management

Effective Techniques and Strategies

Erling S. Andersen, Kristoffer V. Grude, Tor Haug

GDPM is a method developed by the authors based on practical experience. It has been refined over 40 years, and still widespread as curricular in universities/colleges and adopted as standard approach by organizations all over the world. Now in its fifth edition, the book is packed full of proven techniques and tools to guide projects to their goals and improve project management outcomes. This seminal book in project management looks at the wider issues of people, systems, and organization (PSO) in projects and that organizational change is as important as the technology.

Healthcare Safety and Security

Navigating a Service in Crisis

Charles Schnabolk, Bernard Scaglione

According to the Joint Commission, healthcare workers are around 4 times as likely to experience workplace violence compared to workers in private industry as a whole. This high rate of violence can increase staff turnover and even discourage qualified professionals from entering the industry in the first place. Developing healthcare security, and creating a more secure environment, can improve staff retention and ensure that patients get the care they deserve. Written by security gurus, Charles Schnabolk and Ben Scaglione, this book is an expose on the current state of healthcare and the dangers and risks associated with being a patient navigating within the healthcare environment.

How Not to Hate Advertising

A Creative's Guide to A Long And (Dare I Say) Happy Career in A Remarkably Silly Industry

Nick Sonderup

This is not a “how to break into the business” book, and it doesn't aim to explain the creative process and how to come up with ideas. Instead, it accepts and expects that the reader has already done the hard part of breaking in and (hopefully) getting some work produced that they're proud of—it's the “what's next” to avoid burnout, filled with practical tips, sage advice, and real stories from an array of people who have definitely hated advertising at some point—but stuck with it anyway.

Hybrid Intelligence

Merging Collective and Artificial Intelligence to Solve Complex Problems

Kevin Holt

Boards, committees, and other team-size groups of 5-20 people are the primary problem-solving and decision-making units within organizations, and they form the bridges between organizations, industries, and nations that collaborate on projects. So how can leaders exponentially improve their teams' capabilities? Assemble the right people, arm them with the right processes, and execute those processes on the right platforms—then add generative AI to enhance those practices.

Leadership Development for a Transformational Future

The Vertical Edge

Sheila M. Boyesen-Rotelli

Traditional horizontal leadership development focuses on skills but falls short in helping leaders navigate complexity, ambiguity, and exponential technological advances. What's needed now is vertical development that emphasizes expanding leaders' capacity to think strategically, manage complexity, and lead with empathy. This book bridges the gap between traditional leadership development and modern demands by providing practical tools for vertical development and, uniquely, integrating digital coaching platforms.

Integrated Assurance

Unified Risk Strategy

Patrick Hayes

Series: Security, Audit and Leadership Series

In a world where most guidance is geared toward mid-sized environments, Integrated Assurance fills a critical gap by addressing the realities of large, complex enterprises where traditional security practices break down. This book introduces a strategic, business-aligned model for integrating cybersecurity and IT operations that acknowledges the friction between legacy systems and modern demands, global operations and local control, innovation and compliance. It reframes security as an embedded operational function, not an isolated overlay.

Lives Lost and Leadership Found

Lessons from Special Somebodies

Ian Ziskin

Lives Lost and Leadership Found: Lessons from Special Somebodies explores leadership and transformational change through the lens of personal stories. This unique book gathers insights from dozens of contributing authors who reflect on the profound impact of losing "special somebodies" who helped shape their lives and careers. While emotional, the focus is on growth, leadership, and learning through love and loss rather than grief. Featuring heartfelt narratives, survey input from 150 leaders, and an exploration of the neuroscience of grieving, this book offers valuable perspectives on resilience, growth, and leadership.

AI and Humanistic Management

Aesthetics in Managerial Theory and Practice

Edited by Michał Szostak

Series: Humanistic Management

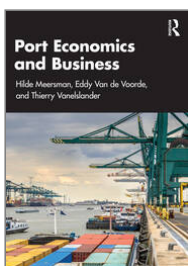

This book, situated at the intersection of humanistic management, aesthetics, and AI studies, aims to explore how the emergence of AI-driven solutions reshapes managerial paradigms, alters human experiences within organisations, and redefines the values guiding leadership, communication, and organisational development. By adopting a cross-disciplinary and multi-paradigmatic perspective, the volume seeks not only to identify the opportunities AI presents for enhancing human dignity and creativity at work but also to critically examine the risks of dehumanisation, aesthetic homogenisation, and ethical displacement.

Anthropomorphism and Animism in Advertising

Persuasive Tactics and the Influence on Consumer Behavior

Małgorzata Karpińska-Krakowiak

Series: Routledge Studies in Marketing

Traditionally, advertisers have assumed that anthropomorphism (seeing a product as human) and animism (seeing a product as alive) are identical processes, triggering the same consumer responses. This book shows that this assumption is incorrect, often leading to misinterpretations in scholarly studies. Through a series of experiments, it reveals that animism and anthropomorphism are two distinct processes with different causes, consequences, and implications. This book is the first to systematically differentiate the two, providing clear definitions and empirical evidence. It offers valuable new insights for scholars across advertising, marketing, and consumer psychology.

Nationalist Entrepreneurs and Territorial Disputes in Northeast Asia

Sustaining Public Interest

Jiun Bang

Series: Rethinking Asia and International Relations

This book explores how nationalism surrounding territorial sovereignty requires a domestic nationalist ecosystem, aka the Nationalist Industrial Complex, to sustain public interest. It focusses on nationalist entrepreneurs representing local merchants who commodify nationalism by building businesses that explicitly incorporate elements of territorial sovereignty protection e.g. food and apparel with the insignia of a disputed territory. The author argues that this 'mundane' everyday activity of commodification co-constitutes public interest surrounding territorial sovereignty and explains why nationalism might be more contingent than permanent.

The Economics of Immigration

Cynthia Bansak, Nicole Simpson, Madeline Zavodny

The Economics of Immigration provides students with the tools needed to examine the impact of immigration and immigration policies over the past century. The main objectives of the book are for students to understand the decision to migrate, the impacts of immigration on markets and government budgets, and the consequences of immigration policies in a global context. This is the first textbook to comprehensively cover the economics of immigration, and it is suitable both for economics students and for those studying migration in other disciplines, such as sociology and political science.

Deep Learning Models for Economic Research

Andrzej Dudek

Series: Routledge Studies in Economic Theory, Method and Philosophy

In today's data-driven world, the ability to make sense of complex high-dimensional datasets is crucial for economists and data scientists. Traditional quantitative methods, while powerful, often struggle to keep up with the complexities of modern economic challenges. This book bridges this gap, integrating cutting-edge machine learning techniques with established economic analysis to provide new, more accurate insights. It is essential reading for economists, data scientists, and professionals looking to deepen their understanding of AI's role in economic modelling. It is also an accessible resource for non-experts interested in how machine learning is transforming economic analysis.

Employee Ownership and Profit Sharing

Models, Incidence, and Sectors

Edited by Joseph Blasi, Jonathan Michie Oxford University, UK

This book explores a quiet revolution reshaping global capitalism: the rise of employee ownership, worker cooperatives, and profit-sharing enterprises. Authored by leading researchers, this volume presents 16 studies on how equity and profit shares for workers operate — exploring their impact on employees' lives, firm performance, local communities, the racial wealth gap, and the determinants that drive success or failure in such enterprises. The chapters in this book were first published in the International Review of Applied Economics.

Ethical Economics and Sustainable Development

The Role of Moral Capital

Edited by Devi Datt Tewari, Kehinde Damilola Ilesanmi

Series: Routledge Studies in Development Economics

This book explores the role of moral capital and its relationship with economic growth and emphasizes the ways in which investment in moral frameworks can promote social well-being and sustainable development. The key message of the book is that the cultivation of moral capital requires a collective effort from all stakeholders involved in institutional development; governments, institutions, civil society, and individuals must collaborate to create an ecosystem that incentivizes and rewards ethical behaviour. It presents global case studies to make the case for the importance of moral capital in addressing African leadership problems.

Free Market and Perfect Competition

Global Data Trends

Weshah Razzak

Series: Routledge Studies in the Modern World Economy

This book provides a simple methodology to examine the deviations from Perfect Competition equilibrium condition, where the price level is set equal to the marginal cost. It opens with an exploration of the concept of the free market, highlighting its foundational principles of unrestricted exchange of goods and services. It argues that in addition to various exogenous shocks, government intervention such as regulations and policies can impede this freedom, and sets out to measure the deviation from perfect competition equilibrium condition. Its broad applicability ensures that it will be relevant to a wide international audience, including academics, policymakers and professionals.

The Macroeconomics of Credit Money

Basil Moore

Series: Routledge Advances in Heterodox Economics

This anniversary edition of Basil Moore's classic work features the original text along with an extensive new introduction and foreword. Providing much of the theoretical foundation on which Modern Monetary Theory was subsequently built, this seminal work continues to challenge the validity of much of mainstream monetary macroeconomics. Basil Moore argues that the money supply in modern economies is not under the control of central banks, but is determined by borrower demand for bank credit. This book remains required reading for anyone interested in macroeconomics, central banking and monetary theory.

Innovation and Economic Development

A Microeconomic Perspective

Jon-Arild Johannessen Nord University, Oslo, Norway

Series: Routledge Studies in the Economics of Innovation

This book addresses the lack of microeconomic theory concerning the role of innovation as a driver for economic development and explores the topic from multiple perspectives: innovative entrepreneurship, competence, productivity, automation, and the institutional framework. By analysing these five pillars, the book provides a broad idea of how these interactions all impact how the innovation economy continues to thrive. Its broad perspective enhances its theoretical depth and widens its appeal to scholars and researchers across various disciplines, and its practical approach also makes the book relevant to policymakers, educators and practitioners.

International Trade, Regulation and the Global Economy

The Impact of Anti-Competitive Market Distortions

Shanker Singham Institute of Economic Affairs Series: Routledge Focus on Economics and Finance

The barriers between the voluntary exchange of willing buyers and willing sellers have progressively been reduced through trade liberalisation, competition and better property rights protection. This book first describes the nature of the Anti-Competitive Market Distortions problem and how it has impacted countries since the 1990s. It also highlights a gap in policymaking, detailing how Anti-Competitive Market Distortions have existed in an ungoverned space in both international trade and competition theory. This book will be invaluable to academics and students of trade, competition and international relations in both the legal and economic disciplines.

Investment Promotion Agencies and Foreign Direct Investment

Martin G. Kaspar

Series: Routledge International Studies in Money and Banking

This book discusses the often-underestimated role of investment promotion agencies (IPAs) in attracting foreign direct investment (FDI). Analysing the subject not only along theoretical lines and from the perspective of IPAs and governments, but also through the eyes of practitioners and corporate investors, it charts a more holistic picture of the FDI decision making process and its subsequent implementation. It fills a gap by providing operationally useful answers to corporate managers, and thereby also furthering our understanding of FDI decision making, which in turn allows governments to align their policy offerings.

The Political Economy of Dissent

A Research Companion

Edited by Peter Blunt , Cecilia Escobar , Vlassis Missos

Series: Routledge Research Companions in Business and Economics

In 2020 Noam Chomsky asserted that the time to panic about the threats posed by nuclear war, global warming, and the stifling of informed debate in supposedly open and democratic societies was upon us, and that it was the duty of concerned citizens to act. The book analyses dissent in the main domains of institutionalised capitalist control and the manufacture of uninformed consent, namely: political economy; education; the media and IT; trade unions; the commons and communities; and culture. The book is addressed to students, scholars and researchers, but its breadth of coverage, authenticity and writing style will appeal to activists, community organisers, and concerned citizens.

Geopolitics, The State, and Political Science

Contextualizing Rudolf Kjellén, founder of geopolitics

Peter Davidson

Series: Routledge Geopolitics Series

The book is an intellectual history of theories of political science, the state, and geopolitics, with Professor Rudolf Kjellén as the point of departure. Geopolitics, the State, and Political Science discovers the original contexts in which Kjellén's theories were produced and rethinks the scientific debates in which they intervened. Following Professor Quentin Skinner and the Cambridge school of political thought and intellectual history, this study discovers, contextualizes, reinterprets, and rethinks an important scientific dispute.

An Approach to Sustainable Smart Airport Design

Gnana Swathika Odiyur Vathanam, Karthikeyan Kalyanasundaram

Series: River Publishers Series in Transport Technology

This book details a cutting-edge smart airport infrastructure with a focus on sustainable, net-zero energy solutions and advanced technologies. The current global trend is construction so that all infrastructure is self-sustaining and implements the latest technologies to achieve net-zero energy and net-zero water. The demand for smart airport technology is estimated to be primarily driven by the rising investments being made in building new greenfield airports and expanding existing airports globally to accommodate the anticipated rebound in passenger traffic.

Chinese Development in Late-Socialist Laos

Negotiating Debt and Desire

Phill Wilcox

Series: Routledge Research on Asian Development

Development may seem self-evidently positive, but it is fraught with different agendas and seemingly competing visions of what so-called developing countries should become and how they should get there. As a country soon to graduate from Least Developed Country status as defined by the United Nations, Laos is a rich case study for considering the shifting drivers and priorities for development. This book considers how the rapid arrival of China has brought visions of development which converge and contest what has gone before, and how these inform individual and collective aspirations on the ground in Laos.

Development Discourse and Global History

From Colonialism to the Sustainable Development Goals

Aram Ziai University of Kassel, Germany

Series: Routledge Explorations in Development Studies

Development Discourse and Global History introduces readers to the shifting ways in which people have been talking and writing about 'development' over time, and the rules governing the conversation. Ziai's ground-breaking book traces the origins of development discourse back to late colonialism and notes the significant discontinuities that led to the establishment of a new discourse. This book is perfect for students and researchers in development studies, global history and discourse analysis as well as an interdisciplinary audience from international relations, political science, sociology, geography, anthropology, language and literary studies.

Innovation Strategies and the Sustainable Development Goals

A Blueprint for Sustainable Transformation

Edited by Amit Singh Khokhar, Punita Duhan, Anshu Lochab

Series: Routledge Studies in Sustainable Development

The global pursuit of sustainable development and climate neutrality is driving all countries towards energy transformation, resource efficiency, and transition to renewable energy sources. Currently, the world economy operates predominantly on fossil fuels, leading to increased greenhouse gas emissions that have the most damaging impact on the climate (IEA & et. al., 2023; UNEP, 2022). The path to a sustainable future requires bold action, innovative thinking, and collective responsibility. By embracing these principles, we can build a world where sustainability is not just a goal but a lived reality for all.

Regional Economic Development in Mexico

Alejandra Trejo Nieto

Series: Regions and Cities

Latin America is the most unequal region in the world and geographical imbalances are a significant component of overall inequality. This book underscores the significance of subnational development and delivers an historical examination of regional processes, inequalities and development in Mexico. While many books analyse economic development at a high level, few offer a ground-up regional perspective. Despite being among the fifteen largest economies in the world, development in Mexico has been characterised by striking disparities. Uneven regional development in this country is a phenomenon that has persisted over decades and centuries.

Dangerous Technologies

Crime and Digital Divides in (South) Africa

Brandaan Huigen

Series: Routledge Studies in Anthropology

Dangerous Technologies focuses on the prevalent theft of consumer electronics in post-Apartheid South Africa. Through a material culture perspective, it explores why these objects have commonly been targeted by bandits and subsequently circulated through the criminal underground. The book furthers knowledge about how and why particularly modern electronics have precipitated violent property crime in democratic South Africa. It is relevant to scholars of social and cultural anthropology, particularly those with an interest in material culture, digital anthropology, and economic and political anthropology, as well as criminologists.

Exiled From Our Bodies

How to Come Back to Our Senses

Tereza Stehlíková

Series: Sensory Studies

In an era where digital devices increasingly mediate our perception of reality, this book explores the tension between the richness of direct sensory experience and the allure of the screen. It examines how our growing dependence on virtual spaces and visually dominant media has led to a disconnect from our bodies and environment, contributing to a sense of alienation—both personal and ecological. Through artistic experimentation, philosophical inquiry, and sensory exploration, it proposes a reawakening to the reciprocity between body, technology, and environment, offering a pathway toward a more conscious, engaged and aesth-ethical way of inhabiting the world.

Pierre Bourdieu

Theory and Politics

Ágoston Fáber

This book examines the issue of Bourdieu's so-called "political turn." It explores whether the relationship between Bourdieu's increasingly visible political engagement from the mid-1990s and his earlier scientific work should be understood in terms of continuity or discontinuity. It also considers the robustness of Bourdieu's theoretical framework and his criticisms of neoliberal capitalism from the perspective of Luc Boltanski's competing pragmatic sociology. Through a systematic discussion of Bourdieu's theory, the book offers insights into the relationship between science and politics and hopes to provide an opportunity for a deeper understanding of his work.

Aerial Targeting and the Laws of War

A Socio-Legal Study of the Achievement of Compliance

Alexander P. Holder University of Liverpool, UK

Series: Directions in Ethnomethodology and Conversation Analysis

A ground-breaking socio-legal investigation of the in-situ legal considerations involved in targeting and the use of force, Aerial Targeting and the Laws of War develops a new kind of evidence base for international action relating to the protection of civilians. Investigating the materials surrounding a civilian casualty incident that took place in Afghanistan in 2010, the book explores how a single strike – which was conducted in light of intelligence gathered by a militarised drone crew and resulted in the deaths of at least 15 civilians – became a lawful strike.

Decolonization as World Counterculture

Studying Theories in Motion in Social Work Education

Sandra Holtgreve

Decolonization as World Counterculture captures the underlying conditions of the rise of post- and decolonial theories. While efforts to decolonize knowledge and disciplines continue to expand, this book takes a different approach of reflection. It examines instead how decolonization itself has become a global although unequally addressed phenomenon. Bringing together world culture research with postcolonial studies in the field of social work, the book analyzes social work curricula from Germany, Mexico, and Ecuador to explore how (de)coloniality is embedded in diverging horizons of meanings but shaped by strikingly similar institutions in the educational setting.

Genetic Enhancement and Technomoral Change

An Anticipatory Ethics Approach

Jon Rueda

Series: Routledge Research in Applied Ethics

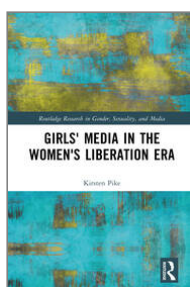

Part 1 of this book examines the historical, conceptual, scientific, and ethical challenges related to human genetic enhancement. The Interlude introduces the emerging philosophical debate on technomoral change. Part 2 addresses reproductive choice, genetic justice, and equal treatment to illustrate how enhancement technologies may alter future social morality. Finally, the book explores the anticipatory governance of genetic enhancement, qualifying the necessity and limitations of public engagement, identifying different types of epistemic and moral uncertainties, and offering meta-normative recommendations for public policy.

Girls' Media in the Women's Liberation Era

Kirsten Pike

Series: Routledge Research in Gender, Sexuality, and Media

Girls' Media in the Women's Liberation Era is a critical analysis and cultural history of popular girls' media narratives produced in the U.S. between 1968 and 1980—the era of the second-wave feminist movement—and girls' responses to those narratives. Through archival research and close analysis of shows including The Brady Bunch and Family, the book highlights how liberation-era girls "talked back" on a range of media narratives and feminist issues, thus demonstrating their crucial involvement in the women's movement. It is a key text for both students and researchers in gender studies, media studies, children's media, American studies, cultural studies, and sociology.

Gnostic Fools

The Occult Origins of Our Ideological Age

Agnes Horvath University College Cork, Ireland

Series: Contemporary Liminality

This book offers a political anthropological discussion of our contemporary situation regarding sceptical attitudes towards scientific expertise and authority, and the increasing role of power and politics. It does so using an exploration of the "fool" or "gnostic fool" as a type, drawing on ideas about the modality of the anthropological trickster figure and the mentalities that this type disseminates. As such, it will be of central relevance to scholars, researchers, and postgraduate students working in anthropology, ethnography, sociology, historical sociology, religious studies, and philosophy worldwide.

Harvey Sacks and Ethnomethodology

The Prospect of an Alternate and Adequate Sociology

Graham Button

Series: Directions in Ethnomethodology and Conversation Analysis

Ethnomethodology and Conversation Analysis have made major inroads into the disciplines that make up the social sciences. Although commonly run together under the title of EMCA, what their relationship is to one another remains as elusive as the relationship between their respective founders, Harold Garfinkel and Harvey Sacks. It will appeal to both new and existing scholars of ethnomethodology and conversation analysis, as well as those with interests in social theory, methodology, and those who have taken up the relevance of conversation analysis for their research and are interested in the ethnomethodological heritage of conversation analysis.

In Pursuit of Epistemic Healing in South African Universities

Black Students' Encounters with the Structural and Spiritual Violence of Coloniality in Higher Education

Wanelisa Xaba University of the Western Cape, South Africa

Series: Routledge Advances in Feminist Studies and Intersectionality

This book demonstrates the epistemic challenges in the South African education system and asks readers to think critically about the role of the university in a decolonial future. Xaba reveals how Western colonial educational models severed indigenous ways of knowing and learning across the Global South and settler colonial contexts. Centering Black students' voices, this book is an insightful read for scholars researching decoloniality in higher education, as well as students of feminist studies, decolonial theory, educational justice and critical university studies.

Internal Migration in Contemporary India

Edited by Deepak K. Mishra

This book explores internal migration in contemporary India from various vantage points and examines its relationship with development. Showcasing a multidisciplinary understanding of the processes and experiences of migration, it looks specifically at the fragmented nature of the migration process. The volume explores the role of the state and civil society in the backdrop of conflicts among host and migrant populations in several parts of India, exploitation, and marginalisation of migrants and the changing policy framework that deals with migration in post-reforms India.

Intersections of Feminist Technoscience and Phenomenology

Subjectivity, Embodiment, Agency

Edited by Lisa Folkmarson Käll, Kristin Zeiler Linköping University, Sweden

Intersections of Feminist Technoscience and Phenomenology: Subjectivity, Embodiment, Agency brings together feminist phenomenology and technoscience studies with the aim of gaining a more comprehensive understanding of subjectivity and subjectivities. The book demonstrates how combining insights from these traditions can deepen feminist analyses of pressing contemporary issues, from climate change to medical technologies, while contributing to broader discussions in feminist theory, epistemology, and subjectivity studies. It is an essential resource for undergraduates and postgraduates studying Gender Studies, Environmental and Medical Humanities, and Philosophy.

Living with Disappointment in the Face of Environmental Crisis

Resilience, Resistance, and Denial

Arne Johan Vetlesen

While the impacts of climate change become increasingly severe, efforts to prevent them suffer one blow after the other, as seen in the rise of far-right populist parties in Western democracies. Why does denialism thrive when blatantly contradicted by the realities before our very eyes, be it wild-fires, floods, drought and melting glaciers? A highly timely and sharp analysis of the roots of inaction and denial and possible strategies for resistance, it will appeal to scholars and upper-level students with interests in social, political and environmental philosophy and psychology, political theory, and environmental studies.

Mediated Racism and Democracy in Canada

Interrogating the News Industry, Political Systems, and Public Discourses

Ahmed Al-Rawi Simon Fraser University, Canada

Series: Routledge Research in Race and Ethnicity

Based on studying political systems and the news industry, this book examines the tension between the hierarchical configurations of racial discrimination and the ideals of equality found in Western democracy to explore how and why the reality of racism persists in modern-day democratic societies. Taking Canada as a case study of a multicultural society, it uses a mixed methods approach to present insights from racialized politicians and journalists that explore how they navigate the issues of democracy and racism. It will therefore appeal to scholars and researchers with interests in race and racism, multiculturalism, democracy, and critical race theory.

Migration and Citizenship pathways in/beyond Asia

Edited by Elaine Lynn-Ee Ho National University of Singapore, Rhacel Salazar Parreñas, Brenda S.A. Yeoh National University of Singapore

Series: Ethnic and Racial Studies

This edited volume explores the complex and varied pathways to citizenship that migrants navigate in both sending and receiving countries. By examining the diverse strategies which migrants employ to handle uncertainties and global disparities, this work highlights how citizenship pathways evolve across national and transnational spaces, as well as over time. Citizenship pathways are defined as the routes and processes through which migrants achieve citizenship recognition and redistribution, influencing their pursuit of personal and family goals. This book was originally published as a special issue of Ethnic and Racial Studies.

New Perspectives on Healing Collective Trauma

Towards Social Justice and Communal Well-Being

Edited by Scherto R. Gill Guerrand-Hermès Foundation for Peace, Brighton, UK

This book examines how historical injustices continue to impact societies today. It argues that addressing these harms requires collective healing, involving acknowledging the wounds, truth-telling, reparations, reconciliation, and dialogue across diverse generations and communities. Gathering interdisciplinary perspectives and renowned global scholars in one volume, the book offers practical strategies and hopeful narratives that demonstrate how societies can move from entrenched division towards communal healing and shared flourishing. It is an essential resource for anyone interested in creating more just, empathetic, and inclusive societies in our increasingly interconnected world.

On Art 'Vandalism' and Civil Resistance in Museums

Destruction, Degradation, Artistic and Political Interventions since 1970

Anne Bessette Centre de Recherche sur les Liens Sociaux, France

Series: CRESC

Examining modern art vandalism across Europe and North America from 1970 to 2020, this book offers the first comprehensive sociological analysis of this phenomenon. Drawing on perspectives from directors, curators, security personnel, legal experts, artists, and—uniquely—the vandals themselves, Bessette unravels the complex dynamics of intentional art damage within museum spaces. In doing so, the book illuminates how vandalism challenges traditional notions of art preservation, institutional authority, and cultural value. An essential reading for students and scholars in art history, museum studies, sociology, cultural politics, and criminology.

Platform and Agency

Becoming Who We Are

Mark Carrigan

Series: Routledge Studies in Critical Realism

This book examines how digital platforms reconfigure the parameters of agency and reflexivity in contemporary social life. Drawing on Margaret Archer's social realist framework, it conceptualizes platforms as distinct sociotechnical structures with emergent properties and powers that shape human action without determining it. This book will interest researchers and graduate students in social theory, philosophy of technology, digital sociology, platform studies, media and communication studies, critical data studies, internet studies, surveillance studies, sociology of knowledge, digital anthropology, and social informatics.

Practice Theory and Process Philosophy

Towards a Sociology of Becoming

Stanley Blue Lancaster University, UK

Series: Routledge Studies in Social and Political Thought

This book breaks new ground in sociological theory, presenting a process-oriented practice theory for conceptualising and studying the dynamism, interconnectedness and ongoing transformation of everyday social life. Drawing on process-inspired approaches from disciplines such as anthropology, geography and science and technology studies, it develops a framework for understanding practices not as things that change, but as ongoing processes that organise everyday life. Practice Theory and Process Philosophy is essential reading for scholars and students across the social sciences and humanities who are interested in practice theory, process philosophy and social theory.

Queer Migration and Drag in Japan

Queering Identity, Participation and Belonging

Phillip Hughes

Queer Migration and Drag in Japan: Queering Identity, Participation and Belonging explores how queer migration intersects with drag performance in Japan. Drawing on interviews, ethnography, and collaborative tojisha research, the book explores questions of identity and belonging, and traces how performers reclaim the "gaijin" (foreigner) label, navigate rigid work-family structures, and build coalitions linking Japan's bars to a booming global drag economy. It is ideal for both students and researchers in gender studies, migration, Japanese studies, and performance studies.

Reimagining Social Justice Scholarship

Creative Decolonial Feminisms in South Africa and Beyond

Edited by Tamara Shefer University of the Western Cape, South Africa, Carmine Rustin University of the Western Cape, South Africa, Floretta Boonzaier University of Cape Town, South Africa

Showcasing creative decolonial feminist and critical social justice scholarship, located in a South African context, this book works across modalities and disciplines, and within art and activism, to challenge hegemonic and oppressive forms of gender and sexuality. It seeks to make a scholarly intervention founded on rethinking its own grounds through collaborations with knowledges often deployed by those outside the authoritative, 'expert' domains of academia, aligning it with feminist and decolonial aims. A valuable resource for students and scholars of gender, sexuality and intersectionality, particularly those with a focus on the global south.

The Decline of Antiracism and the Future of Progressive Politics

Building Race and Class Alliances for a Better Future

John Torpey

Examining the vicissitudes of contemporary antiracism and its problematic contributions to recent progressive politics, The Decline of Antiracism and the Future of Progressive Politics argues that contemporary antiracism has ignored the role of class and reduced social justice to a matter of symbolism and right-thinking. Facing an unprecedented new era with the return of the Trump administration, this book is a vital resource not only for students and instructors in sociology, social theory, race and ethnic studies, and American cultural studies, but also for community and institutional organizers, leaders, and workers to mobilize people to forge new movements of resistance.

The Permanence of Anti-Roma Racism

(Un)uttered Sentences

Margareta Matache

The Permanence of Anti-Roma Racism: (Un)uttered Sentences offers a theoretical perspective on the roots of anti-Roma racism, placing its genesis in the system of slavery in the historical territories of present-day Romania and the politics of expulsions, killings, displacement, Roma hunts, and entry-bans across Europe in the Middle Ages. Employing the theoretical frameworks of racial formation and racialization of W.E.B. Du Bois, Stuart Hall, and Michael Omi, this book details the intricate interactions and manifestations of anti-Roma racism's historical roots, enduring legacies, and continuities to conceptualize anti-Roma racism as a structural form of oppression.

Women's Civil Society Organisations in Turkey

Reflections of Europeanisation and De-Europeanisation along the EU Journey

Edited by Nazlı Kazanoğlu Koç University, Turkey, Ayşe İdil Aybars Middle East Technical University, Turkey

Series: Routledge Studies in Political Sociology

This book focuses on the de-Europeanization processes that Turkey is undergoing through an examination of women's civil society organizations. Considering the lively women's movement in the country and its diversity, it questions whether a transformation has occurred in the way that these organizations perceive the European Union and make use of the financial and strategic support offered by the EU. A study of political change and the effects of de-Europeanization in a country with changing attitudes towards the EU, this volume will appeal to scholars of political sociology, political science and European studies with interests in civil society organizations and gender.

Welfare Racism

The Discursive Dimension

Edited by Fabio Perocco

Series: Critiques and Alternatives to Capitalism

Presenting a global overview of discourses of welfare racism across the world by institutional actors, public figures, political parties, and ordinary citizens, this book examines the evolution, character, form, role and consequences of racialized welfare discourse on migrants, asylum seekers, and BIPOC. It focuses on the ideological-discursive dimension of welfare racism: the discourses, rhetorics and narratives that portray migrants, refugees and BIPOC as abusers of welfare systems. It will appeal to researchers and post-graduate students of critical race studies, racial inequality, migration, public discourse, communication, mass media, social policy, welfare, and social work.

Workers Without Companies

Towards a New Way of Working

Edited by Sylvie Célérier University of Lille, France, Alberto Riesco-Sanz Complutense University of Madrid, Spain

Series: Routledge Studies in the Sociology of Work, Professions and Organisations

Workers Without Companies contributes to the debate on the future of work in a productive landscape that is now global, while ways of working diversify at an unprecedented pace. Faced with several decades of mass unemployment in Europe and the activation of self-employment – especially through intermediary platforms – this book examines the transformation of the wage system not only in traditional salaried sectors but also in self-employment, agriculture, and the field of science and knowledge production. As such, Workers Without Companies will appeal to sociologists with interests in work and industry, employment and unemployment, organisation studies and labour relations.

What's Going On?

The Struggle for Contemporary American Identity

By Lawrence Grossberg

Series: Critical Interventions

Exploring the backstory of contemporary political polarization, What's Going On? recognizes that simple stories of blame and uncontested stories of polarization prove themselves to be bad stories that produce bad politics. This work is a vital resource for students and instructors in sociology, political science, cultural studies, media studies, and communication, in such courses as contemporary social theory, contemporary political theory, media, politics and society, social movements and resistance.

Artificial Intelligence and Neuroenhancement in Sport

Edited by Alberto Carrio Universitat Pompeu Fabra, Spain
Series: Ethics and Sport

This book is the first to take a close look at artificial intelligence and neuroenhancement in the context of sport, and at the potential of new technologies to act as enablers of neurodoping. Exploring fascinating topics including neurostimulation, brain-chips, cyborgisation and the importance of establishing sound ethical regulations, the book takes a positive ethical view, seeing the lack of previous work in this area as an opportunity to embed ethics in sports technology and promote AI for good in sport. This book is important reading for any advanced student, researcher, administrator or policy-maker with an interest in the ethics of sport.

Social Class, Physical Education, and Community Sport

Theoretical Perspectives

Edited by Michael Hobson St Mary's University, Twickenham, UK, Stuart Whigham Oxford Brookes University, UK, Izram Chaudry University of Bradford, UK

Series: Routledge Critical Perspectives on Equality and Social Justice in Sport and Leisure

At times, writing this introduction felt like an insurmountable task. In a world where class shapes every aspect of our existence; from where we live, to what we wear and eat, to the transport we use, the politicians that we vote for as well as the sport(s) we participate in – summarising the pertinence of social class has proven to be no easy endeavour. As editors, our hope therefore is that this collection will serve to stimulate critical thought around existing and evolving structures in PE and community sport and serve as a stimulus to continue research and future conversations in the field - in the same way others have stimulated us to date.

Integrating Sustainability and ESG in Private Equity

A Playbook for Generating Long-Term Value from Sustainable Practices

Esohe Denise Odaro , Sasja Beslik

Series: Routledge Research in Sustainability and Business

This book reveals how ESG principles drive competitive advantage in private equity. Following Alex Morgan's journey from skeptic to advocate, it provides frameworks for implementing sustainability throughout the investment lifecycle: enhancing due diligence, improving operations, and maximizing exit value. Through portfolio company case studies, readers discover practical methodologies for value creation across environmental, social, and governance dimensions. Essential frameworks include materiality assessment, stakeholder engagement, regulatory compliance, and measurement systems.

Climate Action and Civil Society in Turkey and Germany

Contested Common Ground

Hande Paker

Series: Routledge Advances in Climate Change Research

This book explores the social and political dynamics that shape the impacts of climate change, drawing upon Turkey and Germany to offer a comprehensive comparative analysis. The in-depth comparison of two conventionally dissimilar cases, Turkey and Germany, demonstrates that civil society actors in different political settings can use similar strategies and frames for climate action against state actors, who, in turn, use similar depoliticization strategies and economic growth narratives to reproduce hegemony.

Climate Mitigation in the Land Sector of the Global South

Making it Work for People and Planet

Michael I. Brown

Series: Routledge Advances in Climate Change Research

This book challenges dominant, top-down approaches to climate mitigation in the land sector, arguing that without genuine negotiation, recognized land rights, and tailored capacity building for Indigenous Peoples and Local Communities (IPLCs), most solutions will inevitably fail or do harm. Through a rich set of case studies that include successes and failures, Michael Brown demonstrates how social license, tenure security, and robust capacity building are essential for achieving climate action that will be sustainable because it works for key actors at multiple levels.

Politics of the Anthropocene and Climate Crisis in India

Seeking Socio-Ecological Transformations

Edited by Purendra Prasad, Lalatendu Keshari Das

Series: Routledge Explorations in Environmental Studies

This book focuses on the complex and contested nature of transformation in India, from a social and political ecology perspective. By examining issues pertaining to land, labour and urbanisation from an interdisciplinary perspective, the chapters in this book break down the notion of the Anthropocene into useful analytical categories that represent both the disruptive and constructive natures of the transformation debate. Drawing on empirical research, each author focuses on a particular state or region in the East Coast, East and Northeast of India to show how states and communities seek transformation sometimes in competition and/or contestation with each other.

Tony Allan

An Intellectual Journey

Edited by David Dent, Martin Keulertz, Michael Gilmont

Series: Routledge Special Issues on Water Policy and Governance

This book follows Tony Allan's journey through the maze of water management and global awareness of the risks of mismanagement, tracing the trajectory of the hydraulic mission from a time of infinite possibilities— flat panis and piped water—to risk aversion, loss of confidence and political will, and post-water societies. Through sixteen detailed chapters, the book examines the mixed legacy of privatization and the complex politics of the water-energy-food nexus. It tackles contentious issues of sustainability and governance, ultimately advocating for the rebalancing of power dynamics within food systems and broader society.

2ND EDITION

Hospitality Finance and Accounting

Edited by Rob van Ginneken NHTV Breda University of Applied Sciences, Netherlands

Series: Hospitality Essentials Series

Basically, there are two ways to look at any business from a financial perspective. One way, which we will explore in more detail in Chapter 2, focuses on what a business owns and owes at a certain moment in time. Think of the amount of cash in the organization: the petty cash in the secretaries' office, in cash registers in departments where money is received from customers, or the money in bank accounts. However, we should take into consideration that Hildifons is a large professional hospitality business. The use of capital budgeting techniques in smaller businesses may very well be much less sophisticated, perhaps even more intuitive.

Rethinking the Social and Economic Value of Children in the Digital Age

The Impact of Social Media Parenting on Child Development

Hatice Işık, Sebahat Tofan, Mehmet Hakan Türkçapar

In a world shaped by likes, followers, and algorithms, what does it mean to be a child and what does it mean to raise one? This book explores how the meaning and value of children have shifted in the digital era, where visibility often replaces intimacy, and childhood unfolds not just at home but also on screens. Drawing on developmental psychology, sociology, and media studies, it examines how everyday parenting has merged with content creation. It also explores how children, who were once valued primarily for their emotional closeness, are now increasingly seen as sources of social capital and digital assets.

Severe and Profound Brain Injury

A Clinician's Guide to Complex Neuro-Disability

Sonja Soeterik, Sal Connolly, Sarah Crawford

Severe and Profound Brain Injury is a comprehensive guide offering clinicians practical tools, techniques and ways to structure thinking in approaching how to best assess and provide neurorehabilitation to patients with the most overwhelming and complex neuro-disability. Advances in acute care will lead to increasing numbers of people surviving with complex neuro-disability and more families will be challenged by a confusing and devastating form of loss. Most clinicians will not have encountered this level of impairment in clinical practice and can feel deskilled, challenged by how best to help and overpowered by the questions it raises.

The Social Psychology of the Human-Animal Bond

Laurent Bègue-Shankland

This book looks at our relationships of dominance with and affection for animals. It reviews how animals played a pivotal role in ancient civilizations, and still play a fundamental part in human lives, and looks at how many humans feel deep affection and other strong emotions towards animals. This book shows how much our relations with animals - from attachment to abuse - reveal our identity and our relations with others. It will provide a valuable resource not only to students and researchers studying human-animal relations, zoology and human psychology, but also to a general reader interested in animal advocacy.

What the #MeToo Movement Highlights and Hides about Workplace Sexual Harassment

Spotlights and Shadows

Edited by Anne O'Leary-Kelly University of Arkansas, USA
, Shannon Rawski University of Western Ontario, Canada Series: Applied Psychology Series

What the #MeToo Movement Highlights and Hides about Workplace Sexual Harassment seeks to examine both the spotlights (Part I) and the shadows (Part II) of the #MeToo Movement, setting a research agenda to examine both more carefully in management research, and constructing an integrative case to introduce insights to student and practitioner audiences. Insights from #MeToo highlight the power of social movements to frame the public's understanding of the issue of sexual harassment and to spark counter-movements that challenge that frame. This volume will be of interest to researchers, scholars, students, practitioners, and policymakers.

Fundamentals of Learning

A Behavioral Approach

Stephane Gaskin

Fundamentals of Learning: A Behavioral Approach discusses the basic mechanisms of learning. It highlights how most behaviors are learned through minimal amounts of cognitive processing and acquired through associations between stimuli, such as observed in classical and operant conditioning (associative learning) and repeated experiences with a single stimulus (non-associative learning). The book is written with the student in mind throughout, featuring real-life case studies, key terms and learning objectives. It is also has in-chapter videos, alongside online resources such as lecture slides, class assignments, and multiple choice questions.

Integrating Converging Evidence in Behavioral Sciences

How to Incite a Scientific Revolution

Gary L. Brase Kansas State University

By examining the needs for consistency and coherence across different scientific disciplines, this book offers readers a practical framework for evaluating and advancing their research topics. Through an overview of established frameworks such as Marr's computational framework and Tinbergen's four questions, the book introduces a novel convergence framework specifically tailored to the behavioral sciences. This approach enables an integrated view of scientific theories and knowledge and empowers researchers to pinpoint areas of high impact. It serves as a rubric for students to grasp and navigate their research topics and also as a resource for more advanced researchers.

Navigating Ethics in Behavior Analysis

Dealing with Gray Areas

R. Nicolle Carr

Navigating Ethics in Behavior Analysis considers the elusive topic of ethics in the professional context of behavioral analysis. Students often assume their Applied Behavior Analysis Ethics class is going to be an easy A+; that it takes no more than common sense and a good moral compass to determine the line between right and wrong. But ethics are different from laws, morals and common sense and, when a variable is modified from how it was originally learned, students can be at a loss for how to critically think through the situation. This book will be an essential resource for students of behavioral analysis ethics as well as fully certified behavioral analysts.

Reframing Neoliberalism as a Cognitive Regime

An Order of Alienated Consciousness

Daniel Gugan

This volume provides a new exploration of the complex phenomenon of neoliberalism from a unique perspective, casting it as our contemporary 'collective consciousness' and arguing for its interpretation not as a political ideology, but as multifaceted cognitive system. Academics interested in the expansion of the "critique of neoliberalism" discourse to the socio-cognitive field, looking for some novelties in the well-established academic literature around this subject would greatly benefit from this text. With its clear and concise format, it is also of interest to motivated readers from outside academia.

The Great Psychology Delusion

Missteps, Pitfalls and How to Make a More Successful Psychological Science

Craig Spielman Edith Cowan University, Marek McGann

This book takes an unflinching look at some of the foundational assumptions of psychological science. Exploring long-standing unanswered critiques of psychological research in a way that is detailed but accessible, it brings together a wealth of material that challenges our understanding of what the science of psychology really is, and how the subject matter of that science should be conceived. This unsentimental examination of the state of things nevertheless allows the authors to identify concrete steps that the scientific community can take to re-ground psychological research and move forward to a successful science studying the richest and most complex phenomena we know of: us.

Developing Psychotherapeutic Innovation and Imagination through Qualitative Research

Phenomenology and the Nature of Psychotherapeutic Knowledge

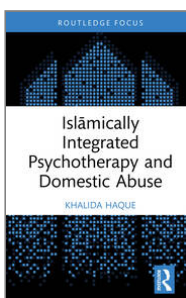

Edited by Del Loewenthal University of Roehampton, UK, Angela Abela

This book presents contemporary studies in qualitative psychotherapeutic research, examining their effectiveness in developing psychotherapeutic innovation and imagination. There is a focus on phenomenology, particularly given the growing prominence of Interpretative Phenomenological Analysis (IPA). The book explores the tension between different forms of therapeutic knowledge—theoretical explicit knowledge, practice-derived explicit knowledge, and the crucial yet elusive tacit knowledge that emerges through clinical experience.

The Perverse Feminine

An Archetypal Reclamation of Forbidden Power

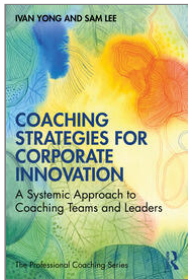

Kalen Aradia Independent scholar, California, USA

The Perverse Feminine resurrects a long-buried psychic figure: the Perverse Feminine Archetype. Grounded in intuitive inquiry, this work builds on Jungian theory, feminist psychology, and myth to illuminate the archetypal constructs of forbidden power, deviant desire, and inherited shame shaping the collective psyche of cisgender women. Through evocative narratives that generate tools for archetypal engagement, this study offers individuals, theorists, and clinicians a guide to identity, self-discovery, and psychic wholeness within a rapidly changing cultural landscape.

Difference and Multiplicity

Adventures in Philosophy and Psychotherapy

Manu Bazzano

Psychological and psychotherapeutic orientations often neglect the notion that the individual is not one unit, but rather a coalition of affects. Providing a multi-disciplinary framework for the practice of psychotherapy and philosophy, this book explores and embraces this multiplicity within the human psyche and challenges the reader to explore and celebrate difference within society. This book is essential reading for therapy practitioners, and professionals of related disciplines, who want to expand their knowledge and find different ways to understand and practice their art.

Essays on Integrative Psychotherapy

Developmental and Relational Perspectives

Richard G. Erskine

This book is a distinctive collection of essays on the theory and methods of a developmentally-based, relationally-focused integrative psychotherapy. In an easy-to-read style, Richard Erskine elaborates on a relationally-focused psychotherapy for acute and cumulative neglect, dissociation, alcoholism, obsession, prolonged grief, as well as psychotherapy with couples. Essays on Integrative Psychotherapy vividly illustrates the intersubjective struggle of clients who engage in the schizoid process of relational withdrawal and live in loneliness, and will be essential reading for psychotherapists and psychoanalysts in practice and in training.

Pluralism in Counselling and Psychotherapy

Philosophy, Politics, and Practice

Jay Beichman

This book explores the concept of pluralism in therapy, emphasising the value of multiple therapeutic approaches. It introduces 'pluralistic therapy', developed by Mick Cooper and John McLeod, as a response to divisions in the therapy field, particularly the dominance of CBT and medicalised models. Addressing contemporary challenges such as the SCoPEd framework, the rise of AI, and the resurgence of psychedelic therapies, this is an essential read for any therapist or mental health practitioner who is interested in learning more about pluralistic approaches to therapy.

Preventive Cognitive Therapy for Depression

An Evidence-Based Approach to Reduce Relapse Risk

Claudi L. Bockting University of Amsterdam, Netherlands

This is the authoritative presentation of preventive cognitive therapy (PCT), a rigorously tested 8-week program shown to help individuals who have recovered from depression to stay well. Claudi L. Bockting reviews the conceptual foundations, rationale, and evidence base for PCT and compares it to other depression relapse prevention strategies. She provides step-by-step guidelines for conducting each session with individuals or groups. Ways to overcome common treatment roadblocks and help clients get the most out of take-home assignments are described. In a convenient large-size format, the manual includes 39 reproducible and downloadable handouts and forms.

Sensory Pathways to Healing from Trauma

Harnessing the Brain's Capacity for Change

Ruth A. Lanius Western University, Canada, Sherain Harricharan, Breanne E. Kearney University of Western Ontario, Canada, Benjamin Pandev-Girard

This book explores the impact of psychological trauma on the brain's sensory pathways and demonstrates the crucial role sensory-based interventions can play in recovery. Neurobiological research is interwoven with evocative clinical material. The book highlights the brain-body disconnect that is part of the lived experience of trauma, and traces what happens in all eight sensory systems when an individual is under threat. Featuring within-chapter "Bridging to Practice" sections, the book reveals how working with sensory pathways can engage the whole brain, promote neuroplasticity, and optimize the effectiveness of standard psychotherapies. Illustrations include eight pages in full color.

Perversity, Pornography, and the Psychology of the Male Species

An Overdue Rethinking of Robert Stoller's Gender Theories

Richard Tuch

This book presents an overview of present-day psychoanalytic thinking about the perverse spectrum: perverse thinking (disavowing reality), perverse modes of relating (manipulating others for one's own gain at the other's expense), and perverse character structure (toying with another's sense of reality), culminating in a clinical exploration of the challenges associated with treating patients who manifest perverse transference reactions. With fascinating clinical vignettes and a deep understanding of the source material, this is key reading for psychoanalysts and psychotherapists working with men.

Elements of Faith: Psychoanalytic Phenomenon and Lived Experience

Brent Potter

Series: Routledge Focus on Mental Health

This book investigates the multidimensional nature of faith as an existential and psychoanalytic phenomenon. Engaging with thinkers such as Heidegger, Bion, Kierkegaard, and Hillman, Brent Potter examines faith not as static belief but as a lived, dynamic structure of human experience. Drawing upon clinical work, especially the transformative therapeutic process with a patient named Sara, the book reveals how faith surfaces in moments of crisis, longing, and relational rupture. With careful attention to the Hebraic and Greek worldviews, the author provides insight into faith's ethical, psychological, cultural, and theological contours.

The Relational Jung

Challenging the Inward Orientation of Analytical Psychology

Edited by Robin S. Brown, Mark Saban

Within this fascinating new volume, a group of prominent Jungian writers seek to explore the apparent contradiction between two aspects of Jungian thinking: one that points in the direction of a genuinely radical relational psychology, and another which seems to struggle to engage meaningfully with what we might call the psychosocial dimension. This unique collection will be of particular value to scholars and clinicians within the Jungian world, as well as relationally-oriented psychoanalysts with an interest in becoming more conversant in Jung.

Categorical Data Analysis with Structural Equation Models

Applications in Mplus and lavaan

Kevin J. Grimm Arizona State University, United States

Multivariate categorical outcomes require specialized structural equation modeling (SEM) software to be analyzed properly. This book leads readers from regression analysis with categorical outcomes to complex SEMs with latent variables for categorical indicators. The text demonstrates regression analyses for binary, ordered, or count outcomes using R, with comparable SAS code at the companion website. It reanalyzes the same data using Mplus and R lavaan to show how univariate models for categorical outcomes can be estimated and interpreted with SEM programs, before tackling multivariate models and advanced SEM with categorical outcomes. Annotated Mplus and lavaan code is featured throughout.

What's the Problem Represented to Be?

A New Thinking Paradigm

Carol Bacchi

Originally developed as a mode of critical policy analysis this book extends the thinking behind the innovative 'What's the Problem Represented to be?' (WPR) approach, to new areas of investigation. It poses a challenge to problem solving as the dominant way of thinking about human existence and human endeavours and offers a fresh alternative that turns attention to the contours of designated 'problems'. This book will be of interest to undergraduate and postgraduate students, early career researchers and academics in a wide range of fields, including public policy, education, law, international relations, and disability, Indigenous and feminist studies.

Flipping the Story on Disability and Violence

People with Intellectual Disability and Allies Leading the Change

Patsie Frawley, Nancy Fitzsimons

Internationally there is a growing awareness that domestic, family, and sexual violence is a social issue that results from social structures and relational contexts that have positioned women as 'less than' men. Alongside this awareness has come social action by women and their allies that aim to change these social and relational structures using an intersectional framing of oppression. It is a must-read resource for anyone doing interpersonal violence prevention research and work and can be used as primary or supplemental reading for students doing coursework and research in disability studies, gender studies, community psychology, sociology, public health, and social work.

Learning with Learning Disability

What Learning Disability Can Teach Us About Being Human

Owen Barden

Series: Autocritical Disability Studies

This book uses the concept of "learning disability" to explore what it means to be human. It argues that we need to learn with rather than from or about learning disability. This crucial distinction means being open to what learning disability can teach us about what it means to be human. This approach comes from recognizing learning disability as an organizing concept - a concept which radically transforms our sense of what it means to be - or not be - a person. It will be of interest to all scholars and students of disability studies, the history of learning disability, humanism and posthumanism, and learning disability advocacy.

The Playground Model of Disability

Dis/honesty Tropes in Contemporary British Sociocultural Representation

David Bolt Liverpool Hope University, UK

Series: Autocritical Disability Studies

This book coins the term dis/honesty to define the moments in which dishonesty is invoked by disability, and vice versa. The concept is explored via a selection of contemporary British sociocultural representations – namely, short jokes, disability sitcom, soap opera, activist radio interviews, fictionalised observations, and the robotic positionality of Artificial Intelligence. The Playground Model of Disability will be of particular interest to readers in disability studies, as well as those in humour studies, radio studies, media studies, television studies, literary studies, cultural studies, inclusion studies, drama, sociology, and critical theory.

Pediatric ECG Holter

A Case-Based Approach to Interpretation

Edited by Cismaru Gabriel, Cecilia Lazea, Simona Cainap

As arrhythmias may be transient and not seen during the shorter recording times of the standard ECG, ECG Holter monitoring allows the physician to make better-informed decisions for the cardiac patient. Here is a case-by-case teaching exercise in interpreting Holter monitors in the paediatric population. The cases reflect the broad spectrum of paediatric arrhythmias that are most frequently encountered. Paediatric cardiologists, paediatricians, and paediatric cardiac physiologists will develop the expertise to analyse the Holter ECG in children of varying ages.

Henry J. Woodford Northumbria Healthcare NHS Foundation Trust, UK, Francis J A Collin

Geriatric medicine is challenging – people present with multiple problems at the same time, and case studies provide a good way to discuss this complexity. This book describes 30 cases of older people with frailty presenting to acute medical services. They cover a wide range of common presentations and management issues and explore the interplay of acute illness, multimorbidity, and physical and cognitive impairments. The book focuses on medicine optimisation, shared decision-making and advance care planning using key test results and imaging studies. Management options are discussed where disease-specific guidelines may not provide the solution when treating older adults.

Pathology of Neck Injury

Peter Vanezis Queen Mary University of London, UK

Pathology of Neck Injury, Second Edition is a practical guide and reference to all pathological aspects of neck injury. It covers a broad spectrum of trauma of the neck region, reflecting the experiences of many distinguished pathologists and those of author Peter Vanezis with more than 50 years of expertise in the field. Pathology of Neck Injury, Second Edition is an essential guide for all those involved in the relevant specialties of pathology, surgery, and forensic medicine—particularly pathologists, both qualified and in training, but also to clinical forensic practitioners, trauma specialists, ENT surgeons, and general surgeons.

The New Politics of the NHS

From Creation to Reinvention

Cover Image

Rudolf Klein , Martin Powell

The New Politics of the NHS is firmly established as the key overview of the NHS—its processes, structures, and paths of influence—offering a clear, accessible guide to often complex and contested debates. It explores the background and evolution of the NHS since its foundation, while also examining its current state and likely future in an increasingly pluralistic and financially austere era. Topics include management, structure, centralisation, funding, economic performance, ongoing challenges, party-political debates, interest groups, and rationing, while emphasising the NHS's institutional and cultural continuity as a tax-funded, universal health service free at point of delivery.

50 Landmark Papers every Plastic Surgeon Should Know

Edited by Tor Wo Chiu Plastic Surgery, Dept of Surgery, Prince of Wales Hospital, Hong Kong

Series: 50 Landmark Papers

This book identifies key scientific papers in the field of Plastic Surgery and explains why these papers are important in contemporary clinical management. The text includes commentaries on landmark papers in a wide range of clinical areas within Plastic, Reconstructive and Aesthetic surgery. The insights offered will stimulate further reading and will facilitate a deeper understanding of a topic and, of course, be useful in examinations. This an invaluable reference for Plastic Surgery trainees, fellows, and surgeons studying for exams, as well as for seasoned clinicians who want to stay current in their field.

11TH EDITION

Farquharson's Textbook of Operative General Surgery

Edited by Brendan Moran FRCSI, Consultant Surgeon, Hampshire Hospitals Foundation Trust, Basingstoke, UK, Rohin Mittal, Amy Lord

The 11th edition of Farquharson's continues to provide both the fundamental surgical skills needed by trainee surgeons and the general surgical subspecialty knowledge necessary for higher surgical training. Junior surgeons often need an overview of the whole patient, and even experienced surgeons occasionally need to operate outside their area of expertise, so each chapter's specialist authors have focused their topic on principles for the general surgeon, bridging the gap between general and specialty surgery. This classic, concise textbook will benefit all General Surgeons, whether already well-established, or just embarking on their career in surgery.

Non-Surgical Hair Restoration

A Comprehensive Guide for Doctors

Robert Dorfman

Hair loss is one of the most common conditions encountered in both clinical and aesthetic medicine, and its impact often extends well beyond the physical appearance of patients. While surgical restoration has traditionally garnered the most attention, the field of nonsurgical hair restoration has expanded significantly—driven by advances in molecular biology, the development of new therapeutic modalities, and increasing demand for lower-risk, patient-tailored treatments. This book was written to provide a comprehensive, evidence-based overview of nonsurgical approaches to hair restoration.

Essential Plant Biology

Alison M. Smith, J. Allan Downie, Nicholas Harberd, Jonathan Jones, Lars Ostergaard, Robert Sablowski, Colwyn Thomas

This exciting new textbook presents current knowledge of plant biology, highlighting important topics for future research. It addresses the dynamic nature of plant genomes, the conversion of products of photosynthesis into molecules that comprise the plant, and the nature and coordination of growth, development, and reproduction. It describes how these properties of plants are impacted by their surroundings. Finally, it outlines the history, importance and future of human interactions with plants. Designed for undergrad biology students who have a grounding in the fundamentals of molecular biology/biochemistry, it is also a valuable resource for postgrads in plant research.

Zoo Animal Welfare

Edited by Paul Rose Exeter Univ., Zoe Newnham Marwell Wildlife, Ian Hickey Chester Zoo

This book unpicks the different concepts of welfare in the zoo and aquarium, considering how enclosure design, nutrition, conservation activities, visitor engagement and daily husbandry all need to have a welfare-focus to be relevant to the species being housed. The book provides the practical application of evidence-based welfare theory, centred on the concept of "welfare-focussed husbandry", which enables zoo animals to experience positive welfare. Zoo Animal Welfare will empower readers to go "beyond the norm" when considering what zoo animals really need, applying their new knowledge for the benefit of both animals and zoos.

Advancements in Decontamination of Pesticides from Agroecosystems

Edited by Arpna Kumari, Sneh Rajput, Vishnu D. Rajput, Saglara S. Mandzhieva, Tatiana M. Minkina

Addresses the need to limit and control the use of pesticides for crops by investigating and implementing remediation procedures. The book first introduces the problem of pesticide contamination and the detection and analytical procedures for pesticides. The various remediation methods discussed include the utilization of macrophytes, microorganisms, microbial enzymes, cyanobacteria, and nanotechnology. The book also offers a critical evaluation of legacy pollution management strategies and offers remediation strategies, with an emphasis on the effects on human health and the environment.

Anaerobes and Methanogens

Edited by Bhagwan Narayan Rekadwad Yenepoya Research Centre, India

The book presents the complex realm of anaerobes and methanogens, which are microorganisms specialized in surviving in environments with very little or no oxygen. It describes the processes neighboring anaerobes and methanogens undergo to survive in environments, low to no oxygen, through their metabolic processes, genetic capabilities, and physiology. It elaborates on the role of anaerobes in biogeochemical cycles, human health, and industrial processes. The book shows a valuable perspective on anaerobes and methanogens and their important role in environments that are vital for life on Earth.

Enhancing Forest Resilience through Plant Functional Traits

A Practical Approach

Edited by Narendra Kumar , Amit Kumar North Eastern Hill University, India, Pramod Kumar Pandey

The book explores the relationship between plant functional traits and the resilience of forest ecosystems. Understanding how these traits influence forest ecosystems has significant implications for conservation, forestry, and ecosystem management. This book explores the intersection of ecology, botany, and forestry, providing a comprehensive guide to using plant functional traits as a tool to advance sustainable forest development as sustainable forest management becomes more and more important in the face of global environmental challenges. The book explores the role that plant functional traits play in ecosystem dynamics and how they support forest resilience.

Advancements, Challenges, and Applications in Precision Medicine

Edited by M V N L Chaitanya , Trudi Collet , Jon Adams , Kamal Dua , Sachin Kumar Singh

This book reviews the evolving field of epigenetics and its implications for drug discovery and precision medicine. It also focuses on the intricate mechanisms governing gene regulation and the impact of epigenetics on health and disease. The book encompasses the complexities of epigenetic mechanisms, their role in diseases such as cancer, autoimmune disorders, inflammatory conditions, and neurodegenerative diseases. With a focus on personalized medicine and recent advancements in drug delivery systems, this book is intended for researchers, clinicians, and pharmaceutical professionals seeking to explore epigenetic drug discovery and development.

Edited by Pedro Aguilar-Zárate , Mónica L. Chávez-González , Leonardo Sepúlveda Torre , Ann Rose Abraham , A. K. Haghi

Covers conceptual frameworks for understanding a functional construct of agro-food innovation and farming. It discusses a diverse selection of topics related to regenerative agriculture and farming that lead to practices that can be useful on both organic and conventional farms. It looks at eco-technologies in the agrifood industry, such as the production of bacterial metabolites against phytopathogenic fungi, how food affects gut microbiota, the role of probiotic rhizobacteria in agriculture, and nanocellulose-based composites in the food industry. It also explores eco-technologies for water-reuse in agricultural irrigation, and more.

Ion Transporters

The Clue to Salt Tolerance and Adaptation in Plants

Edited by Swarnendu Roy University of North Bengal, India, Khalid Rehman Hakeem , Piyush Mathur Uni of North Bengal, India

As our planet faces the growing threat of climate change and soil salinization, the need for developing resilient crops has never been more urgent. Ion Transporters: The Clue to Salt Tolerance and Adaptation in Plants offers an honest attempt to delve into the molecular mechanisms that enable plants to survive in salty environments. The book explores how ion transporters—specialized proteins that regulate the movement of ions across plant cell membranes—are central to a plant's ability to manage salt stress and thrive in challenging conditions.

This book details the full larval series of 10 common, economically important species of penaeid prawn in five genera, including Metapenaeus, Metapenaeopsis, Parapenaeopsis, Penaeus and Trachysalambria. Four Parapenaeopsis species are documented for the first time. A synthesis of larval development across the five genera includes an advanced hypothesis of four developmental pathways. Showcasing accurate artwork of 102 non-stylized, as-it-is drawings of penaeid larvae, cultured in the laboratory, the book describes extensive and intensive larval diagnoses, staging and taxonomic treatment for the generic and specific identification of the nauplius, protozoa, mysis and first postlarva.

Marine Biotechnology

A Gateway to Blue Economy

Edited by Anjana K. Vala Department of Life Sciences Maharaja Krishnakumarsinhji Bhavnagar University, Dushyant R. Dudhagara Bhakta Kavi Narsinh Mehta University, Gujarat, India

Marine environment has always been beneficial to mankind in one or the other way since ages. With advancement in scientific knowledge and technological development, novel aspects of marine resources have been and are being revealed that can be harnessed for sustainable development of blue economy. This book is an attempt to present before the scientific community, a compilation of recent developments in the field of marine biotechnology contributed by leading scientists of international repute. It covers diverse roles of marine biotechnology including in agriculture, probiotics, health sector, novel biomolecules, biochemicals, biomedicine and pharmaceuticals.

Microbiology in the Era of Artificial Intelligence

Nanotechnology, Quantum, and Next Generation Sequencing

Edited by Muhammad Ali Syed, Shahzad Ali, Tanveer Hussain Department of Molecular Biology, Virtual University of Pakistan

Like other fields of life science, the impact of next generation sequencing and bioinformatics are revolutionizing microbiology. In addition, the emerging role of quantum and nanotechnology in understanding the nature of microbial life is also explored. An special feature of the book is fascinating discussion on the transformation currently underway from classic microbiology to Next Generation sequencing. This is must-read book for microbiology students and researchers who want to be at the forefront of this exciting field.

Millets

Exploring the Underutilized Potential for Sustainable Agriculture

Edited by Devanshu Dev, Saurabh Pandey, Sudha Nandni, Sunidhi Mishra, Kumar Nishant Chourasia

Provides basic understanding of the historical, nutritional, and ecological significance of millets, setting the stage for a deeper exploration into their underutilized potential and the transformative role they can play in global agriculture. It addresses the multifaceted challenges faced by millet cultivation. It sheds light on pest and disease management strategies, providing a holistic and practical guide for millet cultivation. Chapters look at plant protection aspects, cutting-edge technology, and breeding methodologies for overall sustainability of agricultural systems. It also looks at the effect of climate change on diseases and insect pests of millet crops.

Molecular Genetics, Structures, Mechanisms, and Functions

Volume 2: Applications and Exploring the Nucleus

Edited by Tariq Ahmad Bhat, Abdul Rauf Shakoori, Jameel M. Al-Khayri

Covers genetic engineering, dealing with the concept of genes, their relationship with chromosomes, and their functional manifestation to the benefit of organisms at large and for human in particular. Topics include Mendel's Laws of Inheritance, which explains the inheritance of traits visible through generations; genome diversity and evolution genetic protein synthesis, recombination and evolution of DNA, transposable elements in genetics, chromosomal aberrations, and more. It also addresses genetic engineering in agricultural science for increased crop yields, to reduce costs for food or drug production, to reduce the need for pesticides, to enhance crop quality, etc.

Mushrooms in Sustainable Development

An Industry and Environment Paradigm

Edited by Yugal Kishore Mohanta Uni of Sci and Tech, India, Jibanjyoti Panda Dept. of Applied Biology, Univ. of Sci and Tech, Meghalaya, Pinku Chandra Nath Dept. of Applied Biology, Univ. of Sci and Tech, Meghalaya, Hrudayanath Thatoi Director, Centre for Industrial Biotechnology Research, Odisha

The book highlights the importance of mushrooms and their effective application in the nutraceutical sector, along with their role in promoting environmental resilience. The goal of this book is to bring attention to the gaps in the research on mushrooms as a possible source of superfoods and highly nutritious substances, with the ultimate goal of helping to reach the current sustainable development goals (SDGs). Additionally, it will explore potential applications in industrial development. This book seeks to thoroughly look at the diverse aspects of the design, application, and integration of mushrooms in the agriculture, nutraceuticals, and food sectors.

Neglected Parasitic Zoonoses of Helminth Origin

Edited by Debasis Bhattacharya , Snehl Gupta , Arun Kumar De , Perumal Ponraj

This book provides an in-depth analysis of neglected parasitic zoonoses of helminthic origin, offering a comprehensive understanding of their epidemiology, pathology, and implications for public health. With a focus on the One Health perspective, it delves into the intricate interactions between animals, humans, and the environment, emphasizing the critical role of interdisciplinary collaboration in these diseases. The book covers the life cycles, transmission dynamics, and potential control measures of neglected zoonoses of nematode, cestode, and trematode origin. This book is intended for researchers, scientists, epidemiologists, veterinarians, and healthcare professionals.

Peanut Genomics and Biotechnology

Status and Prospects for Sustainability

Edited by Weijian Zhuang , Rajeev K. Varshney , Xingjun Wang , Xinyou Zhang

In a world where food security and sustainable agriculture face unprecedented challenges, the cultivated peanut emerges as an important food crop. Representing an essential quality oil and food legume crop grown across over 100 countries, peanuts provide vital nutrition and economic stability. Peanut Genomics and Biotechnology: Status and Prospects for Sustainability delves into the fascinating journey of peanuts, from their evolutionary origins as a natural tetraploid hybrid to their critical roles in addressing global food and oil demands amidst changing climates.

Phytomelatonin

Regulating Development and Stress Protection in Plants

Edited by Chirag Maheshwari , Muzaffar Hasan , M. Iqbal R. Khan Department of Botany, Jamia Hamdard, India

Melatonin, once considered confined to animal systems, has now emerged as a vital bioactive molecule in plants—called phytomelatonin. Over the past two decades, it has gained recognition for its regulatory roles in plant growth, development, and defense. This book brings together the latest research on how phytomelatonin functions as a multitasking molecule, linking plant metabolism, hormonal signaling, and environmental response mechanisms. The book offers a unique synthesis of molecular, physiological, and applied perspectives, making it the most comprehensive resource available on phytomelatonin's role in plant science.

Plant Tissue Culture

Theory and Practical Approach

Edited by Surendra Ramrao Sinkar , Mahendra Rai

This book is a vital resource for students, researchers, and professionals in plant tissue culture. The book explores the foundational principles and techniques, highlighting the contributions of renowned scientists in the field. It provides clear and concise explanations, covering topics like plant tissue culture facilities, contamination management, and culture-raising techniques. Moreover, it emphasizes the conservation of valuable medicinal and economically important plants using micropropagation. With up-to-date, research-based content, this book is an essential guide for anyone looking to advance their knowledge and expertise in plant tissue culture.

Repeat Amino Acid Sequences in Proteins

Biochemical and Medical Consequences

Edited by Vladimir N. Uversky, Munishwar Nath Gupta

Repeat amino acid sequences are important in protein structure, disorder, function and evolution. Repeats of some amino acids exist in proteomes across species. This volume highlights: Which repeat sequences have pathogenic consequences and why? Repeats which lead to surface hydrophobic clusters and their importance. Role of aromatic amino acid clusters in protein-protein and protein-drug interactions. Cell-penetrating peptides and Elastin-like peptides. Unusual phenomenon of fluorescence observed with repeats of some non-aromatic amino acids.

Restoring Forests and Improving Livelihoods in Nepal

Four Decades of Community Forestry

Edited by Hemant Ojha, Krishna K. Shrestha, Naya S. Paudel, Rahul Karki, Dil Khatri, Sony Baral, Mani Ram Banjade, Ian Nuberg

Series: The Earthscan Forest Library

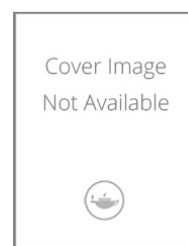

This book presents a comprehensive review of new research and practice-based insights from Nepal's four decades of community forestry development, delving into when and how community-based management can lead to forest landscape restoration and equitable livelihoods. It makes an important contribution to the global knowledge on community driven forest landscape restoration in the Global South where forest ecosystems are inseparable from the everyday life and livelihoods of local communities. It will interest students, scholars and practitioners working on forest restoration and conservation, community development, environmental policy and planning, and sustainable development.

The Dynamics of Tumor Microenvironment and Therapeutic Targets

Edited by Shyamasree Ghosh National Institute of Science Education and Research, Odisha, Sanjima Pal

The tumor microenvironment (TME) plays a significant role in influencing tumor aggressiveness and therapeutic outcomes, presenting both challenges and opportunities in oncology. The Dynamics of the Tumor Microenvironment and Therapeutic Targets provides a detailed overview of the complex nature of the TME, highlighting its dynamic cellular and molecular components. Each chapter systematically examines a specific element of the TME, outlining its role in tumor initiation, progression, dormancy, and suppression. The book discusses the use of molecular inhibitors that disrupt tumor-promoting interactions within the TME.

The New Taxonomy

A Science Reimagined

Edited by David M. Williams, Quentin D. Wheeler

Today molecular data is part of many biological studies, including taxonomic works. Such data is embraced by taxonomists for good reasons. When combined with comparative morphology, palaeontology, and embryology it creates a rich, integrated overview of the history of life. This book is intended as a clear articulation of the mission, goals, and needs of fundamental taxonomists and a planetary-scale inventory of species by revisiting the idea of taxonomy as a fusion of the traditional questions asked by taxonomists and the latest technologies. It is a clear roadmap to a taxonomic renaissance and world species inventory.

Edited by Rui Pedro Gonçalves Pereira Algae for Future, Portugal

Series: Aquatic Sciences

The sustainability of our natural resources has never been so important. The fields of aquaculture and living resources management must stand at the forefront of innovation and environmental stewardship. We hope this book serves as both an educational resource and a call to action for students, professionals, and policymakers alike. By fostering a deeper understanding of the challenges and opportunities within these fields, we can work together to ensure the long-term health and sustainability of our aquatic resources, while contributing to the wellbeing of society.

Organic Acids in Diabetes

Applications and Mechanisms

Edited by Md. Shahidul Islam

This book examines the roles and mechanisms of organic acids in managing type 2 diabetes and its complications. The introductory chapters provide a foundational understanding of diabetes, encompassing its pathogenesis, classification, and conventional therapeutic approaches. The book discusses the sources, chemistry, digestion, absorption, metabolism, and health benefits of phenolic acid, emphasizing their roles in managing diabetes. Additionally, the book examines non-phenolic organic acids and their potential in managing insulin resistance and type 2 diabetes. This book is a valuable source for researchers and healthcare professionals focusing on diabetes management.

Drug Repurposing

Chemistry, Biochemistry & Red Biotechnology

M N Gupta

This volume is aimed at explaining how drug repurposing works; to what extent the initial hopes have been realised in finding drugs for neurodegenerative diseases, psychiatric disorders, cancer and diseases caused by parasitic worms. Drug repurposing also has had some success in treating bacterial infections. Multi-drug resistance has emerged as a great challenge in the drug development area. Drug repurposing may help there as well; this has been discussed in the context of TB. Like in many other areas, nano-materials have been helpful in formulating drugs for repurposing.

Lupeol

Therapeutic Applications in Human Health and Disease

Edited by Hifzur R Siddique

This book reviews the therapeutic potential of Lupeol against various diseases, including those affecting skin, cardiovascular, kidneys, liver, and brain. It also examines its physico-chemical properties, chemical modifications, and synthetic analogs. It highlights its antioxidant, anti-inflammatory, and chemopreventive effects, as well as its applications in nanoparticle formulations for cancer treatment. It also discusses its antimicrobial, antiparasitic, and anti-cancer properties, along with its modulation of transcription factors in disease pathways. This book is a useful resource for researchers of pharmaceutical sciences and traditional medicine.

Pharmaceutical Biotechnology

Integrating Genomics and Emerging Technologies in Modern Drug Development

Edited by Arshad Farid , Kifayat Ullah Shah , Midrar Ullah , Gagan Preet

This book examines the role of pharmaceutical biotechnology in modern drug development, focusing on advancements in genomics, biopharmaceuticals, and personalized medicine. It explores key molecular and genomic technologies like next-generation sequencing, CRISPR, gene editing, and synthetic biology in drug design. The book highlights pharmacogenomics as a bridge between genomics and drug response, along with the role of bioinformatics in target identification and biomarker discovery. It discusses the design and therapeutic applications of monoclonal antibodies and breakthroughs in cell and gene therapies. It is intended for researchers and students of pharmaceutical sciences.

Crime Scene Investigator (CSI) Field Guide

Sarah Lambert

Crime Scene Investigator (CSI) Field Guide is a convenient and handy reference guide ideally suited for use in the field by Crime Scene Investigators (CSI), both sworn and civilian. In addition to the field, it can also be used in the classroom as a comprehensive refresher as part of formal training. A reliable reference to confirm steps, reference a chemical field test, or verify the necessary equipment required, the Crime Scene Investigator (CSI) Field Guide serves as an invaluable on-scene tool to any new or seasoned CSI professional.

Law for Forensic Scientists

Victor W. Weedn George Washington University, USA,
Kenneth E. Melson George Washington University, USA

Law for Forensic Scientists fills a significant gap in legal literature by providing an accessible and comprehensive textbook for forensic science students, practitioners, and attorneys working with forensic evidence. While numerous books cover criminal law, criminal procedure, and expert testimony separately—often tailored for law students and criminal defense attorneys—this book uniquely integrates these key areas for forensic scientists. This is an accessible textbook appropriate for students on forensic science programs, along with students of law and criminal law.

Residential Retrofit

24 Case Studies

Marion Baeli

The essence of sustainability in buildings is their capability to adapt to change over time. The UK has a large housing stock that has been developed and evolved over generations, and become the fabric and character of our cities, towns and neighbourhoods. The capability of buildings to adapt to changing lifestyles is the root of their sustainability. This book presents a series of innovative and best practice case studies of residential low energy retrofit projects, and illustrates what has been achieved in practice in the UK.

Compositional Intelligence

Architectural Typology through Generative AI

Daniel Koehler

Given the extensive data sources represented by urban environments, this book investigates the potential of architecting for cities using large-scale models – the technological underpinning of Generative AI. Koehler examines Large Language Models (LLMs) in relation to architectural questions of typology – those critical junctures where architecture engages with the city itself. Providing a robust theoretical framework and practical insights into how architects can adapt their notational tools and design processes to embrace AI, this will be an essential read for any practicing or researching architect or urban designer interested in the implications of AI on the built environment.

Good Houses

Environmental Design and Evaluation

David Kroll , Veronica Soebarto , Arianna Brambilla , Ehsan Sharifi

Good Houses brings together the design process, building science, and the environmental systems that can be used by both teachers and students in teaching and learning about designing good, 'responsible' houses. The book approaches housing design holistically by taking its environment as the starting point, integrating design processes more closely with architectural science and environmental systems. It is essential reading for those designing residential projects.

Nietzsche for Architects

Lucy Huskinson University of Bangor, Wales, UK*Series: Thinkers for Architects*

In the bewildering array of architectural positions that lay claim to Nietzsche as an influence, how can we begin to make sense of Nietzsche's own approach to architecture? And how can we identify within his complex philosophy the key ideas and themes we require to make sense of his contribution to architecture? This first introduction to Nietzsche's philosophy written specifically for architects locates his evaluation of appropriate and inappropriate architecture in the body of his writings and presents a clear overview of Nietzsche's insights into architectural design alongside his advice for architects and designers.

The Interiors Theory Primer

William Mangold

In a world where life is increasingly defined by interior conditions, this Primer provides insight into the significance of interior spaces and experiences. Organized into three sections, this book addresses long-standing issues at the core of interiors, starting with questions of experience and inhabitation, before moving to emerging areas of concern such as virtuality, biophilia, and social justice. The Interiors Theory Primer provides both interior design students and instructors, a clear and cohesive structure to understand and engage the important contributions that comprise interiors theory from core to emerging areas of the discipline.

The superREUSE Manifesto

Graeme Brooker The Royal College of Art, UK

The superREUSE Manifesto is a critical exploration of ideas, research and practices in reuse. -Reuse identifies insights into cities, buildings, interiors and objects constructed through working with extant material. Super is an elevated pitch for a 21st century that is characterised by responses to the challenges of the climate emergency and social justices. The superREUSE Manifesto coalesces ideas in the designed and built environment that react and work with these challenges. It is an uncompromising collection of ideas and propositions designed to stimulate its reader to rethink their position in relation to how we must transform everything into its superREUSE.

Architectural Thinking in a Climate Emergency

Edited by Sofie Pelsmakers , James Benedict Brown

What is the role of architecture — and the architect — in the Anthropocene? Architects agree that the profession must change. But we lack the tools and knowledge to undertake the transformations that are urgently needed. This book aims to address that need through 15 chapters illustrating how we can act collectively to make a difference. It brings together writers, researchers, educators, students, and practitioners working at the forefront of this transformation. Above all, they each affirm the architect's responsibility to help transition toward carbon-neutral, sustainable practices that advance social and environmental justice.

Architecture and Progress

Exploring a Progressively Problematic Built Environment

Edited by Mark Blumberg , Matthew Hall

This volume proposes an interdependent relationship between progress and obstacles in architecture and the built environment. It challenges the positive notion of progress, and the conception of progress and obstacle as a dichotomy. For shapers of the world, finding 'the solution' is often a mark of progress that becomes embedded in culture, society, and history. This will be interesting reading for upper-level students and scholars of Architecture, Urban Design, Philosophy, and Sociology.

Athens

Notes on Urban Immanence

Stavros Kousoulas

Series: Built Environment City Studies

Focusing on the city of Athens, this book examines architecture as something that produces culture and ideology — rather than the opposite. Therefore, this book aims to complement architectural and urban theories that are based only on historical overviews or typological assumptions; to do so it boldly opens architectural discourse to philosophy, affect theory, social and cognitive sciences.

Climate Changing Processes

Strategic Perspectives

Edited by Adam Jabłoński WSB University in Poznan , Poland, Marek Jabłoński WSB University in Poznan , Poland

The aim of the monograph is to present a modern and innovative approach to the issues of dysfunctions of economic and social ecosystems caused by climate anomalies. The deformation of the economic and social system caused by climate change has a surprising dimension and the degree of impact of climate change on the organizational behavior of various types of entities determines in many cases their ability to survive. Survival does not apply to all organizations, but only to those that are able to make appropriate, effective and efficient decisions in an environment of many crises.

Public Interest Design in South Africa

Carin Combrinck , Claire du Trevou , Tshupo Mokholo

This book presents salient examples of architectural projects and practices in South Africa since 1994 that collectively subscribe to the paradigm shift towards Public Interest Design. Despite radical political transformation in the country, the people of South Africa remain adversely affected by the socio-spatial legacies of a segregated urban landscape. Serving as a microcosm of the challenges to integration and democracy faced by society globally, this book will be of great interest not only to scholars and students of architecture, urban planning, and development studies in South Africa, but also internationally.

Sacred Modernity

Anglican Church Architecture in Mid-Twentieth Century Britain

Lorenzo Grieco

Series: Routledge Research in Architecture

This book examines mid-20th-century Anglican church architecture in Britain, from the 1935 to the 1975, exploring how it was shaped by liturgical changes, social shifts, and artistic influences. It investigates the theoretical foundations of modern Anglican church design and the contributions of various denominations to shared worship spaces. Amidst the rise of research groups, publications, and photographic documentation, the book highlights the subject's significance in this period.

Theorising Interior Architecture and Design

Identity, Practices, Education, and Beyond

Edited by Carola Ebert Berlin International University of Applied Sciences, Germany

This book looks at interior architecture and design from a contemporary and international perspective, taking theory building to be one of the most important acts of defining a discipline. It explores the interior discipline's theoretical dimension and its pedagogical, professional and creative practices in different settings across the globe. The book's scrutinising discourse provides a compelling theorisation of interiors as a multi-lingual, culturally situated discipline. It is essential reading for everyone concerned with interiors – practising, studying or working in educational and professional institutions.

Virtual Reality

Architecture, Culture, and the Body

Tatjana Crossley

Series: Routledge Research in Architecture

This book investigates how immersive environments, across architecture, art, and media, shape spatial perception, cultural identity, and the construction of reality. It offers a spatial-psychoanalytical reading of virtual reality (VR), examining how architecture and representation engage with the body, sensorial experience, and subjectivity. Virtual Reality is written for theorists, practitioners, academics, and students of architecture, art, and design. It situates architectural practice within the unfolding discourse on virtuality, identity, and the cultural implications of space-making.

Artificial Intelligence for Urban Planning

Thomas W. Sanchez

This book aims to introduce planners to AI, outlining essential concepts, terminologies, and methodologies. AI now promises to reshape urban planning, but as with many technological innovations, AI also introduces ethical, practical, and organizational challenges. Chapters address some of these complexities and introduce urban planners to core AI topics. The book shows how planners can effectively use AI in their daily practices, engage constructively with technical specialists, and critically assess the appropriateness of these technologies in different planning contexts. This book will be of interest to both urban planning professionals and researchers.

Cities in the Metaverse

Spatial Computing, Digital Twins, Avatars, Economics and Digital Habitation on the New Frontier

Andrew Hudson-Smith , Duncan Wilson , Valerio Signorelli

This book offers a comprehensive exploration of the intersection between urban environments and digital realms. The book addresses the challenges, potential pitfalls and ethical considerations in creating and inhabiting digital cities. At the same time, it takes a step back and examines already abandoned digital worlds, offering lessons from past attempts at creating virtual spaces. Essential reading for urban planners, geographers, economists, technologists, policymakers, and anyone interested in the future of cities and digital interaction, Cities in the Metaverse provides a balanced, informed perspective on this rapidly evolving field.

How Good Are Parklets?

Reclaiming Street Space Through Temporary and Tactical Urbanism

Quentin Stevens

Parklets are innovative, dynamic public spaces that are installed onto on-street car-parking spots. This book is the first to critically examine the parklet's purposes, formats, and impacts. It traces the parklet's history, from its invention in 2005 as an experiment that tactically reclaimed street space for broader public use, to its surge in popularity worldwide after the COVID-19 pandemic for outdoor dining, community gathering, and play. Drawing together archival research, expert interviews, typological analysis, mapping, field observation and design research, the book examines parklets' design, production, and implementation across varying urban contexts.

2ND EDITION

Neuro-Inclusive Community Design

Lessons from Sólheimar Ecovillage

Charles Durrett

This book is an inspiring exploration of Sólheimar Ecovillage in Iceland, a pioneering community that embodies sustainability, social responsibility, and inclusivity. Cohousing expert, Charles Durrett delves into the unique aspects of this ecovillage, about 100 residents, 45 of those include those with developmental and intellectual disabilities, live and thrive alongside neighbors in a safe and enriching environment. It will have a broad audience of architects, designers, occupational therapists, mental health professionals, housing developers, practitioners in housing and social care, among others.

Redesigning Urban Centers

Adapting to Changing Real Estate Markets

Jonathan Barnett University of Pennsylvania, USA

This book describes how places which offer clean, safe, and attractively designed streets and public spaces, along with reinvented zoning, are drawing real estate investors and developers to six kinds of urban and suburban centers in metropolitan regions. Case studies from the Philadelphia metro region and across the U.S demonstrate how designs which integrate offices, housing, shopping, hotels, and entertainment transform places where people have to be into places where people want to be. This book will interest leaders of business improvement districts and Main Street organizations, as well as instructors, students, and practitioners of planning and urban design.

The Routledge Handbook of Urban Design Practice

Edited by Molly O'Neill Robinson , Michael Angelo Larice , Allen Penniman , Amanda Haycox

The Routledge Handbook of Urban Design Practice brings together diverse voices in urban design, emphasizing the urgent need for innovative approaches to address shared challenges, offering actionable steps to empower practitioners, students, and academics in creating vibrant and sustainable cities. The Handbook addresses how technological advancements and the big challenges are reshaping urban spaces, making it an essential resource for those involved in the transformation and future of our cities.

Everyday Life and Urban Studies

Moving With Lefebvre Towards the 21st Century

Sabine Knierbein

Everyday Life and Urban Studies revisits the ordinary routines that shape urban life during the last century and early new millennium. This book seeks to re-integrate Lefebvre's Critique of Everyday Life into studies of urbanization. This work combines analytical-methodological exploration, pedagogic mission, and theoretical advances to carve out an everyday-theory-based approach to urban studies situated at the interface of the spatial arts, the humanities, and the social sciences. The book is essential for students, faculty, and researchers in the fields of urban studies, city planning, urban design, human geography, sociology, cultural studies, and political science.

Planning for Healthy Communities

Equitable Approaches

Joongsob Kim

Series: Health and the Built Environment

This book investigates multi-disciplinary approaches to addressing the health of disadvantaged communities through equitable community development systems (CDSs). The core concepts underlying the book are three dimensions of support infrastructure (people: human-centering; place: place-cultivating; and ecosystem: sustainable capitalization), leveraging several theories (community capital, social justice) from community development. This book is based on the results of a recent grassroots, citywide engagement-driven initiative in Detroit, and on best-practice case studies in Chicago, Indianapolis, Cleveland, Boston, Philadelphia, Minneapolis, Richmond, and Portland.

Routledge Handbook of Resilient Urban Planning for Small and Medium-Sized Cities

Edited by Seth Asare Okyere, Stephen Kofi Diko, Louis Kusi Frimpong, Matthew Abunyewah, Stephen Leonard Mensah

Series: Routledge International Handbooks

Small and medium-sized cities (SMCs) are becoming the new frontiers of global urban growth and population change. This handbook aims to increase attention to the resilience of SMCs and explore the unique challenges they face, as well as provide practical recommendations for built environment practitioners to understand and respond to these challenges in global contexts. Chapters cover topics such as climate-induced risks, heat resilience planning, access to urban infrastructure and services, socio-environmental inequities, urban safety, health resilience, walkability, and more. This handbook is essential for scholars and practitioners working in the built environment.

Spatial Governance and Planning in Latin America

A Comparative Account

Edited by Juan E. Cabrera, Francesca Blanc, Giancarlo Cotella

This book is the first to provide an in-depth discussion of spatial governance and planning systems in Latin America, with analysis and comparison across 10 different countries. This collection explores the contrasting influences of the public and private sectors and informal institutions, while also highlighting the role of indigenous culture in certain contexts and the increase of participatory processes in others. A timely contribution to this evolving topic, the book will appeal students and scholars in the fields of planning, urban and regional studies, public policy, and human geography.

Smart Sensing with Digital Twins

Methane Emission Source Determination with sUAS

Derek Hollenbeck , YangQuan Chen University of California Merced, USA

This book explores the innovative use of small unmanned aircraft systems (sUAS)—commonly known as drones—for methane emissions monitoring (i.e., detection, localization, and quantification) by introducing smart sensing frameworks and digital twin technology. With practical tools and field-tested examples, this book serves as both an introductory guide and advanced reference to environmental monitoring, and is particularly valuable to researchers, students, engineers, and environmental professionals in engineering, environmental studies, and technology.

Wood and Wood-Based Materials for Building

A Compendium for Civil Engineers and Architects

Edited by Peter Niemz ETH Zürich, Switzerland, Dick Sandberg Chaired Professor of Wood Science & Engineering, Luleå University of Technology, Sweden

Wood and wood-based materials are increasingly being used in the construction of large and multi-storey buildings. This gives an overview of the important physical-mechanical properties of the main wood species and typical wood-based materials, in relation to moisture, elasticity and creep, and strength properties, and with the application of design guidelines such as Eurocode 5. It also covers wood protection, fire behaviour and bonding as well as the non-destructive monitoring of timber structures. This guide is both accessible enough and technical enough to suit both architects and civil engineers, and also vocational students.

Introduction to Structural Analysis

Indeterminate Structures

Meesala Chakradhara Rao

This textbook provides a comprehensive analysis of indeterminate structures by both force and displacement methods including the basics, their usage in the analysis of beams, rigid joint and pin joint plane frames. Major coverage includes analysis of beams, rigid joint plane frames, and pin joint plane frames by various force and displacement methods followed by analysis of multi-storey frames via approximate methods, influence lines for indeterminate structures and two hinged arches. Each chapter contains introduction, methodology, necessary derivations/equations, and examples. This book is aimed at undergraduate and senior undergraduate students in structural and civil engineering.

Matrix Analysis of Frame Structures

A Modern Approach

Suchart Limkatanyu

Advancing computer technology has created new opportunities for sophisticated assessment and analysis of structural performance, especially using matrix and finite element methods. This textbook for senior undergraduates and graduate students covers the fundamentals required in any approach to structural analysis, strong form, equilibrium, and compatibility, and with an introduction to virtual work principles to express equilibrium and compatibility conditions of a frame structure, making use of Tonti diagrams. It then sets out in more detail the matrix approach to structural analysis, including construction of the master stiffness matrix.

Rock Mechanics

An Introduction

Nagaratnam Sivakugan James Cook University, Queensland, Australia, Sanjay Kumar Shukla Edith Cowan University, Western Australia, Braja M. Das, Peter To

Rock mechanics is a multidisciplinary specialised subject in mining, geological engineering, mining, tunnelling, as well as geotechnical engineering. This textbook is primarily for students at graduate level who are facing careers as professional geotechnical engineers. It introduces rock mechanics fundamentals in a simple way with a strong practical bias, assuming no prior knowledge in the subject, and can also suit undergraduates and civil, mining, petroleum, and geological engineering professionals. This new edition brings in a completely new chapter on tunneling as well as more on numerical analysis and software, and sections on slope failure mechanisms and petroleum geology.

Biotechnological Approaches for Sustainable Environment Management

Edited by Sudhir Pratap Singh Center of Innovative and Applied Bioprocessing, India, Jyoti Singh Jadaun, Amit Kumar Rai

Biotechnological advancements offer approaches for sustainable environmental management, to tackle various environmental issues. The state of the environment is continually deteriorating due to industrialization and different human actions. The ubiquitous presence of microbial resources offers vast potential for developing technologies aimed at reducing the levels of harmful substances contaminating the environment. This book is focused on biotechnological applications designed to address environmental challenges associated with industrial effluents, plastic and biological wastes.

Heavy Metals in Aquatic Ecosystems

Sources, Transport, and Mitigation

Edited by Ravindra Kumar Gautam University of Allahabad, India, Subhash Chandra University of Lucknow, Radha Rani

Heavy metals are hazardous environmental pollutants and are becoming one of the most serious environmental problems because of their persistence, toxicity, non-biodegradability, and ability to be incorporated into the food chain. This book provides state-of-the-art techniques and technologies for the assessment and remediation of heavy metal ions from aquatic ecosystems. It discusses sources, fate, transport, health risk assessment, and remediation of heavy metals and the current methods for source identification and tracking. An excellent reference for both professionals and students, this book is the first of its kind to highlight the toxicity of heavy metals.

Reinforced Concrete

Natural Carbonation and Service Life Modeling

Edited by Stephen Eklou Nelson Mandela University, South Africa

Carbonation and corrosion of reinforced concrete structures is the most widespread durability problem affecting service life and it underscores the need to develop quantitative engineering methods. This book promulgates Natural Carbonation Prediction (NCP) model comprising experiments, data mining and analyses, along with mathematical formulations and refinements. It initially delves into fundamental concepts on corrosion of reinforced concrete before employing approaches to service life design based on the applicative and practical stochastic methods supported by independent data. This book is aimed at graduate students and researchers in civil engineering and concrete technology.

Emerging Technologies for Sustainable Development

Edited by Sunny Dhiman Chandigarh University, India, Gunjan Mukherjee Chandigarh University, India

Waste to Wealth: Emerging Technologies for Sustainable Development explores cutting-edge biotechnological innovations transforming waste into valuable resources. This book delves into microbial solutions, bioenergy production, industrial effluent treatment, plastic biodegradation, and bioelectrochemical advancements for sustainable waste management. It highlights circular economy practices, enzymatic valorization, and microbial fuel cells for waste treatment and clean energy generation. This book paves the way for a sustainable future by unlocking the potential of waste as a resource for economic and environmental prosperity.

Structures and Architecture

REstructure REmaterialize REthink REuse

Edited by Mario Rinke, Marie Frier Hvejsel Department of Architecture, Design and Media Technology, Aalborg University, Aalborg, Denmark

Series: Structures & Infrastructures Series

Structures and Architecture - REstructure REmaterialize REthink REuse contains the contributions to the 6th International Conference on Structures and Architecture (ICSA 2025, Antwerp, Belgium, 8-11 July 2025). The papers aim to reach a global audience of researchers, practitioners, and students, including architects, structural and construction engineers, builders and building consultants, constructors, material suppliers, planners, urban designers, anthropologists, economists, sociologists, artists, product manufacturers, and other professionals involved in the design and realisation of architectural, structural, and infrastructural projects.

Integrating Occupational Safety and Health using Digital Technologies

The case of Building Information Modelling

Manuel Tender, Matej Mihic, Firmino Oliveira da Silva, João Pedro Couto, Paul Anthony Fuller, Peter Demian, Kitty Karolyfi, Rania Wehbe, Radhlinah Aulin

This book is designed to help practitioners understand the growing potential for the use of Building Information Modelling (BIM) to improve Occupational Safety and Health (OSH) outcomes in the Architecture, Engineering, Construction and Operations sector. Through a series of cutting-edge practical cases, an international team of researchers and practitioners examine the benefits, barriers and challenges associated with the introduction of new digital information technologies in OSH settings. The BIM applications are presented in a practical manner, making them easily applicable by the construction project professional, as well as informative for the academic researcher.

151ST EDITION

Spon's Architects' and Builders' Price Book 2026

Edited by AECOM AECOM, London, UK

Series: Spon's Price Books

Spon's A&B provides the most accurate, detailed and professionally relevant construction price information for the UK, with a VitalSource® ebook, for use until the end of 2026. Prices have been updated and new items added as expected every year. The book contains thousands of prices for the most frequently used items, hundreds of more unusual items, guidance on wage rates, daywork, cost limits and allowances, property insurance, professional fees, formulae, and design criteria. Although it suits a wide range of project sizes, this is the only price book which sets out a detailed cost base for contracts exceeding £4,000,000 in value and is compiled to NRM.

40TH EDITION

Spon's Civil Engineering and Highway Works Price Book 2026

Captures real material, plant and labour costs from the UK's major live rail, civils and highways projects. Now in its 40th edition, SPON'S CIVIL ENGINEERING AND HIGHWAY WORKS PRICE BOOK 2026 from AECOM gives a full breakdown of labour, plant and material elements, with labour rates updated. Cost guidance is given at a number of levels, varying from the more general functional costs to detailed resource costing; and in conformity with CESMM4 and the Highways Method of Measurement, and updated to the CIJG wage agreement. Digital Technologies for Engineering Construction Information Productivity

Fonbeyin Henry Abanda

This book goes beyond other digital construction books by examining how emerging digital construction technologies and other popular technologies developed by, for example, Microsoft, can be used in improving the productivity of construction information. The book discusses both the theory and practice through use case illustrations in integrated software environments and successfully blends applications and workflows of construction technologies with more common and non-industry specific software systems. This book is essential for students, academics, educators, construction professionals and construction software developers.

Managing Mass Timber

A Guide to Delivering Large-Scale Mass Timber Construction Projects

Anthony M Mirando , Lameck Onsarigo

Managing Mass Timber provides practitioners and students with a deep operational knowledge of constructing large scale mass timber structures. The book is structured on widely taught solid theoretical frameworks related to construction project management and concentrates on the five pillars of construction management in the context of mass timber, namely Safety, Quality, Cost, Schedule, and Sustainability. This textbook is the first to enable readers in construction management and engineering, as well as related professional fields, to understand and manage the mass timber construction process out in the field.

Project Management Tools and Techniques

A Guide to Good Practice

Aidan Turner

This new textbook presents a unique approach to the teaching of PM by blending theory, application, and case studies. Each chapter presents a different tool or technique used by project managers, covering the what, how and why and illustrating the techniques with a case study. It allows students to apply the topics discussed directly to a work environment and covers project feasibility, lifecycle, scheduling, budgets, risk, complexity, leadership, handover and more. Suitable for use on a variety of global project management courses in disciplines across engineering, built environment and business. It is also a useful reference for newly established PMs looking for a handy toolkit.

An Adaptive Safety Incentives Framework for Construction Organisations in Developing Economies

Kunle Ogundipe , Babatunde Fatai Ogunbayo , Clinton Ohis Aigbavboa University of Johannesburg, South Africa

Series: Routledge Research Collections for Construction in Developing Countries

The central aim of this book is to study safety incentives in a construction context and conceptualise an incentive framework for construction organisations in developing economies. By explaining the behavioural approach to creating reward systems that minimize unintended consequences and maximize happiness, health, wealth, and success, the book takes a pragmatic approach to developing safety incentives and provides significant practical insights. The book will interest professionals in construction, project management, quantity surveying, civil engineering, human resource management, OSH and owners of construction organisations as well as researchers in all these fields.

2ND EDITION

Food Safety and Inspection

An Introduction, Second Edition

Madeleine Smith, Iain Ferris

The process of food inspection relies on an inspector's understanding of the intrinsic hazards associated with individual foods. Whereas spoilage can usually be determined through a simple organoleptic assessment, the judgment of whether a food is fit for human consumption requires an evaluation of health hazards, many of which may not be apparent through physical assessment. Instead, the inspector must analyse and integrate scientific and handling information to evaluate the potential health risk. Now fully updated and expanded in this second edition, Food Safety and Inspection: An Introduction focuses on food categories and describes common hazards associated with each.

Investigating How and Why Motor Vehicle Crashes Occur

To Err Is Human

Alison Smiley

Decades of research reveal that human error is a significant contributor to vehicle crashes, accounting for over 90 percent of incidents. Humans possess inherent physical, visual, and cognitive limitations that can lead to accidents on the road. This book draws on the author's 35 years of experience investigating approximately 500 motor vehicle crashes to explore these limitations and their role in causing accidents. In this title, 10 specific crashes, each illustrating how human limitations contribute to accidents, are presented and analyzed.

Safety in Complex Organizations

A Cultural Approach

Teemu Reiman

Managing safety in today's complex organizations is no easy feat. When looking at safety from a cultural perspective, organizations are seen as cultures, with their own internal dynamics and ways of interacting with, and interpreting, the outside world. Looking at organizations from a cultural perspective improves our ability to lead and manage them by increasing our understanding of these internal dynamics shaping their behavior. This book offers a theoretically sound yet practical approach to organizational and cultural issues and their influence on safety and acknowledges the complexity and dynamic nature of today's organizations.

Artificial Intelligence and Human Existence

Insights on Education, Technology, and Society

Edited by Akanksha Srivastava, A.V. Senthil Kumar, Disha Maheshwari, Samrat Ray

Series: Human Factors in Design, Engineering, and Computing

Artificial Intelligence (AI) has become part and parcel of many aspects of our lives, impacting how we approach tasks to how we understand the world around us. This book recognizes the impact that Artificial Intelligence (AI) has on education, computer science, and society. Taking an interdisciplinary approach, it looks at the positive and negative implications and delivers a comprehensive understanding of how the integration of AI is shaping the future of human existence. This book covers twelve topics that reveal the links between AI and humans.

Check Dam Designs

A Practice-Oriented Approach

Rajendra Chalisgaonkar Govt. of Uttarakhand, India,
Mukesh Mohan Govt. of Uttarakhand, India

Check dams are small barriers built across the direction of water flow on shallow rivers and streams for the purpose of water harvesting. This book is a review of basic principles and practice-oriented approaches for check dam designs. It offers a hands-on approach with a strong, practical bias helpful in solving problems that are likely to be encountered in real-life field situations. It has been divided into nine chapters dealing design details for gabion, masonry, concrete and rubber check dams including briefs about topographical surveys and geotechnical and hydrological investigations.

Synthesizing Materials in Microgravity

Unlocking Novel Materials Beyond Earth's Limits

Michael D. Holloway

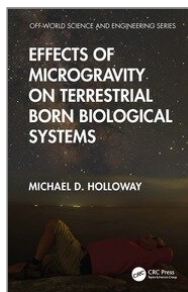

Series: Off-world Science & Engineering Series

This book explores the transformative potential of microgravity environments for advancing material synthesis beyond terrestrial limitations. On Earth, gravitational forces drive buoyancy-induced convection, sedimentation, and hydrostatic pressure gradients, which often result in defects, phase segregation, and non-uniform microstructures during processes such as crystallization, alloy solidification, polymerization, and ceramic sintering. These imperfections hinder the development of high-performance materials crucial for aerospace engineering, electronics, and biomedical devices.

Emerging Organic Contaminants in Soil

Properties, Translocation, and Remediation

Edited by Ming Zhang China Jiliang University, Mahtab Ahmad Quaid-i-Azam University

Series: Emergent Environmental Pollution

Emerging Organic Contaminants (EOCs) are either newly identified or newly detected contaminants that are toxic or potentially hazardous to the ecosystem. Soil is one of the most important sinks of EOCs arising from industrial emissions, incidental discharge, wastewater irrigation, or atmospheric deposition. EOCs in soil may threaten the soil ecosystem's health and subsequently transfer to humans via food and water consumption. This book provides comprehensive knowledge on the behavior and translocation of EOCs in soil and introduces remediation methods and technologies. From fundamentals to future risks, it explains the importance of understanding EOCs.

Chemistry the Central Science: A Cultural Perspective

A Cultural Perspective

Christine Bladon, Peter Wyatt

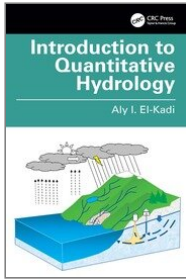

A series of stories to illustrate the impact of chemistry on the lives of people from the past to the present day. The book gives chemistry students and lay readers a window into how interactions at the atomic level translate into familiar materials. Teachers of chemistry and related subjects may also find the content and wealth of detail in the book a valuable resource to supplement their lecture room and classroom courses.

Introduction to Quantitative Hydrology

Aly I. El-Kadi

This textbook serves as an introductory quantitative course on the fundamental elements of the hydraulic cycle. It further enhances students' understanding by discussing the latest advancements in hydrological science, covering both experimental and computational techniques. Targeted at first-year college students, this book supports early career exploration in fields such as natural resources, earth sciences, and civil and environmental engineering. Offering this course early allows students to make informed decisions about their academic and career paths before they reach their senior year, providing them with ample time to pursue specialized interests.

Artificial Intelligence in Fisheries

Transformative Potentials and Challenges

Edited by Sylvester Chibueze Izah Bayelsa Medical University, Nigeria, Matthew Chidozie Ogwu, Adams Ovie Iyiola

Artificial intelligence (AI) is transforming fisheries research by enhancing fish population estimates, predicting stock dynamics, and improving sustainability. AI analyzes ocean data to forecast climate patterns, supports species identification, and enforces regulations, reducing bycatch and waste. AI-powered tools optimize fishing practices, boost profitability, and promote conservation. However, challenges include data quality, infrastructure, and ethics. This book targets diverse stakeholders, offering insights for researchers, policymakers, and industries to adopt sustainable AI in fisheries management.

Biodiversity of the Himalaya

Volume 2: Utilization, Conservation, and Management of Animal Resources

Edited by Rajesh Kumar, Suresh Kumar

Focuses on the utilization, conservation, and management of animal resources in the Himalayan region. It covers traditional knowledge of insects and animals for food and medicinal purposes. The rich faunal biodiversity of the region is vulnerable to a number of threats. It discusses adverse changing climatic conditions; the overuse of chemical and synthetic pesticides; eco-tourism, wildlife tourism, and hunting tourism; radiation from cell phone towers; invasive/alien animal and plant species; habitat destruction; etc. and how they impact the region. Sustainable mitigation and conservation strategies are also described.

Biodiversity of the Himalaya

2-volume set

Studies the flora and fauna of the Himalaya. Focuses on the utilization, conservation, and management of plant and animal resources in the Himalayan region. Covers traditional knowledge of insects. Focuses on the flora of the area, exploring the diversity, distribution, utilization, threat status, and conservation of medicinal, edible, and other economic plant resources of the region. It considers the impact of traditional as well as scientific knowledge on the conservation of floral wealth in the region and recognizes the importance of maintaining and preserving the plant diversity.

Climate Change and Sustainable Development

Edited by Aasawari Jadhav , Prakash Raut , Sukanta Mondal

From rising sea levels and extreme weather events to food insecurity and forced migration, the climate change effects are real and accelerating. The book Climate Change and Sustainable Development offers a comprehensive compilation of contemporary research, covering both fundamental and advanced aspects of climate science. It delves into a wide range of critical topics, including the greenhouse effect, food security, social and environmental issues, threats to marine ecosystems, the role of green energy in reducing carbon emissions, life cycle assessments, cost-effective sustainable strategies, public health implications, and climate adaptation strategies.

Environmental Footprint of Bioplastic Additives

Edited by Babafemi Raphael Babaniyi , Sesan Abiodun Aransiola Univ. of Abuja, Gabriel Gbenga Babaniyi , Naga Raju Maddela Uni. College of Eng. Sci. and Tech, India

This book offers a comprehensive understanding of bioplastic compositions, degradation processes, and the environmental impact of various additives. Through detailed life cycle analyses, it assesses how bioplastic additives compare to conventional plastic additives in terms of sustainability and ecological impact. The book also addresses the challenges of managing bioplastic waste. This book is an essential resource for researchers, policymakers and industry professionals. It bridges the gap between scientific understanding and practical implementation, empowering stakeholders to make informed decisions and contribute to sustainable bioplastic waste management.

Environmental Transformation and its Acceleration in Nepal From Known History to the Contemporary Situation

Medani P. Bhandari

Series: River Publishers Series in Social, Urban, Economic and Environmental Sustainability

This is an in-depth exploration of Nepal's environmental journey, tracing its transformation from ancient practices to modern sustainability challenges. Drawing from over four decades of experience as an environmentalist and humanitarian, Dr. Medani Bhandari takes readers through the historical, social, and ecological shifts that have shaped Nepal's environmental landscape. This comprehensive work examines the complex interplay between traditional knowledge, policy development, and global environmental trends, offering valuable insights into the country's past, present, and future.

Geoinformatics for Flood Risk Management

Applications and Strategies

Edited by Brototi Biswas , Bhagwan Ghute , Jayanta Das Rampurhat College

This book presents a comprehensive coverage of the various types of floods, what causes them in different terrains, and the anthropogenic, geographical, hydro-geological, and geomorphological aspects of flood-prone areas. Geospatial techniques for flood mapping and monitoring, multi-criteria decision-making techniques for risk management, and machine learning algorithms for flood prediction mapping, susceptibility analysis, and monitoring are all integrated into the case studies provided in this book. The discussions on flood management strategies, including sustainable flood risk assessment through indigenous knowledge and local resources, empowers readers to make informed decisions.

Calibrations

Artificial Intelligence and Applications

Halit Eren Curtin University, Bentley, Australia

This book walks the reader through fundamental principles of calibrations, traditional calibration methods, the related standards, and procedures, as well as fast developing and diverse range of artificial intelligence-based calibration methods. This book highlights that advanced technological and AI methods are applied for calibration of distributed cyber-physical and data-driven systems. AI-based calibrations find applications in large-scale systems that traditional methods become almost impossible to implement or can be costly.

Principles of Gas Path Analysis

Allan J Volponi , Liang Tang

Principles of Gas Path Analysis offers a self-contained reference of the concept and theory of Gas Path Analysis (GPA), as both a diagnostic and prognostic methodology for gas turbine engines. It provides a chronological account of the methodology as it evolved over the past 50 years. The text further introduces essential parameter corrections important for understanding the foundational principles of GPA. This book is intended for professional engineers engaged in the gas turbine industry and engine health management, including aircraft operators and maintainers. It will also benefit researchers studying gas turbine engine diagnostics and prognostics.

Edited by Wei Yan, Mingquan Liu, Xifei Li, JiuJun Zhang College of Sciences, Shanghai University, Shanghai, China

Series: Electrochemical Energy Storage and Conversion

Sodium batteries (SBs) are seen as a viable alternative to lithium-ion batteries, as there is concern about the long-term availability and sustainability of lithium to meet demand. This book provides an in-depth overview of fundamentals, advanced materials, characterization, functional mechanisms, technologies, and applications of SBs. It introduces a wide range of SBs and discusses how to improve their performance and extend their lifecycle for commercial use. Aimed at chemical, materials, and energy engineers, researchers, and advanced students, this book serves as a valuable resource to assist in the development and commercial application of SBs.

Fundamentals of Electrical Machines

Ants Kallaste, Toomas Vaimann, Anton Rassölin, Kuno Janson

This accessible textbook offers a clear and concise introduction to the core principles of electric machines, focusing on the conversion of energy through mechanical power, electrical power, torque, magnetic fields, and rated voltage. Covering the key processes behind electric machine theory, including mechanics and electromagnetism, Fundamentals of Electrical Machines enables readers to develop a systematic view of the technology. Including case studies with industry examples, the book is both theoretical and practical.

Fundamentals of Evolutionary Biology

An Introductory Guide for Physical Scientists, Engineers, and Biologists

Supreet Saini

Evolution is a stochastic process and given the amount of data generated in biological sciences today, there is a need for people with a quantitative background to understand and contribute towards understanding of evolution leading to better interaction between stakeholders. This book equips engineers and physical scientists to make biologically relevant quantitative representations of evolutionary processes. The concepts of evolution are introduced via semi-quantitative treatment with graphical illustrations and explain how evolution experiments are conducted in a laboratory. This book is aimed at senior undergraduate and graduate students in engineering and physical sciences.

Fundamentals of Green Hydrogen Supply Chain and Power-to-X

Hani Muhsen German Jordanian University, Adib Allaham Northumbria University, Mohammed Alkhalid German Jordanian University, Rashed Tarawneh German Jordanian University, Asma Alkhrabat German Jordanian University, Ala' aldeen Al-Halhouli German Jordanian University

This book is an engaging introduction to green hydrogen and its role in changing the global energy landscape. It explains theoretical and practical aspects of green hydrogen supply chain including production, storage, transportation, and utilization, and explores the techno-economic aspects of each stage. Through hands-on examples, readers understand how green hydrogen can be used across various applications. It explains Power-to-X technologies, which enable the conversion of green hydrogen into eco-friendly fuels and chemical feedstocks. Designed for students and researchers, it simplifies complex concepts and provides a comprehensive understanding of green hydrogen's benefits.

Lab-At-Home Experiments in Chemistry and Chemical Engineering

Jude A. Okolie, Ugochukwu Patrick Okoye

With the rise of remote and hybrid learning, there is an increasing need for flexibility around laboratory-based coursework. This book offers readers a guide to conducting a wide variety of Chemistry and Chemical Engineering labs and experimental procedures that can be completed easily and safely outside of a traditional lab setting, including at home. It helps students and interested readers achieve hands-on learning of chemistry- and chemical engineering-based concepts without needing sophisticated lab equipment. It features ancillary videos and downloadable spreadsheets. It is aimed at chemistry and chemical engineering students, and general readers interested in these disciplines.

Systems Engineering

Design Principles and Models, Second Edition

Dahai Liu

This textbook continues to fill the need for a systems engineering design textbook for students from a large variety of backgrounds. This new edition continues to give students exposure to systems and systems engineering concepts and offers just enough technical expertise to use and apply what they've learned. Specifically written for undergraduate, first-year graduate students, and those with little or no engineering background. This textbook is great for those who will get involved in systems engineering and design and need to work with engineers in various fields. This book can also be used as an introduction to systems engineering for professionals.

Advancements in Photothermal Materials for Interfacial Solar Vaporization

Najma Memon Faculty of Applied Sciences, UCSI University, KL, Malaysia, Saima Q. Memon Univ of Sindh, Pakistan, Shakeela Abbas

This monograph aims to examine different types of photothermal materials, such as metallic, organic, and composites, that have been reported to generate localized heat at the air-water interface, leading to vapor production on the surface. It focusses on various factors, including photothermal efficiency, evaporation rate, and others, which influence vapor generation. By drawing useful conclusions, this book contributes to the development of cutting-edge interfacial solar vaporization systems for practical applications. This book is aimed at graduate students and researchers in energy and chemical engineering, and materials science.

Edited by A. K. Pandey Graphic Era Uni, India, H. Upreti BML Munjal Univ, India, O. D. Makinde Stellenbosch Uni, South Africa, A. J. Chamkha Kuwait College of Sci and Tech

Series: Emerging Materials and Technologies

This book introduces hybrid nanofluids and their preparation methods, thermophysical properties, advantages, applications, and future scope. Models to compute the effective thermophysical properties of hybrid nanofluid are discussed with their limitations. In application section, mathematical models are formulated to contemplate the flow of hybrid nanofluid through different surfaces/geometries under different situations. Also, the entropy generation minimization (EGM) in hybrid nanofluid flow is discussed with its application in refrigeration, power generation and other processes.

Electrospraying and Electrospinning in Drug Delivery

Principles, Methods, and Applications

Edited by Mulham Alfatama, Abid Mehmood Yousaf Lahore, Pakistan, Abd Almonem Doolaanea, Yasser Shahzad Lahore, Pakistan

Electrospraying and Electrospinning in Drug Delivery provides a comprehensive overview of the principles and latest advancements, methodologies, and applications of electrospraying and electrospinning techniques in the field of drug delivery. It encompasses a wide array of topics, including but not limited to targeted drug delivery systems, controlled release formulations, stimuli-responsive materials, and biomedical applications. The book will serve as a valuable resource for researchers, academicians, and professionals interested in understanding and utilizing these innovative techniques for enhanced drug delivery systems.

Emerging Materials for Biofuel Developments

Edited by Selvakumar Periyasamy, Eduardo Alberto López-Maldonado Universidad Autónoma de Baja California, Mexico, R. Balachandran

This book explores and summarizes recent innovations in emerging materials for technological developments of biofuels. It explains synthesis paths under the controlled strategy, characterizations, functional modifications, and applications of various potential emerging materials. It includes application of emerging materials in different competent biological feedstocks conversion routes. It highlights the significance of emerging materials in overcoming challenges and enhancing biofuel technologies' efficiency, sustainability, circular economy, feasibility, and prospects. This book is aimed at graduate students and researchers in chemical, bioprocess, and environmental engineering.

Engineering Swarms of Cyber-Physical Systems

Edited by Melanie Schranz Lakeside Labs GmbH, Austria, Wilfried Elmenreich University of Klagenfurt, Austria, Farshad Arvin The University of Manchester, UK

The development of highly integrated and networked hardware has driven the creation of highly capable but also highly complex cyber-physical systems. One approach to handle this complexity is to apply swarm intelligence, where simple autonomous swarm entities interact locally with each other forming an overall emergent system. This has the potential for a robust, adaptable, and scalable system but also poses challenges for designing such a system. The present book covers the whole design cycle for applying swarm intelligence in cyber-physical systems and guides the user through modeling, design, simulation, and final deployment of swarm systems.

Fabrication of Wear and Corrosion Resistant Materials

Surface Processing Techniques

Edited by Gurbhej Singh, Hitesh Vasudev LPU, India

Series: Advances in Surface Engineering and Tribology

This book presents cutting-edge surface processing methods, incorporating concepts from the fields of metallurgy, chemistry, physics, and nanotechnology. It covers developments in manufacturing processes that aim to improve materials' and components' resistance to wear and corrosion. Investigating techniques such as plasma treatment, laser cladding, chemical vapor deposition, and nano structuring, the book evaluates each technique's capability to ensure durability and resistance to corrosion and prolong the life of materials. This book is intended for researchers and graduate students studying surface engineering, coatings and claddings, and corrosion and wear resistance of materials.

Federated Deep Learning for Healthcare

A Practical Guide with Challenges and Opportunities

Edited by Amandeep Kaur Chitkara University, India, Chetna Kaushal Chitkara University, India, Md. Mehedi Hassan Khulna Uni, Bangladesh, Si Thu Aung Univ at Buffalo, USA

Series: Advances in Smart Healthcare Technologies

This book provides a practical guide to federated deep learning for healthcare including fundamental concepts, framework, and the applications comprising of domain adaptation, model distillation, and transfer learning. It covers concerns in model fairness, data bias, regulatory compliance, and ethical dilemmas. It investigates several privacy-preserving methods like homomorphic encryption, secure multi-party computation, and differential privacy. It will enable readers to build and implement federated learning systems that safeguard private medical information. It is aimed at graduate students and researchers in federated learning, data science, AI/machine learning, and healthcare.

Food, Energy and Water Systems 4.0

Concepts and Applications

Ogbolunmi Omolola, Nnamdi Nwulu University of Johannesburg, Johannesburg, South Africa

This book examines the complex interactions between food, energy, and water (FEW) resources within the framework of the Fourth Industrial Revolution (4IR). It traces the historical evolution of FEW 4.0, analyses its key components, and explores its applications in reshaping resource management practices by integrating emerging technologies like Internet of Things (IoT), Artificial Intelligence (AI), and Blockchain technologies. This book is aimed at undergraduate and postgraduate students in environmental engineering, as well as policymakers and industry practitioners focused on sustainability and resource management.

Generative AI in Neurology

Advancing Neurodegenerative Disease Treatment

Edited by C Kishor Kumar Reddy, Anindya Nag Northern University of Business and Technology Khulna, Bangladesh, Lavanya Pamulaparty, Mariya Ouaisa, Marlia Mohd Hanafiah

This book comprehensively explores the intersection between AI and neurology, focusing on the application of generative models in diagnosing, treating, and managing neurodegenerative diseases. It includes principles of generative AI, its function in neuroimaging, biomarker identification, medication development, and tailored treatment options. It examines how these advanced AI approaches are leveraged to increase the detection and treatment of neurodegenerative illnesses. The concepts are supported by case studies and examples. This book is aimed at graduate students and researchers in biomedical and computer engineering, artificial intelligence, health informatics.

IoT and AI-Enabled Healthcare Solutions for Intelligent Disease Prediction

Edited by Bhoopesh Singh Bhati Indian Ins of Inf Tech, India, Dimple Tiwari ABES Eng College, India, Nitesh Singh Bhati Galgotias Uni, India

This book is about IoT and AI-based health solutions that are transforming medical diagnosis and disease prediction. AI processors evaluate huge databases to identify trends, forecast illness, and propose tailored treatment recommendations. Machine learning models facilitate the early detection of diabetes, heart disease, and cancer, advancing patient care. AI-powered chatbots and virtual assistants offer real-time medical guidance, lessening the workload of medical professionals. Such smart systems ensure anticipatory care, reduce hospital visits, and improve remote monitoring of patients, making healthcare more efficient, accessible, and data-driven.

Pathways and Remediation Strategies

Edited by Surajit Mondal Univ of Petroleum & Energy Stud, India, Papita Das Jadavpur Univ, India, Arnab Mondal Univ. Petroleum & Energy Stud., India, Poushali Chakraborty Jadavpur Univ., India

This book aims to address details and research gaps in the impacts of microplastics in terrestrial ecosystems. It addresses the microplastic's impact on the soil environment, highlight and discuss their transport behavior, pollution level and the combined effects of the microplastics with other pollutants on the soil ecology. Furthermore, it also highlights the effects of UV irradiations and mechanical abrasions from soil fauna and various agricultural practices. This book is aimed at researchers and graduate students in environmental and chemical engineering, and remediation.

Nanoelectronics

Advanced Concepts, and Device Applications

Edited by Khurshed Ahmad Shah Cluster University Srinagar, India

The book covers the latest advancements in the field of nanoelectronics, interaction of light with matter, optical properties, surface plasmons, nanophotonic and plasmonic applications, nanomaterials engineering in nanoelectronics, fabrication techniques, and applications. It presents the structure properties and device applications of carbon nanotubes, graphene and silicene. The book further includes the topics on provskites and applications, quantum dots for optoelectronic, sensing devices, computing applications and advanced applications in diagnostic and therapeutic tools.

Nanoparticles in Fingerprinting

Advanced Methods for Development of Latent Fingerprints

Edited by Kumud Kant Awasthi, Mahipal Singh Sankhla, Chandra Shekhar Yadav, Anjali Awasthi

Examines the potential challenges, future directions, and ethical considerations associated with the adoption of nanoparticle-based fingerprinting methods. It investigates fingerprinting techniques that involve titanium dioxide nanoparticles, fluorescent nanoparticles, gold and silver nanoparticles, green synthesis of nanoparticles, iron oxide nanoparticles, carbon dots (CDs) and cadmium selenide (CdSe) nanoparticles, and more. It fosters a comprehensive knowledge of this cutting-edge topic by reflecting the joint work of specialists from chemistry, forensic science, and nanoscience.

Nanosensors as Robust Non-Invasive Diagnostic Tools for Remote Health Monitoring

Edited by Priyanka Dwivedi IIT Chittoor, India, Chinmay Chakraborty BIT, India, Gwanggil Jeon Incheon National Uni, Korea (Rep.), Yan Zhang

This book addresses advancement in nanomaterials to design and develop non-invasive healthcare sensors including combination of hybrid nanocomposites to design non-invasive devices for diagnosing human diseases. The cost effectiveness is addressed with the methodologies to increase the scalability of the fabrication process. It aims to provide a complete end-to-end solution for smart non-invasive diagnosis developed indigenously and is cost effective complete guide to implement a deployable healthcare solution in real-time scenarios. Aimed at graduate students and researchers in biomedical engineering, medical devices, machine learning/pattern recognition, and nanotechnology.

Nanostructured Materials for Energy Applications

Edited by Abdullah M. Al-Enizi, Mohd Ubaidullah, Mohd Shkir, Abhay Kumar Singh Faculty of Engineering, University of Johannesburg, South Africa
Series: Emerging Materials and Technologies

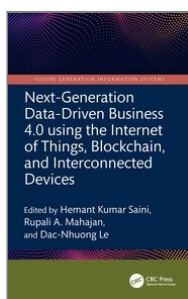

This book demonstrates the necessity of novel methods for the development of nanostructured energy materials with improved characteristics for real life applications. It explores the prospective of nanoscale science to design and build up the device technology through novel nanoscale, photodetectors, photoconductor, photovoltaics, solar cells, batteries, supercapacitors, fuel cells, hydrogen generation and storage, and so forth. Various kinds of organic, inorganic, and organic-inorganic multilayer thin films photovoltaic solar cells devices are also addressed. This book is aimed at graduate students and researchers in photovoltaics, batteries, and energy storage, and thermoelectrics.

Photonic Sensors for Biomedical Applications

Edited by Preeta Sharan , Ranjith B. Gowda , Aryan Chaudhary

Covers a range of new and innovative technologies and current applications of photonic sensors for biomedical applications. It covers areas such as biosensors, surface plasmon resonance (SPR) sensors, muscle strength monitoring, glucose sensing, AI in photonics, and many more. It covers basic elements of photonic sensors, biosensors for detecting and measuring certain biochemical substances, one-dimensional photonic crystal sensors, versatile fiber Bragg gratings sensors, and highly sensitive surface plasmon resonance sensors. It uses case studies to discuss MEMS optical sensors, use of artificial intelligence with photonics sensors to improve data analysis, and more.

Post-Processing of Parts and Components Fabricated by Fused Deposition Modeling

Techniques and Advancements

Edited by Vinayak R. Malik KLS Gogte Inst of Tech, Karnataka, Vivek Kumar Tiwary KLS Gogte Inst of Tech, India, Arunkumar Padmakumar KLS Gogte Inst of Tech, India

Series: Advanced Materials Processing and Manufacturing

This book describes several post-processing techniques that can be used to enhance the mechanical strength, isotropy, surface quality, and dimensional accuracy of 3D printed components using Fused Deposition Modelling (FDM) technique. It also discusses the usage of adhesives, interlocks, fasteners, ultrasonic, frictional, and microwave energy to join FDM-3D printed parts. Furthermore, the book also covers the scope of future research and challenges in the post-processing of FDM parts, as well as some of the most popular approaches in the field, such as Big Area Additive Manufacturing (BAAM), Machine Learning, and IoT.

Developments and Innovations

Edited by V. M. Ravindra Kumar Associate Prof, VIT-AP University, Andhra Pradesh, India, Vineesh K. P. Assistant Prof, NIT Calicut, Kerala, India, Sunil Kumar Sharma Institute of Railway Vehicles and Railway Technology, Germany

This book presents advances in railway engineering including railway wheels, wheel failure mechanisms, innovations in railway track designs, and axle failures. It covers rail-wheel traction characteristics under various environmental conditions for full-scale test conditions including braking systems. It provides an understanding of applications of digital twin technology in railway systems, predictive maintenance, performance optimization, and overall system efficiency with sustainable practices, and energy-efficient technologies and environmental impact assessments. Railway Safety Management

Systems, Practices and Emerging Trends

Katarzyna Chrużik , Marzena Graboń-Chałupczak

Series: Routledge Studies in Transport Analysis

This book offers a comprehensive and practical guide to managing safety in the rail transport sector. It provides an in-depth analysis of Safety and Maintenance Management Systems (SMS and MMS), risk assessment procedures, and safety culture strategies, all in line with the latest EU legislation and best practice. Written for railway professionals, safety managers, policymakers, researchers and students in transport-related fields, this volume bridges the gap between regulation and practice. It equips readers with tools for evaluating the significance of changes, integrating optional management systems, and applying predictive technologies to maintenance planning.

Edited by Shubhabrata Datta SRM University, Chennai, Subhas Ganguly National Inst of Tech, Chhatigarh

The book aims to review the application of data-driven computing techniques related to design of steel including phase transformation, composition-process-property correlation, and different processing techniques, particularly deformation and joining. It initiates with fundamentals of informatics followed by description of applications of statistical analyses in defining different attributes of steel. The preceding chapters covers recent applications of statistical, machine learning, expert systems and optimizations algorithms in the domains of iron and steel making, casting, deformation, phase transformation and heat treatment, microstructure analysis, and design of steel.

Edited by Virendra Kumar, Nishant Kumar Singh, Dan Bhadur Pal, Surendra Kumar Yadav

Series: River Publishers Series in Power and Energy Systems

This book, Sustainable Management of Solar PV Panel Waste, addresses several aspects of this concern. It assesses the environmental degradation over the entire lifecycle of solar panels, from manufacturing to disposal. Readers will encounter new waste management approaches, explore key policy frameworks, and learn about urban technologies capable of resource recovery. This book should be mandatory reading for researchers, policy-makers and industry professionals who want to reduce the environmental impacts of solar energy and create a truly sustainable solar future.

Sustainable Technologies for the Energy Transition

Edited by Aliyu M. Aliyu, Joseph Xavier Francisco Ribeiro

This book integrates engineering, economics, policy, and environmental perspectives for a comprehensive view of how sustainable energy technologies can be effectively deployed across different sectors. It offers insights into energy storage solutions and decarbonisation strategies needed for transitioning both industrial clusters and smaller-scale systems. Extending across multiple disciplines, the chapters encompass mechanical- and chemical-based renewable energy technologies, energy management tools, and governance frameworks for a circular economy. This book will interest energy professionals, researchers, and policymakers working towards achieving a net-zero future.

Terahertz Technology in Microwave and Photonics for Effective Communications

Edited by Prakash Pareek, Naveen Mishra, Jitendra K. Mishra, Indrasen Singh, Abhinav Gautam

This book explores the utilization of terahertz technology within the realms of microwave and photonics to advance the development of next-generation communication systems. It delves into various cutting-edge technologies such as the application of metamaterials to harness terahertz capabilities, intersatellite communication, next-generation optical fiber communication, and the utilization of metamaterial absorbers for secure communications. This book is intended for experts and professionals in fields of computer science, networking, telecommunications, and technology policy.

The Language of Grounding and Bonding

Gregory P. Bierals

Series: River Publishers Rapids Series in Electronic Materials, Circuits and Devices

This book identifies and analyzes the important terms that apply to grounding and bonding electrical systems and equipment. These terms have many real-world applications in the design and installation of electrical systems, and the grounding and bonding of these systems are the heart of every electrical installation. In our analysis, we use real world applications with practical examples to further enhance the reader's understanding of this complex subject.

The Principles of Green Energy & Technology

Volume 1: Basic Concepts to Applications

Edited by Surajbhan Sevda National Institute of Technology Warangal, India

The Principles of Green Energy and Technology: Basic Concepts to Applications explores fundamental and advanced concepts in sustainable energy. Edited by Dr. Surajbhan Sevda, the book covers diverse topics, including biomass characteristics, bioenergy production, artificial photosynthesis, and bioremediation. It provides insights into the science, engineering, and applications of green energy technologies. With contributions from experts, this volume serves as a valuable resource for researchers, students, and professionals in renewable energy and environmental sustainability.

Transforming Healthcare

Artificial Intelligence, Machine Learning, and 5G Innovations for Enhanced Patient Care

Edited by K. Srinivasan, Jude Hemanth Karunya University, India, V. Rukkumani

This book comprehensively discusses the latest trends and developments in healthcare applications including artificial intelligence, the Internet of Things, machine learning algorithms, deep learning algorithms, and 5G technology. It covers important topics such as 5 G-based smart healthcare network security, and data management and security. It is primarily written for senior undergraduates, graduate students, and academic researchers in the fields of electrical engineering, electrical and communications engineering, computer science and engineering, and biomedical engineering.

Designing Faultless Mechanical Products Based on Advanced Reliability Analysis

Seongwoo Woo Director, Reliability Association of Korea

Series: Advanced Research in Reliability and System Assurance Engineering

This book introduces and explains the parametric ALT (Accelerated Life Testing) methodology, as a new reliability methodology based on statistics, to help avoid recalls in the marketplace. Parametric ALT also can ensure whether the reliability target of the final design of the mechanical product is achieved. It meets market requirement, of higher performance, reduction on material costs, and promotes higher reliability. This book will include problems and case studies to help with reader comprehension.

Laser Additive Manufacturing in Oil and Gas Field Applications

Edited by Qinying Wang

In the petroleum industry, harsh working environments can cause equipment to fail prematurely. Laser additive manufacturing technology can be applied to maintain high-performance key components and the rapid repairing of damaged equipment. This book introduces the methods and processes of laser additive manufacturing technology for application in oil and gas fields, as well as the microstructure, corrosion, wear, erosion-corrosion behavior, and mechanism of component or coating fabricated by this technology. This book is aimed at engineers and researchers working in the oil and gas industry and readers seeking a deeper dive into laser additive manufacturing of metals.

Principles of Spinning

Speed Frame in Spinning

Ashok R. Khare

Series: Principles of Spinning

This book describes speed frame with respect to four important mechanisms: flyer and bobbin drive, cone drums for varying speed of bobbins, differential motion to give combined speed to bobbins and a complicated building mechanism where modern speed frames score over conventional frames. This book also gives a detailed explanation of traditional mechanisms common in both types of frames, along with the path of roving from the nip of last drafting rollers to the flyer top. Concepts like improved drafting systems, use of servo motors for varying the bobbin speed according to change in its diameter and electronic controls are explained.

Edited by Ashima Kalra Chandigarh Engineering College, India, Sita Rani GNDEC, Ludhiana, Ravinder Kumar Thapar Institute of Engineering and Technology (TIET), India, Ahmed A. Elngar

Series: Intelligent Manufacturing and Industrial Engineering

The rapid convergence of the Industrial Internet of Things (IIoT) and Machine Learning (ML) is propelling us into a new era known as Industry 5.0. This era is defined by unparalleled levels of automation, customization, and sustainability. Despite these advancements, there is a noticeable absence of comprehensive resources that offer a complete understanding of these transformative technologies and their practical applications across various industrial sectors. This book aims to fill the void by providing a timely and relevant guide that explores the theoretical foundations while also presenting real-world case studies and best practices.

Risk Management Framework for Fourth Industrial Revolution Technologies

Edited by Omoseni Oyindamola Adepolu Lead City Univ, Nigeria, Nnamdi Ikechi Nwulu University of Johannesburg, Johannesburg, South Africa, Love Opeyemi David Uni of Johannesburg, South Africa

This book focuses on major challenges posed by the Fourth Industrial Revolution (4IR), particularly the associated risks. By recognizing and addressing these risks, it bridges the gap between technological advancements and effective risk management. It further facilitates a swift adoption of technology and equips readers with the knowledge to be cautious during its implementation. Divided into three parts, it covers an overview of 4IR, explores the risks and risk management techniques, and comprehensive risk management framework specifically tailored for the 4IR.

A Bayesian Introduction to Fish Population Analysis

Joseph E. Hightower NC State University, U.S.A

Series: Chapman & Hall/CRC Applied Environmental Statistics

A Bayesian Introduction to Fish Population Analysis is aimed at advanced undergraduate and graduate students as well as working professionals interested in a hands-on introduction to Bayesian approaches for fitting fisheries models. Chapters address key aspects of population dynamics: abundance, mortality, growth, and recruitment. The book includes complete R code for simulating each study design and JAGS Bayesian code for model fitting; code files are also available online. No prior knowledge of R or JAGS is assumed and new commands are introduced gradually through the sequence of examples.

Markov Processes

James R. Kirkwood Sweet Briar College, Virginia, USA

Series: Advances in Applied Mathematics

Markov Processes provides a bridge from an undergraduate probability course to a course in stochastic processes. The text is designed to be understandable to students who have taken an undergraduate probability course without needing an instructor to fill in any gaps. This second edition builds on the successful first, and includes presents a new chapter illustrating the utility of using digraphs to describe whether a Markov process is reducible, absorbing, etc. There are also additional exercises. This book offers the opportunity to concentrate on the topic when additional study is required. It creates a more seamless transition to prepare the student for what comes next.

More Monthly Problem Gems

Hongwei Chen Department of Mathematics, Christopher Newport University, Roberto Tauraso

A sequel to Monthly Problem Gems (CRC Press, 2021), this book covers a broader range of math problems. In addition to analysis problems, problems from number theory, combinatorics, algebra, and geometry are included. The presents a new type of problem-solving. It will challenge and stimulate math problem-solvers at varying degrees of proficiency. Since the selected problem gems contain sophisticated ideas and connect to important current research, this book is also geared toward graduate students in math and engineering. Many of the problems in this book were originally offered in the American Mathematical Monthly.

Fourier Series and Boundary Value Problems with Engineering Applications

Youssef N. Raffoul

Series: Textbooks in Mathematics

This book is a comprehensive and time-tested guide to the mathematical theory of Fourier series and boundary value problems, with a strong emphasis on engineering applications. Over the past two decades, it has been rigorously refined and tested in classroom settings, ensuring its effectiveness as a teaching and learning resource. Whether you are a student, an educator seeking a reliable and classroom-tested resource, or a professional looking to refresh your knowledge, this book offers a clear exposition, practical focus, and extensive problem sets, making it an indispensable companion for mastering the mathematical tools that underpin modern engineering.

Flexural Gravity Waves

The Mathematical Theory and Applications

T Sahoo , MH Meylan , Y Stepanyants , S Boral , S Das

This monograph describes mathematical techniques for various aspects of flexural gravity wave propagation, pertinent to ocean engineering. It focuses on frontier problems in hydroelasticity including blocking dynamics of flexural gravity waves in both homogeneous and stratified fluids. Various wave-structure interaction problems with similar dispersion relations are revisited and solutions are demonstrated through real-life physical problems. It covers developments in the frequency and time domain analysis of wave-structure interactions. It is aimed at graduate students and researchers in marine hydrodynamics, ocean engineering, wave-structure interaction and applied mathematics.

Integral and Integro-Differential Equations

Wavelet-Based Numerical Methods

Santanu Saha Ray , Srikanta Behera

This book provides a comprehensive study of numerical techniques for solving integral and integro-differential equations using wavelet-based approximation methods. It combines both theoretical insights and practical applications, focusing on integer- and fractional-order equations, including those with weakly singular kernels. Starting with key definitions and theorems from integral equations and fractional calculus, the book establishes a clear mathematical framework. It then introduces wavelet-based schemes for approximating solutions, with a particular focus on convergence, stability, and error analysis.

Quantum Calculus and Functional Analysis with Applications

Edited by Bipan Hazarika, Mehmet Gurdal, Mehmet Dik, Dimpekumar Chalishajar

This book presents advanced research on quantum calculus, functional analysis, and their interdisciplinary applications. It focuses on solving complex challenges in areas such as quantum transport, carbon nanotubes, approximation theory, optimal control models, and renewable natural resources by providing cutting-edge developments in these specialised fields. Based on original research, it offers new insights into topics such as neutrosophic normed spaces, probabilistic normed spaces, quantum sequence spaces, and q-calculus applications in functional analysis for innovative applications across fields as diverse as energy, environmental science, and bioengineering.

Secure Online Voting Using Biometric Authentication and Public Key Encryption

Ajish S, K S Anil Kumar

This book provides a comprehensive exploration of the technologies, methodologies, and potential applications of biometric systems in internet voting. From understanding the different types of biometric data to examining the advantages and challenges of implementing such systems on a global scale, it lays out both the theoretical and practical aspects of building a secure online voting infrastructure. The exploration of cryptographic solutions and the legal and ethical implications of biometric data collection also form a critical part of the narrative.

Dancing with Roomba

Cracking the Robot Riddle and Building an Icon

Joseph L. Jones

Dancing with Roomba tells the unexpected story of the world's favorite robot. Selling nearly 50 million units since its launch, Roomba's unlikely success sprang from a breakthrough at an MIT robotics lab, an inventor who persevered through years of setbacks, and an inspired team that worked as one to smash every problem. This book provides a rare view behind the scenes, revealing how a revolutionary product came to be, how it works, and how a tiny company was able to best a crowd of corporate giants. Written in an easy, narrative style, Dancing with Roomba is accessible to all.

Distributed Security Monitoring and Resilient Cooperative Control

Guanghai Wen, Yuezhu Lv, Dan Zhao, Xuqiang Lei

This book systematically addresses the security and resilience of networked agent systems, from sensor networks to general multi-agent systems, against evolving cyber threats. Practical applications range from resilient smart grids and attack-resistant drones to self-healing infrastructures. Rigorous mathematical frameworks, including graph theory and matrix analysis, establish a principled link between theoretical guarantees and the security operations of real-world networked agent systems. This book will appeal to scholars, engineers, and practitioners involved in systems engineering, control theory, cybersecurity, and artificial intelligence.

Fractional Random Vibrations I

Theories

Ming Li

Series: Fractional Order Thinking in Exploring the Frontiers of STEM

Volume I deals succinctly with the theories of fractional processes and fractional vibration systems. A major focus of fractional vibrations is the derivation of analytical expressions for the frequency transfer functions of seven classes of fractional vibrations using elementary functions. This is considered from the perspective of the functional form of linear vibrations with frequency-dependent mass, damping, or stiffness. The title will be essential reading for students, mathematicians, physicists, and engineers interested in fractional random vibration phenomena.

3RD EDITION

Embedded Software Development for Safety-Critical Systems

Chris Hobbs QNX Software Systems, Canada

The third edition of Embedded Software Development for Safety-Critical Systems is about the creation of dependable embedded software. It is written for system designers, implementers and verifiers who are experienced in general embedded software development, but who are now facing the prospect of developing a software-based system for safety-critical applications.

Fractional Random Vibrations II

Applications

Ming Li

Series: Fractional Order Thinking in Exploring the Frontiers of STEM

Volume II provides the analytical expressions for the responses of seven classes of fractional vibration systems excited by six types of random processes. It examines the responses of seven classes of fractional vibrations driven by five fractional processes, namely, fractional Gaussian noise, generalized fractional Gaussian noise, fractional Brownian motion, fractional Ornstein-Uhlenbeck process, the process with the von Kármán spectrum, and the process with the Pierson-Moskowitz spectrum. The title will be essential reading for students, mathematicians, physicists, and engineers interested in fractional random vibration phenomena.

Game Audio Programming 5

Principles and Practices

Edited by Guy Somberg

Welcome to the fifth volume of Game Audio Programming: Principles and Practices — the first series of its kind dedicated to the art, science, and craft of game audio programming. In this volume, some of the top game audio programmers in the industry delve into audio programming topics from low-level subjects like oscillator techniques to high-level topics such as automated testing, reverb, and music. This collection compiles topics from a vast body of advanced knowledge and wisdom about game audio programming. Whether you are a newly minted game audio programmer or an expert, or if you're just the lucky soul who gets to do the work, this book is for you!

Game Development with Godot 4

A Complete Introduction

Alan Thorn National Film & Television School, Upminster, UK

Godot is a rapidly growing free and open-source game engine for creating 2D and 3D games, and interactive applications, on many platforms including desktop and mobile. There has been intense interest in this engine among game developers worldwide. This book explores: nodes, scenes, hierarchies, import workflows, scripting, animations, user interfaces, working with resources and creating gameplay elements, among others.

Generative AI and Creativity

From Theory to Practice

Edited by R Elakkiya, Subramaniaswamy V

This guide goes step-by-step journey from the fundamentals of Generative AI to advanced applications. It unravels the complexities of generative models, delves into such key techniques as GANs (Generative Adversarial Networks) and VAEs (Variational Autoencoders), and provides a solid foundation for readers to understand the underlying principles. Offering insight into real-world applications of Generative AI in art and music readers gain practical skills through coding examples, case studies, and collaborative projects.

Let's Get Infografit

A Graphic Look at Exercise and Health

Nigel Holmes

In Joyful Infographics, one of the leading graphic designers of recent times shows how a judicious use of humor can make infographics more understandable. Written in non-academic, easy to understand language, and with historical and contemporary visual examples presented throughout, this small book provides a short history of light-hearted graphics; it outlines eight clear ways to make graphics more understandable; it explores the importance of the audience; it shows you how to make information come alive during presentations through live-action 'performance' graphics; it discusses why joy and smiling are good for you; and it shows you how not to overdo it.

Open for Business

Harnessing the Power of Open-Source in the Corporate World

Rahim Ali, Muhammad Danyal Khan

In an era where corporate giants and technological behemoths wield unprecedented power over the digital landscape, this book is a call for autonomy, security, and innovation through open-source software. At the heart of this book lies the conviction that true technological freedom and strategic advantage are attainable through embracing open-source solutions. It is not merely a theoretical discourse but a practical guide that lays out foundational strategies for integrating open-source solutions into a corporate IT infrastructure. It offers a step-by-step framework for building cloud citadels, networking nexuses, and data sanctuaries with robust open-source tools.

Preparing for Sustainability Audits

A Practical Guide for IT Sector

Mahsa Fidanboy

Series: Security, Audit and Leadership Series

The book is a practical guide to be used by people with no or little knowledge of sustainability and also sustainability professionals and experts who intend to prepare software companies to undergo sustainability audits and assessments conducted by different organizations successfully. With sustainability regulations and rules becoming stricter gradually, it will not be that far when the mandatory requirements are needed to be fulfilled by IT companies and they will be expected to prepare for annual internal and external audits like for many other standard audits.

Effective Best Practices in Building Valuable NLP Solutions

Rachel Wagner-Kaiser

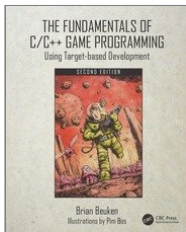

Building Natural Language Processing (NLP) solutions that deliver ongoing business value is not straightforward. This book provides clarity and guidance on how to design, develop, deploy, and maintain NLP solutions that address real-world business problems. Through providing best practices across the lifecycle of NLP development, this handbook will help organizations – particularly technical teams – use critical thinking to understand how, when, and why to build NLP solutions, what the common challenges are, and how to address or avoid them. By doing so, they'll deliver consistent value to their stakeholders and deliver on the promise of AI and NLP.

The Game Needs to Change

Towards Sustainable Game Design

Edited by Patrick Prax , Clayton Whittle , Trevin York

This book shows how games can play their part in addressing climate change and how we can sustainably make games for sustainability. Based on both industry practice and research, the chapters within give voice to those who are working on sustainability in gaming and through gaming. These perspectives offer pragmatic recommendations and concrete starting points for working towards sustainability, showing you how to get started no matter your role. The book will appeal to game makers who want to address sustainability through the content and message of their creative work, as well as members of the wider game industry who work towards more sustainable practices.

AI Frontiers

Transforming Health, Agriculture, and Education

Edited by Sonia Juneja, Irphan Ali, Prabhat Kumar Srivastava, Valentina Emilia Balas Aurel Vlaicu University of Arad, Romania, Monika Nagar

AI Frontiers: Transforming Health, Agriculture, and Industry delves into how cutting-edge AI innovations are addressing some of the world's most pressing challenges. This comprehensive volume explores the transformative impact of AI across healthcare, agriculture, and industrial landscapes, offering insights into practical applications, emerging trends, and future opportunities. By blending theoretical foundations with real-world case studies, this book empowers readers with actionable knowledge to leverage AI effectively.

Applications of AI in Smart Technologies and Manufacturing

Volume 1

Edited by S.P. Jani , M. Adam Khan

This book presents a rich repository of groundbreaking research in emerging engineering domains. With contributions from eminent educators, industrialists, scientists and researchers, this book highlights the transformative role of AI and smart technologies in enhancing community welfare and shaping the future of manufacturing. This is a resourceful guide for researchers, academicians, engineers, industrial practitioners, and graduate students in the domains of mechanical engineering, smart technologies, artificial intelligence, and automation. It is also highly relevant to decision-makers and R&D professionals focused on achieving sustainable innovation in engineering.

Applications of Large Language Models (LLM) in Healthcare Systems

Opportunities, Challenges, and Ethical Considerations

Edited by Azadeh Zamanifar , Miad Faezipour , Farhad Soleimani Gharehcho , Amirfarhad Farhadi

This book offers a comprehensive exploration into the role of Large Language Models (LLMs) in modern healthcare. It focuses specifically on the lifecycle of LLM deployment in healthcare settings, including transparency, accountability, data privacy, and regulatory compliance to ensure safe and effective use. By bridging the gap between technical artificial intelligence (AI) development and clinical application, this book highlights the critical collaboration between clinicians and data scientists to create representative datasets and fine-tune models for clinical accuracy and interpretability.

Applied Intelligence for Healthcare Informatics

Techniques and Applications

Edited by Nazmul Siddique University of Ulster, Magee, UK, Mohammad Shamsul Arefin , Md Zahid Hasan , M Shamim Kaiser Institute of Information Technology, Jahangirnagar University, Bangladesh

AI is revolutionizing healthcare, transforming diagnostics, treatment, and patient care. Applied Intelligence for Healthcare Informatics: Techniques and Applications explores cutting-edge AI solutions for disease prediction, medical imaging, mental health analysis, and healthcare decision-making. Covering topics like heart disease prediction, COVID-19 detection, breast cancer classification, and ethical AI challenges, this book bridges theory with real-world applications. A must-read for researchers, practitioners, and innovators, it offers insights into the future of AI-driven healthcare.

Edited by Pushan Kumar Dutta , Bhupinder Singh Sharda University, G. Noida, India, Vishal Jain , Christian Kaunert Office CG19B, Dublin City University, Komal Vig Sharda University, G. Noida, India

Series: Computational Intelligence Techniques

This book introduces a comprehensive model for evaluating the effects of Artificial Intelligence (AI) on human rights, democracy, and the rule of law and an innovative framework that merges Rights Impact Assessments (RIAs) practices with AI-focused algorithmic impact assessment approaches. The book is divided into three subthemes: Understanding AI, its Concepts and Implications; Challenges and Solutions in AI Systems; and AI Applications, Compliance Issues, and Future Prospects. This book is aimed at graduate students and researchers in artificial intelligence, computer science, cybersecurity, and human right studies.

Artificial Intelligence for Neural Health

Diagnosis and Treatment

Rishabha Malviya , Shivam Rajput

This book explores the transformative role of artificial intelligence (AI) in diagnosing and treating neurological disorders. It offers a comprehensive overview of how AI can enhance diagnostic accuracy, improve treatment plans, and ultimately lead to better patient outcomes in the realm of neural health. The book is essential for healthcare professionals, AI researchers, and neuroscientists as it bridges the gap between cutting-edge AI technologies and practical medical applications.

Artificial Intelligence from Science Fiction to Reality

How AI May Impact Humanity

Emanuel Camilleri

Artificial Intelligence from Science Fiction to Reality examines various aspects, starting with the evolution of human and artificial intelligence. It places AI in its proper context and discusses non-technical aspects, such as philosophical and social issues. The book also focuses on the hardware and software technology that support AI, and the essential cyber security systems that are required to address the evolving AI threat landscape. It examines centres for AI safety that are nonprofit research organisations, which focus on the mitigation of AI risks by proposing solutions against threat actors.

Goals and Challenges

Edited by Sonal Trivedi, Vishal Jain Sharda University, Greater Noida, India, Balamurugan Balusamy Shiv Nadar Uni., Subhendu Kumar Pani Biju Patnaik University of Technology, Danish Ather

Series: Advances in Computational Collective Intelligence

This book examines the transformative impact that augmented reality (AR) has in reshaping approaches to sustainability. Starting with an overview that lays the groundwork in AR and sustainability, the book presents analyses of applications, challenges, and future trajectories. A comprehensive guide for academics and professionals, the book navigates this dynamic landscape where cutting-edge technology meets the imperative of environmental responsibility. Filled with case studies and expert interviews, the book provides tangible examples and insights from the forefront of integrating AR and sustainability.

Biometrics

Challenges, Trends and Opportunities

Edited by Francisco Liébana Cabanillas Uni of Granada, Spain, Francisco Muñoz Leiva Uni of Granada, Spain, Juan F. Prados Castillo, Elena Higuera-Castillo

Biometrics is being widely used in banking, mobile payments, IT security, travel, and even healthcare. Companies are increasingly embracing biometrics as an additional layer of security and convenience for their customers, providing an enhanced user experience and reducing the risk of fraud and phishing. With the emergence of technologies such as artificial intelligence, machine learning, and behavior-based biometric recognition, the biometrics landscape is undergoing further transformation. This book provides an overview of biometrics, including its theoretical foundations and practical applications, and offers insights into its relevance and impact on various sectors of society.

Blockchain Technology

Unlocking the Value of 3Ts in the Business World

Edited by Richa Chauhan, Vidhi Kaul

Explores the role of blockchain technology in promoting higher effectiveness in new business modeling in different industries. It looks at the incorporation of blockchain technology alongwith artificial intelligence, in diverse business sectors. Chapters look at the use of blockchain technology in the banking and finance sector; in the fashion industry; in the tourism, travel, and hospitality industries; in the national defense industry; for advertising and marketing; and, of course, in the logistics industry for enhancing green supply chains with blockchain technology.

Data-Driven Decision Support System in Intelligent HealthCare

Debnath Bhattacharyya KL University, KLEF, India, Yu-Chen Hu

Generative AI is one of the most trending topics and application in every field of Science and Engineering with AI and Machine Intelligence. It is used to develop new products and automate the system by generating the new and improved models and improve decision making systems. Machine Intelligence and Generative AI collaboratively are using in healthcare decision making, drug discovery, personalized care, synthetic data generation, automations, and many more. Mathematical models like Adversarial Networks, and Variational Autoencoders are deployed to produce images, for data augmentation, improving disease diagnosis, and advanced medical imaging research area.

Explainable AI for Earth Observation Data Analysis

Applications, Opportunities, and Challenges

Edited by Arun PV Indian Institute of Information Technology Sri City, Jocelyn Chanussot, B Krishna Mohan IIT Bombay, D. Nagesh Kumar Indian Institute of Science, Bangalore, India, Alok Porwal IIT Bombay

The role of AI is crucial in the domain of Earth Observation (EO) data analysis. Deep learning-based approaches have improved accuracy, but they have affected the reliability and transparency of EO data. It is critical to improve the explainability of EO data analysis algorithms and complex deep learning models to ensure the quality of spatial decisions. This book discusses the advancements in Explainable AI and investigates their suitability for EO data analyses offering best practices for implementing algorithms that facilitate big and efficient data processing. It lays the foundation of Explainable EO and helps readers build trustworthy, secure, and robust EO systems.

Exploring Generative AI with Computational Intelligence

Navigating the Uncertainty of Creative Machines

Edited by Seifedine Kadry, Shubham Mahajan, Vishal Jain Sharda University, India

Series: Computational Intelligence Techniques

This book demystifies the concept of AI-driven creativity with an in-depth understanding of the underlying principles, algorithms, and applications of generative AI. It begins by coverage of AI fundamentals followed by technical discussion includes detailed explanations of model architectures, training processes, and optimization techniques. It explores case studies showcasing how generative AI is reshaping industries such as entertainment, marketing, design, and healthcare. The book also tackles ethical considerations, addressing issues related to bias, transparency, and responsible AI development.

Human-AI Empowerment

An Interdisciplinary Perspective

Carlos Toxtli-Hernández

This book provides a timely exploration of strategies for aligning Artificial Intelligence (AI) with long-term human goals, ensuring that AI acts as an empowering force across multiple dimensions. Drawing on interdisciplinary research from fields such as AI, human-computer interaction (HCI), psychology, education, economics, and social science, this book develops comprehensive frameworks for studying and optimizing AI's impact on human empowerment. It investigates empowerment from a human-centered computing (HCC) perspective, examining how AI systems can track and adapt to progressively achieve long-term goals.

LiDAR Technology for Intelligent Transportation and Autonomous Systems

Edited by Rajalakshmi Pachamuthu, Bhaskar Anand, Abhishek Thakur, Parvez Alam

This book explores the critical role of LiDAR technology in autonomous navigation and advanced driver assistance systems (ADAS). It explores the fundamental principles of LiDAR, comparing it with other sensor technologies like radar and cameras while examining the various types of LiDAR systems, including time-of-flight, flash, and frequency-modulated continuous wave systems. It emphasises real-world use cases, including setting up LiDAR data acquisition systems and addressing challenges like sensor calibration, alignment, and integration into autonomous systems.

Manufacturing in the Digital Age

Edited by Mohan Kumar Pradhan, Mahendra U. Gaikwad, Ragavanantham Shanmugam

Series: Advanced Materials Processing and Manufacturing

This book covers manufacturing in the current context of Industry 4.0 and the impending era of Industry 5.0 exploring the path established by the manufacturing sector including developments, constraints, difficulties, and solutions. The importance of sustainability in the manufacturing sector, particularly in the context of Industry 4.0, is the focus. The difficulties in implementing Industry 4.0 and Industry 5.0 and providing advice on how to get past these barriers are also discussed including sustainable methods and approaches to deal with environmental issues. This book is aimed at researchers and graduate students in mechanical, industrial, and production engineering.

Mathematical Foundations of Blockchains

Fundamentals, Volume 1

Nirdosh Bhatnagar

This book is part of a two-volume work on blockchains. Blockchain is a novel paradigm for a distributed ledger. Volume 1 is on the fundamentals of blockchains and consists of an overview of blockchains, essential elements of blockchains, and the mathematics required for understanding the workings of blockchains. Volume 2 develops mathematical models to enhance the understanding of blockchains. This work can be used by students of electrical engineering, computer science, applied mathematics, and economics. Students in business school can also benefit. It can also be used by professionals and researchers in the field who would like a quick review of the basics of the subject.

Metaheuristics in Engineering Applications

Edited by Mathew V K, Archana Chandak, Man Mohan, Bhumeswar Patle

Series: Advances in Metaheuristics

Metaheuristics in Engineering Applications introduces a range of metaheuristics algorithms and examine their various applications in engineering, including Industrial IoT and Cyber-Physical Systems, Intelligent Manufacturing and Sustainable Technologies. Metaheuristics are not just optimization tools; they are catalysts for innovation across diverse engineering disciplines. By understanding their context and potential in each area, we unlock a future where complex problems are tackled efficiently, sustainably, and ethically, paving the way for a brighter and more innovative tomorrow. It will be of great interest to professionals and researchers across this domain.

Perspectives of Future Learning

AI through the Lens of Educators

Edited by Asha Kumaran, Boey Chee Kin, Cleta Milagros Acebedo, Linda William, Gabrielle Lai, Teo Chee Leng, Vijayan N, Zhang Huiyu

This book looks at the intersection of AI and education in Singapore's post-secondary education programmes. The key focus is the study on the needs assessment, selection of adaptive technologies and their seamless customization into the education eco-system. To successfully implement the AI-education solutions, the reader learns about the planning considerations to develop a suitable approach to engage stakeholders. This book would be ideal for administrators, researchers, practitioners, instructors, and trainee teachers to draw reference from the design, implementation, evaluation, including implications, of teaching and learning interventions using AI in higher education.

Quantum Algorithms for Enhancing Cybersecurity in Computational Intelligence in Healthcare

Edited by Prateek Singhal, Pramod Kumar Mishra
Banaras Hindu University, Mokhtar Mohammed Hasan

This book explores the exciting field of quantum computing, which is changing how we approach computation. It covers the basics, cybersecurity aspects, advanced machine learning techniques, and the many ways quantum computing can be used. Quantum computing is much more powerful than traditional computing. The book starts by explaining the core concepts like qubits, quantum gates, superposition, entanglement, quantum memory, and quantum parallelism.

Raw Outrage

The Films of Phil Mulloy

Chris Robinson

Series: Focus Animation

Phil Mulloy is the punk bluesman of animation. His films are raw, minimalist, and ferociously satirical—short bursts of crude brilliance that confront the hypocrisies of religion, nationalism, masculinity, and class with uncompromising rage. This book traces Mulloy's singular career—his shocking early shorts, experimental features, and recent return with potent works like Endgame and Once Upon a Time on Earth. Part biography, part critical reflection, and part personal journey, Raw Outrage explores how Mulloy's work remains urgent in an age where animation often plays it safe.

Saving Artificial Minds

Understanding and Preventing AI Suffering

Leonard Dung Ruhr-University Bochum, Germany

AI systems are treated as mere objects, not as bearers of moral standing whose well-being may matter in its own right. However, we may soon create AI systems which are capable of suffering and thus have moral standing. This book examines the philosophy and science of AI suffering risks. Its investigation is deeply grounded in comparative psychology, the science of consciousness, AI research, and applied AI ethics. The argues that there is a significant probability that we will soon create AI systems capable of suffering. It also provides a rigorous overview and discussion of the most important research and ideas on AI sentience, AI agency, and the grounds of moral status.

Technological Advancements for Ambient Assisted Living Environments

Edited by Rashmi Gupta, Shashi Shekhar, Jeetendra Kumar, Gaurav Dhiman PSOU, India

Series: Responsible Technology and Intelligence

Ambient Assisted Living (AAL) is transforming healthcare with AI, IoT, Blockchain, and 5G, enabling personalized care, remote monitoring, and intelligent decision-making. This book explores AI-driven gait analysis, assistive robotics, Blockchain incentives, NLP in healthcare, and AI-powered diet management. It also highlights GAN-based emergency staffing, multisensory rooms for disabilities, and ethical considerations. Serving researchers and policymakers, it provides insights into AAL's innovations, challenges, and future directions, revolutionizing healthcare and enhancing quality of life.

The European Union and Digital Law

Normative Power in a Globalized Technological Landscape

Yuval Reinfeld, Aviv Gaon

Series: Routledge Research in the Law of Emerging Technologies

This book introduces the concept of Technical Normative Power (TNP) to explain how the European Union (EU) transforms internal legal frameworks into external influence. It focuses on two emblematic instruments: the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) and the Artificial Intelligence Act (AIA). It examines how both EU legislation and the case law of the Court of Justice of the European Union (CJEU) work together to set global standards in data protection, AI governance, and digital rights. This book will be of interest to scholars and professionals in EU law, digital regulation, artificial intelligence, and the law of emerging technologies.

The Mechanical Behavior of Salt XI

Edited by Steven Sobolik, Mathew Ingraham, Edward Matteo, Melissa Mills, Tonya Ross, Donald Conley, John Stormont

Rock salt formations have long been recognized as a valuable resource and this volume presents a collection of 83 research papers defining the state-of-the-art in the field. Topics range from fundamental work on deformation mechanisms and damage of rock salt to compaction of engineered salt backfill. The Mechanical Behavior of Salt XI will appeal to graduate students, academics, engineers and professionals working in the fields of salt mechanics, salt mining and geological storage of energy and wastes, but also to researchers in rock physics in general.

Edited by Phil de Graaf, Geoff Beale, Trevor Carter

Guidelines for Open Pit and Waste Dump Closure provides a benchmark reference for geotechnical and hydrogeological professionals, and other closure stakeholders, involved in assessing and implementing the closure of open pits and waste dumps. It defines a state-of-best-practice geotechnical and hydrological pathway that reflects current industry-wide experience; considers the perspectives of the operator, regulator and community; and encompasses closure planning, design, implementation and monitoring. This book will be invaluable for mine closure practitioners, corporate planners, mine management, mining engineers and technical staff, mine stakeholders and regulators.

Ultrafast Structural Dynamics of Free Molecules and Condensed Matter

Anatoly A. Ischenko Dept of Analytical Chemistry, Moscow Lomonosov State University of Fine Chemical Technologies, Russia, Gennady V. Fetisov, Sergey A. Aseyev

This concept of a "moment," an ultra-short time interval in the natural sciences, forces us to think about the relative positions of the atoms that define the barrier to the process of their interaction. It is the control of the barrier height that allows one of many possible atomic rearrangements to occur, since it occurs faster than competing processes. That is, the process of molecular transformation during interaction is inherently a "race against time." Manipulating the barrier height gives effective, exponential control over the yield of the reaction product.

Advanced Topics in Physics for Undergraduates

Asim Gangopadhyaya Loyola University Chicago, USA, Constantin Rasinariu Loyola University Chicago, USA

This book explores classical mechanics, electrodynamics, and quantum mechanics beyond the standard introductory courses. Designed to support departments with limited resources, this book integrates these advanced topics into a single, cohesive volume, offering students a unified perspective on fundamental physical principles. This book serves as an invaluable guide for undergraduate students seeking to deepen their knowledge of physics, preparing them for further academic study or careers in physics and related fields. Its clear explanations and structured approach make it accessible to learners looking to advance their understanding beyond traditional coursework.

Teaching Introductory Physics to Visually Impaired Learners

Antônio Carlos Fontes dos Santos, Marcio Velloso da Silveira

Teaching Introductory Physics to Visually Impaired Learners provides a gateway to understanding the difficulties encountered by this audience and provides ways for teachers to embrace this challenge. The concept of inclusion is discussed in light of the historical evolution of the achievements of people with disabilities and the development of reading and writing in Braille, in addition to other more modern tools, such as cell phone applications. The remaining chapters present methodologies for teaching mechanics, waves, electrodynamics, optics and modern physics in classes where there are one or more students with visual impairments.

Medicinal Chemistry

Norma K Dunlap Middle Tennessee State University, USA, Donna M Huryn University of Pennsylvania and University of Pittsburgh, USA

This book provides a concise introduction to the medicinal chemistry of therapeutically active compounds. Written in an accessible style, it offers a brief overview of the drug development process, from discovery to approved drug. Emphasizing medicinal chemistry strategies, the content is organized by target as well as therapeutic area drug classes. It covers existing drugs, and the discovery process that led to their development. Aimed at students and professionals interested in drug discovery, Medicinal Chemistry requires little prior knowledge, making it ideal for classroom and training seminar use.

Physics

A Focused Introduction

Colin CampbellSeries: Textbook Series in Physical Sciences*

Physics: A Focused Introduction provides a thorough introduction to the principles and practical applications of introductory undergraduate physics. Featuring a streamlined narrative, it encourages active engagement between fundamental concepts and fully worked examples. Major topics such as motion (kinematics, forces, and conservation of momentum and energy), thermodynamics, waves, optics, electricity and magnetism are covered, in addition to the foundations of modern physics. This textbook is suitable for students of science and engineering who require a concise introduction to the field, as well as students of both algebra-based and calculus-based courses.

2D Semiconductors for Environmental Remediation

Edited by Honey John Cochin Uni of Sci & Tech, India, Nisha T. Padmanabhan Cochin Uni of Sci & Tech, India, Sona Stanly Cochin Uni of Sci & Tech, India, Jith C. Janardhanan Cochin Uni of Sci & Tech, India

Series: Emerging Materials and Technologies

This book gives a comprehensive description of various aspects of 2D semiconductors including their synthesis, surface science, characterizations, and their allied application in environmental remediation including air and water purification, oil-water separation, hydrogen production, and CO₂ removal. These are explained in detail with the plausible applications of these semiconductors. The electronic and optoelectronic enhancement properties of these semiconductors with bandgap engineering, doping, and chemical functionalization for various applications are exemplified. This book is aimed at researchers and graduate students in materials science and environmental engineering.

A History of Spectroscopy

Emile Biémont

A History of Spectroscopy retraces the major stages in the growth of the various spectroscopic methods from their origins, as well as the most recent advances and the hopes they raise for future technological progress. With its multidisciplinary aspects, it embodies a masterly and unique effort which has no equivalent in the published literature. The present contribution will be read with profit not only by students embarking on a career in physics in general and in spectroscopy or astrophysics more specifically, but also by students in many other related fields like chemistry, biology, medicine, pharmacy and engineering.

Advanced Materials for Biomedical Devices

Insights from AI and Nanotechnology

Edited by M Anusuya, Fabian I. Ezema

Advanced Materials for Biomedical Devices: Insights from AI and Nanotechnology explores the intersection of advanced materials science, artificial intelligence (AI), and nanotechnology, specifically targeting innovations in biomedical devices. This book delves into cutting-edge advancements in materials such as biocompatible polymers, nanostructured surfaces, smart hydrogels, and bioactive ceramics. It discusses their applications in areas like drug delivery, tissue engineering, diagnostics, and implantable devices. The book also examines how AI-driven tools and machine learning algorithms are revolutionizing material discovery, property prediction, and device optimization.

AI Robotics

Ethics, Algorithms, and Technology of Artificial Intelligence-Powered Robots

Vinod Kumar Khanna CSIR-Central Electronics Engineering Research Institute, India

AI robots can learn from their experiences, make decisions in real-time, understand natural language and human gestures, and utilize computer vision to perceive and comprehend their environment. Beginning with the rudimentary concepts of artificial intelligence, AI Robotics: Ethics, Algorithms, and Technology of Artificial Intelligence-Powered Robots explores the intersection of robotics and physics and emphasizes the need for strict adherence to ethical principles in relation to overall progress and the development of humankind.

Alcoholic Beverages

Chemistry and Health Impacts

Sarat Kumar Swain Veer Surendra Sai Univ. of Tech., Dept. of Chem, Odisha

The main focus of the book is to explore the chemistry and health impact of different alcoholic beverages. It is important to know the chemical composition of alcoholic beverages before consumption, as ethyl alcohol is not its only component. There is a common misconception that 'a small dose of alcoholic beverage is good for health.' However, this "small" is not a well-defined amount, and beyond a certain level, the consumption of alcoholic beverages becomes injurious to health. The effect of alcoholic beverages on health is influenced by their chemistry. The present book reveals a detailed study of the chemistry and health impacts of various alcoholic beverages.

Applications of Contemporary Nanomaterials for Advanced Energy Storage and Conversion

Kingsley Eghonghon Ukhurebor, Uyiosa Osagie Aigbe

Applications of Contemporary Nanomaterials for Advanced Energy Storage and Conversion discusses the applications of contemporary nanomaterials for advanced energy storage and conversion such as supercapacitors, Li-ion batteries, and fuel cells. Due to their unique properties and structure, including high surface area, electron conductivity, capacitance, energy density, charge-discharge, cycle stability and power conversion efficiency, contemporary nanomaterial applications as essential efficient energy devices have advanced over the years. Contemporary nanomaterials also offer better thermal constancy, mechanical robustness, and microstructure properties.

Applications of Covalent Organic Frameworks in Environmental Remediation

Edited by Pallavi Jain SRM Institute of Science and Technology, India, Sapna Raghav Shri Jagdishprasad Jhabarmal Tibrewala Univ., Rajasthan

This book provides a comprehensive overview of Covalent Organic Frameworks (COFs) and their growing significance in environmental applications. With their highly ordered, porous structures and tunable properties, COFs offer innovative solutions for challenges such as water purification, air filtration, and pollutant degradation. The book introduces the fundamentals of COF synthesis, structure, and properties, while highlighting recent research advances and practical applications. Emphasizing both theoretical insights and real-world relevance, it explores how molecular design, and structural engineering can enhance COF performance.

Bioplastics

Synthesis, Characterization, and Applications

Edited by Krushna Prasad Shadangi, Prakash Kumar Sarangi

Overviews bioplastics and highlights new sustainable bioplastic technology. It introduces bioplastics and their benefits, and discusses the different kinds of bioplastics and their uses. It covers the use of bioplastics in creating sustainable food packaging, as well as in other areas, like electronics, architecture and construction industry, automobile industry, consumer goods, cosmetics, etc. The design and methods of production of bioplastics are discussed as well as nano-bioplastics. The environmental industrial aspects of bioplastics, as well as the commercial aspects of bioplastics are discussed, evaluating the commercial and industrial value and demand for bioplastics.

Cyclodextrins for UV Rays Filtration

Edited by Sivakumar Krishnamoorthy

Traditional UVR absorbers pose environmental and health risks due to their volatility, solubility, and toxicity. High concentrations are needed for effective UV filtration, leading to environmental accumulation. Safer alternatives, like cyclodextrin complexation, can enhance UV filtration while reducing absorber concentration. Cyclodextrin complexation offers a promising solution by enhancing UV filtration efficiency while reducing the required concentration of UVR absorbers. Cyclodextrins for UV Rays Filtration addresses a critical gap in photoprotection research by offering a comprehensive exploration of how cyclodextrins enhance UVR filtration.

Fundamentals and Applications in Water and Wastewater Treatment

Edited by Mihir Kumar Purkait IIT Guwahati, India, Pranjal Pratim Das IIT Guwahati, India, Mukesh Bharti

This book presents different applications of electrocoagulation treatment processes involved in the removal of harmful contaminants from both drinking and industrial wastewater. Initial chapters of the book focus on the global scenario of water purification, basic water chemistry and treatment processes along with the fundamentals of electrochemistry including the reaction and mechanism of electrocoagulation technique. Thereafter, the mathematical modelling and simulation of electrocoagulation reactors is covered in detail. This book is aimed at researchers and graduate students in chemical and environmental engineering.

Essential Math for Physics Undergraduates

Practical Examples with Python Tools

Edited by David D. DePaola

Essential Math for Physics Undergraduates: Practical Examples with Python Tools covers basic applied Math and entry-level programming. A gap often exists in the Physics student's Math curriculum, between the Math taught by the Math departments and the Math taught either in a "Math Methods" or advanced Physics courses, such as introduction to quantum mechanics, classical mechanics, thermal and statistical physics, and electromagnetic theory. This text plugs that gap and provides the new Physics student with the necessary tools to succeed in their Physics curriculum.

High-Entropy Alloy Coatings

Fundamentals and Applications

Edited by Viswanathan S. Saji King Fahd University of Petroleum and Minerals (KFUPM), Saudi Arabia, Jamieson M. Brechtl

High-Entropy Alloy Coatings: Fundamentals and Applications is a comprehensive overview of the exciting potential of HEA coatings. This book will cover the fundamentals, fabrication methods, applications, and recent advancements in this field, with concise chapters on each topic written by a team of experts. Part I will concentrate on the fundamental principles while Parts II, III, and IV will be dedicated to coating type, fabrication methods, and applications of HEA coatings. High entropy alloys (HEAs) consist of multiple (five or higher) principal elements distributed in roughly equal atomic percentages.

Microwave Vacuum Electronic Devices

Enabling Concepts

Vishal Kesari, BN Basu

Microwave Vacuum Electronic Devices (VEDs) encompasses VEDs operating in the microwave to terahertz frequency regime. The book aims to equip students, teachers, scientists, and engineers with an understanding of the concepts and physical principles underpinning VEDs. VEDs have manifold applications for technologies used in the defence, civilian, medical, scientific, and industrial sectors. The authors build confidence among the readers seeking to design and develop VEDs in these sectors by presenting the enabling concepts and step-by-step guides to the mathematical formulations used in VEDs in the microwave, millimeter-wave and terahertz frequency range.

PROPERTIES OF CRYSTALLINE MATERIALS BY X-RAY DIFFRACTION METHODS AND SYMMETRY GROUPS

A Practical Approach

John Fernando Zapata Mesa Institución Universitaria de Envigado, Colombia

This book is a fundamental work for those seeking to understand the structure and properties of crystalline materials from a rigorous and systematic approach. Its coverage, which ranges from the physical principles of X-rays to structural refinement using the Rietveld method, provides a solid theoretical and practical foundation. The inclusion of symmetry group analysis and the study of elasticity reinforce its value in areas such as electronics and engineering. With an educational and precise approach, this work becomes an indispensable reference for materials characterization.

Telescope Eyepieces

Optical Theory and Design

Sean G. Ryan

Telescope Eyepieces: Optical Theory and Design explores the wide range of eyepiece designs. It introduces optics theory progressively to build understanding of how lenses control light in an optical system generally and in eyepieces specifically, linking optics fundamentals, design evolution and the implications for image quality. The book presents a logical narrative starting with Snell's law of refraction at a flat surface, progressing to paraxial and real rays at spherical and aspherical surfaces, lenses and thin-lens systems. It demystifies the origin of aberrations by considering wavefront deviations, all brought to life in the context of the familiar eyepiece.

The Digital Humanities Coursebook

Applied Concepts and Critical Approaches

Johanna Drucker UCLA, USA, Francesca Albrezzi

This book provides critical frameworks for the application of digital humanities tools and platforms, which have become an integral part of work across a wide range of disciplines. The book is structured to complement courses on digital humanities and provides a series of modules, each of which is organized around a set of concerns and topics, thought experiments and questions, as well as discussions of the ways in which tools and platforms work. This book will be an indispensable guide for anyone teaching or studying a course in the areas of digital humanities, library and information science, English, or computer science.

Environmental and Socioeconomic Vulnerabilities and Resilience in Small States

Edited by Verena Tandrayen-Ragoobur, Stefano Moncada, Sheereen Fauzel

Series: Europa International Perspectives

Small states face a number of challenges, mainly due to their geographical positioning and inherent characteristics, such as small populations, limited resource, and market constraints that make them more vulnerable to exogenous economic shocks. This volume contributes to the growing literature on economic, environmental, social and climate vulnerability. It explores whether a more holistic approach—combining resilience with equity, social change and transformative actions—can enhance resilience efforts. Written by experts, it is an invaluable tool for those researching small states

The Globalization of the World's Economies

A Concise Historical Introduction

James L. Newell

Series: Europa Introduction to...

Economic globalization stands at a critical juncture. While it has delivered unprecedented prosperity, lifting millions from poverty and enhancing education and skills development, it has simultaneously generated rising inequality, created the "left behind" in developed nations, sparked refugee crises, and produced health and climate challenges that global governance institutions struggle to address. This comprehensive volume examines globalization's historical trajectory to illuminate our potential futures. An essential resource for students, professionals, and researchers seeking a thorough understanding of globalization's complex past, challenging present, and uncertain future.

British Book Trade Organisation

A Report on the Work of the Joint Committee

Edited by F. D. Sanders

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Publishing and Printing

Originally published in 1939, British Book Trade Organisation: A Report on the Work of the Joint Committee is a twelve-year study of the methods of book sales in Britain. The Joint Committee issued three reports, which were summarised here along with the Committee's Recommendations, and an indication of the kind of action that had since resulted. A crucial factor in the push for further reforms that followed, today this title can be read in its historical context.

The Book World Today

A New Survey of the Making and Distribution of Books in Britain

Edited by John Hampden

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Publishing and Printing

First published in 1957, this was the most comprehensive survey yet attempted of the making and distribution of books in Britain. All the main aspects and problems of this complicated process are expounded by men of high standing in their own fields, who wrote from expert knowledge. Anyone who earned their living from books, was likely to find here facts and ideas which were new to them. The book has been edited mainly from the publisher's point of view, and publishing is given particularly full treatment. But the author, the agent, the booksellers, the librarians and the other contributors state their cases freely, often expressing views which clash with those of the publishers.

From Swan Sonnenschein to George Allen & Unwin Ltd

F. A. Mumby, Frances H. S. Stallybrass

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Publishing and Printing

Originally published in 1955, From Swan Sonnenschein to George Allen & Unwin Ltd states that the lives of certain publishing houses are a direct reflection of the cultural history of the period in which they work. They draw their successes from the intellectual enthusiasms of the time and in no small measure contribute towards the education of their contemporaries. Of this sort of publisher no better examples could be found at the end of the nineteenth century than Swan Sonnenschein and George Allen. Both were men of serious purpose, with a sense of mission in their business activities.

Printer to the House

The Story of Hansard

J. C. Trewin, E. M. King

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Publishing and Printing

Everyone knows the name of Hansard, the famous record of Parliamentary proceedings. Very few people know how it began. Originally published in 1952, here was for the first time, the authoritative history of the Hansard family and of its work, for nearly 100 years, as Parliamentary printers in charge of the Journals of the House of Commons and of the full record of debates that still bears the family name. Full of surprising and important detail, it was written largely from unpublished papers, letters, and the manuscript diaries of Luke Graves Hansard, son of old Luke, founder of the printing dynasty.

Printing in London

From 1476 to Modern Times

P. M. Handover

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Publishing and Printing

Originally published in 1960, the early history of news-gathering, of advertisement blocks and displayed advertising, of women's magazine, are among the varied aspects of the London printing trade discussed in this book. Separate chapters are devoted to jobbing printing and the controversial, competitive Bible patent. The considerable technical information includes detailed descriptions of nineteenth-century presses. Besides an account of the struggle for power in the Stationers' Company at certain periods, the livelier – and often more ruthless – personalities in the London trade, such as John Wolfe, Robert Barker I, Miles Flesher, Henry Hills and John Bell are vigorously described.

The Lamp of Learning

Two Centuries of Publishing at Taylor & Francis

W. H. Brock, A. J. Meadows

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Publishing and Printing

Originally published in 1998, when for two centuries Taylor & Francis had been committed to the publication of scholarly information. Ever since the launching of the Philosophical Magazine in 1798, the publishing company run by Richard Taylor and later by William Francis has specialised in the printing and publishing of scientific periodicals and books. The story of the development of Taylor & Francis in this book is much more than an isolated account of one small company – it throws light on the whole process of scientific communication during the previous 200 years.

Pioneers in Printing

Seán Jennett

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Publishing and Printing

Originally published in 1958, through a series of lively biographies of men important in the history of printing – Gutenberg, Caxton, Baskerville, Caslon, Senefelder, Koenig, Mergenthaler, and Lanston – Pioneers in Printing traces the growth and development of the craft of printing from its invention in the fifteenth century to modern times. The aim of the book is not to recount the technicalities of machinery, but rather to present each character as a living man engrossed in his ideas and pursuing them persistently, in conflict or in agreement with his period. The book is written in a clear and easy style, free of technical terms.

Electronic Publishing

Looking for a Blueprint

Joost Kist

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Publishing and Printing

With the development of new technologies over the previous decade and more moderately priced and faster systems becoming available Electronic Publishing, originally published in 1987, provided a much-needed close look at present and potential publishing techniques at the time. In the view of the author the relatively new electronic and optical media were expected to integrate with or supplement flourishing media such as books, looseleaf publications and journals. The aim of this book was to guide those people confronted with the new information technology, be they professionals or the generally interested reader, through the complex problems associated with this medium.

The House of Routledge 1834–1934

With a History of Kegan Paul, Trench, Trübner and Other Associated Firms

F. A. Mumby

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Publishing and Printing

Originally published in 1934, this book was published for the company's centenary. It tells the story of George Routledge and how he forged his way to the forefront of publishing by 'sheer indomitable energy'. One of the objects of the work was to place on record the crowded story of his life. Turning back many forgotten or half-forgotten pages of literary and publishing history – with their glimpses of bygone haunts; of buccaneering practices in the bad old days before copyright brought protection at long last to English and American authors alike; of "Yellow Backs" and other Victorian libraries. It also covers the fortunes of other associated publishing houses of the time.

A History of the National Graphical Association

John Gennard

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Publishing and Printing

First published in 1990 and written with full access to the official records of the NGA, this book provides a remarkably detailed history of one of Britain's most democratic and industrially effective trades unions. The author describes and analyses the evolution and development of the NGA from 1948 to 1989. This is, however, more than a study of one trade union. It provides unparalleled insight into post-war industrial relations in the general printing and newspaper industry and a unique account and analysis of the impact of the most radical industrial revolution ever experienced in these industries. It also stands alone as a fascinating inquiry into the anatomy of union mergers.

Dr Johnson's Printer

The Life of William Strahan

J. A. Cochrane

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Publishing and Printing

William Strahan was one of the leading figures in the book trade of the 18th century. As King's Printer, a member of Parliament and the owner of the greatest printing house in London. First published in 1964, Strahan's career had for the most part been relegated to footnotes in the biographies of other men. This was the first full length survey of his life as a whole. The author, who had himself been both publisher and printer, had been able to draw upon much hitherto unpublished material in collections in this country and the US. Strahan was an admirable letter writer, and his correspondence with authors, booksellers and printers touches on many problems still relevant at the time.

An Exploration of the Art of George Bernard Shaw

Margery M. Morgan

Series: Routledge Library Editions: George Bernard Shaw

In The Shavian Playground, originally published in 1972, Shaw's plays are examined as self-contained imaginative structures intended for theatrical performance. Beginning with a consideration of his novels, the book covers the whole span of Shaw's career as a dramatist playing special attention to critically and theatrically neglected plays, and offering fresh interpretations of others.

Bernard Shaw, Playwright

Aspects of Shavian Drama

Bernard F. Dukore

Series: Routledge Library Editions: George Bernard Shaw

Bernard Shaw's plays have delighted and stimulated audiences since their first appearances. Their author's satiric view of conventions, institutions, and behavior continues unflinchingly to amuse while it provokes doubts about the honesty of the social and political attitudes that underlie them. Originally published in 1973, Dukore discusses the theory of drama that is the basis of Shaw's comedies, which present his views of mores and follies. Dukore proposes fresh perspectives from which to regard Shaw's works for the theatre – works that were arrestingly relevant and immediate to the time.

Shaw – “The Chucker Out”

A Biographical Exposition and Critique

Allan Chappelow

Series: Routledge Library Editions: George Bernard Shaw

Originally published in 1969, in Shaw – “The Chucker Out” Allan Chappelow quotes much entirely new and previously unpublished Shaw material (the fruits of six years' research at the British Museum and elsewhere) as the basis for his aim of assisting towards a better understanding of Shaw's controversial character and his paradoxical attitude to life – with reference particularly to certain fallacies and misconceptions voiced by the villagers of Ayot St. Lawrence (during their otherwise favourable memoirs in Shaw the Villager) and shared by the world at large.

Bernard Shaw

Playwright and Preacher

Leon Hugo

Series: Routledge Library Editions: George Bernard Shaw

It was Shaw's general contention that all great art was didactic; it was his specific contention that he wrote plays to convert people to his opinions on 'Social Economy', 'Political Economy' and 'Vital Economy'. In this study of Shaw's plays, first published in 1971, Hugo examines the implications of these contentions. This book, a lively and enthusiastic reappraisal of the literary and dramatic quality of Shaw's plays, viewed in the light of their relationship to his social and political ideas, will be of value both as an introduction to new readers of Shaw and as a stimulus to the re-examination of many conventional and often dismissive views of his achievement as a dramatic poet.

Bernard Shaw, Director

Series: Routledge Library Editions: George Bernard Shaw

Originally published in 1971, this first full-length treatment of Shaw as director is important for several reasons: first, because Shaw was one of the few major playwrights who frequently directed his own works; second, because he was a good director; and third, because he is an early example of the modern idea of the director as guiding artist in the production of a play. After an initial chapter examining Shaw's background and experiences in the theatre before he began to direct plays, Dukore explores various aspects of Shavian directorial theory and practice.

A Social History of Housing 1815–1985

Second Edition

John Burnett

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Housing

Originally published in 1986, for the second edition of this standard text (previously only covering up to 1970) in A Social History of Housing 1815–1985, John Burnett has extended his study to take account of the next fifteen years. It remains a comprehensive and important survey, covering over a century and a half of developments in housing conditions both urban and rural, public and private, and tracing the evolution of mass housing through by-law terraces, back-to-backs and the tower block to the low-rise, high-density estates of the 1980s.

Housing Policy and the Housing System

Alan Murie, Pat Niner, Christopher Watson

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Housing

In the 1970s, although factual information was widely available from the Census and other official sources, our understanding of the true nature of the British housing system – and the relationships at work within it – remained inadequate. Originally published in 1976, this book sets out, by careful examination of the complexities of the system, to improve that understanding and to discuss the implications for policy in the differing roles played by central and local government, developers, builders, the building societies and the voluntary housing movement.

National Housing Finance Systems

A Comparative Study

Mark Boleat

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Housing

Originally published in 1985, this book provided a broad review of the range of systems of housing finance used throughout the developed and developing world at the time. It surveys the development of housing finance and the ways in which individual countries, with different economic structures, have coped with the problems of housing finance in periods of severe inflation and fluctuating interest rates. The book opens with two theoretical chapters covering housing finance in developed and developing economies. The framework developed in these chapters is subsequently used to analyse the systems of various countries.

Housing and Homelessness

A Feminist Perspective

Sophie Watson

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Housing

Originally published in 1986 and written by two leading authorities on the subject, this book tackles the problems of housing, homelessness, and women in the family, from a feminist perspective. It explores how housing helps to reproduce women's role within the family, both today and historically. It looks at the way British society in particular (and western society in general) defines and creates housing 'needs'. It discusses the way housing is provided and allocated to exclude specific forms of household, and describes the experiences of a particular group – single women – upon whom these processes have profound impact.

Housing and the State

1919–1944

Marian Bowley

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Housing

Originally published in 1945, the purpose of Housing and the State, 1919–1944 was to describe and explain some of the more important conditions which must be satisfied if certain types of housing policy were to be successful. It was this approach that led the author into a discussion of housing policy between 1919 and 1939. During these years the local authorities built over a million houses. This was perhaps the outstanding peace time experiment in state intervention in this country in the provision of a necessity of life, which had formerly been supplied almost exclusively by independent private enterprise. Today it can be read in its historical context.

The Myth of Home Ownership

Private versus Public Choices in Housing Tenure

J. Kemeny

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Housing

Originally published in 1981, in this controversial study Dr Kemeny aims to show that owner-occupation is not an inherently superior form of housing tenure to renting. He questions the overwhelming emphasis upon owner-occupation in English-speaking countries as reflected by most politicians and many academics, and argues that the deep emotional commitment to home ownership has prevented both the objective analysis of housing tenure and the emergence of environmental policies that maximise choice. In conclusion Dr Kemeny argues that English-speaking countries should abandon their one-sided policies and aim to develop real choice of tenure in their housing systems.

Housing, States and Localities

Peter Dickens , Simon Duncan , Mark Goodwin , Fred Gray

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Housing

A continual problem in modern societies is how housing of a good standard can be provided for all those who need it. Some countries, and some local areas within any one country, have clearly succeeded better than others. Originally published in 1985, this book shows how and why success and failure in housing provision come about. It does this using comparative analysis of two countries – Britain and Sweden – and four localities within Britain – Sheffield, rural Norfolk, Crawley and Brighton. Variation in the levels and forms of housing provision are explained by variations in how housing is built, how state policies are formed, and how consumers react to their housing.

W. Craven-Ellis

First published in 1935, the original blurb reads: "Believing the gravest of all our National problems is that of Unemployment the author has set himself the task of trying to find a solution which is capable of giving continuity of employment without interfering with or increasing the competition with existing industries. The Building Industry gives the opportunity conditional upon a policy of demolition equal to that of a new building being carried out simultaneously. Every class of property is affected in this scheme of Rebuilding Britain. All slums will definitely be cleared away, never to recur in future generations. ..." Today it can be read in its historical context.

In Search of a Home

Rental and Shared Housing in Latin America

Cover Image

Alan Gilbert

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Housing

First published in 1993, this book filled a conspicuous gap in the literature on housing in the developing world at the time. For many years, self-help settlement and the owner-occupier had commanded the attention of governments and researchers, leaving huge numbers of tenants and sharers invisible. However, the assumption that every family both wished and was able to become an owner-occupier was now under scrutiny and it was becoming clear in many of the larger Latin American cities that there was a limit to universal home ownership, even of the self-help kind. Research activity had begun to respond to changes, and this book put the spotlight on rental and shared housing.

The Economics of Housing Policy

David C. Stafford

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Housing

In the late 1970s, the role of the state in the finance, provision and legal control of housing had increased enormously during the previous sixty years. But, despite massive government intervention in the housing market, the 'housing problem' was considered by many to be worsening. Originally published in 1978, this study critically appraises the nature, extent and economic rationale for government intervention in the private and public housing sectors, and explores the effects of policies through fiscal and social instruments in the specific housing markets. Individual chapters analyse the strategies applied to the owner occupied, private rented and public housing sectors.

The Eclipse of Council Housing

Ian Cole , Robert Furbey

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Housing

First published in 1994, this book explores the birth, growth and decline of public housing in Britain, weighing up its merits and weaknesses. It traces the development of a state housing policy and looks closely at council housing as a lived experience rather than merely as economic artefact. It examines the quality of housing offered by local authorities to their tenants and the responsiveness, democracy and efficiency of housing management, with emphasis on tenant experiences. The authors review New Right arguments for the final eclipse of state housing alongside current initiatives to reform it, and challenge the view that council housing should be consigned to the scrapheap.

Housing and Family Wealth

Comparative International Perspectives

Cover Image

Edited by Ray Forrest , Alan Murie

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Housing

Originally published in 1995, this innovative collection provides a multidisciplinary and cross-national perspective on the links between housing, personal wealth and the family in contemporary society. Reasserting the role of the family and informal networks in housing provision, it counteracts a tendency to view housing issues in the narrow terms of market and state provision. The contributions include analyses from the USA, Japan, Hong Kong, Greece, France, Sweden and Hungary, and this highly international perspective allows the book to address important policy questions and offer new theoretical insights into the way housing is embedded in the wider social structure.

Housing and Identity

Cross-Cultural Perspectives

Edited by James S. Duncan

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Housing

Originally published in 1982, Housing and Identity: Cross-Cultural Perspectives represents an attempt by scholars in a number of different disciplines to bring a common social-psychological perspective to bear on the study of the house and its relation to the self and the nature of the social order. The house, it is argued, is an extremely important aspect of the built environment, embodying not only personal meanings but expressing and maintaining the ideology of prevailing social orders. The essays draw upon material from a wide variety of intellectual, cultural and historical contexts.

Public Housing

Current Trends and Future Developments

Edited by David Clapham University of Reading, UK, John English

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Housing

Originally published in 1987, public rented housing in Britain had undergone many changes in the decade before, which had been accelerated by the policies of the Conservative government since 1979. With financial incentives and the 'right to buy', owner occupation was being vigorously promoted as the 'normal' tenure for the bulk of households, while the public sector was increasingly confined to those on low incomes. At the same time, a severe squeeze on capital and maintenance expenditure was leading to a deterioration in the public stock, and was causing major problems for housing managers. The book surveys the current state of public housing at the time.

Housing Policy in Developing Countries

Edited by Gil Shidlo

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Housing

Originally published in 1990, Housing Policy in Developing Countries attempts an analysis of comparative housing policy – the study of how, why, and to what effect different governments pursue particular courses of action or inaction. Two main strategies can be identified – the demand-side and the supply-side. Policy makers opt for subsidies either to builders (whether they are formal or informal, profit making or non-profit making) or to consumers, or for a combination of both. This book analyses the consequences of those decisions in a wide cross-section of developing countries. Its conclusions will interest all those studying housing in the developing world.

Government Policy and Industrial Change

Edited by David Gibbs

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Economics and Society

Government Policy and Industrial Change (1989) seeks to take stock of the recent changes in policy issues in the UK and USA – de-industrialisation, internationalisation, technological change – and investigates in particular four areas at the cutting edge of policy change. It looks at the impact of new technology, the role of small firms, the service sector, and the increase in private-sector-led initiatives at the local level.

State and Economy in Contemporary Capitalism

Edited by Colin Crouch

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Economics and Society

State and Economy in Contemporary Capitalism (1979) bridges the gap between practiced concerns and the abstract nature of theories surrounding the function of the state in advanced capitalist societies. Representing different intellectual traditions and ideological standpoints, the contributors are united in their attempt to understand the combination of political, social and economic forces which together have made the position of the state in contemporary capitalism so problematic. These are the problems of state intervention in economic policy of industrial relations and planning; those of public spending, collective consumption and Keynesian strategies.

The Political Economy of Tolerable Survival

Edited by Maxwell Gaskin

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Economics and Society

The Political Economy of Tolerable Survival (1981) deals with economic issues such as inflation and unemployment in their social and political context and attempts both to isolate and suggest solutions to the problems which confront society. Worsening economic conditions lead to social tensions which are potentially politically disruptive, and this book suggests a varied course of solutions to social and economic stresses, assessing what is tolerable both from a moral angle and in terms of political freedom.

Crisis in the East European Economy

The Spread of the Polish Disease

Edited by Jan Drewnowski

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Economics and Society

Crisis in the East European Economy (1982) is a collection of essays, written by leading specialists in centrally planned economies, examining developments in late-stage Soviet-style economies in East European countries. The case of Poland is given special attention as the disorder was most spectacular there and started a political upheaval which shook the foundations of the Soviet-style system – the term 'Polish disease' becoming synonymous with Eastern European decline. Economic, political, social and institutional factors are examined across Eastern Europe to determine the inherent features common to all Soviet-style economies.

Marketing in a Competitive Economy

Leslie W. Rodger

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Economics and Society

Marketing in a Competitive Economy (1965) is a scientific study of marketing in the Western world, taking as a starting point a competitive economy and freedom for consumers. As marketing moved from an exercise in profitably disposing of excess goods, to being primarily concerned with producing goods as a result of market opportunities, so the field became more complicated and in need of a comprehensive analysis and overview.

Technological Growth and Social Change

Achieving Modernization

Stanley A. Hetzler

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Economics and Society

Technological Growth and Social Change (1969) examines the changes to society brought about by rapid developmental changes. The failure of traditional concepts to explain a rapidly changing social world calls for a redirection of effort, for the opening of new avenues of inquiry. This book represents such an attempt, and challenges the conservative Western concepts of development, classical economics, and the Western economic order.

Youth Unemployment

Michael P. Jackson

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Economics and Society

Youth Unemployment (1985) investigates the sustained rise in the level of youth unemployment in the 1980s. Young people are often seen as innocent victims when unemployment spikes, and it is also frequently the case that they are the most vulnerable of job seekers and the group for which unemployment is likely to have the most serious and lasting impact. This book examines the whole issue of unemployment and looks at the policies that were adopted to try and deal with the problem.

Investment Economics

J.L. Carr

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Economics and Society

Investment Economics (1969) examines the process of investment decision-making in firms, looking at the theory of investment and the details of investment theory in business practice. The study of investment theories, prompted by the government and by nationalised industries, led many businesses to utilise more sophisticated techniques to analyse the impact of investment on their day-to-day running and their profits. This book takes an overview of the theories, techniques and their impacts.

An Economic History of the British Building Industry 1815–1979

C.G. Powell

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Economics and Society

An Economic History of the British Building Industry 1815–1979 (1982) looks at the crucial role the building industry plays in the national economy, not only as a major direct contributor to GNP, but also its effect on a variety of areas from institutional finance to the DIY market. The nature of this effect forms the theme of this study which examines and documents the interplay of new materials and technologies, costs and the changing social and economic forces that affected decision-making over what kinds of buildings to construct – or indeed to knock down – in which locations, and when.

The U.S.S.R.

An Economic and Social Survey

S.P. Turin

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Economics and Society

The USSR (1948) examines the social and economic make-up of the Soviet Union in the years following the Second World War. It was a time of rapid industrial development as the economy expanded, and also a time when millions of demobbed servicemen desired rewards for the wartime sacrifices – the demand for greater individual freedom and industrial democracy, and for a higher standard of living were becoming more and more apparent. These factors played parts of large importance in the later development of the USSR in the 1950s.

The History of Trade Union Organisation in the North Staffordshire Potteries

W.H. Warburton

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Economics and Society

The History of Trade Union Organisation in the North Staffordshire Potteries (1931) is an account, by a potter and trade unionist, of trade unionism in the pottery industry of North Staffordshire. It describes the efforts of a century to create a stable organisation capable of negotiating on equal terms with the employers from the first spasmodic struggles of 1825 down to the establishment of the powerful National Society of Pottery Workers in 1919. As well as being a study of the economic background and working conditions, it is also a study of the growth and organisation of the pottery industry.

Foreign Investment in Eastern Europe

Zbigniew Dobosiewicz

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Economics and Society

Foreign Investment in Eastern Europe (1992) examines the political and social implications of economic activity in the countries of Eastern Europe and the role and prospects of foreign investment. This study looks at the variety of problems that face investors, such as converting earnings into hard currencies, the controls imposed by state bureaucracies, and the constantly changing regulations. By looking at companies investing in Eastern Europe, it analyses not only the problems they encounter, but also the problems they create.

Growth in the British Economy

A Study of Economic Problems and Policies in Contemporary Britain

Political and Economic Planning

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Economics and Society

Growth in the British Economy (1960) examines the slow rate of growth in the British economy and evaluates the view that Britain is lagging behind other industrial countries. It points to aspects of Britain's economic performance which could have serious implications for the country's future. Among the factors which may have been responsible for Britain's relatively poor showing, the report looks particularly at the influence of government policy on the level and distribution of investment, and at the way in which policies to deal with inflation and the balance of payments have influenced long-term prospects.

Politics and Production in the Early Nineteenth Century

Clive Behagg

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Economics and Society

Politics and Production in the Early Nineteenth Century (1990) addresses debates in social history concerning the nature of the labour process under early capitalism and the language of politics. It challenges the standard interpretation of the social relations of production in the workshop sector. Conflict over work reorganization involved very particular constructions of the social world by both employers and workforce. It argues that the social, economic and political facets of these constructs are not separable and casts new light on the context within which different notions of political representation evolved in Britain.

State Enterprise

Business or Politics?

David Coombes

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Economics and Society

State Enterprise (1971) examines nationalized industries and their political control. It looks at their objectives, and the guidance given to the politicians tasked with running these industries, as well as the qualifications needed, and the performance demanded of them. Many of the contributions to the debate about government-board relations in the nationalized industries were made by economists, but the author concludes, through a thorough analysis of the attempt to apply new methods of economic decision-making, that the results of this debate have not done much to settle the basic problems of running nationalized industries.

Technology and the Welfare State

The Influence of Technological Change upon the Development of Health Care in Britain and America

Stephen Uttley

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Economics and Society

Technology and the Welfare State (1991) explores the relationship between technological innovation, welfare and levels of economic activity. Drawing on a wide literature spanning many disciplines, it explores the influence of technological change upon the development of health service production in America and Britain since the mid-nineteenth century. The analysis is based upon a broad perspective on technological innovation which embraces changes in social organization. Particular attention is paid to the relationship between government action, long-term changes in economic activity and the course of innovation in health care.

Public Opinion, Ideology and State Welfare

Peter Taylor-Gooby

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Economics and Society

Public Opinion, Ideology and State Welfare (1985) provides a comprehensive explanation of the patterns of ideas about the welfare state held by both academics and by the general public. It argues that the crisis in the welfare state in the 1980s was misunderstood by most writers in the UK – both on the left and on the right. It presents an alternative account of current developments both in the welfare state and in popular and academic thinking. The author reviews the state of popular thinking about the welfare state, the development of welfare policy since the Second World War, and the 1980s crisis – using new evidence to support his arguments in all these areas.

Social Clauses and International Trade

An Economic Analysis of Labour Standards in Trade Policy

Göte Hansson

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Economics and Society

Social Clauses and International Trade (1983) provides a comprehensive survey of working standards in international trade: the clauses in international trade agreements that call for minimum standards for those working to produce the goods being traded. The author looks at the historical background to social clauses and goes on to analyse clauses affecting trade union rights, wages, child labour, hours of work and safety at work. This is followed by a comparison of social clauses with alternative trade policy measures. The economic effects of social clauses are evaluated, as is the equivalence between these and other more traditional forms of protectionist policy.

States of Emergency

British Governments and Strikebreaking since 1919

Keith Jeffrey , Peter Hennessy

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Economics and Society

States of Emergency (1983) examines the co-ordinated Government planning in Britain to counter major strikes in vital industries, an effort that began in earnest during the aftermath of the First World War. Contingency planning by Whitehall ministers and officials aims to calculate the point at which trade union demands plunge the country into chaos, and how best to mitigate the effects of stoppages in essential services and industries. The dilemmas faced by Lloyd George were familiar to Callaghan and Thatcher, and in addition to being a full investigation into this hidden factor of state power, this book is a real contribution to the administrative history of Britain.

Tradefull Merchants

The Portrayal of the Capitalist in Literature

John McVeagh

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Economics and Society

Tradefull Merchants (1981) surveys the range of English literature from the sixteenth to the twentieth centuries and explores the successive new lights in which the commercial character has been depicted in poetry, drama and fiction, and thus in society at large. As capitalism began to develop into the dominant organisation of social life during and after the sixteenth century in England, literature reflected and commented on the profound change in society's attitudes to trade and trading men. Through this survey of literature's attitudes to capitalism the author highlights the close relationship between imaginative writing and the material and social life of the country.

State Responsiveness and State Activism

An Examination of the Social Forces and State Strategies that Explain the Rise in Social Expenditures in Britain, France, Germany and Italy, 1870–1968

Jerald Hage , Robert Hanneman , Edward T. Gargan

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Economics and Society

State Responsiveness and State Activism (1989) compares social changes and the role of the state. It evaluates which models – economic, modernization, political mobilization, class conflict – best predict the growth in social welfare and in educational expenditures; determines how much the political and administrative centralization of the state, centralization of the administration of social welfare and of education, and institutional autonomy affect state responsiveness to various models; and studies how much state activism in the creation of social welfare and in its centralization affects the political process and the role of class conflict in determining public spending.

Volume V: Wild Animals

Edited by Dominik Ohrem

This volume focuses on forms of human-animal relations particularly expressive of the momentous sociocultural and economic transitions that paved the road towards modernity in American society. The increasing urbanization and industrialization of society significantly reconfigured modes and spaces of encounter between humans and animals and the visibility of animal life more generally, including the presence of animals in zoos and sport.

Nineteenth-Century British Pornography: Sources and Materials

Volume I: Textual Cultures of Pornography

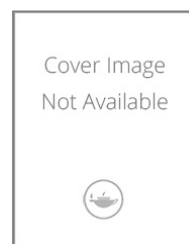

Edited by Kathleen Lubey

This volume provides background texts for the early modern origins of pornography including its philosophic and literary foundations. By the early nineteenth-century, pornographic publications came out of the radical milieu during the global age of revolutions. In England, publishers wrote political philosophy and pornography in tandem. The age of revolutionary pornography ended in the 1860s, when William Dugdale, the doyen of them all, died in prison, sentenced to hard labour for obscenity.

Humans, Animals, and U.S. Society in the Long Nineteenth Century: A Documentary History

Volume I: Animal and Human in American Thought (Part 1)

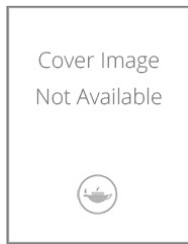

Edited by Dominik Ohrem

This volume addresses the broad topic of "thinking animality" in the long nineteenth century and the constitutive interplay between conceptualizations of the animal and the human that bolstered but also challenged the widespread idea of human uniqueness. This volume comprises source materials that offer insights into the key parameters along which debates about human-animal difference unfolded in print culture. The sources collected outline an intellectual history of animality in the long nineteenth century.

Nineteenth-Century British Pornography: Sources and Materials

Volume II: Pornography and Science

Edited by Sarah Bull

This volume details scientific pornography during the long nineteenth century. Though there is little overlap between pornography and sexual science currently, in the past pornographers played up scientific credentials to reassure readers while the state used the ambiguity between categories to censor information about birth control and sexual nonconformity. This volume provides evidence from the mid-century years during which time many of the main producers of pornography were affiliated with anthropology, geography, bibliography, and medicine.

Scientific Methodology in Nineteenth Century Britain

Edited by Charles H. Pence

Series: Nineteenth-Century Science, Technology and Medicine: Sources and Documents

This four-volume collection of primary sources examines scientific methodology in Britain during the long nineteenth century. As the physical, biological, human, and social sciences were radically reshaped across the 1800's, so the prevailing understanding of scientific methodology changed with them, making this period one of the most significant in the early development of the philosophy of science in the English-speaking world. These volumes form a valuable complement instruction and learning in nineteenth-century philosophy and the history of science.

Scientific Methodology in Nineteenth Century Britain

Volume III: Quantifying Life: Statistical, Social and Human Sciences

This collection of primary sources examines scientific methodology in Britain during the long nineteenth century. The nineteenth century played host to the development, for the first time, of statistical and probabilistic methods across the biological, human, and social sciences. A new kind of quantified, statistical social science came into being. Such innovations were quickly marshaled for use in the life sciences, from evolution to agriculture to eugenics. Nineteenth-Century British Pornography: Sources and Materials

Edited by Sarah Bull, Colette Colligan, Kathleen Luby, Lisa Z. Sigel

The four-volume set provides a compendium of rare primary sources focusing on pornography in nineteenth-century Britain for students and scholars alike. These sources can be used individually and in combination to historicise the emergence of pornography and investigate the aspects of society that it illuminates. The pornography of the period documents how people imagined sexuality in their changing society. These volumes provide primary sources that give scholars and students a starting point to explore these shifts and how the historic context shaped ideas of sexuality at every level.

Nineteenth-Century British Pornography: Sources and Materials

Volume IV: Mass Market Pornography

Edited by Lisa Z. Sigel

This volume concerns itself with arrival of mass pornography at the end of the nineteenth century and the beginning of the twentieth. This volume details the rise of cheap, readily available, and much maligned materials such as postcards, pamphlets, and photographs. Mass pornography expanded the market to include women, children, the poor, and people of colour in Great Britain and across the British Empire. The volume documents imperial and international attempts to curtail the spread of pornography that took place between the 1880s and 1914 and provides examples of who suffered as a result.

Edited by Freya Spoor

This volume introduces key artists such as the Scottish Pre-Raphaelites and the Glasgow Boys and engages with the critical debates and artistic theories that were circulating in the second half of the nineteenth century. This was a period when Scotland was experiencing huge growth and economic expansion and centres such as Edinburgh and Glasgow saw the emergence of the Glasgow Institute for the Fine Arts and of smaller artists' clubs, providing new opportunities for women. Scientific Methodology in Nineteenth Century Britain

Volume II: Deep Time: Geology and Evolution

This collection of primary sources examines scientific methodology in Britain during the long nineteenth century. Over the course of the nineteenth century, emblematically but not exclusively represented by the work of Charles Darwin, natural science reconfigured the ways in which practitioners would treat the sciences of "deep time" – especially geology and the new theory of natural selection. This volume uses primary sources and editorial commentary to examine the topics of geology and evolution in this period. Volume III: Arts, Crafts and the Celtic Revival c.1880-1914

Edited by Elizabeth Cumming

This volume focuses on artists and writers associated with the Arts and Crafts movement, Scottish Symbolism and the Celtic Revival. During the period, Glasgow flourished as an artistic centre under the leadership of Fra Newbery at Glasgow School of Art. This period saw the rise in importance of the decorative arts and the emergence of a number of women designers. The leading artists at the turn of the century enjoyed an international reputation, exhibiting at the Vienna Secession in 1900. Meteorology in Nineteenth-Century Society

Edited by Aitor Anduaga University of the Basque Country

This four-volume set of thematically focused and curated primary sources examines meteorology in nineteenth-century society. Knowing the history of meteorology and climatology since their inception as physical sciences in the nineteenth century is fundamental to understanding the causes and historical patterns of the severe weather and climate change that greatly preoccupy today's society. Thematically focused collections of primary sources support the research and study needs not only of scholars, but also graduate and postgraduate students. To this end, the volumes contextualize and explain the contents of these sources.

Knowing the history of meteorology and climatology since their inception as physical sciences in the nineteenth century is fundamental to understanding the causes and historical patterns of the severe weather and climate change that greatly preoccupy today's society. Thematically focused collections of primary sources support the research and study needs not only of scholars, but also graduate and postgraduate students. To this end, the volumes contextualize and explain the contents of these sources.

Nineteenth-Century British Pornography: Sources and Materials

Volume III: Pornographic Literature and the Underground Book Trade, 1880s-1910s

Edited by Colette Colligan

This volume examines the growth of high-end literary pornographic productions that took place towards the final quarter of the nineteenth century and were largely published on the continent where control of production was lax. These publications were published and circulated for the elite. Publications that came from this group and period include The Pearl, My Secret Life, Romance of Lust, and The Sins of the Cities of the Plain; or, The Recollections of a Mary-Ann, with Short Essays on Sodomy and Tribadism. The volume includes Home Office and Foreign Office records that detail the methods attempted to limit the spread of pornography.

Scottish Art in the Industrial Age, 1800-1914

Volume IV: Collecting, Philanthropy and the Art Market c.1800-1914

Edited by Frances Fowle

This volume examines the emergence of a market for Scottish art among Scotland's wealthy industrialists in the mid-nineteenth century and in the period leading up to the First World War. As well as considering key mercantile collectors, the volume focuses on major art dealers who gave artists their first solo exhibitions. In Edinburgh Scottish artists were supported initially by Alexander Hill and later by Peter McOmish Dott at the Scottish Gallery, who supported the Scottish Colourists in the early 20th century. Accompanied by extensive editorial commentary, this collection will be of great interest to students of Art History and Scottish History.

Scottish Art in the Industrial Age, 1800-1914

Edited by Frances Fowle, John Morrison, Freya Spoor, Elizabeth Cumming

This four-volume collection of primary sources examines art in Scotland during the nineteenth century. This period saw the establishment of art institutes and artists' societies in major centres such as Glasgow and Edinburgh, providing artists not only with opportunities to exhibit their work, but also to see the work of European artists. This time saw the transformation of Scottish art to the modern era, when Scotland's artists travelled abroad and embraced the latest avant-garde ideas, eventually enjoying an international reputation. Accompanied by extensive editorial commentary, this collection will be of great interest to students of Art History and Scottish History.

The Study of Social Policy

A Comparative Approach

Barbara Rodgers

Series: Routledge Library Editions: Social Administration & Social Policy

Originally published in 1979, this book enabled students and practising professionals who wished to deepen their understanding of their subject by using a comparative approach. The book begins with a stringent treatment of methodological problems, moves on to suggest how they can be tackled, and sets up a conceptual and analytical framework for the four case studies, and the comparative analysis arising out of them. These case studies, from Britain, France, Israel and Australia are deliberately focused on the personal social services and social work – although these are necessarily set within the political, economic and social context.

Scottish Art in the Industrial Age, 1800-1914

Volume I: Painting, Travel and National Identity c.1800-1860

Edited by John Morrison

This volume examines the ways in which Scottish identity was expressed through visual and material culture in the early to mid-nineteenth centuries, culminating in Victoria's romanticisation of Scotland, or 'Balmorality'. Key artists included Sir David Wilkie, Alexander Nasmyth and Henry Raeburn and later Horatio McCulloch who helped to perpetuate the myth of Scotland as a retrogressive, highland nation. In 1826, the Royal Scottish Academy was established in Edinburgh, providing artists with the opportunity to train and exhibit their work. Accompanied by extensive editorial commentary, this collection will be of great interest to students of Art History and Scottish History.

Scientific Methodology in Nineteenth Century Britain

Volume IV: Forces, Fields, and Energy: Physical Sciences

This collection of primary sources examines scientific methodology in Britain during the long nineteenth century. The nineteenth century begins with what was still a largely Newtonian perspective on the nature of matter and the physical world. By the end of the century, physical science had refocused itself around the concept of energy, the first moves toward the understanding of atomic structure had been undertaken, and electricity and magnetism were understood in terms of fields of force. This volume examines primary sources related to the philosophy of the physical sciences, and will be of great interest to students of the history of philosophy and the history of science.

AI for EVERYTHING

Artificial intelligence (AI) is all around us. From driverless cars to game winning computers to fraud protection, AI is already involved in many aspects of life, and its impact will only continue to grow in future. Many of the world's most valuable companies are investing heavily in AI research and development, and not a day goes by without news of cutting-edge breakthroughs in AI and robotics. The AI for Everything series will explore the role of AI in contemporary life, from cars and aircraft to medicine, education, fashion and beyond. Concise and accessible, each book is written by an expert in the field and will bring the study and reality of AI to a broad readership including interested professionals, students, researchers, and lay readers.
